Whytehaven's Children Taken By Health Dept.

Many Cried, Screamed Some Older Boys Flee

BOWMANVILLE (CP)—Whytehaven Mission, for the last 10 years a bustling refuge for needy children of any creed or color, was silent and almost deserted today.

The home's 117 children, cared bor by Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte were removed Friday night by Ontario health department workers.

Armed with a court order issued under the Child Welfare Act, government officials in a cavalcade of 29 cars swept into the grounds at 8 p.m. and began removing the children, many of whom cried and screamed in fright.

The court order said it was apparent the children were "neglected."

DENIES NEGLECT

Mrs. Whyte, who left her home in this town 10 miles east of Oshawa shortly after the officials arrived because she "couldn't stand to see her children taken from her," denied there was neglect.

"They still have not proved that I neglected any of my children. I want proof of the statement."

Mrs. Whyte, a religious woman who with her husband, Bert, vowed never to turn a needy child from Whytehaven's doors, has long been at odds with Ontario health and welfare authorities.

Criticism of the way Whytehaven was operated rose anew two weeks ago when influenza, infectious hepatitis and gastro enteritis broke out among the children.

MANY TEARS SHED

While many of the youngsters cried or sang hymns as they waited to be transported to children's aid societies from nearby Port Hope to Hamilton, a few of the older boys fled.

Late at night department officials were till searching in bushes and hedgerows for seven or eight missing boys.

Mrs. Whyte, 43, said there was no indication authorities planned such a move. Some of the younger children were in bed when the cars arrived; others were taking baths or having their hair washed.

"I don't think we can feel proud of our provincial government after the way those people burst in on us at that hour," said Mrs. Whyte.

"They turned out cupboards in their search for clothes and other things and everything is just as they left it. They tidied nothing behind them."

REPORTS PANDEMONIUM

As the removal of children was in progress, one of Mrs. Whyte's assistants who helped dress the children for their journey said against a background of crying: "Right now there is absolute pandemonium. We are watching 10 years of work being torn to pieces."

Polish Chief Playing Ends To Help Middle

VIENNA (AP) — The Polish Communist chief, Wladyslaw Gomulka, leader of a country sometimes at odds with both its Soviet allies and the West, now is receiving a sort of seal of approval from both sides.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev recently finished a visit to Poland. He made it plain to both Stalinists and the liberal internal opposition that Gomulka is his trusted lieutenant in Poland. Former bitterness between the two was forgotten.

This weekend U.S. Vice-president Richard Nixon is going to Poland under the U.S. thesis, backed by loans and other help, that Poland has moved peacefully toward greater independence and the "Polish way." They feel Nixon's visit will dramatize their standing and the freedom Poland enjoys within the Soviet bloc as compared to Czechoslovakia, for example.

Poland, through its plan for an atom-free zone in central Europe and a big-power disengagement there, a plan named for foreign minister Adam Rapacki, likes to present itself as maintaining an initiative in foreign affairs.

Fire Threatens Community In Newfoundland

ST. JOHN'S, Nfd. (CP) — Three CNR coastal vessels headed today for Baie Verte in northeastern Newfoundland to evacuate 1,500 residents from the community, threatened by forest fires.

Few details were available. The only contact with Baie Verte was by radio through Twillingate, 80 miles away.

CNR Marine Superintendent E. J. Healey said three of the company's coastal vessels were moving at full speed toward the community on Baie Verte, an inlet between White and Notre Dame Bays. At 10 a.m. NDT the Nonia was reported two hours away, the Bonavista three hours and the Northern Ranger six hours. The three vessels were in radio contact with Twillingate.

Premier Smallwood said in a statement issued here that Mayor Eaton messaged him that Baie Verte was "cut off" by a fire which began Friday.

It was not known definitely whether the fire was the same as one which 30 men had been trying to stop in the White Bay region. It broke out in woods property of the Bowater's Newfoundland pulp and paper mills. Baie Verte is a major pulpwood cutting centre for the company.

Mayor Eaton's message said the community, with its back to the water, was bounded on three sides by fire. It was not known, however, how near the flames were.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A large high-pressure area which developed in the Prairies Friday is centred over northwestern Ontario this morning.

Southern Ontario will feel the effects of this cold-air invasion by mid-morning. A few showers and some cloudiness have occurred along this line but the weekends will be mainly sunny and pleasantly cool as the high pressure drifts across the province. A warming trend is forecast for the beginning of the week as the high moves east of the province.

NIXON ENDS RUSSIAN TOUR WITH TV TALK

No Publicity Given Before His Address

MOSCOW (AP)—Vice - President Richard Nixon of the United States brings his 10-day goodwill tour of the Soviet Union to a climax tonight with a television-radio talk to the Russian people.

But the number of Russians who will see and hear him may be cut sharply by the Soviet blackout of any advance advertising of his appearance.

The two big Moscow papers—the Communist party organ Pravda and the government daily Izvestia—this morning made no mention of the speech scheduled for 8 p.m. Moscow time. (1 p.m. EDT.) Neither did Moscow radio in morning broadcasts.

The official Soviet silence came as a disappointment to the U.S. Embassy, which had requested the Soviet government to announce the speech in advance.

SMALL CIRCULATION

The only mention appeared in the English-language newspaper Moscow News, which has a circulation of only a few thousand.

The Russians had agreed to let Nixon make an uncensored radio-TV speech in exchange for broadcast time provided to First Deputy Premier Frol R. Kozlov in his visit to the United States. Kozlov made an hour-long speech over a coast-to - coast television network from Washington and it was well advertised.

Khrushchev Inspects Plane

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev inspected an American jet airliner today and said he would like to fly to the United States in "this one or some other one."

The Soviet leader said he would like to make such a trip "when the time is ripe—in good time."

Khrushchev made these comments to American reporters as he inspected two jet airliners at Moscow airport, one of them was the Boeing 707 that brought Vice-President Richard Nixon to Moscow.

PRAISES RUSSIAN PLANE

Khrushchev pronounced the American planes "very good."

Khrushchev was escorted on the tour by U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson after the Soviet leader returned suddenly from a visit to the Ukraine.

As American jazz music was piped through the cabin Khrushchev sat with Thompson on the right arm of his seat and proposed this toast:

"To the aircraft designers of America and all the scientists who build these wonderful planes and the pilots so skilful in bringing them to Moscow."

Pedestrian Killed

GUELPH (CP)—Ernest Bayne, 78, of Guelph, died Friday night five hours after being struck by a panel truck while walking on Highway 6, one mile south of here.

'Exhausting and Frustrating Time' Had by Newsmen on Royal Tour

LONDON (CP) — Don Iddon, correspondent for The Daily Mail, says the press had "an exhausting and frustrating time" covering the Royal Tour of Canada.

Writing in World's Press News, Iddon says the tour itself "has done considerable good" and that the Queen and Prince Philip "could hardly have worked harder, been more patient or more attractive in what were frequently boring and sometimes arduous circumstances."

But he is critical of the handling of press arrangements for coverage of the tour and of the accommodations offered reporters.

Iddon says Canadian officials "worked hard to help us" but adds that "we saw surprisingly little" of Esmond Butler, the Canadian who acted as the Queen's press secretary, or Rod MacInnes, chief press officer.

Butler "should have mingled more with the newspaper men, produced better bulletins, briefed us more frequently." Of "my old friend" MacInnes, Iddon says he was closeted away much of the time and that "it is a great mistake when an official becomes a courtier".

Iddon says the story of the Queen's illness was handled badly.

"We never had an opportunity to interview the Queen's doctor, Surgeon-Captain Steele Perkins, and the whole thing was treated in a casual and disorganized manner.

"Next time the Queen is ill I suggest they call in Jim Hagerty, the president's press secretary."

Iddon says the reporters paid luxury prices for third-class living accommodation—"I won't say we were rooked but we were clipped and sent to the cleaners." A gin and tonic in the press car cost $1.15 with tip—more than he pays in New York.

With the cheers of millios in more than 125 communities behind them, Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip leave by air for Britain tonight after one of the most eventful days of their 45-day visit.

A meeting with the federal cabinet, presentation of new colors to the Royal Canadian Navy and a glitterig state dinner were screduled highlights of the 12½-hour day, which also included a trip through the streets of this old port city and visits to hospitals and to Kings College.

There was a chance that for the first time since the Queen arrived in Canada June 18 there might be rain during a public engagement.

But the rain was expected to clear in time for the royal couple's trip by barge between mile-long lines of warships in Halifax harbor to Shearwater airport, where they are to embark at 11:30 p.m. on the six-hour flight to London.

They will be met on their arrival home Sunday by their children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne, the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret.

Despite the length of the tour, its heavy schedules and the Queen's illness while in the Yukon, she was in apparent good health as the trip drew to a close. In contrast to the weariness she showed before her holiday in Ontario last weekend, she was in good spirits and evidently enjoying herself.

She was in an especially happy mood Friday night as she sat in the heart of the old garrison parade ground, a natural amphitheatre and tapped her foot in time to a tattoo by massed bands of Eastern Army Command.

Dressed in a stunning short white satin evening dress and white mink wrap, she smiled often and peered intently through the swirling mist at the hazy figures of the colorfully garbed bandsmen.

Philip, in a dinner jacket, was bubbling with good humor, much in keeping with the jovial, joking mood that prevailed during a day when the weather was once again kind to the Queen, opening up just in time to permit a flight from Charlottetown to Trenton, N.S.

In Sydney, where the Queen presented city scholarships worth $500 each to two students, Philip told one of the winners, Bernard Campbell, 18, that he was evidently headed for a "higher" education. Campbell stands six feet, 10 inches.

Communist Rebels Move In On Northern Laotian City

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—Communist rebels were reported today to be closing in from two sides on the city of Sam Neua in northern Laos.

Diplomatic sources here said one fast - moving rebel column had reached Muog Het, 30 miles north of Sam Neua, and another was at Muong Het, 30 miles to the southwest.

Army reinforcements have reached Sam Neua, the sources said, and the pro-Western Laotian government was confident they would be able to beat back any attack on the city.

Laotian leaders were reported however to be considering an appeal to the United Nations to help restore order.

(The agency said many other leaders of the party—the political arm of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao movement—also had been arrested and the Laotian government had announced that "heavy sentences" would be passed on them.)

The sources here said the main rebel forces appeared to be coming out of the Muong Son Mountain region on the border of Communist North Viet Nam. They were armed with modern light weapons.

The fighting had also spread to far-northern Phong Saly province, which borders on both Communist China and North Viet Nam.

The Laotian government has blamed teh wave of attacks in San Heua province on a new rebel force and not on members of the rebel Pathet Lao army who have been waging guerrilla warfare with government troops for several months.

Laotian officials charged that the new rebel bands were "entirely armed, equipped and stiffened" by Communist North Viet Nam. The North Viet Nam government has denied the charge.

The Laotia government still was reported opposed to Communist demands for reconvening the international truce supervisory commission. The commission—made up of Canada, India, and Poland—suspended its work a year ago.

Showers Soak Gaspe Region But Bush Fires Still Burn

ST. BERNARD des LACS, Que. (CP)—The Gaspe Peninsula was soaked by heavy showers Friday night but forest fires still burned out of control.

However they were reported making no fresh advances.

The rain, heaviest in a month, gave an advantage to the more than 900 men fighting the fires but they were unable to gain the upper hand. They have also been aided by four days of light winds.

Besides causing timber and property losses the fires have cut the Gaspe area's annual tourist influx to a minimum.

A spokesman for the provincial publicity bureau in Quebec City said tourist routes have not been affected by the fires.

A disaster fund was started by the government with a $10,000 contribution Friday. Msgr. Paul Joneas, vicar general for Gaspe diocese, and a newly - formed committee would administer it.

HOPE FOR ACCORD ON BERLIN ISSUE VIRTUALLY DEAD

Negotiations Stalled As Parley Nears End

GENEVA (AP) — The United States has sounded out allied governments on their reaction to a possible invitation from President Eisenhower to Soviet Premier Khrushchev to visit the United States, Western diplomats reported today.

These informants said the feasibility of a Western summit meeting in advance of the prospective Eisenhower-Khrushchev talk has been discussed.

This development was reported as the Big Four foreign ministers conference neared the windup with negotiations on the Berlin crisis stalled and hope for East-West agreement virtually abandoned.

Whether the American president and the Soviet premier actually would get together was a question no Western authority would answer. Speculation rested solely on hints in news dispatches from the Soviet Union about Vice-President Richard Nixon's trip. State Secretary Christian Herter referred all inquiries to Washington.

INVITATION ANTICIPATED

But the speculation has created such an air of expectation here that no one would be surprised if Khrushchev now is invited to visit Eisenhower.

The one big, unanswered question of the conference itself is whether it will adjourn Wednesday amid charges aimed at fixing the blame on the other side or whether it will break off with an agreement for the ministers to meet again later in the year.

Britain, the United States and France hope Gromyko will accept a long recess with the prospect of resuming negotiations in the fall.

Bail Allowed For Convicted Union Men

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bail has been allowed for two Ironworkers' Union officials convicted of contempt of court but they are not expected to be released from prison until late today.

The men, business agent Tom McGrath and President Fernand Leopold Whitmore of Local 97 of the Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers Union (CLC) were placed in Oakalla Prison Friday when they failed to pay $3,000 fines for contempt.

Mr. Justice F. A. Sheppherd granted an application for bail and set it at $3,000 each.

Pat O'Neal, secretary of the P.C. Federation of Labor, said the federation likely would post bail for the two men following a meeting today. The meeting had to approve the use of the money.

Queen Makes Announcement As Cabinet Sits

Was Lawyer, Soldier Diplomat and Patriot

HALIFAX (CP) — The Queen has chosen Maj.-Gen. George P. Vanier of Montreal—lawyer, soldier, diplomat and patriot—as Canada's next governor-general, it was announced today.

The announcement of the Queen's choice of a successor to Governor - General Vincent Massey, who retires this fall, was made on the steps of historic old Government House here where the federal cabinet was in session.

It said:

"It is officially announced from Government House, Halifax, that the Queen on the recommendation of the prime minister of Canada has been graciously pleased to approve the appointment of Maj-Gen. George Vanier, CMG, DSO, as governor-general in succession to the Rt.-Hon. Vincent Massey, GH."

The typewritten statement was handed to the press by Esmond Butler, the Queen's press secretary.

BROAD SMILE BY P.M.

Shortly after Mr. Butler issued the statement, the prime minister emerged from Government House wearing a broad smile. He said the new governor-general will assume office Sept. 15.

He read from a long list of biographical notes on the general's varied career and said:

"This will give you some idea of his very wide experience."

The prime minister also said he hoped that "on future occasions" the matter of choosing governors-general from other Commonwealth countries, including the United Kingdom, will be considered.

HIGHLY CAPABLE

"No words I can use are adequate to express the high capabilities with which Mr. Massey discharged his duties."

Mr. Massey was here today. The Queen, at the time of the announcement, was on the last day of her Canadian itinerary with her husband. Gen. Vanier is on vacation in London.

When asked if Prince Philip would attend the cabinet meeting, the prime minister said all he could do was recall that the prince had been made a member of the cabinet during his visit to Canada last year.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he did not expect any other announcements from the meeting which he described as "a combination of both regular and special."

Canadian Hospitals Are Facing Blood Shortage as Stocks Dwindle

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

From coast to coast most hospitals report their blood bank stocks have dwindled since the start of the summer until now they are "dangerously low."

Main reason for the shortage, a Canadian Press survey shows, is that many regular donors are away on holiday.

Also, late July and early August is regarded by most hospitals as the accident season—when summer highway mishaps reach a peak and more blood is needed for victims than in any other month.

Edmonton's blood bank which serves 82 major hospitals using about 100 pints of blood a day reports a severe shortage. The bank plans a big drive soon to increase its donors from 3,700. The desired level is 10,000.

The Manitoba Red Cross says the situation there is "uncomfortable." A large - scale donor drive is planned there for autumn. The organization reported June donations showed a 1,300-bottle decrease on the previous month.

Halifax, where supplies are reported unusually low, plans a special drive next week.

Stocks in most of Southern Ontario, including Toronto, are at a low ebb. To help meet the high demands expected during the weekend a special one-day donors' clinic was planned.

Of the four central depots that supply Southern Ontario — Toronto, Hamilton, London and Ottawa—Hamilton has the worst shortage and only Ottawa an adequate supply.

Douk Children To Leave Govt. Dormitory

NEW DENVER, B.C. (CP)—Seventy-seven children, forcibly taken from their law-defying parents, prepared today to return home in a move that could signal an end to the Doukhobor trouble in British Columbia.

The children, offspring of the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, were ordered released Friday from the fence-enclosed government dormitory here by a magistrate who received assurances from the parents that they would be sent to provincial schools.

In announcing the release at Nelson, B.C., Magistrate William Evans said he believes the Freedomites' decision to place their children in school is the beginning of the end for troubles that have plagued the group for years.

The children, between the ages of seven and 15, are to be freed Sunday. But whether all of them will be content to go back to their drab, shack-like homes in the Kootenays remains to be seen.

UP TO FIVE YEARS

The children have been at the modern, well-equipped dormitory, a converted sanatorium on the shores of Slocan Lake, for between three and five years.

Until the court decision, the children had been participating in such sports as swimming, camping and gymnastics. They had comfortable quarters and food from a modern kitchen. Their principal said most were happy, despite the fact they only saw their parents about every two weeks.

In Nelson Friday, most of their parents sat in a drab courtroom and heard without emotion Magistrate Evans say their children would be released from custody

Collins Bay Pen Barn Is Burned

Warden Victor S. J. Richmond said the fire apparently started from spontaneous combustion in 150 tons of hay. Prisoners working outside the prison walls helped battle the fire until city and township firemen arrived.

Kingston fireman Glen Burns suffered minor injuries when a sliding door jammed him against the barn.

Only One Fire In Tweed Region During Week

Last week was a fortunate one for the forests under the protection of the Department of Lands and Forests, Tweed district, with only one fire occurring. For this time of the year with the fire hazard quite high, what with the extremely warm weather and the lack of rain, this is quite remarkable. Constant attention to the handling of camp fires and the disposal of burnt matches and spent cigaret butts or pipe heels by the people travelling in or using Ontario's natural parklands is undoubtedly responsible for this achievement.

Attention to the safe handling of these items should not lag however, advises Mac Wilson, ranger in charge of forest protection at the Tweed District office. Camp fires should be built only on rock, sand, gravel or mineral soil close to a ready supply of water, says Mr. Wilson. All inflammable debris should be cleared away from the fire site and there should be no overhanging branches around the fire. A fire should be kept as small as possible.

If a fire is to be left unattended, for even the shortest time, it should be thoroughly extinguished by dousing it with plenty of water. Cigaret butts and pipe heels should be crushed out on a rock or else thrown into water.

For those who own cottages in wooded areas a spark arrester on the cabin chimney is a must for safety's sake. A properly designed refuse burner should also be available for the burning of trash.

DOUK CHILDREN

on the understanding they would be sent to school until the age of 15.

If the parents reverted to their previous stand of ignoring the school laws, the children would be taken from them again.

The faces of the parents showed no joy at the decision. They hid the soul-searching and prayer that was behind the abandonment of ancient fears of public schooling and a policy of refusing to conform to the laws of the land that conflicted with their religious beliefs.

Mrs. Nash W. Barisoff, a member of the council of women which this spring took over Freedomite affairs and precipitated the move to regain the children, said some women decided something had to be done to end the detention.

"Five years was too much," said a mother of one of the boys at New Denver. "We prayed to God and thoughts came into our hearts."

MUCH NEGOTIATION

Magistrate Evans said in an interview that a group of women went to him some months ago to enquire about the children's release. Many delegations and much negogiation resulted in the court decision.

"I believe they were sincere in their oath to keep the children at school," he said.

Magistrate Evans suggested that B.C. government could cooperate by changing the school curriculum slightly to suit the Freedomites.

"We are not against education," said Mrs. Barisoff. "We are against the teaching of war. If I could I would go to school myself."

But she said the sect would watch what is taught to the children and seek changes to parts of the curriculum to which it objects.

When the children were seized in a series of RCMP raids many of the 3,000-member Sons of Freedom sect reacted in a pattern long familiar to the strife-torn Kootenay district. There were increased outbreaks of nude parading, arson, bombings as well as less-violent demonstrations.

Fireman Kicks Man From Path Of Locomotive

Highway patrolman Fred Barnes said Thomas, 65 and deaf, was walking along the Santa Fe Railway tracks near here Thursday night when a local freight train approached.

Gaylord said he sent his fireman to the front end of the locomotive as he slowed the machine. Just before the engine reached Thomas, the fireman punted.

The 1959 Prize List has been mailed to members of the Belleville Agricultural Society. Copies may be obtained from Mr. Ben Bleecker in Halloway. Total prize money, cash, exclusive of merchandise totals $12,793.45. The Holstein Friesian Black and White Day adds over $500.00, the Junior Fair and 4-H Club activities add another $1,000.00, while field crop, horse races, the baby show and merchandise brings the total prize list offering to over $15,000.

Some features of the 1959 prize list include $4,154.00 offered for horses, $4,900.00 for cattle, $744.00 for sheep, $391.50 for swine, $1,074.00 for poultry, $175.00 for grain, $165.25 for vegetables, $207.75 for fruit, $386.93 for plants and flowers, $264.70 for sewing, $112.50 for arts and handicrafts, $103.75 for domestic science, $89.10 for public school work.

For the first time two classes have been opened for former 4-H Club calves, now one and two years old, and a market class for heifers and steers has also been added.

The roots and vegetable section and the apple have been increased. The plants and flowers class has 160 items, 120 of which are for cut flowers with three prizes for each item. In the Ladies' Section eight items are reserved for new exhibitors only. The last pages list 144 individuals and firms who have contributed to build the Belleville Fair.

Scouting activities

Cubs and Scouts have moved outdoors. Most of the Scouts are using the new camp site at Thomasburg. They have named it "Sagonaska" — the original Indian name for the Moira River. The sub-camps are named for the tribes of the Six Nations of the Iroquois Confederacy: "Cayuga," "Mohawk," and "Seneca." The "Cayuga" recalls memories of the Jamboree when we were responsible for the safe delivery of 1,800-odd French boys to the C.N.E., and their return to Niagara-on-the-Lake — a very successful undertaking but not without its incidents.

At Sagonaska every care is being taken for the boys' safety and welfare. Tests are taken every ten days of the water where the boys enjoy swimming. A well is being drilled for drinking water. Mr. Lloyd Monteith, who is doing a magnificent job of making this an ideal Boy Scouts' Camp, is the man to contact if you want to use this camp-site.

CANNIFTON - CORBYVILLE

Ten Scouts and two leaders were at the camp. Excellent swimming and hiking was enjoyed by the boys and several swimmers' badges awarded. Boys also qualified for athletes and rescuers badges. On the first night there was a violent thunderstorm — traditional for the troop — which made the new boys uncomfortable, but the older ones felt right at home. Fathers and mothers were made very welcome on Parents' Day, especially since they all brought treats with them. A hammock was constructed and found to be quite comfortable, and a number of benches were set up around the tents. A steak supper was served on the last night by way of a celebration and proving that Scouts can prepare and enjoy a good meal when they have the necessary supplies.

UNWELCOME VISITORS

The boys learned a good lesson the first day of camp. They forgot their neighbors — coons and skunks—who helped themselves. Food was put out for them each night after, and, being good neighbors, they didn't raid the supplies any more — a useful hint for future campers.

Scoutmaster Stan Kerr and ASM Fred Furmidge wish to record their thanks to Mr. Ron Putman, Mr. Clayton Sullivan and Mr. Ralph Stewart for transporting the boys and equipment to and from the camp.

Avondale together with the 9th and 14th attended this camp. There were forty Scouts and four leaders, SM Len Furney, SM Phil Stewart, ASM Norm Wilcox and ASM Art Steenburg.

Melrose — 24 Cubs with three leaders are camping at Lonsdale until August 3rd. 17th Belleville, 12 Scouts and three leaders were at Morrow's farm, near Frankford. 2nd Christ Church, 24 Cubs and nine leaders have just returned from Deseronto.

We are particularly pleased to stated that the camps were successful and we have good reports from them all.

HARRIS SMITH DEAN
5th Concession Huntingdon

Harris Smith Dean died suddenly at home, 5th Concession, Huntingdon, on Friday, in his 53rd year. He was born in Madoc Township, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Adam Dean, and lived in that area until 30 years ago when he moved to the present family residence. Mr. Dean was a farmer and a member of Fuller United Church.

He is survived by his wife, the former Gladys Pauley; four daughters, Evelyn of Belleville and Muriel, Marion and Vivian at home; two sons, Kenneth and Keith at home; three sisters, Mrs. Hilda Foster of Toronto, Miss F. M. Dean of Belleville and Mrs. James (Mary) Wilson of R.R. 1, Thomasburg; and three brothers, Henry of Castleton, Ernest and Clayton, both of Roslin. One brother and one sister predeceased him.

STANLEY LEE
(Tweed)

The funeral service of Stanley Lee of Tweed was held on Wednesday, July 29th, from St. John's United Church, Tweed. The Reverend D. Louie officiated and arrangements were made by the W. M. Bush Funeral Home of Tweed. Interment was at Sydenham Cemetery.

Mr. Lee died in the Belleville General Hospital on Monday, July 27th, in his 84th year. He had been in hospital for two weeks following a fall in the street which resulted in a broken hip. He was born in Portland Township, Frontenac County, and was married in Harrowsmith. His wife predeceased him in 1952. He was a member of St. John's United Church, Elliott's Orange Lodge, and Tweed IOOF No. 290.

Bearers were John Sager, Arthur McCarey, Fred Mitchell, Albert McTaggart, Burton Coulter and Sam Jones. Several out-of-town friends and relatives attended the service.

ALEXIS JOHN CALBURY
Belleville

Alexis John Calbury, of 66 St. Paul Street, died at Belleville General Hospital on Saturday morning, following a two-week illness. He was in his 44th year.

Born in Belleville, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Calbury, he lived in this area all of his life and was employed as a pipe man with the Belleville Utilities Commission. He was married to the former Shirley Schram, who survives him.

Also surviving are two sons, Gordon of Kingston and Francis of Belleville; one daughter, Miss Marion Calbury of Kingston; one brother, Arthur of Belleville and one sister, Mrs. Loretta Dennis of Belleville.

Mr. Calbury was a member of St. Thomas' Anglican Church.

Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home, 80 Highland Avenue, funeral arrangements appear elsewhere in this edition.

Dies in Accident

CATHCART, Ont. (CP)—James Cromwell, 52, of Burford was killed Friday night in a car accident near this community, 15 miles west of Brantford. His wife was taken to hospital with serious injuries.

Advises Parents To Keep Eyes On Children

This weekend will undoubtedly see an increase in the number of people using the Provincial Parks and beaches — and in the number of children getting lost at these spots. Harold Cantelon of the Department of Lands and Forests, Tweed District, advises that lost children are, in a very great majority of cases, due to the parents failing to keep tabs on their offspring, who are wont, it appears, to spring off at every opportunity.

Naturally the Lands and Forests Rangers at the park will be only too co-operative in assisting in the recovery of a lost child but, Mr. Cantelon states, despite the use of loudhailers and mobile radios as a means of assistance it may take a very long time before the child is located and during this time his activities are unsupervised. The possibility of a tot getting into the water or a busy thoroughfare is too great for any parent not to heed the following advice says Mr. Cantelon.

"Never take your eyes off your children, they are young, healthy and vigorous and can travel considerable distance from view in a very short time.

"Report immediately to camp ranger missing children as follows: — age, sex, color of clothing child was wearing and if any part of this clothing was easily removable by child making positive identification by clothing only partial, color of hair and eyes.

"Arrange with park ranger to rendezvous at certain times at specified locations in order to compare and plan new searches in new areas."

Needless to say the separation of a child from its parents can be quite alarming usually more so for the parents than for the child, and the sight of one worried mother who had lost her child at Outlet Beach Park a few weeks ago would have sufficed to encourage all parents to avoid having themselves placed in a similar predicament and state of mind.

Plan Development

TORONTO (CP) — Council of North York Township gave approval in principle Friday to a giant residential, industrial and commercial development that would accommodate 14,000 persons.

The development, largely consisting of 20-storey apartment buildings, is slated for a 354-acre site in the northeastern part of Metropolitan Toronto.

BIRTHS

QUEEN MAKES

Maj. Gen. Vanier is a mixture of many things.

His forefathers were Normandy French pioneers in New France. His mother was Irish, a Maloney. His schooling was classical—arts, letters, humanities—and law.

In a career of more than 40 years, he was lawyer, soldier, diplomat and patriot. As aide-de-camp to two governors-general, he moved in Ottawa's sophisticated set of the mid-'20s. He married the daughter of a judge. He talked disarmament in the League of Nations, saw France fall in 1940, sought to rouse his fellow French-Canadians to war in 1941, helped plan the defence of North America in 1942, was Canada's envoy to Gen. Charles de Gaulle in London and Algiers and, in the restless post - war years, was Canada's first full ambassador to France.

"I have had a wonderful life," said Maj-Gen. Vanier when he reached 70. "I wouldn't do anything differently if I had my years to do again."

PROUD OF HERITAGE

He was born in Montreal in 1888 on St. George's Day, the day Englishmen honor their patron saint. He grew up speaking French and English with equal ease. The Vanier name was in the first Canadian census — in 1681, and he is intensely proud of his French heritage.

Said he in France in 1951:

"Four million Canadians do not forget that they are the sons of 10,000 Frenchmen, a third of them Normans, who founded and created New France on the banks of the St. Lawrence."

But his pride was always set in the context of Canada, with links to Britain. Ten years before, stumping Quebec to rouse support for the war effort in 1941, he told his own people:

"The irresponsible fanatics in this province who speak with contempt of British achievements are rendering a dreadful disservice to their compatriots. There is no surer way to drawing on the head of this province the hatred and violence of the other eight."

CHANGED BY WAR

"Today, I would have either been a lawyer, a judge or dead—if the world war had not broken out."

He was a founder member in 1915 of the Royal 22nd Regiment—Quebec's renowned Van Doos of both world wars. He led a party of men that blew up an enemy machine - gun post, was wounded and awarded the Military Cross. He led a company of men that captured an important village and got the Distinguished Service Order for his bravery. In 1918, wounded again, he rallied his battalion and continued a key attack. For this he received the bar to his MC and lost his right leg above the knee.

He returned to civilian life after the war, learning to use an artificial leg.

But my leg began to give trouble," he recalled. "I did too much work and I didn't exercise it enough. So the doctor told me to try to get a job which would take me outside."

SOLDIER AT HEART

The army was in his blood—even in peacetime. So he went to Ottawa to ask Sir Arthur Currie, then inspector-general of the army, for permission to rejoin the military.

"He looked at me, chuckled, and asked how I expected to serve with only one leg and a tin one.

"I thought this would be his answer but I made some jocular remark that the army could perhaps do with a few brains even if there was only one leg to go with them."

As a result, he was appointed second - in - command of his old regiment. After two years at staff college at Camberley, England, he returned to Quebec. That was in 1925.

In 1928, he was promoted to lieutenant - colonel and went to Geneva in a military capacity as a delegate to the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations.

UNFORTUNATE TALKS

Looking back on those disillusioning times, he recalled the disarmament talks this way:

"The whole affair was most unfortunate and it was distressing to see the lack of understanding between different countries and, even when resolutions were agreed upon at the end of a session, they were of so general a character that they lacked any force."

In 1931, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett asked him to become secretary to the office of the High Commissioner in London.

He took the Paris post in January, 1939. War shattered Europe nine months later and 15 months later France had capitulated. Mrs. Vanier and four children—three boys and a girl—boarded a small cargo boat and escaped to England.

WITH DE GAULLE

In the later stages of the Second World War he was posted to the London headquarters of Gen. Charles de Gaulle's French committee of liberation, moving in 1944 to Algiers with the leader of the Free French movement.

Through the years he watched Gen. de Gaulle, until de Gaulle's recall as leader of France in 1958.

"He does not want to become a dictator as many people say," said Vanier. "He knows the French people too well and he knows that they will not stand for a dictator. He is a very great patriot."

Twelve days after allied forces liberated Paris, Vanier was in the French capital—not a Canadian minister, but as a full ambassador—fifth ambassador named by Canada, still a young nation among the world powers. He remained Canada's ambassador until 1953, when he retired at 65.

"Our status in the world is out of all proportion to our population," he said on his return to Canada. "It is indeed gratifying."

BUSY IN RETIREMENT

Retired from his diplomatic work, Gen. Vanier did not fade like an old soldier. He was active in charitable work in Montreal, honorary colonel of his old regiment and an occasional public speaker.

In his Sherbrooke Street apartment, he has a handsome collection of paintings, but is quick to point out that he did not purchase many of them.

"I couldn't afford to buy them. They are mostly inherited."

He was named to the Canada Council, and helped on the council's investment committee. He was also a director of the Bank of Montreal, Credit Foncier Franco-Canadien and the Standard Life Assurance Company.

"I feel as fit as I have ever been, and I have never had much ill health," he said before leaving in the summer of 1959 for another trip to Europe to see his children. "In fact life has treated me extremely well."

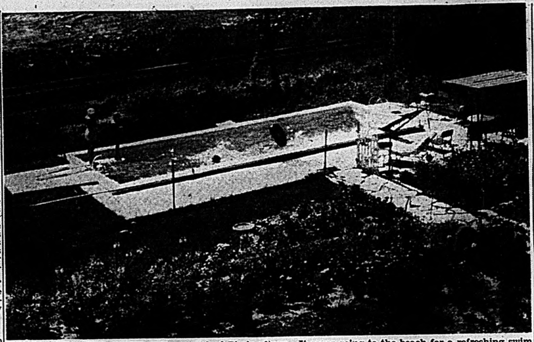
Gen. Vanier has three sons and a daughter living in Europe, Therese, a doctor in London; Bernard, an artist in France; John, who normally lives in Portugal, and Michel, the youngest, who studied in Switzerland.

His eldest son, George, is a Trappist monk at Oka, Que., vowed to silence in the Order of Cistercians, a contemplative order.

Burned to Death

PORT COLBORNE (CP)—Fire swept through an unused confectionery stand in nearby Humberstone Township Friday, burning to death six-year - old Leonard Cope, son of Mrs. Dorothy Cope.

The boy and a friend, Kenneth Schooley, somehow got into the stand. The other boy escaped and turned in the alarm.



SHORT TRIP FOR QUICK DIP . . . Eldred Phair of 157 West Dundas St., has completed the construction of his backyard swimming pool, which he started a year ago. It saves going to the beach for a refreshing swim and the patio affords the opportunity for gracious outdoor living.

A cool, refreshing dip in the water can always come in handy during these hot and humid days but not everyone can make it in just 15 seconds from their back door, like the Eldred Phairs of 157 Dundas West. Mr. Phair, an employee of Northern Electric, started the construction of his pool as a do-it-yourself project last summer about this time. Time, patience and hard work have paid off with a very handsome pool 11 by 30 feet and from three to six and one-half feet deep.

The pool is constructed of concrete block surface finished with cement plaster and painted a light shade of green. A highly efficient Cumo filtration unit, which runs for seven minutes every half-hour, keeps the 9,000 to 10,000 gallons of water extremely clear and free of algae. The pool is surrounded by a concrete patio and is equipped with a diving board, ladders, and a water slide, most of which were constructed by Mr. Phair. A 48-inch steel mesh fence surrounds this area and is equipped with a lockable gate.

Mr. Phair estimates that the pool has cost him around $1,500 to $2,000 including the filtration unit and the landscaping and filling which was done around the pool. The pool is located on a slope which is immediately behind a very colorful flower garden and back lawn. At night floodlamps amptly light the area for evening swimming.

Needless to say the pool is quite popular with the neighborhood children and they are allowed the use of it providing they are accompanied by their parents or are under the watch of a capable swimmer.

Cheese Exchange

A total of 17,843 boxes of cheese, including 6,139 specials, 6,053 first grade white and 4,262 colored, were offered on the Kingston Cheese Exchange this week. White sold from 37 11/16 to 39 cents and colored from 37 9/16 to 38¾ cents with an average price of 38 7/16 for white and 38 3/16 for colored.

At the Stratford exchange there were 467 white, 2,274 colored and 701 specials. Average price was 37½ cents.

Next meeting at Kingston will be on August 6th and at Stratford on August 14th.

WHYTEHAVEN'S

worker, stood in the yard as the children left.

"I can't go back in there," he said. "The children grab me and start to cry.

"We've had some of these kids with us for a long while, as long as 10 years in some cases. They're attached to this place and we're attached to them."

Mrs. Whyte said one of the children taken from her was a six-year-old boy who for the last five years had been one of her family.

"We were planning to adopt him but hadn't started procedure to do so because we didn't know anything like this would happen," she said.

Mrs. Whyte said her records of the home were examined Friday by John Drew and Dr. E. G. Gardiner of the Ontario welfare department.

It was on information laid by Dr. Gardiner that the removal order was issued by a justice of the peace for Northumberland and Durham counties.

The order, under the Child Welfare Act of 1954, said in part:

"Whereas, on information laid before the oath it appears to me there is reasonable cause to suppose that an unknown number of children whose names are unknown are residing at Whytehaven . . . are neglected and you are therefore authorized to search for the said children, to enter Whytehaven and take them and detain them in a place of safety with the exception of any natural children of Mrs. Bertha Whyte."

Present during the removal were Dr. Gordon Brown, deputy minister of health, Dr. John Sinclair of Toronto's Banting Institute, who gave the children inoculations against heptatitis when the outbreak began, Dr. George Large and Dr. Jean Moore of the health department and W. H. Berry, Dr. Gardiner and Miss B. Merlock of the welfare department.

Dr. Brown said time was not a factor in the action. "It's debatable what is the best time to move infants."

Welfare Minister Cecile, at his home in Hawkesbury, said he heard such a move was planned. He had been "hoping it would not have to happen. Apparently it did. I must say I am not surprized. I rather expected it."

Welfare workers said children not taken to Children's Aid Society quarters would go to the Salvation Army. Children in the isolation ward at Whytehaven, suspected of having heptatis, would go to isolation hospitals. A few children were taken by their parents.

Mrs. Whyte said the department's plan to trace parents of the children would solve nothing and criticized Mr. Cecile's refusals to visit Whytehaven and judge conditions for himself.

"They should have seen the condition of the children when they were brought here first, not now", she said.

Eight Charges Laid in Check On Speeders

Belleville city police cracked down on youthful speedsters last night with police reporting eight charges for speeding and careless driving being laid as result of the drive.

Otherwise both city and provincial police reported a comparatively quiet night with provincial officers reporting two minor accidents, one near Deseronto and the other on 33 Highway north of Trenton.

On 33 Highway, about half a mile north of 401, Quintan C. O'Hara, alone in his car, went off the road and went through a fence.

No injuries were reported as result of either accident.

PROCLAMATION
"PLAYGROUND WEEK"
August 4th - 7th, 1959

Whereas the Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville has been requested by the Belleville Recreation Committee to declare the week of Aug. 4th-7th as "PLAYGROUND WEEK" in Belleville in the interests of promoting healthful recreation amongst our citizens and whereas the said council has declared itself favorable thereto.

I hereby proclaim by virtue of the authority vested in me, that the week of August 4th - 7th, 1959, be "PLAYGROUND WEEK" in Belleville and I urge all citizens to take advantage of the opportunity to visit a playground in their neighborhood.

Trenton News

By ALTON GEORGESON — DIAL EX 2-3929

Around Town
With Al

TRENTON — Well, the time has come for me too. For weeks now I have been listening to friends tell me they are, have been or will soon be going on their holidays. Now it's my turn.

Sunday noon I'll be heading for Nova Scotia on the Canadian National Railways for two weeks to see the family and a new daughter, Mary Ellen, I haven't seen yet.

While I'm away the Trenton office and news will be handled by Mrs. Nickey Marchese, who has from time to time done a considerable amount of writing for these columns, chiefly in church and other social news.

NEW BUILDING

I was talking to a well-known resident of Trenton yesterday and somehow or other the discussion went to the building of a new police station. He said that he and some other business men in Trenton are planning to present a petition to the town council if they decide to build a new station for the police and firemen. He said they feel the town just cannot afford to build it this year or even next year.

It was the first time I have heard a real serious objection to the new building estimated to cost about $125,000, including the site. However, there has been no word on whether or not a suitable site has been found.

I'M OFF

Who can concentrate on writing when the mind keeps wandering to the days of leisure ahead and the cool breezes blowing in off the Atlantic Ocean and the Northumberland Straits. Especially today with the official temperature in the 90's.

See you in two weeks.

Arena Machinery Gets Overhaul

TRENTON — The expensive and complicated machinery at the Trenton Community Gardens is being given a complete overhaul during the off season when it is not required.

The huge ice making machines are being dismantled, cleaned, oiled and re-assembled and the large room housing this equipment is being thoroughly cleaned and repainted.

The ice flooding equipment is also receiving careful attention and may expect a smoother and better ice surface this winter.

Dressing rooms are being renovated and made more comfortable by the Gardens maintenance staff and additional locker facilities are being constructed.

Broken and worn seats are also being repaired and renovated.

Train Hits Car

RUSCOMBE, Ont. (CP)—A Toronto man was killed Friday when his car was struck by a New York Central local freight train on Highway 98 about a mile east of here. The victim was identified as Keith Mason, 35 who was alone in the car.

HOW ABOUT QUALITY IN SAVINGS?

"Canadians, it is said, are among the world's best savers," reports Industry, published by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. "Certainly the record (and ever-swelling) volume of personal savings on deposit at the nation's banks appears to confirm this."

Unfortunately "Industry" appears to overlook the fact that in saving, as in most other fields of human endeavor, quality is almost as important as quantity. Canadians' claim to being among the world's "best savers" would seem to be based solely on quantitative factors, as the reference to bank deposits would hint. Savings in banks are safe, but they are not really working. Canadians are much too cautious with their money for their own good. It is said that too large a proportion of their savings are in bank accounts and in so-called gilt-edged bonds.

If confirmation for that statement is needed, it is provided by Dr. John Davis, director of research for the British Columbia Electric Co., who told a Vancouver gathering that less than half the profits of Canadian industries now go to Canadians and that if the present trend continues this proportion could drop to a third in twenty years' time.

Canadians will not invest their savings in the economic growth of their own country.

This may not be a completely true picture. Although Dr. Davis indicates that the proportion of Canadian funds invested in our economy is declining, this is only because of the great increase in capital investment here during the past few years. But for this rapid increase, Canadians might have showed to better advantage, for there is reason to believe that the number of Canadian shareholders is increasing in somewhat the same fashion as in the U.S. "Industry" reports that in that country the latest figures show that the number of individuals owning shares nearly doubled between 1952 and 1959 and now has reached 12,500,000. In Canada the 1,009 companies which participated in the Canadian Manufacturers' Association survey of the sales dollar breakdown in 1952 reported a total of 359,407 shareholders; in 1959 1,019 participating companies had 601,174 shareholders.

These figures, though, do not show two recent developments which may well play a major role in the ownership of companies. These developments are the growth of mutual investment funds and the staggering sums which some of the larger unions have in their pension funds and which must be invested. Added to the already heavy proportion of individual savings which are in the hands of life insurance companies, these two developments place a disproportionately large amount of the savings of the nations in the hands of corporate bodies or organizations.

No matter what statistics may say about the number of individual shareholders, it is almost certain that the power of these individual shareholders to influence the manner in which the companies operate is steadily declining. Even the most casual reader of financial papers must be aware of the confusing maze of investment by one company in another, to the point where the reader with a playful fancy may wonder whether there may not be some case in which company A owns the majority of stock in company B and thus controls it, with company B controlling company C, which in turn controls company A. If such a condition exists, its even money that the companies are U.S. firms and the minority stockholders are Canadians - - with money in the bank, of course.

Miss Rise Stevens is suing the San Francisco Opera Company for a million dollars. Miss Stevens is a mezzo-soprano. Robert Watt Miller, president of the San Francisco Opera Company, has been quoted as saying that mezzo sopranos never sell as well as sopranos. "I don't think there is any foundation for a libel suit," said Kurt Herberg Adler, the Opera's general manager. Perhaps not. It seems to us to be a matter of personal preference. Now as far as we are concerned saying anything was harder to sell than a soprano would be the deadliest of insults. Where we are concerned, Mr. Watt would discover that he couldn't even give sopranos away.

HIS WORRY

By EDGAR A. GUEST

They have no children, but at night
When homeward he has turned his face,
He hopes that he'll find things all right
And peace in his abiding place.
And yet, a secret dread he feels
Of care he's known so often, when
With tear-stained eyes
His darling cries:
"My dear, the dog is lost again!"

Full many a pleasant meal he's lost,
Full many a cash reward he's paid.
He never dares sum up the cost
That Fido at his door has laid.
And so whene'er he seeks his door
He wonders will his darling then
Once more declare:
"Search everywhere,
The dog has run away again!"

Unhappy he who homeward goes
With fear and trembling in his heart,
Who dreads what evening may disclose
Or just what trouble new may start,
Whose mind is never quite at rest
Until he's settled in his den
And hasn't heard
The startling word:
"My dear, the dog is lost again!"

Deseronto Days 1919-1932

ARTICLE 22

Resuming "Deseronto Days" after a month's holidays in the Peace River country, northern British Columbia, we must first acknowledge a letter received some time before from Miss Agatha Crouter, 80 Front Street South, Belleville.

Miss Crouter does not agree with Poet Havelock Robb that Deseronto was not named after Captain John Deserontyou, but that "Deseronto was," according to Mr. Robb, "the Thunderbird's sacred home, this for hundreds of years . . . Captain John took this name while he was away south in New York State. He took it because of tradition; it was there, the very heart of 'the Kente Country' (the Bay of Quinte area), when he returned there with the returning Mohawks coming back to their ancient land."

The Belleville lady does not agree. She claims that she lived in Deseronto, was wont to visit on the reserve, so she knows what the Mohawks themselves thing about it, knew particularly what that fine gentleman, the late John Loft, had to say about it.

Miss Crouter enclosed several clippings, one referring to the death of druggist W. George Eager who, at the time of his demise, was recognized as the town's leading citizen.

A second clipping refers to the marital difficulties of Dr. Acland Oronhyatekha, son of the late Supreme Ranger of the Independent Order of Foresters.

Dr. Oronhyatekha died at the family home, Tyendinaga Reserve, as the result of an accident we have been told, he was either thrown or fell from a buggy, and his body was interred in the reserve cemetery.

The clipping referred to was headed "May Be Trouble," with subheading "Widow of Dr. Acland Oronhyatekha May Have to Fight for Her Share of the Estate." Unfortunately the year was not given, but of course that was long before our "Deseronto Days."

At the same time the Dr. Acland Oronhyatekha story bears repeating. It was first published in the Sioux City (Iowa) Journal in a despatch from Sioux Falls, South Dakota, and read: There may have been interesting developments here in connection with the death a few days ago at the home at Deseronto, Canada, of Dr. Acland Oronhyatekha, son of the late Supreme Ranger of the Independent Order of Foresters.

Dr. Oronhyatekha was for some time a member of the divorce colony in this city, and information of his death has resulted in the discovery that his first wife, from whom he was divorced in the state circuit court, this city, has instituted an action for the annulment of the divorce decree. This means a hot contest in the courts between the first wife and the woman whom Dr. Oronhyatekha married after securing his divorce, with the valuable property left by the dead man as the bone of contention.

HEREDITARY CHIEF

The first wife, before her marriage to Dr. Oronhyatekha was Miss Natalie Brand. She was an actress and met the doctor, who was the hereditary chief of the Mohawk Indian Nation, while she was playing in the Prince of Wales Theatre in London, England. He was introduced to her as an East Indian prince and they were married in London on April 22, 1897.

Following their marriage, the husband took her to the home of the Mohawk Indians on the Tyendinaga Reservation at Deseronto, where they lived in considerable splendor, as the husband, notwithstanding his Indian origin, was a man of wealth. His wife became known among the Mohawk Indians as Caygengaarh, which in English means "Fair Flower."

Afterwards they travelled over England and a great part of the United States and in 1901 went to New York City, making their home at the Ashland Hotel until February 1902, then the doctor departed for Australia, informing his wife that he had to visit that country for the purpose of carrying an important message to the people there from father. He agreed to send her money, and for two months did so, then the remittances ceased and she lost all trace of him.

The discarded wife has since acted in a number of New York plays for a livelihood, for a time being in the Presto Fifth Avenue Stock Company. It was learned later that the husband went to Sydney, Australia, where he acted as manager of the Sydney headquarters of the I.O.F.

DESERTED HIS WIFE

It was at that time he ceased sending the monthly remittances of $50 to his wife, neither did he contribute anything toward her support. He returned to Canada, then later to Sioux Falls where he opened an office for the Foresters and after establishing a residence applied for a divorce, swearing that he did not know the whereabouts of his wife, although she was to allege that she had over 100 letters written by him to Edgewater, N.J., where she had taken up residence.

On his affadavit that he did not know his wife's whereabouts Dr. Oronhyatekha was at first refused a decree, but six months later the decree was granted and he then married Therese Henrikke Hansen, a lady he had met while travelling in Australia.

However whether the first wife had any luck in getting a share of the doctor's estate is not recorded. As a matter of fact possibly few of the readers of this column were to know Dr. Acland Oronhyatekha and possibly least still about his marital troubles or the division of his estate.

8,000 Men Exiled at Sea

New York Times

There are 8,000 "men without a country" roaming the world's seaways. Like the fictional character, Philip Nolan, their lot is exile from land. A court imposed Nolan's permanent exile to sea. These refugees voluntarily have fled their communist homelands. Now, lacking the proper documents, they are unable to come ashore.

What they seek is a country they can call their own. Their hope lies in an agreement concluded in 1957 at The Hague by eight nations. This pact establishes conditions for the issuance of travel documents and facilities for refugees' getting ashore to talk with representatives of countries that might be willing to grant them asylum.

While compelled to remain at sea such men are prey for those who would exploit them. They often must accept low pay and remain virtually prisoners of their ship. In this World Refugee Year, it is proper that free nations should strive to find for these men a welcome land.

Strength for The Day

WATCH YOUR STEP

A group of thugs held up a truck recently in order to get what they thought were hundreds of cartons full of saleable goods. The cartons were all empty. Some of these chaps will spend quite a few years in jail brooding over the fact that they got themselves into all this trouble for a truck load of empty cartons.

This situation is full of suggestions as we confront the problems of life. We sacrifice so many things of real value trying to get things which, when the values are entered into the Book of Life, prove to be empty cartons. The pursuit of sensuality is one such endeavor. Feverish desire to be rich no matter how the money is made — this is another such piece of folly. Striving for social position, stalking everything one has on being elected to a public office or on getting a promotion in the business world — these are frequently empty cartons for which we often pay so dearly.

None of us has long to live. Life is ever a brief span in God's great eternity, and in that brief span we get a chance to make good. It will be all over soon for everybody. Then other generations will come in.

What will they say of us if, indeed, they remember us at all? Would we work for the things of eternal value — or would we sacrifice everything for empty cartons?

This mistake is so easily made that we all need to watch our step.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

AUGUST 1, 1939

Under regulations strictly enforced by the Dominion Department, all cheese graders have been given definite and rigid orders not to grade cheese whose temperatures are above 70 degrees or lower than 50 degrees.

Mr. Harry Atkinson of Albert College, for the third year has supplied the pulpit of Holloway Street United Church for the month of July during the vacation of the pastor, the Rev. Royal E. Newman. Mr. Atkinson who has been associated with the church for the past six years is much appreciated by the congregation.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Sheehan, of Chicago, Ill., are visiting Mr and Mrs. Thomas O'Hara, Coleman Street.

Mr. C. E. Clark, manager of the Bank of Montreal, Watford, Ont., Mrs. Clark and daughter Betty are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Dredge, Bridge Street East.

Mr. and Mrs. William Loveys, Toronto, are visiting friends in the city.

Hon. Nelson Parliament, Ottawa, was in the city today on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ashley and children of Niagara Falls, N.Y., are visiting the mother of the former, Mrs. George Ashley.

30 YEARS AGO

AUGUST 1, 1929.

Miss Margaret Cummins and Miss Doris Allore, of this city, are spending a few days at Miss Pearce's cottage, at Crowe Lake.

During the severe storm recently Mr. George S. Digby's house on Moira Street West was struck by lightning but fortunately did not take fire.

Monday, 5th of August, will be Civic Holiday here, according to the proclamation of Mayor Harry Greenleaf.

AUGUST 1, 1909.

The Rev. R. S. Laidlaw, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, and Mrs. Laidlaw, have returned to the city after spending their vacation in Woodstock, Ont.

Mr. Wallace Robb has returned to Montreal after spending his vacation here.

Mr. W. C. Mikel, city solicitor and city clerk, is in Deseronto today on business.

Lieut.-Col. S. S. Lazier and Mrs. Lazier have returned home after spending some time in Caledonia Springs.

The Rev. H. Bruce Hunter will be in charge of Bridge Street Methodist Church during the absence of the pastor on vacation. This is the fourth year in succession that Mr. Hunter has acted in this capacity.

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

(Article 90 contributed by members of the Hastings County Historical Society).

AUCTION SALES CAN BE FUN

They are popular with a large number of people who are seeking entertainment, companionship and bargains — though not necessarily in that order.

Auction sales certainly do offer bargains from time to time—dining room suites for ten dollars, beds for two dollars, one hundred books for a quarter, and so on. However, there are instances where more has been paid for an article at a sale than would be paid for a corresponding article in a local store.

Since so many people, including a large number of members of the historical society, frequent these sales, a few pointers might be in order:

(1) Examine the articles carefully beforehand; don't wait until they're put up for sale. Remember, you can't expect the auctioneer to be an expert on everything he's selling, and there is no money back guarantee on merchandize sold at an auction sale.

(2) Determine a realistic maximum bid, and stick to it. This bid will be determined by the condition of the article, cost of transportation, cost of a similar object new, and your needs.

(3) Bid quickly up to that limit. Your determination may "scare off" other bidders who feel that you'll get the object in the end anyway.

(4) Don't be cajoled or browbeaten into paying more for an article than it's worth to you. The auctioneer can't have you arrested for refusing to bid.

(5) Unless you're an expert, don't buy with the idea of reselling at a profit. You may find yourself stuck.

(6) Remember that the auctioneer is in charge of the sale. His decision is final, so treat him accordingly.

There have been a number of very good sales in the Belleville area this year. As far as old books, pictures, furniture, and other historical materials are concerned, the best sales have probably been the Ostrum sale at Rossmore and the Linton sale on Ann Street.

From these and other sales, the Hastings County Historical Society has obtained many interesting articles for its archives and future museum. Since the historical society does not buy articles itself, its members have been generous in purchasing and donating articles to it. At one sale, for example, a large wall map of Belleville (1877) came up for auction. Members of the historical society decided that it should be obtained for the society and three members contributed a total of eleven dollars to buy it.

The historical society also would like to extend its sincere appreciation to Mr. J. Linton who allowed society representatives to examine his sale articles prior to the sale, and take such school books, local newspapers, picture postcards, etc. as would be of value to the society.

Mr. Linton's kind gesture is much appreciated. He is doing much to preserve the history of this area for posterity. It is hoped that other persons holding auction sales or cleaning out basements and attics will allow the historical society a similar privilege.

Among other persons who have recently donated articles to the society are Mrs. Jack English of Melrose; Miss Hazel Farley of Trenton; Miss Helen Fraleck of Belleville; Mrs. A. L. Gnaedinger of R. R. 1 Shannonville; Miss Clara Younker of Picton; Mr. Phil Dodds of Picton; County Registrar W. N. Hurst of Belleville; and Messrs. E. N. Pigden, T. S. Ransom, W. A. Watson, T. G. Wrightmeyer, and R. L. Zufelt, all of Belleville.

Any person wishing to make contributions of material to the society or wishing information on its aims and organization should contact Tom Ransom at WO 8-8693 or Gerry Boyce at WO 8-5033.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

GOUT MOST COMMONLY AFFECTS THE BIG TOE

That miserable affliction, gout, keeps appearing in letters to me for the very good reason that it—long considered the sole property of irascible British colonels (retired)—is indeed a rather widespread disease.

The Romans had it in the heyday of the Caesars. The Greeks had it before that. The French gave it its present name 700 years ago. Cartoons in Punch and magazine illustrations helped establish the idea that London clubmen and landed gentry had some patent on sitting with a painful foot propped up and cursing any blithering bumbler who touched the tender toe.

People had gout a long time ago, and we have it now, and nine times in ten the big toe will be involved, although other parts of the foot, and sometimes joints of the legs or even the shoulders, may be the site.

Saying that an attack of gout is "sore as a boil" is an understatement. Touched, it hurts worse as a rule, comes on suddenly and with little warning. This can last for days, and sometimes for several weeks, after which it disappears entirely, and the patient's hope is to put off having another attack as long as he can.

There are drugs which relieve the pain, and an old one, colchicine, remains one of the most useful. Diet is highly important, and avoiding foods that are high in purine seems to be the principal rule. Almost all meats — with a few exceptions — are high in purine, including such items as sweetbreads, kidney, brains, liver, tongue, etc. Beef, veal, pork, bacon, turkey, duck, goose, rabbit and sausage are also strong in purine. So, too, with gravies, meat extracts and soups made from meat.

Many kinds of fish likewise are heavy in purine. Sardines, trout, pike, perch, cod and some others. And lentils are a known offender.

WHAT TO EAT

So the gout victim asks what meats he can eat. Ham, chicken and lamb rate much better, so far as purine goes; even so, they should be eaten sparingly. They aren't loaded with purine, but they still contain a good bit. The same is true of some seafoods: Oysters, tuna, shad, salmon, lobster, whitefish, crab, herring.

Beans (various kinds, other than lentils) are moderately high in purine, and so are peas, onions, mushrooms, cauliflower, asparagus, whole grain cereals and whole grain bread.

What's left to eat? Among the low-purine foods are dairy products including cheese, eggs, nuts, cereals and bread other than whole grain varieties; green vegetables, gelatin, all fruit, and sugar.

Since many gout victims are lovers of good food, this is bound to put a crimp in their style. It's a hard choice: Giving up a lot of the rich dishes you like, or encouraging another attack of gout. The best advice I can offer is to go extremely easy on any of the high-purine foods, and be reasonably sparing on the medium ones.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My 2-year-old child has an offensive breath. Could you tell me what might be the cause, or what I can do to correct this? I have tried giving laxatives and keeping the bowels open, but this hasn't helped.—Mrs. M. P."

No, that probably wouldn't help, because constipation is not a common cause of foul breath in children. The commonest are infected tonsils and adenoids, or sinus disease, so your best course is to see your doctor.

M.C.: The lymph nodes in a very real sense filter out the infections which happen to get into the body. It is not uncommon for these lymph nodes to swell, and sometimes they remain enlarged even after the original infection has been eliminated. As a rule, however, they return eventually to normal size.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HAVE FAITH—DO NOT FEAR

Have faith. Take it with you everywhere you go. Do not fear. Believe. I have been inspired again and again by these few words given to us by William James. He said: "Be not afraid of life. Believe that life is worth living and your belief will help create the fact."

You just can't wish for faith. You have to plan it deep in your heart. It then becomes a part of you and spreads its influence. All great enterprises have been born out of Faith. Keep reminding yourself of its power and its guidance through a fog of fears. Believe in a plan of life that does not harbor fears.

Every day we may go adventuring in courage and kindliness. All along the way you will meet those who are out adventuring! How much do we know of the human heart — the one that enriches all life? There isn't a single one of us who doesn't have a desire to plant love where it will grow and enrich other lives. None of us is too far apart from the other. A kind word can heal what nothing else can.

Your Heavenly Father will take care of you when in peril. You will have strength to walk courageously through all disappointments. People will greet you with encouragement — just as you need it most. Arrange your thoughts. Put them to constructive use. Try to keep surpassing yourself! Keep brave in the face of adversity.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

On the Rome Express which runs between Paris and Rome, I was very impressed with the way the passengers swarmed aboard the coaches grabbing furiously for window seats. And then travelled the whole way without looking out the windows at all.

This gave me a very deep-seated antipathy to Europeans which I nursed for several weeks until I encountered an old friend in Rome to whom I reported my observations.

So sure enough when I got home, the first thing I observed was that in buses and trains, everybody rushes to grab window seats and then turn their backs on the view. This assuaged my feelings with regard to Europeans. It appears that when you are in a foreign land your faculties of observation are more acute than when at home.

I doubt if anywhere in Europe could be observed anything more absurd than the spectacle of an elderly father and mother and two middle-aged daughters, presumably unmarried, who, with practised skill wangled their way to the head of the boarding line for a plane I was taking recently, hustled aboard, all got window seats, one ahead of the other.

And five minutes after the plane took off, all were sound asleep.

By their luggage, I could see they were experienced travellers.

There must be some advantage to window seats that does not meet the eye.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

"MY FATHER WATCHES OVER ME"

I trust in God wherever I may be,
Upon the land or on the rolling sea,
For, come what may, from day to day,
My Heavenly Father watches over me.

He makes the rose an object of His care,
He guides the eagle through the pathless air,
And surely He remembers me,
My Heavenly Father watches over me.

I trust in God, for, in the lion's den,
On battlefield, or in the prison pen,
Through praise or blame, through flood or flame,
My Heavenly Father watches over me.

The valley may be dark, the shadows deep,
But O, the Shepherd guards His lonely sheep;
And through the gloom He'll lead me home
My Heavenly Father watches over me.

Chorus:

I trust in God, I know He cares for me,
On mountain bleak, or on the stormy sea;
Though billows roll, He keeps my soul,
My Heavenly Father watches over me.

Here is another matchless hymn from the pen of the Rev. W. C. Martin, the author of "My Anchor Holds," "Land of the Unsetting Sun," "The Name of Jesus Is So Sweet," and others.

It calls for complete trust in God in all circumstances. In every stanza the author proclaims his own reliance upon divine love and care, and this trust is re-emphasized in the hymn's ringing chorus:

"I trust in God, - - - I know He cares for me
On mountain bleak or on the stormy sea:
Though billows roll, He keeps my soul,
My Heavenly Father watches over me."

The reference to "lion's den" in verse three recalls the Bible story of Daniel whose faith and courage saved him from harm when he was cast into the lions' den by King Darius. The imagery in the final verse of the hymn is borrowed from the Twenty-third Psalm, the "Shepherd's Psalm," where the psalmist declares: "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for Thou art with me. . ."

Charles H. Gabriel wrote the hymn tune. He composed music for many other gospel favorites including "The Glory Song," "Higher Ground," and "Since Jesus Came Into My Heart."

A Lift For Living

Attitudes Affect What We See

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Among our five physical senses, the most dominant is the sense of sight. This fact was brought home rather vividly by an incident of which I read some years ago.

In an English school a class of boys was sent into a room for two minutes and then brought back to write out a list of things noted there. The lists jotted down by the lads varied in length from 10 to 40 objects. But the most significant aspect of those lists was that nothing was noted by the boys except the things which revealed themselves to the eye. In that room were the noises which came from the street, the sound of a piano in another part of the building, the scent of a cigar purposely introduced. Not one of these was mentioned by the students.

Yes, among our physical senses sight dominates. And yet, despite this potency of sight, our Lord once said, rebukingly, "Having eyes, see ye not?"

As that question comes sighing across the centuries, does it strike any of us? However it may be with you, I confess that it wakes me up. I realize how little I am seeing in comparison with what some around me find.

For instance, I think of the musician, born blind, who described his world as one of sound and melody. A friend procured for him a copy in Braille of Keats' "Ode to the Nightingale." As the blind man absorbed through his fingertips the lines of that poem, he exclaimed, "When Keats wrote that, he was living in my world." And I realize how much I miss in the world of Keats and that sightless musician.

Or when I consider what wonders the astronomer beholds as he contemplates the heavens, I feel about as ignorant as when I stand in a telegraph office watching the face of the operator while he decodes the flashes which are meaningless to me.

Or I think of the wealth of beauty seen by the artists. Perhaps I possess an average man's appreciation of nature, but I very much fear I should deserve the rebuke once given by the artist Turner to a sight seer who stopped to watch him at work. Looking over the artist's shoulder, this superficial critic said, "Why, Mr. Turner, I never saw any such light and color in nature as you put in your canvas." Turner merely replied, "Don't you wish you could; as for me, I never can hope to match the pigments the glory I see in the sky.

Or consider what mystic insights into reality some saintly souls get. A friend of mine some years ago was travelling in Switzerland with Stanley Jones, the devout and distinguished missionary to India. At a turn in their path, a majestic mountain peak loomed into breathtaking view. At sight of it Jones broke forth into conversation with God just as naturally as if the Divine Presence were there in the form of a third companion. In that moment he saw the Lord as the prophet Isaiah saw Him in the temple centuries ago. Yet that is a sight which many of us have missed in our tours of Switzerland.

Yes, around us are musicians who revel in richer worlds of melody, scientists who range wider reaches of knowledge, artists who catch deeper insights of beauty, saintly mystics who find more revelations of divinity — all of which makes me feel that Christ was speaking to me when He said, "Having eyes, see ye not?"

What we see with our eyes is conditioned by what we have in our minds. A father and son take a walk together. The father is interested in nature. He sees the different kinds of trees and grasses and flowers. The boy is interested in motor cars. He keeps track of how many different models pass.

Or I think of two men living in a certain town. One went away to college and has taken one or two trips abroad. He now views his town with a negative, critical mind. He sees the pettiness of its people, the stodginess of its living, and all the tawdry things Sinclair Lewis portrayed in Main Street. The other also went to college and has done considerable travelling. But he has built himself into his community. He sees the heartiness of its neighborly spirit, the opportunities offered by its schools and churches. It is the same town; the difference in the outlooks of the two men is determined by the state of their minds.

Saint Paul once prayed for some friends at Ephesus: "May God grant you the spirit of wisdom and revelation . . . illuminating the eyes of the heart." When some of us are getting our houses air-conditioned, we might think about getting our hearts and eyes "God-conditioned."

Of 20,000,000 books sold every year in South Africa, more than 1,000,000 are books written and produced there.

Warns Churches Tax Exemptions Are Resented

NEW YORK (AP)—A leading American churchman has predicted eventual revolutionary repercussions if present tax exemptions are continued for religious institutions.

Rev. Eugene Carson Blake of Philadelphia said tax-free churches could "control the whole economy of the nation within the predictable future."

And he added, in an article in the publication Christianity Today:

"I suggest that 100 years from now the present pattern of religious tax exemption by federal, state and municipal authorities, if continued, may present the state with problems of such magnitude that their only solution will be revolutionary exprorpriation of church property."

SIGNS OF RESENTMENT

He said there already are signs of resentment.

Dr. Blake, chief administrative officer of the United Presbyterian church and a leader in national and world inter-denominational organizations, urged churches to restudy their position regarding tax policy.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By Winifred Wilson

Have you ever been on familiar terms with a family vireos? Of the several kinds breeding in Canada the blue-headed is the most fearless, and therefore the most likely one for you to become friendly with, although the red-eyed is by far the most abundant. All vireos are small, tree haunting, mainly insectivorous, and have at least a green tinge, as their Latin name when translated tells us. Their bills, not quite so tiny and slender as warblers', are notched. They all build nests of the same desikn; a basket composed of vegetable fibres, pine needles, bark strips, mosses, or linchens, hanging from a forked branch. But in spite of so many similarities the vireos' choice of habitat varies considerably.

The blue-headed is both distinctive and distinguished in looks, the brightest colored and the prettiest. The slate grey head contrasts sharply with pure white throat and spectacles — Though known in some districts as the "Solitary Vireo" this applies only to its nesting habits. It migrates with other species. But whereas the red-eyed occurs wherever trees grow, the blue-head prefers a spot near an opening in the forest where there are some bushes or small trees. Conifers are favored. As long as it can find insects of the leaf-roller type, it feeds either high or low. The warbling vireo on the other hand, definitely keeps to tree-tops for nesting, feeding and singing.

BUILT HANGING HOME

A narrow path, trodden only by ourselves, a few nearby cottagers and the itinerant baker, led from the rough country road to our shack. At one corner of the gallery a dogwood bush grew, one branch reaching towards the path at waist level; and there, on the forked tip, a pair of blue-headed vireos built their hanging home.

The little mother generally sat tight as we passed by or lay swinging in the hammock that fanned her; but in her absence we found tiny white eggs spotted with browns. Eleven days after the last egg was laid the first one hatched, and a baby emerged with insufficient fluff to hide its reddish skin. The following day a second broke the shell, the next morning a third.

Both parents fed their offspring. Father used to sit on the nest's rim singing softly while a pale green worm dangled from his bill — quite an accomplishment. When he left we heard his complete high-pitched choppy song from some distance.

When the youngsters flew we discovered a fourth egg, unhatched. What a hard, bumpy companion it must have been for the nestlings!

Two shades of gray with a wide black taffeta hem make this pretty - as - a - picture date dress for a teen-ager. The straight-across neckline points up smartly the new wide puffed sleeves. Built over a taffeta slip, the dress has a self belt placed to show off a trim waistline. It also comes in soft mauve tones.

I Was Sick and Ye Visited Me

By Alma Mason

In Matthew 25-35 we find these beautiful words—"For I was hungry and ye gave me to eat; I was thirsty and ye gave me drink: I was a stranger and ye took me in; naked and ye clothed me; I was sick and ye visited me; I was in prison and ye came unto me Then shall the righteous answer him saying Lord, when saw we Thee hungry and fed thee, or athirst and gave thee drink, and when we saw thee a stranger and took thee in? or naked and clothed thee? and when saw we thee sick or in prison and came unto thee? and the King shall answer and say unto them Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of these my brethren, even these least, you did it unto Me'."

If no other admonitions of Jesus remained to shape a path of faith — surely these love drenched words alone would be sufficient. What is more—we find in them supreme comfort for those who have lived an enforced or voluntary life of self sacrifice caring for the sick and the neglected. They walk surely and steadfastly in the steps of the Master.

When Jesus was born there was slavery, greed, cruelty, child labor, trampling on womanhood, war and every phase of human selfishness and evil. Jesus came to produce a transformed society as well as transformed individuals. His method of leaving eternal life was epitomized daily in his simple, kindly deeds, in His great compassion for the hungry, the heavy hearted, the sick and the sinful.

How hard it is for those of us who have never know hunger to understand the hunger of our brothers; how immeasurably difficult it becomes to have pity for one who is ill when one walks in perpetual physical vigor. How can we share sorrow without having first tried ourselves in the furnace of grief? Is it possible for us to have heartfelt compassion on sinners if we have not sinned?

A thought provoking legend is told in Lowell's Vision of Sir Launfal. Sir Launfal—young and strong and untried by sorrow — set out to find the Holy Grail. At the beginning of his search to met a leper, and, shocked by the leper's loathsome appearance, he scornfully hurled him a coin and hurried away. Years passed, Sir Launfal knew sorrow, frustration and illness. He returned unsuccessful in his quest for the Grail—old and wan and wiser. He met at his castle's gate another lepel and he heard again a beggar's cry.

This time he did not turn away but stopped and comforted the one in torment. In him he now saw the suffering Christ and in Jesus' name he shared his molding crust of bread and a cup of cold water with the beggar.

The legend tells how the leper seemed to stand straight and tall and radiant as Sir Launfal heard these words—

"Not what we give out what we share,
For the gift without the giver is bare:
Himself, his hungering neighbor and Me."

It is such a simple matter to place money in an envelope and mail it to a charity. It is so easy to worthily tithe as a self satisfied church going Christian. But these benevolent gestures alone will never open the gates of Heaven.

I know a woman who has spent her whole life caring for sick members of her family. Now she is old and sick and lonely. She says she will be eternally grateful to the Heavenly Father for giving her physical stability when others needed her. She was never free to follow her own desires; to find congenial work; to seek an education; to travel or to marry. She is not bitter. She considers she has only done her duty as a daughter, a sister and a Christian.

The final truth and test and value of our faith is whether or not it spurs us into activity in service to others.

The people shut up in sick rooms, lonely and afraid — do not need treatment for the body as much as they need food for the spirit. There are millions of outstretched begging hands in the world. There are hundreds of beseeching faces and empty hearts in this vast city. Let us follow in the footsteps of the Master and help to fill this need.

Though the unselfish life is often hard and hazardous — it provides the greatest rewards. The gratitude of those one has helped is a rich reward — but the finest reward comes with the knowledge that we are serving Christ. The final reward will be when we hear the King say "Come ye blessed of My Father. Inherit the Kingdom prepared for you."

• •

I was hungry and you gave me bread
And with it my downcast soul was fed;
I was athirst and you gave me drink
And led me back from life's hopeless brink;
I was a stranger; you took me in
And blessed me and cleansed my heart of sin;
I was sick and you visited me;
Then the Christ-like words rang joyously
Himself, his hungering neighbor and Me."

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

T and T has no intention of being a transgressor in far away fields of semantics. If we were an authority it would be too hot to surrender to any desire to be ingenious. Anyway, what's a word. Ah but the student of semantics might retort it isn't a word that's important — it's the meaning or the development of the meaning of a word.

During the war when the children at the Ontario School for the Deaf were scattered about in widely separated homes in Belleville, we knew a little boy who lived near one of these houses. He used to play with the kids less fortunate than he was and often when asked by his mother where he had been he would reply "with the wesdy kids mother." That mother to this day thinks of the O.S.D. children as the "wesdy kids" and her memory is one of habit and respect. The meaning is the thing.

It would be rather reckless to accuse our mayor and aldermen of mental habits as naive as that mother, but we were listening to the broadcast of Thursday night's council meeting. To our amazement (or have we our tongue in our cheek) we heard the mayor and we believe, others refer to what must now be Palmer Road as the 'O.S.D. Lane — 'Wesdy Lane!" In our surprise we thought, or maybe only imagined, that when Dundas Street West was referred to the word, and after all it is only a word, Trent Road almost slipped inadvertently into the vocabulary.

And where would "the development of the meaning of a word" lead us. No doubt it would lead us in circles and from force of habit and fond memory we would return to what comes naturally and affectionately. Possibly we were wrong to shun the temptation to get lost in a field with which we are unfamiliar. Names can be very sophisticated on occasion. Take the word Lane for instance. Quickly comes to memory Drury Lane, Park Lane; and even after the centuries, roads are still referred to, in the words of the Caesars, the old Appian Way etc.

And on and on we could ramble when a little sentiment creeps in or the heat takes over. A mighty industrial organization boasts that "progress" is its most important product. Progress does not exempt all sentiment nor does a name plate erase all memory. You can't say, no matter how hard you may try, "here is the old Dundas or the old Palmer" because they are and will remain for a long time "the old Trent Road to Trenton" and "the old O.S.D. Lane." Or, if T and T is desirous of starting something still hypothetical, how will the new Court House ever be old Court House. A building may be obliterated but it is pretty hard to obliterate old arteries.

Last Saturday T and T promised to raise kitchen curtain a little bit once to take a peek at a next door neighbor, in this instance, our New Zealand sisters. Occasionally T and T has exclaimed in amazement and acclaimed with pride the diversity of our local women's club activities and the standard of their objectives. Apparently the N.Z. woman takes a back seat to no one in this regard. Listen to this as we continue to watch and learn: "There are clubs for housewives, for gardeners, for business women, for mothers, for nurses, for travellers, for the improvement of the mind, for the cultural arts, singly and collectively, church clubs, clubs for exiles from distant lands, for good causes, for fun, for sport, for bridge, for beauty, for health, for reunions, for education, for the preservation of history." And like our Kinettes, there are clubs for the wives of men who have clubs.

The National Council of Women is, we are told, very effective. Dame Hilda Ross M.P. about whom T and T did a biography over the air said shortly before her death "When such a large and united body of women speak with one voice and keep hammering no government can afford not to listen."

You will recall that Miss Susan Graham called her article "Meet Your Hostess" and she closes by telling us that when our N.Z. hostess waves goodbye to the visitor she will call out, "It's been lovely having you, come again." And something in her voice, her eyes, her smile, will tell you that she means it from her heart.

T and T thanks Miss Graham for this brief peek at our neighbor "down under" and we say hello and good-bye from the heart, too. We are sisters and mothers under the skin and our hearts yearn for peace while our endeavors strive for its injection into the hearts of mankind everywhere.

Wedding

HANNAH — COX

Red and white peonies mingled with graceful sprays of Van Houti spirea adorned the chancel rail in Calvary Temple, Belleville, for a recent, lovely summer wedding when Pauline Annie Cox, of Point Anne, daughter of Mrs. Reginald Cox, and the late Mr. Cox became the bride of Donald Bruce Hannah, of Foxboro, R.R. 1, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hadley Hannah. The Reverend Laurie Price, pastor of the Temple, officiated.

The Reverend Hope Smith also pastor of the Temple, rendered the traditional wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Gordon Akey, was radiant in her bridal gown of white Chantilly lace and net over satin, fashioned in ballerina-length with fitted bodice and full skirt; with rounded, scalloped neckline accented with sequins, and long, fitted sleeves ending in lily points over the wrists. She wore a crown headdress studded with sequins and a double veil of lace, and carried a shower bouquet of red and white roses tied with white satin ribbon.

Miss Barbara Henderson, of Belleville, R. R. 4, as maid of honor, was attired in mauve net over taffeta with matching headdress and gloves and carried a bouquet of yellow and white 'mums.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Norma Cox, of Belleville, R. R. No. 4, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Mavis McDonald, of Point Anne, sister of the bridegroom, were gowned alike in yellow net over taffeta with matching headdresses and gloves, and carried bouquets of yellow 'mums.

Little Miss Paula Cox, of Belleville, R.R. No. 4 niece of the bride, was a demure and sweet flower girl in her white nylon frock with pink sash and matching floral headdress and carrying a basket of pink and white 'mums.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Donald Cox, brother of the bride, of Belleville, R. R. 4, and the ushers were Messrs. Carl Cox of Belleville, R. R. 4, and Alymer Hannah, of Foxboro, R. R. 1, brother of the bridegroom.

The reception was held in Point Anne Orange Hall, where the bride's mother received the guests, wearing a white background blue-flowered dress with picture hat, white accessories, and corsage of deep red roses. Assisting in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, gowned in white, with blue accessories, white hat, and corsage of red roses.

For the wedding trip to Toronto; Niagara Falls and Buffalo, the bride travelled in a blue sheath with matching duster coat, white accessories and corsage of red and white roses. Mr. and Mrs. Hannah are residing in Point Anne, Ontario.

Guests were present from Havelock; Kaladar; Trenton; Belleville and Point Anne.

The bride, previous to her marriage, was entertained at a miscellaneous shower held at the Orange Hall, with Miss Barbara Henderson, Mrs. Joan Henderson, Mrs. Joyce Crawford and Mrs. Anita Warren, as hostesses.

Going Places

Friendly Harold's Reno Club Gambling City Within a City

By Shirley and Bob Sloane

Reno, Nev. — If a word association test were given to every motorist in America and "Reno, Nevada" were thrown at them, the chances are at least even that everyone would instantly respond: "Harold's Club or Bust."

This phenomenon is no accident. It has been created by more than 2,000 roadside billboards in 48 states, Hong Kong, Sicily, the South Pole and Harold only knows where else—all of them erected and maintained directly by some of Harold's 1,200 employees on land leased by Harold. It is probably the largest and costliest continued advertising campaign ever pursued by any local business.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Harold Club. Not only that, there is a Harold.

His name is Harold Smith, Sr., and he is a voluble, mild-looking man with rimless glasses, cowboy clothes and the carefully cultivated air of a rube. Were he to drop in at one of the posh casinos of Las Vegas—a place he detests — he would undoubtedly be tagged as a well-heeled rancher and a likely mark for every sharpshooter who ever sat around a green-baized table.

He is as far from that as his beloved Reno is from Las Vegas. An enormously successful professional gambler of 35 years standing — "once I even bet a guy I could spit further than he could" — he has shrewdly built up, in association with his father, Raymond I., and his brother Raymond A., the world's largest club and the nearest thing to an institution that a gambling joint can be.

PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Harold's father, a former Vermont farmer who sought greener pastures in northern California was the one who learned it pays to advertise. Operating an orange juice stand for tourists, he saw that his competitor was selling more of the stuff at 20 cents a glass than he was at half the price. The reason, he discovered, was a series of highway signs for miles in every direction that drew thirsty travellers as caravans to an oasis.

Branching out into the — ah — amusement business, the Smiths in 1935 moved to Nevada, where gambling had been legalized four years earlier.

"The last time I got pinched it cost me $500," Harold recalls. "That's when we decided to move."

They christened the club after Harold because his name was already a trademark among his Chinese customers in Modesto. They had nicknamed him "Halold Lloyd" after the slight resemblance to the equally mild looking comedian, and "Halold's game" was a natural starting point for establishing a club to carry on the family's reputation for conducting a friendly, family-type operation.

Today Harold's Club is a fantastic seven-storey city within the Biggest Little City in the World. Since gambling is that city's major commercial enterprise, the Smiths have followed through with what is nothing more or less than a department store of gambling — 784 slot machines and 64 tables of poker, craps, keno, chemin de fer and black jack for every pocketbook and taste, plus seven bars, a museum of Westiana, radio station, a night club, restaurant and even a movie theatre-nursery for the kiddies while Mommy and Daddy disport themselves.

For 24 hours every day, each floor is thronged with tourists in sports clothes, heavy-plunging professionals in dinner clothes, housewives and gambling-obsessed elderly ladies in slacks and working girls in their lunch hours.

HIVE OF ACTIVITY

A constant movement up and down the escalators and elevators ("third floor, please; keno, craps and coffee shoppe, watch your step") and a steady din of rattling machines and droning dealers adds confusion to the bewildering clutter of signs, western paintings, guns and wagons that occupy every inch of floor and wall not already covered by gambling impedimenta and gamblers.

The Smiths have not forgotten the spirit of just-folks friendliness on which their success was originally based. Each cowboy-garbed employee wears a tag with his first name and home town, and signs abound advising guests not to gamble more than they can afford — "Harold's does not guarantee winning"—or to ask the dealer to explain any game, or simply declaring that Harold's has been under the exclusive ownership and direct supervision of the Smith family for 24 years.

Like any good department store, however, the Smiths are not beneath a little sales promotion. "An average of one 1,000 to 1 jackpot is made every hour" hints one of the posters.

While admitting to no such plan, Harold has obviously succeeded in bringing gambling within not only the financial and social scope of the average man but within his normal scope as well.

After all, how could there be anything immoral about any place so friendly?

Madame Biddy Has Everything Mechanized

ABBOTTSFORD, B.C. (CP)—Everything but the hens are mechanized at Peter Funk's new chicken house in this Fraser Valley community, 40 miles east of Vancouver.

The $12,000 building, full of mechanical devices, houses 6,000 hens. Each occupies one square foot of floor.

Although the birds may be a little cramped for space, they still lead a pretty soft life. All they have to do is eat and lay eggs. Everything else is done for them mechanically.

Installed in the chicken house are roll-away nests, mechanical feeders and egg handlers, a bulk feed store and a power ventilator.

POOLS BELOW STANDARD

OSHAWA (CP)—The bacteria count in Oshawa's two public swimming pools is so high that it is a "miracle" they weren't closed long ago, Dr. Ted Watt, city supervisor of sanitation, said Friday. One pool was closed by the health department a few days ago and the second is expected to be closed soon. City officials said they did not think the city would agree to finance new equipment recommended.

Second Glance

By Viva Richmond Graham

"The best measure of success in life is the ratio of our accomplishments to our abilities." — H. G. Wells.

• • •

"The works at Jones Falls in their complexity and daring of their design are unrivalled not only on the Rideau system, but upon any of the early canals of North America — John Redpath of Scotland, was the masonry contractor."

From the depths of a red lounging chair on the hotel lawn, at Jones' Falls we read the above from the pages of Robert Legget's "Rideau Waterway", (University of Toronto Press) that lay idly open. Raising our eyes, before us rose giant steps, ever lush with the sound and swish of falling water; the amazing locks. Again, we read: "This gorge" was described by a surveyor back in 1827, as "a narrow ravine scarcely a mile in length and having a sixty foot fall. "The banks average ninety feet in height." We read other facts, such as: "Colonel By developed a scheme for a dam twice as high as any in North America at that time." That, "all the stone was hand-cut and hoisted into place by winches". "The chain of locks is an unusually fine piece of masonry construction." "Accommodation was provided for two hundred men and forty masons who were employed in the two special quarries near by." "The great blocks of carefully hewn stone were hauled by oxen to the edge of the river, transferred to floating scows, towed by small tugs to the site of the works. Apart from manpower — there were only the few oxen brought into the forest for slow haulage." Summer records of 1828 say, "no one was able to take even a drink of water to his mates, since everyone, including the doctor had been attacked (with dreaded swamp fever). Many men died and were buried in a small graveyard."

Now, a bit later, we are on the Delric, being locked through the first of the series of these four locks. The tall slim gates open to receive us and then slowly, relentlessly close like giant jaws. We cling to the long chains that hang like iron braid-ornaments along the cut - stone sides. Our hands touch the smooth hand-chiselled blocks of limestone that line and face the canal with precise solidarity and marvel at this handiwork done under the direction of John Redpath. The water eddies and rises about and lifts us, inch by inch to view unsurpassed beauty, about, beyond and below. "This flight of locks", Mr. Legget reminds us, "is built as a continuous series, a giant staircase to lift the water level by forty-five feet to a large pond. At the other side is the fourth lock which completes the rise of full sixty feet and gives access to a rock-bound channel."

Now we have reached the topmost level of the Jones Falls locks. There are sunny shadows in the far banks that dye golden and green the water. As the last lock slowly opens all the calmness is shattered until the reflection becomes distorted; as if the quiet canal has turned into a Crazy Palace of Mirrors.

Our eyes skim over the scenic horizon to the south. The sun shines on the water like dazzling steel. Now the sun is hidden under a slight cloud and part of the water below has a sliver sheen of minute ripples like a sheet of steel scaled mail that overlays an other wise dark, glossy surface.

The vast panarama below is of incredible beauty. Down along that stretch of misty blue, lies Kingston Mills and the Upper and Lower Brewers Mills where the stone-work of Robert Drummond's masons are seen still. Colonel By knew men of worth and ability when he chose his contractors such as Phillips, Drummond and Redpath. To them, he presented specially made silver cups, one of which may been seen in the Chateau de Ramesay, in Montreal, with the date "21 August 1831" as the official opening of the completed Rideau Canal.

As we take a second glance at Jones Falls' hand work done under the direction of John Redpath, he somehow, now has become strangely alive and real, as we realize he would have beheld this very scene — well over a hundred years ago. Who was he?

This trained stone-mason Scottish lad, says Mr. Legget, landed in Canada in 1816, won a contract for the Lachine Canal work jus five years later. He was twenty five. He must have dreamed, many dreams during the long Rideau nights filled with the call of the loon and whippoorwill, the splash of jumping fish, the murmur of pines, poplars and birch threaded by the wind and sailing moon. They paid off, however.

From the profits of his contract work, he wisely invested his money in Montreal real estate, banking, railways, shipping and coal mining. Not only was he one of the original members, but served eight successive terms on the Montreal City Council, established in 1852. He had a hand in the construction of Notre Dame Church, says Mr. Legget, (though he was himself a Presbyterian,) as well as other notable early buildings including McGill University. In 1854 he started a sugar refinery on the banks of the Lachine Canal in Montreal, which after his death in 1869, thrived under his son Peter, and today as one of Canada's great refineries, known as the Canada and Dominion Sugar Company, still maintains the original motto: "Let Redpath Sweeten It."

Laroche Joins Hiding-Knee Dress Trend

By NADEANE WALKER

PARIS (AP) — Designer Guy Laroche today went with the majority trend in putting fall and winter hemlines at the top of the calf and hiding the knee.

He contributed a new garment to the fashion season—a sleeveless overblouse to convert a long sleeved dress into a suit.

There is a long version of this oversheath dress, slit up to the hip on each side.

Longer suit jackets are often belted and so are their blouses, worn outside the straight skirt an mid-hip in length. Long-sleeved day dresses have the shorter jackets or vests which are sleeveless and loosely fitted. Some of these new overvests are fur-lined or have fur collars.

GOOD IDEA

They appear to be a good idea for chilly autumn days before overcoat weather.

Coats, also fox-collared, are medium-full, straight and seamed around the top of the hip.

Colors run to cheerful reds and red and purple checks. He also uses mauve and bl e as well as grey, beige, browns and black.

Another type of suit jacket is slit on each hip, with a buttoned cross over up to the armhole. It is collarless and has the severe look of a Russian blouse.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Lucas S.—The girl's a tramp . . . my boy is ruining himself.

Jimmy S. — She isn't really bad.

• • •

Lucas S. — What can a father do when his son gets into trouble with a tramp of a girl — aged 17?

Jimmy is 19 and has always been a very good kid. We never had the least trouble with him. Last year he started taking night courses in accounting and was planning on a big future. Then he met this real cheap girl and now he wants to get married. All his plans have gone up in smoke

I checked up on this girl and learned she had a baby last year and was placed in a home. When I confronted her with this she denied it as brazenly as could be. She's very pretty, I'll admit that, but how can I convince Jimmy that he'd ruin his life getting mixed up with her?

• • •

Jimmy S. — Dad just doesn't understand about my girl. She isn't bad or cheap at all. She just had terrible breaks in life and nobody has ever really loved her or cared about her until she met me.

When I met Dolly she was living in a foster home where they mistreated her something terrible. She was later sent to her aunt's home. Her aunt is nicer, but doesn't really want her and she gives her all the hardest, dirtiest work in the house.

When Dolly got into trouble it wasn't because she was bad but because she was trying to get away from her mother who was living a very terrible life with a man who wasn't her husband. What can you expect when a girl comes out of such a background?

• • •

The Council — Yes, we think Jimmy would be making a mistake in marrying this girl — but not so much for the reasons his father cites as for the reasons he, himself, gives.

Jimmy's sympathy has run away with him. His pity for this girl, his desire to help her, are to his credit, but these are not the appropriate sentiments for a husband-to-be.

The account this girl has given to Jimmy reveals that she is filled with self-pity and has no conception of the idea of self-responsibility. She can blame someone else for all of her wrong actions and she believes that some outsider can come along and make things more comfortable for her.

We have no doubt that this girl's background was miserable and harmful to her. We think it was even worse than she believes. Apparently, nowhere along the line did she get the idea that a better life may be achieved through recognition of the good and struggle toward it.

Possibly someone can help Dolly understand these things—but that person would not be a husband. Dolly has had too little experience in overcoming obstacles and in getting along with others to be able to gain from even a very good husband.

Jimmy would do better to give his sympathy where it can do some good — and his love to a woman he admires, respects and doesn't want to change.

English School Teachers Plan to Hike to New Delhi

VICTORIA (CP)—Two 22-year-old English school teachers hitch-hiked across Canada at a cost of $18.50 each. After working here they plan to go to New Zealand and India.

Blonde Margaret Windsor and Elizabeth Foster, a brunette, left London last January with $28 each on a "go-now-pay-later" flight. Each made a down payment of $18 for the trip and arrived in Montreal with $20 between them.

They worked in Montreal to pay back the money owing, Margaret as a teacher and Beth as a receptionist.

BEAR MOVED IN

They planned to sleep out-of-doors at Banff, but changed their minds when they heard bears were in the area. So they piled into a tent and, later, so did bear.

"I woke up and there he was," said Beth. "I didn't dare breathe. The bear sniffed once and left."

The girls averaged 600 miles a day until they reached Banff, but it was harder going from there on.

In Rossland, B.C., the tired couple just sat on a curb and wondered what to do. A girl came along, took them home and fed them. They stayed for a couple of days "until the wind sort of came back into our sails," said Margaret.

The girls plan to work here until funds accumulate for a continuation of their trip.

"We have tentative jobs in New Zealand and a place to live at any rate in New Delhi," said Beth.

BETTER DRIVERS?

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. Loren Campbell of State University Teachers College, New Paltz, N.Y., gave a driving education course to 14 Quebec and Nova Scotia teachers, they were to pass on the instruction to students.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

WHO PAYS FOR RENTAL OF WHITE DINNER JACKET?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our wedding is to be quite a large, semi-formal church wedding in the evening in the last week of August. I would like to have my best man and ushers wear white dinner jackets. Several of the ushers do not own, and do not especially care to own these white tuxedo jackets, and so will either have to buy them or rent them. I have suggested they rent them, and have located a place well-known for its excellent service for rentals, etc. In this circumstance is it customary for me to pay the rental? — Groom-to-be.

No. Each attendant is expected to provide for himself the attire prescribed by the prospective groom . . . and this attire he pays for, whether he buys it or rents it.

NOTE TO THANK FOR BIRTH - ANNOUNCEMENT CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

So many birth-announcement cards are being received these days! And it's quite a problem to know how to acknowledge them. When we receive birth-announcement cards from relatives and intimate friends, I write notes and generally send some little gift for the baby. But what about the announcements received from others, not close friends Should these cards necessarily be acknowledged? It seems to me that something should be done about them. Will you please suggest what and how? — L.

I agree with you that it does seem lacking in appreciation and friendliness not to write some kind of acknowledgement of this news which the parents are so happy and proud to send. Writing a bit of a note ,a few high-hearted sentences, is sufficient to show your interest and good wishes. Somewhat like this, perhaps:

Dear Elizabeth:

Phil and I are so happy to receive the Happy News on the card you so thoughtfully sent us . . the arrival of another charming member of the Cornwallis family! And we know how happy you and Jim must be!

May I call you soon to ask you if I may come to see you and the newcomer? I'm eager to "meet" your little Linda.

Friendliest greetings to you and "yours" and always every good wish from both of us. Devotedly.

Question: . . . Thanks for answering me so soon. The recipe for little Lemon Marzipan was most welcome but unfortunately the marzipan I referred to did not contain cocoanut. The recipe I lost was for making marzipan strawberries. All I can remember is that it was made with icing sugar and jello for coloring —but no cocoanut . . . I know the real marzipan is made with almond paste, icing sugar and egg whites but that is too expensive for my budget. You say all the baking powder breads you have contain nuts or fruit or both (in your reply to me). This would be a sweet bread. The one I had in mind tastes and resembles yeast bread. After going through a pile of old mutilated cook books which had lain in the attic for about 25 years, I found the recipe I was after. I am sending you a copy of it as it may be useful to some of your readers specially if they camp far from stores and find yeast bread too long and complicated to make. . . . Mrs. L. H. C.

SATURDAY

Baked Stuffed Veal Hearts or Beef Heart; Pan Roasted Potatoes; Creamer Broccoli; Cantaloupe and Ice Cream; Coffee.

BAKING POWDER BREAD

(Courtesy Mrs. L. H. C.) — 4 cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon melted shortening, 1 tablespoon sugar, 7 teaspoons of baking powder, 1 medium size, boiled mashed potato, milk or water.

Sift together flour, salt, sugar and baking powder; add mashed potato and shortening and just enough milk to make a firm dough. Place dough in greased loaf pan and spread melted butter on top, with a knife. Let rise in a warm place for 30 minutes. Bake in moderate oven 350 deg. for 1 hour. Take out of oven and sprinkle top with a few drops of water and let cool in pan.

Answer: Thanks so much for this practical baking powder bread recipe. I'm sure out camping readers will be grateful.

I'm stumped on the marzipan. Help readers! Does anyone know the non-almond, non-cocoanut marzipan to which Mrs. L. H. C. is referring? Meanwhile, I will give the standard recipe for marzipan with a variation which makes it slightly less costly.

STANDARD MARZIPAN

Put almonds through nut knife or grinder 3 times. Mix with other ingredients and knead smooth. If too stiff it may be softened with a very little lemon juice, but not much can be safely used. Let stand 24 hours then shape.

Economical Variation: To the above recipe add 1 egg yolk, ¼ pound icing sugar (making ½ pound in all), 1 medium-sized baked sweet potato (very soft) carefully peeled.

SOAP PUFFS

LONDON (CP) — Mysterious white objects reported to be following planes into Gatwich Airport near London were identified as small clouds of detergent foam blown into the air from a nearby sewage plant.

WOMEN'S GUILD

The regular meeting of Shannonville Women's Guild was held recently at the home of Mrs. Kilpatrick with Mrs. Vance as co-hostess and the president presiding.

Resuming the meetings in September, further plans for an afternoon tea are to be discussed. The next meeting to be held September 17th at Miss G. Cox.

Singing of favorite hymns was enjoyed by the members.

It being Mrs. Kincaid's 84th birthday on the 28th of June "Happy Birthday" was sung and good wishes extended. Mrs. Kincaid graciously thanked the members for their good wishes.

At a later date, Mrs. Fitzgerald presented Mrs. Kincaid with a lovely potted mauve 'mum plant from all the Guild members.

Mrs. Page closed the meeting, and Mrs. Fitzgerald thanked Mrs. Kilpatrick for opening her home.

A delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Kilpatrick and Mrs. Vance and the members enjoyed a social half hour.

Crime Is Paying Off Nicely These Days on Warner Lot

By BOB THOMS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Crime is paying off nicely on the Warners lot these days, with the third brace of private eyes going to work in the 50th state.

Efrem Zimbalist Jr. and Roger Smith have had a successful season cleaning up the local crooks in 77 Sunset Strip with the aid of their Kookie pal, Edd Byrnes. Richard Long and Andrew Duggar have gone to work on New Orleans baddies with Bourbon Street Beat.

Now a couple of young actors named Tony Eisley and Bob Conrad are waylaying them in the isles for Hawaiian Eye. It starts on the ABC network Oct. 7 in the Wednesday 9-to-10 slot. I dropped out to watch the series on its maiden voyage.

Eisley is a suave, slim Philadelphian of 34 years . . . University of Miami grad, always yenned to be an actor, worked in stock companies before joining Mister Roberts road company . . did Broadway shows, TV before coming to Hollywood . . . has son and daughter.

Bob Conrad is a 24-year-old Chicagoan with a haunting resemblance to the late Jimmy Dean . . . real name: Conrad Robert Falk . . . studied drama at Northwestern University, was urged by actor N. Adams to try Hollywood . . . married, has two daughters.

"This is the same set-up as 77 Sunset Strip, Bob explained. "Tony and I will trade off on the cases, though we both appear in each show."

"We shot a couple of weeks of background shots in Hawaii," Tony added. "Nothing specific—just a lot of atmosphere shots that might be needed. We must have gone in and out of every doorway in Honolulu."

I always like to talk to the enthusiastic starters in these series and then compare their attitude a year hence. TV Hardin, when he took over for Clint Walker in Cheyenne, swore he would never become as recalcitrant as Clint. Hardin just ended his own sitdown strike.

The same could happen to Tony and Bob.

Overheating One Of Summer's Big Headaches

By Eugene Milmee

This is the season when road travel and troubles reach their peak. Many unlucky motorists temporarily stranded on the roadside are victims of flats or blowouts — and many are just out of gas.

Overheating however, is the most common troublemaker. But this shouldn't pose any great problem unless it causes vapor lock and stalls you in the middle of traffic, or unless the radiator has lost too much water with no more available for miles.

When the dash shows your engine is running dangerously hot, pull off the road and wait for temperatures to get back to normal. Don't try to remove the radiator cap and don't think of adding water until the engine has cooled down. When you do add water, pour it in while the engine is running. Once you're able to get under way again, you may avoid further grief by driving to the nearest service station and finding out what is wrong.

H.M. writes: "To keep grit and grease off the ignition coil and distributor, I have been using a cleaning fluid, but now I hear this is unsafe."

(A) If it's a non-flammable cleaner, you're O.K. If not, it is definitely unsafe.

J.N. asks: "I have a new '59 model with automatic transmission. It has been driven only 250 miles. Is it normal for the shift lever to be very stiff on a new car? I must use both hands to move it to Park position."

(A) This shouldn't be. Don't wait for the 1,000 mile check-up. Take it to your dealer immediately and report this trouble.

From H.A.: "My car, a late 1958 model, is hard to restart when the engine is hot. My service station man claims it is typical of this model but can be cured. Should I let him try it?"

(A) He's right — this is common with your particular model and a little carburetor work can remedy it.

C.K. writes: "My car trys to pull toward one side, and I thought it was brake trouble. However, a wheel shimmy has developed too. Could this be due to air loss in the front tires?"

TIPS

by JOHN WETTLAUFER

When the quality of the picture on your TV set goes down, the trouble may not be in the set itself but in the antenna. Corrosion, storm damage and even old age can lower the efficiency of TV aerials — as well as making them down right dangerous.

You'll enjoy television more if you have a qualified serviceman check your aerial periodically for reception quality. An inspection could also save you the cost of a new aerial by revealing guy wires in poor condition which might let go on the next windy day.

If your TV aerial hasn't been checked over recently, call CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 364 Coleman St., who have had the knowledge and experience to diagnose and correct TV antenna problems. For estimates phone WO 8-6791 (in Trenton EX 2-7669).

Mathews Won Talking Fight From Candy

NEW YORK (AP) — If you saw Friday night's fight between Len Matthews and Candy McFarland, you must have been wondering what they were talking about. You couldn't have been wondering who was going to win for Matthews won the all-Philadelphia main event from here to Philadelphia.

"Get ready, I'm coming," snarled Candy who was in reverse gear most of the 10 rounds.

"I'll be here," answered Matthews. He was, too. After chasing Candy for six rounds he caught up with him in the seventh and eighth and gave him his lumps. In the 10th he floored Candy with a left hook, for an automatic eight-count.

"He kept trying to pull that Sugar Ray stuff on me, getting my mind off my business," said Matthews. Robinson, the middleweight champ (in New York state) was working in Candy's corner as a second.

Actually, the conversation was better than the fight. McFarland showed he could run backwards faster than anybody who has been in the garden ring in some time. He also showed he could feint but he didn't do anything about it when he feinted Matthews into openings.

FORT ERIE (CP) — Wagering on thoroughbred racing in Ontario this year shows an increase of $2,428,122 compared with 1958, figures released Friday by the Jockey Club Limited showed. The Jockey Club operates Old Woodbine, Woodbine and Fort Erie tracks.

SOX DRAWING WELL

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago White Sox, who have held or shared first place seven times since the current American League race started, have topped their entire 1958 home attendance by more than 12,000 admissions.

When the White Sox polished off New York Yankees Thursday, an amazing weekday matinee crowd of 30,858 was on hand to boost Chicago's home attendance to 809,848 for 45 Comiskey Park dates.

Last season, the second-finishing White Sox drew only 797,451 for the entire home campaign of 69 dates.

Royals Whip Sugar Kings; Leafs Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Literally, figuratively and on the mound, Joe Gibbon is a big man.

Columbus' six-foot - four lefthander has compiled an 11-7 record while toiling for the seventh-place Jets in the International League.

The 24-year-old Hickory, Miss. native, Friday night defeated the league-leading Buffalo Bisons for the third time and checked a Buffalo winning streak at six games with a five-hit, 2-1 triumph.

Montreal kayoed the Sugar Kings 6-2 and Rochester beat the Virginians 7-1. Toronto nipped Miami 2-1 in 10 innings in the league's other game.

Gibbon received all the support he needed from catcher Bill Hall, who drove in Columbus' two runs with singles in the second and seventh innings. Bobby Morgan scored the Buffalo run, racing home from third on a double steal as Hall dropped Gibbon's throw.

Ralph Mauriello made his International League debut a success, pitching a seven-hitter as the Royals pounded Havana hurlers for 10 hits, including homers by Angel Scull and Dick Teed.

Veteran righty Bob Keegan (12-6) stopped the Red Wings' losing streak at five games with an eight-hitter against Richmond. Bill Harrell's two-run homer in the first gave Keegan a lead he never relinquished. Luke Easter also homered for the Wings.

The Maple Leafs climbed into fourth place, the highest they've been since early in the season, as Dave Pope broke up the pitcher's duel in the 10th with a bases-loaded single. Ron Negray (12-8) won it, while John Anderson (11-6) took the loss.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

That old sports adage "we're just going to see him (or a team) get beaten," is a gold-toothsome morsel for not a few owners in the American League. For the fall of the mighty Yankee machine has proven a turnstile lifesaver for the rest of the clubs.

The statistics which cover more than half the home games for each club, show the entire American League has gained more than 800,000 over the figures covering a corresponding period in 1958.

Five clubs are running far ahead of their 1958 pace. Three trail, but not by much and one of these is almost certain to shoot ahead. Kansas City at the moment is but a few thousand shy, but their weekend series with the Yankees after their sensational victory splurge, will see them on the right side of the ledger.

Most surprising of all, Casey Stengel's stumbling, bumbling bombers are running well ahead of schedule. Exactly a year ago, the Yanks were holding a lead of fifteen lengths over their nearest competitor and their won-lost record showed them to be thirty-two games above the .500 mark. Now they are one game under that figure and struggling fiercely to get back into the first division.

Yet for all their magnificent start in 1958, the Yanks' attendance in their first thirty-six home dates totalled 728,778. The corresponding figure for this season reads 931,709. Who says perfection pays?

The most amazing gain of all is that of Cleveland's surprising Indians who have more than doubled their 1958 home attendance. Thirty-six home dates last year garnered a paltry 365,948. This year to date, 795,904.

The White Sox, thanks to being at the top of the heap or thereabouts, instead of trailing by more than seventeen lengths as they did a year ago, are running more than 150,000 ahead of last season. The enterprising Bill Veeck is entitled to a bow here.

The Orioles under Paul Richards' skilful handling have kept themselves in the running and are more than 75,000 ahead of last year. Even Cookie Lavagetto's Senators, though they'll eventually settle for seventh place, are up more than 100,000.

The Tigers still trail, which is understandable, considering their 2-15 start. But the 125,000 or so they drew with the Yankees recently helped. And if Jimmy Dykes can get his hired hands to do as well against the rest of the league as they do against the Yanks, the Bengals will certainly show a gain. Detroit is still just about the best baseball town in the land. Give the folks down that way a sniff of the first division and they'll knock the turnstiles down.

Even Boston with its tail-end Red Sox is putting on a surprising display of civic pride. For their first forty-six home dates the Bosox are less than 20,000 off their 1958 figure. Not bad considering that a year ago they were running second, though scarcely any closer to the top than they are at present.

So Casey and his skidding Bombers, if they care to take an altruistic view of the situation, should not feel too badly over what has happened to them. They may be running a lousy race, but it has been a godsend to the rest of the league. Even the fans in New York seem to like it this way.

Certain it is, that were there another Yankee runaway in progress, there'd be seven clubs in the American League right now ready to join up with the new circuit wherever it stakes itself.

For all that, in happier seasons, the approach of August was a time for the Yankees to figure how many victories they'd need to clinch the American League pennant. Now the figures tell a depressing tale.

Thursday night records show the Yankees winning 48 and losing 51 with 55 games to play. Chicago had won 58, lost 40 with 56 to play and Cleveland won 52 lost 42 with 54 to play.

To finish with ninety victories the Chisox and Indians have to win thirty-two games apiece. The Yankees to achieve ninety would have to win forty-two, a .737 pace compared to their current .490.

Yanks Clip Country Cousins' String; Giants Hang On

Bombers Wallop Kansas 11-2 As Chisox, Tribe Keep Pace; Braves, Cards, Dodgers Win

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

The way Willie McCovey is going he should be playing for the National League in Monday's all-star game.

The six - foot - four first baseman, a .377 hitter at Phoenix in the Pacific Coast League two night's ago, followed up Thursday's sensational 4-for-4 debut with San Francisco Giants by singling home an eight - inning run that beat Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3 Friday night.

That kept the Giants in first place by a half-game. The second - place Milwaukee Braves beat St. Louis Cardinals 6-0 behind a three-hitter by Bob Buhl, who hadn't pitched a complete game since June 11. Third-place Los Angeles Dodgers, also a half-game behind, beat Philadelphia Phillies 5-4 as Don Drysdale struck out 14 and won his sixth in a row.

Cincinnati Redlegs beat Chicago Cubs 5-4.

PIRATES SINK DEEPER

The Giants twice came from behind against the Pirates, who have lost 10 of their last 11, then blew a 3-2 lead in the eighth. That's when McCovey, hitless in three trips against lefthander Harvey Haddix (7-9), hit a two-out single that scored Willie Mays.

Ed Bressound and Daryl Spencer hit solo home runs for the Giants, who had only six hits. The Bucs had seven off righthander Jack Sanford (9-9).

Buhl, whose last complete game was a five-hit shutout over the Cards, walked one man and struck out five for an 8-6 record and his third shutout.

The Braves didn't have a hit off Dean Stone (0-1) for five innings, then opened up for a five-run sixth capped by Joe Adcok's two - run homer. Hank Aaron added his 28th home run, fourth in three games, in the eighth.

RAPS BIG ONE

Los Angeles scored four in the first inning while chasing Gene Conley (9-7), then got the big run in the eighth on a homer by Norm Larker, subbing for the injured Gil Hodges.

Drysdale, (14-6) the major league strikeout leader with 173, fanned Joe Koppe for the final out after the Phils had scored once in the ninth and had the tying run on base.

The Reds came from behind, then lost a 4-2 lead on George Altman's two-run homer in the ninth before Johnny Powers' pinch-hit homer beat the Cubs with two out in the ninth. Jim Brosnan (5-5) won it in relief after Don Newcombe again gave way to a groin injury.

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Things are getting a little bit hectic in that American League pennant race. Take Cleveland. The Indians dropped out of the lead because their No. 1 relief guy, Jim Perry, failed them—but they've managed to stay close because the same relief man has won two in a row as a starting pitcher.

The lean righthander blew a 3-0 lead, but hung on for a 5-4 victory over Baltimore Friday night that left the Indians just one game back of Chicago. The White Sox kept the pressure on by beating Washington 7-1 behind the four-hit pitching of Barry Latman.

Kansas City's winning streak came to an end at 11 games as the New York Yankees walloped the third place Athletics 11-2. Boston beat Detroit 6-5.

WALK SCORES ONE

The Indians came from behind with two runs in the eighth on a bases-loaded walk and Billy Martine's sacrifice fly.

Perry (7-3), a 9-0 winner over Washington as a starter last Sunday, had lost 8-4 in relief against Boston Tuesday. He was lifted for a pinch - hitter in the eighth against losing reliever Billy Loes (4-4), and Al Cicotte pitched a hitless ninth.

The White Sox, unbeaten in their last four games and winners in eight of their last nine, put it away with three-run bursts in the second and third innings against Pete Ramos (10-13), who lost his fifth straight as the last-place Senators dropped their 13th in a row. Earl Torgeson hit his eighth homer for the Sox.

Latman, pitching because Dick Donovan was sidelined by shoulder trouble, struck out 11 and had a three-hit shutout until the eighth, when rookie Bob Allison smacked his 27th home run.

YANKEES SLUGGING

Home runs by Yogi Berra, Elston Howard and Hector Lopez powered a 13-hit barrage by the fifth-place Yankees while Don Larsen and Bobby Shantz combined for a four-hitter against the Athletics. Shantz (5-3) won it with five innings of shutout relief. Ned Garver (8-10), the stubby righthander who has beaten the Yankees only once in four years, was the loser.

An unearned run in the eighth, forced home on a walk by reliever Ray Narleski, gave Boston the decision at Detroit. The Tigers had 15 walks—nine by rookie Earl Wilson, who didn't allow a hit in his 3 2-3-inning debut as a starter — but left 15 on base. Mike Fornieles (2-2) won it in relief. Jim Bunning (9-10) was the loser, despite Tiger homers by Al Kaline, Gail Harris and Ted Lepcio.

Kingston Seeks Pro Club, Appeals to Public for Cash

KINGSTON (CP) — Kingston seemed assured of an entry in the Eastern Professional Hockey League after a second "emergency" meeting called by Mayor William T. Mills.

In a three-hour Friday night session, 17 directors who evidenced a willingness to back the new venture put up $500 each and sent in motion the machinery to incorporate a limited company with $50,000 share value.

The group decided that $25,000 in shares would have to be sold before any possibility of operating on a sound basis could be assured.

It was also agreed that a delegation of five would attend the next meeting of the league in Sudbury Aug. 5 and at that time turn over a cheque for $5,000 to the league.

One of the requirements for entry is that each club must deposit $5,000 in trust which is to be used during the season to offset league expenses and officiating fees.

Sam Pollock of Montreal, representing the league, warned the meeting that presentation of a $5,000 cheque "is not sufficient guarantee that Kingston will be accepted."

He indicated this his opinion of a sound basis was "at least $20,000 in shares."

In a move to accomplish this the group appointed an interim committee of Juan Sheridan, J. L. Edwards, J. B. Sampson, Reg Walton and Steve Amey. It was agreed that shares would be sold at $10 each.

Mayor Mills told the group that the community centre board of trustees had agreed that broadcast rights would be turned over to the local club. Earlier the board had given radio rights to station CKLC.

The group called a meeting for next Thursday night at city hall at which time the delegates attending the Sudbury meeting would report to backers of the team.

OTTAWA TO HELP

CORNWALL (CP) — Officials of Cornwall Emarts, Quebec Rugby Football Union entry, announced Friday that an affiliation has been accepted between the Cornwall intermediate club and Ottawa Rough Riders. Ottawa will supply Cornwall with a coach, practice equipment and possibly a few players.

Harness Racing Bits

By Phil Stewart

Last week holidays took us out of town and as a result this column was missing, so today we shall try to catch up on the latest racing news in the district. The big news of course is the July 18, 1959, Quinte Driving and Riding Club race meet. Although it was impossible to obtain betting privileges, and the weather was far from fine a crowd of over 500 people enjoyed eight good heats of racing as well as show classes of saddle horses and hackney ponies.

Perhaps the most remarkable race on the card was the "A" classified, which brought together a very classy field of six, including the crowd favorites, "Mr. Griff" and "Gus Scott." The first heat produced the biggest upset on the local track for many seasons as 'Tim Star,' colt owned by A. Anderson of Warkworth, charged from the field at the head of the stretch to beat "Gus Scott" with the heavily favored "Mr. Griff", a badly beaten third.

However, in the second heat it was "Mr. Griff" over "Gus Scott" in a real battle as "Tim Star" made a break going away. This heat was run in the rain and produced a funny incident on the back stretch, the second time around.

George Dolly, driving "Mr. Griff," held the lead but "Gus Scott," being driven by owner Harold Hooey, was trying to pass him when George lost his rainhat. It blew back, hitting the trotter in the face and causing him to break. "Gus" made a tremendous stretch drive but couldn't quite catch the old pacer again. "Mr. Griff's" first and third won him the beautiful "Hotel Belvedere" blanket as "Tim Star" was 4th in the second heat.

"Tim Star," by the way, raced at Woodbine Raceway last Tuesday night and was just beaten by a short nose in the closest photo finish of the season by another district owned horse, "Mrs. Saint." This roan filly, owned by Horace Dovey of Cobourg, was driven by Osler Burrison and won in the remarkable time of 2.08. This is her first year at the races.

Another local favorite, "Sharon Renown," owned by Ken Clement of Napanee, and raced by Charles Gollogy of Kingston was second in 2.10 1/5 at Woodbine the same evening.

Brick Newton drove his little chestnut "Teddy Grattan Royal" superbly to land a third in the second heat of his class. This race was won in straight heats by a grey invader from Peterborough, "Judge Miller 2nd."

R. Brown of Napanee, drove his "Smithfield Lass," a sister to Lucas' horse to a second in one of her heats.

At the time of writing the club has not set a date for our next race meet but it will likely be after the Belleville Fair.

Race fans should attend the fair races, if possible. There are two afternoons of racing with four heats each afternoon, and a number of local horses will likely start.

The next race dates in the district are Kingston on Civic Holiday afternoon with the $800 Hiram Walker 30 class Trophy Stake, and Gananoque on Saturday, August 8, 1959, with the $400 Thomas Adams Stake (also a 30 class stake.)

Peterborough fair races are Saturday, August 15, headlined by a $450 free-for-all.

Herman Lucas has his black 2-year-old by Prince McElwyn at the fair grounds giving him his early schooling. He's had him hooked and he looks like he might trot.

Bobby Hull's four-hit hurling backed by the eleven-clout bludgeoning of his mates, gave the Bobcats the first leg of the district softball league semi-finals over Cobourg here last night. The score was 6-3.

The teams play the second game in Cobourg Tuesday night and the third here next Friday.

Actually the Cats should be given assists on all three Cobourg counters since their three errors directly contributed to all the visitors' runs.

Hull was never in actual danger although he struck out but four enemy batters. He walked four and was given fine infield support. He scattered the four hits over as many innings.

"Iron Man" Roly Campbell again essayed the mound duty while injured mound-mate "Sleepy" Dawe watched from the bench. Campbell clustered the Bobcat clouts in two innings, th first and the seventh, when the city sluggers scored three runs in each of the frames. He whiffed four and issued two walks.

The Cats started shakily afield in the first innings, when Hart singled, went to second on a passed ball, and third on the first Cat bobble. He scored when Hull fumbled Campbell's bid for an infield hit.

Cobourg put a runner aboard in the fourth with one out when McGahan hit safely. He was wild-pitched to third, then McIvor hoisted a towering fly to left field just inside the foul line. Goegan made a last-minute dash for the ball but it bounced out of his glove for a four-base, two-run error.

After that Master Hull was in absolute control allowing but two hits over the rest of the route.

The Cats pounced on Campbell in the first inning, singles by Crawford, Hayden and Goegan aided by a Cobourg bobble giving them a three-run lead.

Campbell settled away and three-hitted them until the seventh when they broke out in a rash of four clouts. Crawford doubled to start it and two men went down on infield hits. Back-to-back singles by Hayden, Goegan and Lamirande sent three clincher runs across the plate and that was the scoring for the evening.

Denny Hayden was the big gun for the Cats at the plate driving out three singles. Crawford had a double and a single and Lamirande and Goegan two singles each. Faulkner was good for a double and Dick Clapp the youthful catcher came through with a single.

"Wiener" Brown's back-to-the-ball snare of a foul well out of fair territory in the ninth was one of the fielding gems of the game.

Cobourg — O'Brian, B. Hart, Turpin, Campbell, McGahan, Clarey, McIvor, Harnden, J. Hart.

Bobcats — Crawford, Brown, Faulkner, Hull, Hayden, Goegan, Lamirande, Smrke, Clapp.

The score:

Cobourg	100 200 000—3	4	1
Bobcats	300 000 30x—6	11	3

Campbell and McIvor; Hull and Clapp.

Umpires—Ethier (p), Whalen, Bertram.

Casey Likes Chisox Over Cleveland

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Casey Stengel, manager of the fading world champion New York Yankees, gave a nod Friday to Chicago White Sox in their battle with Cleveland Indians for first place in the American League.

"What can the Sox do? They have a better defence. They can throw. They can run. They have good pitching," he said. "That's four things they can do well.

"Now, how about the Indians? They have power. Their pitching isn't too bad. But outside of Woody Held at short they can't compare with the Sox on defence. They can't run with them either."

Aussies Take 2-0 Lead Over Cubans

By GEORGE FRAKOR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Australia counted today on a new and relatively untried doubles team to wrap up the Davis Cup American-zone championship.

The powerful Australian tennis team took a 2-0 lead over Cuba Friday in the best of five ties being played here when Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson easily took their singles matches from Reynaldo and Orlando Garrio.

Emerson knocked off the chunky, 24-year-old Reynaldo 6-0, 6-4, 6-4 and Fraser beat 28-year-old Orlando 6-1, 7-5, 6-3.

After the win Australian captain Harry Hopman picked Emerson and Rod (Rocket) Laver to play the Garrio Brothers in double.

If the Australians win, and they are lop-sided favorites, they will leave immediately after Sunday's closing singles matches for Germantown, Pa., to play Italy, European zone champions.

Emerson impressed Hopman tremendously Friday in earning his sixth victory for Australia in three cup-tie.

The grass courts of Mount Royal Tennis Club here, soggy from a pre-match downpour and rough after two weeks of play and practice, were slow and soft.

HOPMAN HOPEFUL

Hopman said after the match if Australia reached the Davis Cup challenge round, the chances are good Australia will win it.

He said he expects Australia's next tie against Italy next weekend will be very difficult.

"If we survive that one, our chances are good," he said "Olmedo (Alex Olmedo of the United States) is the main threat."

TRY TWO MORE QBs

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughrider have acquired two more quarterbacks to compete against three already in camp. The newcomers to the Western Interprovincial Football Union club are Bob Webb, 21, from mbrose College in Indiana and George Sekul, who has been trying out with Hamilton Tiger-Cats. He's from Mississippi Southern.

'Hardboiled' Punch Misfires, Misses Pat, Maxwell Flat

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Meanwhile the current champ one Pat O'Connor wears a broad smile on that New Zealand-Irish kisser of his, while Bert Maxwell a referee, it is charged, sports a bruise on his.

There is no physical resemblance between the good-natured Irish mug of O'Connor and the heavily jowled chops of Maxwell but Hardboiled couldn't distinguish between the two. At least that isn't what Maxwell thought.

Hardboiled is so ornery that he regards favor as an insult. All during the main bout Maxwell was giving him involuntary, or were they, assists, by allowing him to tug out the Irish hair by the roots, and preventing an Irish fist from crashing his jaw.

So what did he do?

He repaid kindness with cussedness. Once he lowered the boom on Maxwell and Maxwell lowered himself to the floor. What Maxwell did not know that the driving force behind that mighty shove was one Pat O'Connor.

For Hardboiled, it appeared, suddenly charged Maxwell and the plump roly-poly official nearly rocked himself to sleep on the canvas. He arose and told Hardboiled off in no uncertain terms while O'Connor nearly choked with laughter.

Now Maxwell is a forgiving bloke up to a point. But a pachyderm can stretch his good nature too far. He doesn't mind helping out a poor wrestler who is taking on a mighty world champion, but he doesn't relish having the hand that feeds the underdog, bitten. He didn't care so much when Hardboiled took a couple of healthy toothy nips at the Irish chops, but when he didn't show any appreciation, that was too much.

Besides this O'Connor is nobody's fool. He uses his head as well as the rest of his body. It seems he could see that Maxwell was becoming irate at the Haggerty tactics so he arranged a quick coup d'etat.

He took the eye-massaging via the paper-cup method of Hardboiled with less displeasure than usual, slowly manoeuvring him into a punching mood. He backed the Hag into a corner and started slugging. Haggerty slugged back one, twice. Then O'Connor ducked. Now how did he know Maxwel stood directly behind him?

The Haggerty fist caught Maxwell flush on the button and he went down like a pole-axed steer. But he was so mad he refused to stay down. He bounced to his feet, and immediately awarded O'Connor the fall and match. Previously each had won a fall.

Bill Steamboat from Honolulu, one of the best young wrestlers to show his wares here gave a beautiful performance in winning over Jack Laskin. It was clean agile wrestling, nice to watch. They can bring back young Steamboat any time.

Vancouver's Allan Kennedy Wins Canadian Junior Title

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian junior golf championship, based on a tournament more broadly competitive nationally for the first time, rested today in the capable golfing hand of 18-year-old Allan Kennedy of Vancouver.

Kennedy climaxed his steady performance in Friday's 36-hole final by squelching Gordon LeRiche, 16, of Montreal 8 and 6.

Kennedy was three up at the morning turn and had a comfortable four-hole lead at the lunch break. It was never lowered.

Kennedy's big win in earlier rounds came in Thursday's semi-final when he knocked off Bobby Panasiuk, the defending champion from Windsor. It was a one-up win for Kennedy.

In the first round he won 5 and 3 over Stan Clarke of Montreal. He moved through the second round by the same margin over John Kindred of Peterborough and in the quarter-final defeated George Stoakes of St. Catharines 2 and 1.

Barber Leads Pro Tourney

The 43-year-old Los Angeles veteran shot a second round of 65, five under par and two under Souchak's 67. They each shot 69s on the first round.

—Thus after 36 holes it was Barber 134 and Souchak 136.

Detroit, St. Kitts Favored In Royal Canadian Henley

PORT DALHOUSIE (CP)—Detroit Boat Club and St. Catharines Rowing Club hit the water in today's final-day races as favorites for the Royal Canadian Henley regatta points championship.

In Friday's third-day standings, the host club led Detroit, defending champions, by 217 points to 159. Today's 16 finals were all senior events and the advantage was with the American club's superior crews.

The two rivals dominated Friday's events, with Detroit topping off four earlier wins with a victory in the quarter-mile dash for eights.

The American crew was timed at 1:18.4. New York Athletic was a close second and St. Catharines third.

Regatta history was made when St. Catharines took the junior eights, giving the club victories in all four junior eights races. It was the first time one club has won all four events in the Henley's 77-year history.

Timed at 6:41.1, the young crew beat a Vancouver eight without any trouble. Earlier, St. Catharines won the junior 145-pound eights in 7:00 even after a false start.

Troubled by tricky cross winds, the Montreal Lachine shell fouled Hamilton Leanders. Lachine sprang an oarlock in the collision and the race was called back to the starting raft.

Detroit's John Welchli, 29-year-old 1956 Olympic oarsman, won the senior 155-pound singles in 8:58.4. Detroit also triumphed in the junior 135-pound fours and the senior fours with cox.

Their fifth victory came after St. Catharines withdrew a protest against them in the junior 145-pound fours with cox. Detroit had won the race with their last three strokes, crossing the line only inches ahead of St. Catharines.

The St. Catharines crew protested it had bumped Detroit several times during the race. Had the umpires decided the shells had touched while Detroit was in the wrong lane, the American crew would have been disqualified.

Tony Gray, 23-year-old Vancouver draftsman, won the association singles and a berth in today's championship singles by beating Toronto Argonauts' Jackie Pearce in 8:04.

Only scullers who have won the association event at some time could enter the championship race.

The high school fours final was won by Delta Secondary School, Hamilton, with Brockville second.

Astrological Forecast

SUNDAY, AUGUST 2

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Affairs at your own home can be ameliorated considerably if you contact a trusted personal advisor who will give right advice and tangible assistance. Steer clear of talkative individuals who only waste your time and annoy you.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—Be sure you are in the company of the most ethical and spiritual persons today. Later, take time to read worthwhile literature or study printed matter that will assist you with personal or business problems. Advance.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—Philosophy attained through the years helps greatly now in assisting others with their problematical affairs and to be of real service to your fellow man. Be as objective and practical as possible, however, for best results.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Make this a blessed Sunday by doing even more than usual for those whom you love. Later, be off to some delightful spot, smart restaurant, sport with them and have a great deal of fun. Increase harmony and love of family.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Be sure to get into the so-called Silence for awhile today so that you get inspiration on just how to increase beauty and harmony within your home. Impress everyone with your awareness of family duty. P.M. entertain and have fun.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—If you consult with intelligent advisors now that you have the free time, you will get wonderful ideas for greater success in the future. Then you find that family ties, neighbors, friends all become very co-operative and helpful, too.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Several situations come to the fore today that help in knowing how to attain greater success in the early future. However, use real diplomacy in talking things over with bigwigs for best results.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—You are able to discern very quickly today where to go for inspiration that will bring greater comfort and a new way of operating that is infinitely more efficient and remunerative. Become a respected leader of others.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Follow your hunches now to know how better to proceed with your activities in the future. You will hit upon a more ethical and easy way of operating that will bring in a greater income, more harmony and beauty in your life.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Fine day to come to greater understanding with mate or associate by being sincerely interested in his, or her side of things and help correlate your efforts. Also, listen to advice of good friends who know what they are talking about.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—A day to be of real inspiration to others. Let your light so shine that whoever comes within your orbit cannot help but be uplifted. You can truly change the life of one very depressed right now. Do it!

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Many fine inspirational thoughts come to you from the ether today, so that you hardly know which to put into operation first. So long as you truly act upon them, it matters not which you concentrate upon. P.M. good for romance, fun.

If Your Child Is Born Today—The dutiful child born today will prove a boon to you as parents very early in life if you teach the finest spiritual laws as soon as he, or she, is able to understand them. This will also lead to early success in the mercantile world or in the field of art. Give as fine as possible an education in practical fields, and be very generous with your love and devotion which your progeny must have for full development of talents.

MONDAY, AUGUST 3

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — A situation concerning someone else has you quite at your wit's end, but take care you do not change conditions radically at this time, for they will not prove successful. Attend to matters of credit, instead, which are important now.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — A situation at home needs your undivided attention and diplomacy now. Don't depend on an associate who cannot give the right advice, since all facts are not known to him, or her. Be careful and follow own good ideas.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — A day for real caution while out driving or walking so that you avoid an accident that could be very limiting. Later, opportunity will be yours to help effect better understanding between a close tie and one in the outside world.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — Take care you do not expend hard-earned savings in your quest for a truly enjoyable time. Security is far more important at this time, and pleasure contemplated is only ephemeral. Inexpensive pleasures are far better now. Be wise.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Here is one day when it would be wise to prove to family ties that you are a devoted member in good standing. Give them the benefit of your wisdom in all problems, especially where property is concerned. Relegate personal affairs to background.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Don't let that secret worry keep you inactive today. Get busy on duties such as shopping, purchases, sales, matters concerning family ties — whichever are most pressing. Set up new systems that bring real efficiency and satisfaction.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Good day to recognize your true friends and stop dwelling on the simply mundane and practical affairs. Be of real assistance to them without letting it involve too great expense.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Control that urge to give an influential person a piece of your mind today, or one who can harm you where personal interests are concerned. Continue to labor diligently at own duties and impress everyone with your efficiency.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—You are apt to make some serious mistakes today if you do not take a lighter attitude of things. Be grateful for your blessings, or find amusement in your daily living. Be ethical with that private supporter, too.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Provided you do not show tendencies of extravagance, that clever and straightforward friend you have will back you to the hilt now. Be sure you get credit rating higher and that insurance matters are in order.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—A far-seeing associate who nonetheless paints too rosy a picture could now run headlong into trouble with influential party who does not like to be opposed and is always on the cautious side. Avoid getting involved in this.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Here is a day when you can finish regular duties early so that you have free time for new interests, meeting interesting people of varied experience and background. Learn from them. P.M. get studying, reading, writing done, too.

If your child is born today . . . The interesting youngster born today is the type who early shows a definite altruistic and philanthropic bent, but soon learns how to turn this into a means for self-gain and enjoyment. So it becomes your duty to early give the right training that will bring about a nice balance of things. This bright-faced child can then be very successful, especially in fields where he, or she, will be before the public.

CLASH IN VIENNA

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Scores of Communist youths clashed with Austrian plainclothes police Wednesday night in the wildest street fighting thus far in the Communist - sponsored World Youth Festival. The festival has been marked by fist and verbal battles between Communist and anti-Communist delegates.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Opportunity to express your creati[illegible] talents presents itself, but y[illegible] must be able to utilize it wisely to get material gain. Later, entertain or be entertained, but be sure you do not spend too much money. Be devoted.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)— You have a chance now to show a truly co-operative spirit toward family ties and come to better understanding. Listen to their side of things. P.M. do whatever is necessary to make surroundings more charming and comfortable.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — By being particularly careful while driving your car or while you can avoid a serious mishap possible otherwise. Good day to get together with associates and coming to better meeting of minds. Co-operate.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Be sure to be alert to any good chances that come your way to add to your abundance, even though several troubling situations arise to get you somewhat off balance. Also, look into methods that help you to advance more quickly.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Deep introspection today is fine since you are cognizant of what you want in the way of friendships and business associates. This enables you to take steps to obtain what you desire. However, look to unusual circumstances for important contact.

Virgo (Aug 22 to Sept. 22) — Through concentration you can now realize greater abundance by giving less attention to the unimportant things and dwelling on the truly important. Also, give an ear to kind suggestions of close friends for greater expansion.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Look to dynamic though rather noisy friends today for better means of expansion. Step out socially, too, and you gain much knowledge that will prove lucrative in the future.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Be as practical as you can right now. Put aside own ideas and listen carefully to experts and executives from whom you can learn how to be more productive and gain greater abundance. P.M. take beauty or health treatments needed.

Saggittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — There is something novel, interesting and lucrative in the offering today, so you had better get important routine duties accomplished early that you may not miss out on it. Be sure you think constructively with regard to this.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)— Look far into the future with regard to not only business affairs, but social activities and personal relationships. Widen your vision and horizons and you can have great success instead of a relatively small one in life.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)— Here is one day when your activities are very practical and serenely orderly, but those around you are apt to act quite imaginatively instead. Don't let this upset you. Adjust yourself to novelty and work harmoniously together.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Fine day for putting all your fine ingenuity to work so that you get duties done in jig time, and you also have an opportunity to use good psychology that will prevent arguments, particularly among fellow workers. Fine day for you.

If your child is born today . . .

The wonderful child born today will be a pioneer and undoubtedly show the world how to make an even better mousetrap, to use an old saw. Hence, it is important you give the most thorough and general educational background so that a firm foundation is started. Also, early teach the principles of ethics and religion. Any field of endeavor is fine where there is opportunity for experimentation.

Stirling

STIRLING — On Saturday, while driving near Papineau Lake, Mr. Ray Poste had a narrow escape when a large tree fell across his car and wrecked the front of the vehicle.

Members of the local I.O.D.E. held a party at the Spry Cottage, Oak Lake, in honor of Mrs. Don Francis, who is leaving the village. She was the recipient of a gift of remembrance from the chapter members.

Born at the General Hospital, Belleville, on Wednesday, July 29, 1959, to Mr. and Mrs. David Little, Stirling, R.R. 4, a son, a brother for Joyce.

Mrs. John L. Good and her daughter, Miss Janet Ann Good, have returned home from a delightful holiday at Lake Simcoe. Mrs. Good paid a visit to the I.O.O.F. home at Barrie, where some 55 senior members of the Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges are enjoying a home and care. A registered nurse is on duty all the time.

The grounds are spacious and shaded while the building, itself, has lovely picture windows and the older people are most comfortable in their declining years. There is still much equipment needed to furnish the recreation rooms and other parts of the building. The various lodges have been asked to make donations to the worthy cause.

Mrs. Good made special visits to see two women there who are friends of Laurel Rebekah members in Stirling. Another inmate is a past assembly president and is spending her last days in this institution where every care is given.

Some are confined to hospital beds, while others are able to stroll about the grounds, or join in quiet games of cards or other amusements.

The home at Barrie has recently been renovated and several lodge members have already called there while holidaying in that ara.

Frankford

FRANKFORD — Mrs. Emma Clark of Belleville, Mr. Denton Spencer, Mr. John Kay, Miss Barbara Court, Miss Betty Westbrook and Miss Marilyn Spencer, all of Toronto, were weekend guests with Mr. and Mrs. George Spencer.

Mrs. Gordon Pierce, Mrs. Austin Watson, Mrs. Len Reilly, Mrs. Gordon Grant, Miss Marjorie Forbes and Mrs. Mary Patrick attended the annual W.M.C. day at Cobourg Camp, on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Spencer spent Wednesday in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Smith are spending this week at Cobourg Camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Helm and son Ronnie, of Bancroft, spent a few days this week in the village.

Transplanted 'Springhillers' Find Happy Homes and Jobs In Other Parts of Country

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

"Why go back and live on scenery?" queries former Springhill, N.S., coal miner Tom McManaman who now has a job in Calgary.

The question sums up the attitude of many of the miners who left the small Nova Scotia town last year to seek work elsewhere after 75 of their mates died as the result of an underground upheaval Oct. 23 at the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company's No. 2 mine.

The exodus from the town of 6,500 started just after the disaster when the mine was closed down. Many of the men turned their backs on mining for good.

One hundred and seventy-four men were trapped in the depths of the mine. The same day of the "bump", 81 reached the surface. Six days later 12 survivor were brought up. After another seven days seven more miners were found alive. One man died from his injuries a month after the disaster.

85 FAMILIES MOVE

Mayor Ralph Gilroy of Springhill said 85 families have moved from the town since mining operations were abandoned. He said many had to sell their homes at low prices, taking heavy losses. Unless conditions improve, he said, many more families will seek employment elsewhere this winter.

Adopted by the city of Calgary, Mr. McManaman, father of three, says he doesn't intend returning to Nova Scotia.

"To go back to nothing seems so silly," he said, commenting on the decision of another former Springhill miner, Ken Smith, to move his family from Brandon, Man., back to Springhill because it is "home."

Mrs. Ivan McCormick, whose husband lost his father, a brother and two cousins in the disaster, says her family is happy in Flin Flon, Man.

"Ever since I can remember at Springhill, our lives were geared to the danger of the mines," she said. "We were never sure the men would come home after a shift. There were always injuries—every day—and it was exhausting work.

"It's a much happier life here for all of us. We don't have to have the constant fear of trouble in the pits. And when our men come home from shift here they still have the energy to take part in community life."

Mrs. McCormick's 36-year-old husband, who has spent 13 years as a coal miner, has a job with the Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company Limited. The McCormick's have five children.

FEEL SAFER

More than 12 former Springhill miners work in Flin Flon. They say they feel a lot safer there than they did at Springhill.

Ed McCormick, 31, Ivan's brother, who found 52 men entombed in a mine during an earlier Springhill disaster in 1956, is still looking for work at Flin Flon.

In the 1956 disaster the 52 men were saved. The mine was closed, however, with 39 known dead. Another survivor of the 1956 bump Fred Bagniski, is working underground, at Flin Flon.

Neil McKinnon, Mrs. McCormick's brother, has a security guard job with the Hudson Bay company. He works with fellow Springhill miner Len Osmond, father of three. Mr. McKinnon's younger brother, Bob, works in the company's paint shop

Ron Atkinson, father of three, is in the power department and Tom and Hazel Barrow and their two children, and Rod Chell, his wife and four children, are working at the company's Snow Lake, Man., properties.

Jim Chell, Rod's father, who was an official at the Springhill mine for many years, is caretaker of a Flin Flon school. Bob Cudhea, a former miner, is doing odd jobs around the town. Mrs. Alex McNeil, whose husband died of a heart attack in the mine, works in the Hudson Bay company's dormitories.

Miner Doug Ross not only found work in Flin Flon, but also found a wife.

Arthur Rector, now a Kitchener, Ont., truck loader, has no qualms about leaving the mines.

"No sir, the man with the black cloak doesn't usually give you a second chance," he said. "I made my mind up while down in the mine if I ever got on top again I'd stay there."

Mr. Rector, who has two daughters, added: "I could make $20 a day in the mines. Now though, I'm on top of the ground and I feel a lot safer."

Leonard Boss also went to Kitchener on the advice of a Springhill friend, but returned to Nova Scotia with his wife and two children when his parents became ill.

They're homesick sometimes, but three miners who settled in Montreal don't think they'll ever go back—except for visits. Ken Murray, 32, Stan Pashkoski, 31, and Ralph Henwood, 36, are employed by a Montreal oil refinery.

RETURNED HOME

"It's always difficult to leave home," Mr. Murray said. "I'll get over it, I guess but it sort of frightens me to think about bringing up a child in the traffic and noise of the city."

Ken Smith, 34, who took his wife and 13 - year - old son to Brandon, Man., after the disaster, has returned to Springhill because it is "home." He said they will never want to move again. He had not lined up a Springhill job, and said: "I suppose it's a gamble. Many things are a gamble."

His wife, Renovia, said the decision to go home was unanimous. "There was no coaxing on either side. We both wanted to go home."

Gerry Boss, a miner who helped in rescue operations last year, moved to Moncton, N.B., where he has a job as a city workman. He played hockey last season with Moncton Hawks of the North Shore Hockey League, and is playing softball this summer. He and his family still make frequent trips to Springhill, about 60 miles from Moncton.

Murray Cottenden, an office employee with Cumberland Railway and Coal Company, has been transferred to the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation's Sydney, N.S., office. A few other disaster survivors have found work in the Cape Breton coal fields, but there is little work there for the Cape Breton miners let alone the Springhill men.

Herb McLeod, who worked in the mines after he returned from the United States where he played professional baseball for several seasons, is coaching baseball in Sackville, N.B., about 30 miles from Springhill. He also makes many trips home and probably will return after the baseball season.

FAMED DRAEGERMAN

Allie Maddison, one of Springhill's famed draegermen, is also playing baseball in Sackville, but will return home after the season unless he can find full-time employment.

Allison Hollis operates a car agency in Moncton and many of his fellow Springhillers have found work with him. A group of former miners were employed by the Fairey Aviation Company at Dartmouth, N.S., but were laid off during the spring. The men will get their jobs back if employment conditions improve.

Springhillers hope to find work when a federal prison farm opens in the area soon. A U.S storage battery firm is reported considering plans to open a branch plant that would employ about 80. The only other probable source of work in sight is a woodworking plant that would employ 15 to 20 workers.

Ivanhoe

IVANHOE — Mrs. Thomas Rollins, Belleville; Mrs. Don Fargey and Carol of Stirling, visited Mrs. John Wright on Monday.

Recent visitors at the same home were: Nancy and Janet Wright, of Bloomfield and Judith Oddie of Campbellford.

Miss Susan McMaster entertained 17 young friends on Tuesday afternoon. This was the happy occasion of her 4th birthday. Games were enjoyed and delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. McMaster, assisted by Mrs. Malcolm MacMillan, and Mrs. William Rollins.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

A Man Nearing Retirement Speaks His Mind in No Uncertain Terms

By THOMAS COLLINS

Here are the confessions of a 64½-year-old businessman.

He works for a large company, has a good job. He sums up the drama of retirement — which he must accept next February 1 — with some sentiments that may interest you.

"I believe that retirement can bring you the unfettered chance to do the most satisfying work of your life, and thus the Golden Years of life," he says. "I believe age 65 is too old for it. The spirit has lost its fizz. Age 60 would not be bad. Age 55 would be better. Best of all would be for a man to retire at 46, chase the moonbeams for 10 years, then come back to work until he drops . . .

"I believe that the pension systems of many large companies are not good. I don't know this is true — I just believe it. I do know that in my case I would have gotten about a fourth of my $280 pension if I had retired at 55; 49 per cent of it if I had retired at 60. The big build-up on the pension is between 60 and 65. Why? The system was figured out by the pension company and the bosses of my company, not by me. So, presumably it was figured out for their benefit. Where is their benefit? Is it in keeping me glued to my job between 55 and 65? If not, why wasn't the system set up so that from age 38 on (when I went to work for the company) I would have had a uniform increase in the pension every year . . . and thus been able to decide for myself when to retire? . . .

"I believe that any company which makes it profitable for an employee to stay on to age 65, but which insists that the employee retire at 65, is stupid. Any employee with the sense not to put a penny in the fuse box has the sense to start goofing things off about age 63. Not flagrantly, where it could be detected and corrected, but in a hundred little ways that hurt the company . . .

"I believe that pension benefits may be the greatest political hay since George Washington, because the politician who increases these benefits pleases not only the old people but also the children who have to help support them. I think that Old Dr. Ham-and-Eggs Townsend who once proposed that everybody past 65 get $200 a month will soon look like a piker . . .

"And I believe that medical care will likewise go the way of all flesh . . . that after a couple of years of the nation gnashing its teeth over the issues it will start giving unlimited medical care to everybody past 65. And, oddly, enough, I think the government's foreign aid program will bring it about. If the government can donate money to teach some fellow in Iraq how to weave baskets it will soon decide it can donate money to keep alive—and free from pain — the fellow in Pennsylvania who made the steel that built the bridges across the Mississippi River. Or so I believe . . .

"OUR FAILURE"

"I believe that my generation — those of us now in our 60's — has created the greatest scientific marvels of all times ,and has made the greatest failure in human relations of all times. Our generation has had two world wars and communism. And we have produced a generation of children who don't think much of us. They are nice to us, as convention and the magazines say they should be. But they don't think much of us . . . in a measure beyond what you will find in the history books. I believe this is our failure, not theirs . . .

"I believe that the whole concept of retirement is fallacious. The idea that a man should lay aside his labors at 65, find a pleasant temperature, and rest sound like something that came out of the skyscraper office of an insurance company. If the idea were right, I believe God would smite us dead at age 65 and see that we got carted off to the cemetery, where we would get some warm, uninterrupted rest . . ."

Kept All-Night Vigil Outside Catholic Home

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte was still camped outside the Sacred Heart Children's Village today following an all-night vigil.

She slept Monday night on a stretcher outside the Roman Catholic home in suburban Scarborough where Bruce Wilkins, 6, is being kept.

Mrs. Whyte took up her vigil after a meeting Monday night of parents of the children taken from her farm home.

"Our babies have been stolen," "Democracy or bureaucracy," "What are Protestant children doing in a Catholic home?"

The children were seized by welfare workers amid charges of disease and overcrowding. They are being housed in several children's aid society shelters. Some are in hospitals.

MOTHERS PROTEST

The mothers are also circulating a petition to be presented to both the provincial and federal governments protesting the welfare department's action and complaining about Protestant children in Catholic homes.

Fingering a well - worn Bible, Mrs. Whyte vowed to remain on guard until the boy was returned to her. She said she had cared for Bruce for five years and had planned to adopt him.

Earlier she had attended the parents' meeting, where mothers sobbed and others swayed to the words: "Bring back, bring back, oh bring back Mom's children again."

WON'T GIVE UP

"I will stay here until I get Brucie. You know, it's almost unbelievable. I can't even get in to see the children. It's like something you read about going on in Russia or East Germany."

Mrs. Whyte's companion during the night was Mrs. James Spiers of Winnipeg, wife of a minister of the Independent Pentecostal Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Spiers answered an appeal to help nurse children at Whytehaven last week after outbreaks of hepatitis and influenza affected many youngsters.

It was this health situation which prompted provincial authorities to step in and remove the children. A number of them were placed in the Roman Catholic orphanage where Mrs. Whyte was maintaining her vigil.

TO LEAD DELEGATES

Mr. and Mrs. Spiers were to lead the delegation to Queen's Park today if Mrs. Whyte was still at the shelter.

Mr. Spiers was en route from

Queen Resting At Palace After Long Tour

LONDON (CP) — The Queen, pale and drawn after her 15,000-mile Canadian tour, rested quietly at Buckingham Palace today but apparently was considered fit to go on with a scheduled tour next week of the remote Orkney Islands.

There were suggestions the Queen and Prince Philip should call off their scheduled tour of the Orkney and Shetland Islands. They are due there next Monday.

Court circles indicated there would be no change in the plans. The rest of this week for the Queen was free of public engagements, with a medical examination described by palace officials as routine after an overseas tour.

Several newspapers remarked on her pale and tired appearance when she arrived at London airport after the 45-day Canadian tour.

The Daily Herald, a persistent critic of her busy Canadian itinerary, publishes a picture on its front page, under the caption "Never Again," in which the signs of strain on her face are clearly reinforced by the retoucher's air-brush.

An accompanying editorial says the picture "sums up the most exhausting tour any British monarch has been required to undertake" and demands that "such whistle - stop tours must never be allowed to happen again."

"Nobody — Queen or commoner"—should have to endure such an ordeal.

OTHER COMMENTS

The News Chronicle says the cheers at the airport were "restrained but affectionate." The Queen's mood appeared to be relaxed.

The Times reports that the Queen "looked brown and well."

The Scotsman of Edinburgh said that the tour showed there are limits to her endurance and commented that "the Queen may be the prisoner of her own popularity."

It praised the appointment of Maj.-Gen. George Vanier to succeed Vincent Massey as Governor - General as a "welcome token" of the fact that "Canadian nationalism contrives to combine two loyalties — that of the Canadians of British descent and that of the French Canadians."

Five Belleville Persons Injured

Mrs. Reeve's two sisters, Marie Chisholm, 14, suffered head injuries, and Valerie, 13, bruises and cuts.

WEEKEND RAINS PULL TEETH FROM FOREST FIRES

Evacuated People Return to Homes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Weekend rains pulled the teeth from forest fires in Newfoundland and Quebec province and nearly 1,000 people evacuated from threatened villages are moving back to their homes.

But a new fire burned intensely in a 23,000-cord pile of pulpwood at a paper mill in Desbiens, Que., about 140 miles north of Quebec City.

In Newfoundland 345 people—mostly children—were taken out of Baie Verte by ship Saturday when it appeared the tiny northeast coast village would be destroyed.

RAIN STOPS EVACUATION

The children were at sea aboard the coastal steamer Nonia when the wind changed and rain began to fall, making rescue unnecessary for the rest of the community's 900 people.

Most of the children were under five years of age, and Red Cross and Salvation Army workers frantically sought accommodation for them in Botwood, a northeast coast newsprint shipping port, and Grand Falls, a paper - making town about 20 miles inland.

The first shipload of 150 children returned home aboard the Nonia, and the rest were to make the return trip today.

QUEBEC FIRES

In Quebec's Gaspe Peninsula, where 95 square miles of spruce, pine and cedar were destroyed, not all of the more than 600 people who fled had homes to return to.

The worst of a series of fires in the Gaspe interior was centered near St. Bernard des Lacs, 350 miles northeast of Quebec City.

Eight homes were destroyed in St. Bernard and 12 others in neighboring St. Joseph des Monts, leaving 84 people homeless. Two other communities were threatened.

But the 900 men fighting the flames followed up an advantage provided by several days of low winds capped by fairly heavy weekend rains and the fires were considered under control Sunday.

The pulpwood fire at Desbiens on the shore of Lake St. John was believed to have smouldered in the heart of the mountain of wood for two weeks before Monday's outbreak.

UNBEARABLE HEAT

Eyewitnesses said the pile erupted "like a volcano" and the heat was "unbearable even from several hundred feet away." Seven firefighters received minor injuries.

A spokesman for St. Raymond Paper Incorporated said the fire would probably burn for eight days despite the tons of water poured upon it.

The pile burning out of control was valued at $700,000. Firemen concentrated their efforts on saving a smaller pile nearby valued at $500,000.

Living Costs Held Steady in June, Gas, Car Prices Offset Increases

The consumer price index remained unchanged at 125.9 between June 1 and July, the bureau of statistics reported today. That level was one per cent above the mark of 124.7 on July 1 last year. The index is based on 1949 prices equalling 100.

There were price increases in June for food, shelter, clothing and household operations, including potatoes and grapefruit, rents, home ownership costs, men's suits and coats, children's shoes, and a variety of household items including utensils, household help, domestic gas and electricity.

However, there was relief for wages paid. the Canadian consumer in the section of his budget devoted to miscellaneous goods and services. The gasoline war in many parts of Canada brought further sharp declines in gasoline prices, and there were also seasonally lower prices for new passenger cars.

Wage figures showed an upward tendency in May. The index of average industrial wages and salaries at June 1—latest date for which figures are available—was 171.9, based on 1949 equalling 100. This was up from 170.5 on May 1 and 164.7 on June 1 last year.

This wages index, computed from a survey of firms employing more than 15 persons and covering a wide range of industries, represents an average of total

Crowds of Jubilant Poles Give Nixon Hearty Welcome

Bouquets sailed through the air, thrown by enthusiastic Poles unable to get close enough to Nixon and his wife to present the flowers in person.

On each occasion the crowd numbered only about 2,000 but, packed into the narrow streets of Warsaw's historic old town, the demonstrators rivalled the enthusiasm of the mass welcome which greeted the Nixons when they arrived Sunday from Moscow.

The first outburst came as Nixon visited the old town's cathedral. The demonstration broke out afresh shortly afterward when Nixon moved on to Warsaw University.

Clapping started at the cathedral door as Nixon came out into the narrow rebuilt street after viewing a mediaeval crucifix.

The crowd outside took it up and a roar of cheering echoed against the quaint houses that have been reproduced in old style following wartime destruction.

Nixon received one bouquet personally from a little boy on his mother's arm. Waving it in the air and smiling, he called out in Polish: "Long live Polish-American friendship."

The clapping and cheering grew. People crowded in doorways and windows to catch a glimpse of the party.

Thousands more were held back by police in neighboring streets and squares.

Nixon began the day's program with a visit to the scene of the Naszi' sternest oppression of Polish Jews, the Warsaw ghetto, and paid tribute there to the thousands who died when the Nazis razed the area.

Queen and Philip Enjoy Gay Reunion With Children

HALIFAX (CP)—In a kaleidoscope of nautical spectacle and regal splendor, the Royal Tour drew to a colorful close here Saturday.

The Queen, a pretty picture in blue, her brown eyes glistening with tears of nostalgia, boarded a jet Comet at nearby Shearwater air port for the fast flight to England.

The final formal event of the 45-day tour was a state dinner given by the governments of Canada and Nova Scotia at which Elizabeth said the "warm-hearted welcome and friendliness" of the millions of Canadians who saw her was her most vivid recollection.

She described the 16,000-mile trip across the country and back as "six strenuous but intensely interesting weeks." It had given her and Prince Philip "much personal pleasure" and was a "wonderful experience.

". . . I hope that many of you have felt something of the excitement and wonder of a great nation showing its unity and strength."

The final day of what Prime Minister Diefenbaker described as "sometimes too arduous an ordeal" was as much an event for all Canadians as for this old seaport.

Its most important event of national significance was the Queen's approval of the government's choice of Maj. - Gen. George Vanier as Governor-General to succeed Vincent Massey.

Later, she presided at a meeting of her ministers, the Privy Council of Canada.

The day reached its most spectacular peak at Citadel Hill where, with the Prince in the uniform of admiral of the fleet, she presented her new color to the Royal Canadian Navy.

The glamor that most people associate with royalty was in full glow at the state dinner where the Queen wore a magnificent pale grey silk evening dress, a glittering diamond tiara, flashing diamond bracelet, necklace and earrings and the garter ribbon and star.

The tour wound up with a dramatic trip through the water of Halifax harbor aboard the Royal Barge between rows of floodlighted warships — 13 on either side—from the dockyard to the wharf at Shearwater airport.

The smart-looking crews gave the royal couple a farewell cheer and then broke out the rum to toast the Queen after she had sent them a message of congratulations and ordered them to splice the mainbrace.

It was at the airport that members of the national press party who had followed her throughout the tour spoke to her and noticed the tears in her eyes.

Hopes Canada Will Invite Mr. Khrushchev

DEEP COVE, N.S. (CP) — Cleveland industrialist Cyrus Eaton said Monday he hopes it "occurs" to Canada to invite Premier Khrushchev to visit this country when the Russian leader goes to the United States next month.

Mr. Eaton, who has advocated an exchange of visits between East and West leaders, said in an interview that Canada should ask Khrushchev here so that Canadians could meet "the most powerful man in the world."

Mr. Eaton, who met Khrushchev in Moscow last fall, said he was "very pleased" at the president's decision.

"Nothing more constructive has been done in the last 10 years. These two leaders will have a new respect for each other."

If Khrushchev came to Canada, Mr. Eaton said he would "love" to show him around his farm. The industrialist plans to invite Khrushchev to visit him in Cleveland.

In Cleveland, city hall officials were hoping secretly that Khrushchev would not come.

"Khrushchex's visit would be an awful headache for us," said one official, who asked that his name not be used. "If anything happened to him it could set off a serious international incident."

Cleveland has one of the largest concentrations of persons of Hungarian descent in the U.S., in addition to several other Eastern European nationalities.

Cigar-Smoking Rooster Lands Chicken Thief

NEUSTDAY AM RUEBENBERGE, Germany (Reuters) A cigar-smoking rooster has landed a chicken thief in jail for four weeks.

Heinrich, the rooster, was brought into court Monday to prove the chickens sold to a farmer had been stolen.

Heinrich's rightful owner, who taught him the trick, gave him a cigar, the bird puffed it appreciatively and sentence was passed.

Reuben D'Aigle, Ex-Sourdough, Dies in Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Reuben D'Aigle, 85, a Klondyke "sourdough" who struck it rich in '98 but spent most of his money prospecting in the next few decades, died Sunday at his home here.

One of Canada's best - known prospectors, Mr. D'Aigle had mapped out for his geologist son Lomer a favorable area for prospecting the day before his death.

He became known as "the Father of Labrador" because of his stakings there but he was unable to interest the financial world in his Labrador claims and lost them during the depression.

Surviving are his wife, the former Clarabel Struck; two sons, Lomer of Rouyn, Que., and Avon, of Labrador; two daughters in Toronto, and a sister, Mrs. Ernest Duffy of Belleville.

55 PERSONS DIE IN HOLIDAY ACROSS CANADA

Ontario Death Toll Claims 22 Lives

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 22 persons died accidentally in Ontario during the three-day Civic Holiday weekend, two fewer than last year's toll.

Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday shows four persons were drowned, 13 died on the province's crowded roads and three die in fires. One youth was killed in the crash of a light plane and another died when hit by a train.

The toll includes deaths through boating, swimming, traffic and other accidents connected with holiday activities.

Ontario's Civic Holiday originated in 1869 in Toronto when a deputation of citizens convinced city council the workers of the day needed a respite from midsummer's heat.

Since then the holiday has spread to the rest of Ontario and to Winnipeg, St. Boniface and Brandon, Man., and Edmonton.

CANADIAN TOTAL 55

Canada's final fatality total, as the other nine provinces celebrated normal two-day weekends, was 55. The breakdown by provinces, with traffic totals in brackets:

Prince Edward Island 1 (1); New Brunswick 2 (0); Nova Scotia 2; Quebec 11 (6); Ontario 22 (13); Manitoba 3 (3); Saskatchewan 2 (2); Alberta 4 (4); British Columbia 8 (4).

The Ontario dead:

Mrs. Mary Gaynor, 82, of Toronto, drowned Saturday after falling off a Georgian Bay pier.

John Frederick Vance, 30, Hanson, killed when his car struck the rear of a truck Saturday on the Queen Elizabeth Way.

DROWNED IN POND

Kim Preston, 6, Fonthill, drowned in David Lake near Minden Saturday.

Water Skiing Kite Caught In Downdraft

ORILLIA (CP)—James Hood, 30, of Toronto plummeted 60 feet into Lake Simcoe Monday when the water skiing kite on which he was demonstrating met a downdraft. He suffered severe leg and arm injuries.

Earlier, another member of the three-man display team, Sid McMurray, crashed from a lower height. The trio was taking part in Orillia Rotary Club's sports day.

The three hvae been water ski kiting for 10 years and none had been injured before.

Swimming Pool Owner Not Happy Over Mixed Nude Bathing Parties

DUNSTABLE, England (AP) Edwin Green threatened today to have somebody arrested if teen-aged girls and boys keep swimming naked in his pool.

The police came Monday night and snaked eight nude youths and four nearly naked girls 15 to 17 years old out of the water. The bathers got in by burrowing under a fence. Police took their names but didn't arrest them.

"I am afraid I will have to prosecute if this happens again," Green told a reporter. "That is the only way to stamp out these parties. There have been far too many of them lately."

Two of the girls had on nylon panties and another was wearing only a bra.

"It was a silly prank, but there was nothing sordid about it," said one of the swimmers, Paul Cohen, a 21-year-old student.

"The girls were at one end of the pool and the boys were at the other. It was quite dark. We couldn't see anything. Of course, there was a lot of laughing and we must have made to much noise, which resulted in the police coming."

One of the girls, aged 17 and measuring 38-23-37, said rather crossly: "I dived in wearing my bra and panties. The water pulled off my panties and it took half an hour to find them. I'm never going there any more."

Trip To Europe Precedes Visits With Khrushchev

Will Inform Allies Of Talks, Developments

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speculation on the precise date for Premier Khrushchev's visit to the United States ranged today from Sept. 8 to Sept. 16. The choice depends at least in part on the Communist chief's own planning for use of a world-wide sounding board.

Khrushchev has expressed interest in being in the U.S. when the United Nations General Assembly convenes in New York Sept. 15.

Officials close to the negotiations for an exchange of visits between Khrushchev and President Eisenhower insist that nothing so exact as an arrival date has been decided. The White House and the Kremlin, in announcing the plan Monday, spoke only generally of mid-September with a stay of two or three days in Washington and a 10-day tour of the country.

Informants say such details are usually left up to a high - level visitor.

In any event the exchange of visits raised U.S. - Soviet diplomacy to the summit level, whether or not it results in a formal summit conference on a broader scale.

An exchange of visits with Khrushchev and an earlier trip to Europe to confer with heads of the Western Allies will give Eisenhower direct contacts with the participants in any later summit meeting.

Generally favorable reaction, both in the U.S. and elsewhere, greeted Monday's announcement that Khrushchev has accepted Eisenhower's invitation to visit the United States next month.

Communist China meanwhile was absent from the chorus of praise on both sides of the Iron Curtain. Peiping radio nearly 24 hours after the first news of the U.S.-Soviet exchange visits had carried only the brief Moscow announcement without comment.

This increased the feeling in the west that party chairman Mao Tse-Tung and his associates possibly were troubled over the top-level East - West meetings from which they will be excluded.

TO BRING FAMILY

Talks with Eisenhower and a 10-day merican tour are among Khrushchev's plans. Reports from Moscow said the Russian premier is expected to bring along his wife, son and daughter.

The Khrushchev anouncement overshadowed Eisenhower's plans for an earlier series of meetings with British, French and West German leaders that could bear significantly on his talks with Khrushchev.

U.S. officials spoke in terms of Eisenhower attending a Western Big Three summit meeting in Paris, plus talking separately with the British and French leaders and with Germany's Chancellor Konard Adenauer.

TO PARIS THIS MONTH

Eisenhower was expected to go to Paris in the latter part of August. Khrushchev is due here in September, perhaps about midmonth. No date has been fixed for Eisenhower's own later visit to Russia.

The Westren Allies, despite some differences, see eye to eye on most problems. The largest exception is the towering figure of Charles de Gaulle, those ideas about France's destiny have caused concern in the Western camp.

De Gaulle has demanded a voice for France in use of atomic weapons, has withdrawn the French Mediterranean fleet from NTO combat command and has embarked on a controversial campaign to quell the Algerian insurrection.

Eisenhower has not met with the new French president since he took office. Prime Minister Macmillan and Adenauer both have been to Washington this year but de Gaulle has brushed aside invitations.

The European journey gives Eisenhower a chance to talk with de Gaulle without obviously going out of his way to do so.

SEVERAL TOPICS

In his discussions generally with the Western leaders, officials said Eisenhower might deal with such matters as his exchange of visits with Khrushchev, East-West disarmament and nuclear test ban talks and the German problem.

Washington authorities meantime waded into the many details that remain to be ironed out on the Khrushchev visit.

The broad agreement for the exchange was handled in such secrecy and on such a high level that most state department officials below the rank of undersecretary seemed unaware of it until Monday's announcement.

United Nations diplomats expect Khrushchev will speak to the General ssembly in New York. He could do that without an invitation, as a member of the Russian delegation.

GENEVA (AP) — The United States has told its allies that it will inform them fully of developments in talks between President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev and will consult with them on any specific agreements that might be proposed.

Informed officials said President Eisenhower, in his European swing before he meets Khrushchev, will tell Prime Minister and Chancellor Adenauer that no deals will be made behind their backs.

He also wants to get their ideas about problems he and Khrushchev may take up and their suggestions for improving East-West relations.

SEEM DESIRABLE

U.S. State Secretary Christian Herter, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville of France are reported to have agreed that, in view of their deadlock with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko over Berlin, the Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks are highly desirable.

The ministers reason that they now can end their conference with Gromyko and leave the Berlin crisis in a state of suspension without the prospect of an imminent Soviet move against West Berlin that would create danger of conflict.

FRANCE COOL

France reacted slowly and with apparent coolness to the announcement of the impending visit exchange. But informants said the French government welcomed it as a means of buying time and stalling the Soviet threat to Berlin.

The last session of the foreign ministers conference is set for Wednesday. It is expected that the conference will end with a brief communique announcing agreement to disagree and declaring the meeting in recess. The next round of talks may come at New York in mid-September, when the Ministers are expected to be on hand for the opening days of the annual UN General Assembly.

Traffic Heavy Over Holiday, Few Mishaps

Despite a heavy stream of traffic which passed through the city and along 401 highway to the north, no highway fatalities or serious motor accidents were reported in the Quinte district. The only mishap resulting in personal injury occurred Monday evening at Bayside as result of which five persons were admitted to hospital for treatment.

In fact it was a comparatively quiet holiday weekend all around for both city and provincial police.

City police reported one break-in at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Townsend on Highland Ave where an intruder smashed the front door glass and gained entry by reaching in and turning the latch. Missing from the Townsend home were two diamond rings, valued at $100 each and $12 in cash.

TRIP TO EUROPE

Where else he will travel during his 10-day tour will depend on where he would be received properly and what he wants to see. U.S. officials were sounding out local leaders in various parts of the country to see whether they would co-operate in a Khrushchev visit.

SURPRISE IN MOSCOW

In Moscow, news of the planed visits was announced at a 10-minute press conference in the foreign ministry. It caught most of the Moscow diplomatic corps by surprise.

At his county home in Sussex, Macmillan said the visits surely would lead to an East-West summit conference.

French officials in Geneva said they approved of the visits but their remarks seemed cooler than those of the other Western Allies.

In Belgrade, President Tito of Yugoslavia said the news "must give hope and cheer up all peace loving people in the world."

Press reaction also was mostly favorable, although comment from French and West German papers was restrained.

VAST NORTHLAND

The Yukon Territory and Northwest Territories cover an area of more than 1,500,000 square miles.

MRS. MOM WHYTE

A $10,000 public campaign is planned to aid Mrs. Whyte, said Mrs. Spiers, and a petition is being drawn up for presentation to Canada's provincial and federal governments and to United States government officials.

Mrs. Spiers said that just before dark some of the children saw Mrs. Whyte at the gate and waved from windows of the one-storey building.

"Mom didn't see Bruce," she said. "He was in bed I guess."

Mrs. Whyte made an attempt to call at the orphanage Monday but was refused admission. Bruce's father, Bert Wilkins of Oshawa, said they spoke to a man who said they couldn't see the child, "then grabbed the door and slammed it shut."

Mr. Wilkins was serving with the army in Korea when Mrs. Whyte—who with her husband, Bert, vowed 10 years ago never to turn a needy child from Whytehaven's door—took Bruce into her home.

The child had suffered severe head burns in a fire in which his sister was killed.

The boy was brought to her because no one else would take him, Mrs. Whyte, 43, said. She had always treated him as one of her own family.

POLICE PARK NEARBY

Shortly after the group were refused admission a police cruiser arrived and parked at the entrance to the shelter.

A uniformed constable and a detective explained to Mrs. Whyte that she could remain only if no crowd gathered and traffic on the nearby highway continued unhindered.

Mrs. Whyte then asked a dozen or more placard-bearing supporters to leave and settled down surrounded by sandwiches and soft drinks given her by sympathetic passers-by.

Mission workers who had returned to Bowmanville to get a tent and other equipment provided Mrs. Whyte with a heavy coat but the weather was expected to remain mild.

Monday's events began with a meeting here attended by about 35 parents of children who had been removed from Whytehaven.

In an emotion-charged speech, Mrs. Whyte urged them to get their children back. A number of those who fashioned placards and followed her to the orphanage were parents of children involved.

Soccer League Holds Trial For All-Stars

East-West divisions of the Eastern Ontario Soccer League played an all-star trial game here yesterday with the West winning 5-3.

The trial was held to select an all-star team to represent the league in the annual game with the Toronto Senior Soccer League Allstars scheduled for Kingston, August 22.

The eastern division was represented by members of Quinte teams with the West using Kingston teams players.

Merrick and Welt each scored twice for winners and Schamm getting the odd goal. Jones, Brown and Fancy counted for the eastern division.

The list of players picked to represent the league will be announced later.

HARES INCREASE

There has been an upsurge in the snowshoe hare population in southeastern Ontario.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Golds were the lone losers as the stock market inched ahead today in light morning trading. The market was closed Monday, a civic holiday.

The 11 a.m. volume was 782,000 shares, compared with Friday's 484,000 at the same hour. North Goldcrest Mines led speculatives, up 11 cents at 83 cents on a turnover of 107,000 shares.

Steels and banks were the industrial leaders. Steel company of Canada and Moore Corp. were up 1 but Consolidated Paper lost 1 at 42½.

Senior base metals were higher but uraniums were down. International Nickel jumped 1½ at 101, a 1959 high for the issue, while Falconbridge, Noranda and Steep Rock were up small fractions. Consolidated Denison Uranium was off ¼ at 15 while Gunar was down ⅛ at 13.

In golds McIntyre added ½ at 87½ and Hollinger was up ¼ at 33. Kerr-Addison lost ⅛ at 20⅝ while Aunor, Consolidated Discovery and Giant Yellowknife dipped in a 10-to-20 cent range.

Youth Crushes Fingers, Hand In Big Roller

TRENTON — 16-year-old Robert Boyce, son of plant manager G. E. Boyce, crushed his fingers and part of his right hand at the Hinde and Dauch Paper Mill here on Sunday noon when they became caught between two heavy steel rollers.

As soon as the young man's hand was extricated, he was rushed to Trenton Memorial Hospital, where Dr. Duncan Campbell, Trenton, attended to his injuries. Robert was later transferred to Belleville General Hospital, where he is under the care of Dr. H. F. Williamson, Belleville. An operation was performed yesterday in an effort to save the young man's hand.

Robert, who was only working at the plant during the summer vacation, is a student at Upper Canada College, Toronto, where he expects to enter his final year in the fall term.

It is understood that the steel rollers in which Robert caught his hand were recently blocked down as a safety measure to prevent another accident similar to that which happened to Ben Burt, 13 Ferry Street, last November. Mr. Burt's hand and arm were drawn into the rollers within three inches of the elbow. The blocking down of the rollers ensures that anything getting caught between them can only be drawn in a very short way.

CHILD SCALDS SELF

Richard Sharpe, age two, who suffered third degree burns when he pulled a bowl of hot soup over himself at the weekend, is now reported by Dr. D. Campbell, Trenton, to be out of danger.

Richard, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Sharpe, North Charles Street, is expected to be able to leave Trenton Memorial Hospital today.

CAT BITES CHILD

Gregory Bull, age five, of 23 North Charles Street, who was bitten by a cat on Sunday afternoon, received anti-tetanus shots from Dr. D. Campbell at Trenton Memorial Hospital as a prevntive measure. Gregory was playing with the animal when it turned on him, annoyed by the teasing it was receiving, and sank its teeth into his fingers.

Four Airmen Injured in Car Accident

TRENTON — Four airmen stationed at RCAF Trenton, lie seriously injured in Farmington, Maine, hospital, after an automobile accident on Sunday. They are: LAC George H. Kennedy, whose home is at Kentville, N.S.; LAC Malcolm Savoy, St. George, N.B.; LAC S. S. Boudreau, Cape St. Mary, N.S., and LAC Gene De Luney, Dartmouth, N.S.

It is believed that the airmen, who were on vacation in Maine, received the injuries when the car in which they were travelling, went out of control near Farmington.

PAPER CHANGES HANDS

One of Trenton's weekly newspapers changed publishers over the weekend. The Courier-Advocate, which was established in 1854, will be under new management.

J. Nolan Sisson, who published the Courier for 11 years, and previously worked for a paper in Timmins, now hands the reins over to George Baker, Peterborough, the new publisher.

CALLED TO FIRE

Trenton Fire Department was called out on Sunday afternoon to what was described by the caller as a "garage on fire at Consecon." Chief Ellis went ahead to investigate, and discovered on arrival in Consecon that a motorcycle owned by Wayne Anderson, which had caught fire in H. Kenny's garage, had been dragged out to the road, where the flames were extinguished.

No Major Fires Reported in Month of July

TRENTON — No major fires were reported by Trenton Fire Department during the month of July, in the statement issued by Fire Chief C. S. Ellis today. Two minor fires caused an estimated loss of $382.50.

Altogether, there were 20 alarms, 3 of them fires in dwellings. The other fires reported were television, 1; electrical, 1; service calls, 6; grass fires, 1; storage shed, 1; car fires, 3; barn fires, 1; town dump, 2; and rubbish, 1.

Six members of the department attended Mutual Aid exercises at Batawa. There were no Mutual Aid alarms during July, and no arson or emergency calls.

Two members of the Fire Department received minor injuries in the course of their duties, but no time was lost due to either injury.

At training sessions during July, the entire Department was given a second refresher course on artificial respiration and use of the resuscitater. Department members also received training on how to hold the life net, which is part of the equipment obtained with the new aerial pumper truck.

A new trainer program has been set up so that all permanent members of the Department gather every Wednesday morning to practise numerous pieces of equipment operated by them in the course of their duties.

New methods of fire fighting and fire prevention are also discussed at those meetings.

SULLIVAN IN RUSSIA

MOSCOW (AP) — Ed Sullivan piloted an American variety show at Moscow's Gorky Park Monday night. The show included much music, considerable acrobatics, juggling and other vaudeville acts. Sullivan is recording a series of television shows here for presentation in the United States.

Police Report Two Accidents

TRENTON — Trenton police reported two minor traffic accidents in the town during the weekend. On Sunday, a car owned and operated by Maurice Mitts, 134 King Street, was proceeding east on King Street, when it was struck on the left rear door by another owned by Graham Taxis, 83 Dundas West, Trenton and operated by Joseph Riga, R. R. 2 Trenton. The Riga vehicle, which had been proceeding south on Dufferin Avenue, had failed to stop at the intersection. Damage to the Mitts car was $80.00. The Riga car was undamaged. Both vehicles were insured.

Yesterday another slight two-car accident was reported, when a car owned and operated by Ross Pennough, 4 Maple Wood Avenue, Brighton, was proceeding east on Dundas Street West, followed by another car, owned by Alfred L. Patrick, 648 Front Street, and operated by Mrs. Barbara Patrick, of the same address. The Pennough car stopped at No. 75 Dundas Street West, when it was passed by the Patrick car, which turned in too quickly, and struck the front of the other vehicle, causing about $20 damage. $15 damage was caused to the Patrick car.

Percy McGee, Stirling, reported that he was passing 355 Front Street on Sunday, when some small children threw stones and broke the windshield of his car. A Mrs. N. Pearson advised Mr. McGee that she would pay for the damage to the windshield.

Carnival, Street Dance Largely Attended

MADOC — The largest crowd, to date, turned out for the annual Kiwanis Carnival and Street Dance on Wednesday evening with perfect weather and proved to be a decided success, both financially and from the entertainment viewpoint, provided by King Ganan and His Sons of the West, who also provided the music for round and square dancing. The Madoc band furnished music during part of the evening.

Games and refreshment booths were well patronized.

Bank Loan Was Expensive

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — A man who borrowed $800 from a bank for home improvements and used part of the sum for other purposes was convicted Monday under a section of the National Housing Act.

John E. Roberts of North Kamloops, B.C., was fined $150 when convicted of a charge of making a false statement on a loan application. The charge was laid by a Kamloops bank.

Minor Baseball

Allan Mott tossed a one-hitter, struck out 14 in Tigers' 9-2 win over the Dodgers.

Chambers, the losing pitcher gave up eight hits, and walked seven.

Cold English and Warm French

After two weeks of happy activity with Belleville boys and girls, the French-Canadian students on an interchange visit, have returned to Quebec. A point about this warrants emphasis.

What happened? During dances, picnics, games and so forth, it emerges that these young people spoke French and English and, some of them, a mixture of both, as best they could.

Most of the Quebec students could speak English. Some of the Belleville youths could speak French and tried to apply what knowledge they had of it, and vice-versa. One Belleville boy, even when addressed in English by the guests, consistently replied in French.

This interchange is wonderfully broadening. Although we may be loath to admit it, the French really have much more logical and charming expressions than we do in English. For instance, a hobby in French is "un violon d'Ingres." Mr. Ingres was a painter; as a hobby he played the violin; and so, if you garden or golf in spare time, that is you "violon d'Ingres." A henpecked husband is "mené par le bout du nez" (led around by the nose). A man who mumbles "mange ses mots" (eats his words). A tip is "un pourboire" (the price of a drink.) These are all very logical.

In English we say Mrs. So-and-So has "the gift of the gab." The French surpass us for this one. They say, "Elle a la langue bien pendue" (her tongue is well hung).

It might be said in English that "ostentation is obnoxious." The French use more words but they put it better: "On n'aime pas les gens qui font parade de leur richesses" (nobody likes people who parade their wealth.)

Some French expression is inexpressible in English. For "la politesse du coeur," for instance, we might say kindness or warm-heartedness, but we cannot translate it precisely. Similarly "la joie de vie" and "c'est la vie" are really inexpressible in English.

For one of the best - - in cold English, - - he does what he likes or gets what he wants - - the French say, "Il fait la pluie et le beau temps" (he makes rain and sunshine.) Sure. He makes it. He makes it happen. Is there any expression more charming than that?

Of this sort of thing, during these interchange visits, these students are bound to learn a certain amount and thus become richer in mind and outlook as Canadians. The joint sponsors, the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews, and Visites Interprovinciales, deserve every commendation.

Toronto Superior? Not Always

The Toronto Globe and Mail happens to mention that Dr. Claude T. Bissell, president of the University of Toronto, is "the youngest university president in Canada." Without in the least reflecting on Dr. Bissell's ability, it should be said that he is not the youngest university president in Canada. Dr. Colin Mackay, president of the University of New Brunswick, is younger. Dr. Mackay, in fact, at 39, is four years younger than Dr. Bissell.

Why is this? Why it is that such a newspaper inclines to such a pronouncement. It is because in the richest part of a country people come to think that the biggest, best or youngest of theirs is automatically the biggest, best or youngest in the land? This view is often false.

And it is not peculiar in Canada. New Yorkers incline to consider themselves and their achievements above those of the rest of the United States. Londoners tend to feel the same way about other parts of Britain. This feeling generally emanates from any big centre.

In a sense it is true: cleverer people do congregate more in larger centres. But in a more important sense it is not true, for cleverer people are not necessarily better. And rather than on the efforts of the few highly gifted people, the strength of the country depends more on the patient plugging of the average man doing his job, however small, as best he can.

NO TIME FOR REGRETTING

By EDGAR A. GUEST

I will spend my time in talking.
And I'll spend my time in joking.
I will spend a few hours walking
And a few hours idly smoking.
I will spend my time in playing
When I might be money getting.
But I'm very frank in saying
That I'll spend no time regretting.

I will spend my time debating,
And I'll spend some time in fishing;
For a bite I don't mind waiting,
And I'll spend some time in wishing.
I will spend some time in gazing—
When the summer sun is setting—
At the western skies a-blazing,
But I'll spend no time regretting.

When a thing is done, that ends it;
I am through with it for good.
Since regretting never mends it,
I go right on sawing wood.
I will waste my time in doing
Things that give me pleasure keen,
Not regretting and reviewing
Anything that might have been.

Strictly Personal

The Way To Achieve A Good Life

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

America is a public speaker's Paradise. Nowhere else in the world are so many people in so many organizations so indecently eager to hear speakers on every topic from atom-smashing to zinnia-growing.

As I contemplate my lecture schedule for next season — with a mixture of horror and greed — it occurs to me that this passion for information is a dubious blessing. What are the audiences really getting.

Basically, they want to be told what to do. What can we do about Russia or China? What should we do about our schools? How can we get better plays on the stage, better films on the screen, better programs on television?

Yet, advice on what we can do is usually futile — for we well do nothing except applaud the speaker, accept those ideas of his we already agreed with, and reject those ideas that run counter to our prejudices.

What is important in our lives is to be told what to be, before we can learn what to do. And audiences resent being told what to be: that is preaching, it is moralizing, and it is uncomfortable to hear, except in church, when we listen as a matter of good form and promptly forget it.

THREE STEPS

I once heard a brilliant speaker at a Quaker meeting. He was talking about charity and working for philanthropic organizations. He said that there was three steps each person must take.

The first step is giving. That is the easiest. Writing a check makes us feel virtuous and involves little personal participation. This is the lowest rung of charity.

The second step is doing. That is harder: it means giving up time and expending effort on tedious and unrewarding tasks. It is a higher rung on the ladders of charity.

The third step is being. That is the hardest of all: it means transforming oneself into a kind and loving person ,not merely in relation to a project or an organization, but in relation to everyone around us.

Achieving the good life is more a matter of being than of doing or giving. It calls for intense self-scrutiny, a relentless honesty about one's motives, and a persistent feeling that we are no better — and perhaps worse than thocee we are trying to help.

This is the only lecture worth listening to, and the only one that could ultimately help us in solving the problems of Russia and China, the schools, the movies and the atom bomb. In this profound psychollogical sense, charity does begin at home.

Was Taking No Chances

Dublin Irish Digest

A cub reporter had been warned of the danger of libel, and on his first assignment — covering a reception — took no chances, as witness:

"A woman giving the name of Mrs. J. C. O'Kelly-McCarthy, who is reported to be one of the society leaders in this section, is said to have given what was purported to be a reception yesterday afternoon.

"It is understood that a considerable number of so-called guests, reported to be ladies notorious in society circles, were present, and some of them are quoted as saying they enjoyed the occasion.

"It is charged that the firm Bivins and Spivans furnished the refreshments and Stringham the alleged music. The hostess is said to have worn a necklace of alleged pearls, which she declared were given to her by her reputed husband".

Canadian PLACE NAMES

AMHERST, NOVA SCOTIA

The first name of this city, bestowed by the Micmac Indians, was "Nemalooskudaagun," the meaning of which has been lost. It later became a French village and was named "Les Planche." It received its present name in 1759 from Jeffrey Lord Amherst, who was a notable figure in the conquest of Canada, being in command of the British forces in this country.

This Dentist Took to Sea

Saint John Telegraph-Journal

Not everyone has an opportunity of practising his profession while sailing around the world. But an enterprising Norwegian dentist has travelled around the globe seven times while looking after the dental needs of some 6,000 seamen.

Dr. Gens Gainer of Oslo realized one day that sailors never seemed to have enough time ashore to have their teeth properly cared for. It gave him the idea.

He sailed on a freighter, left the ship when he had completed all the dental work necessary among the crew, and joined another ship. Dr. Gainer has followed this routine for a number of years, moving from ship to ship and broadening his world outlook.

Let Child Fend for Self

Chatham News

Why do so many students drop out of college before completing their courses?

The American Medical Association in a communication to the Health League of Canada blames the "spoon-feeding" of children.

According to the AMA, four out of 10 students in college today will not stay long enough to be graduated. The root of this high rate is said to lie in psychological troubles. The students simply are not mature enough to cope with college and its demands.

They are products of an era of "spoon-feeding," according to the release. When the student gets to college and finds that everything is not done for him, he cracks up and drops out.

There are, of course, other reasons for leaving college, including financial difficulties, marriage or inability to meet the necessary intellectual standards.

Some suggestions were offered to parents and students for handling these college emotion' al problems.

Parents can help their children remain in college by leaving the children alone; by seeing that they have information about college and career selections; by letting them make their own choice; by refraining from imposing their parental interests on the chilldren; by seeing that children have a previous living-away-from-home experience; by not over-stressing the need for high grades; and by letting the children earn part of their own expenses.

Before going to college, try to get a realistic picture of what to expect; recognize that college will present stiff academic competition; from the start, budget study time; if shy, get a roommate and make yourself available for social contects, but don't overemphasize the social side of college; try to think through what you want to get out of college, then make sure your work has a direct relationship to your career.

Can Parking Be Reserved?

Hamilton Spectator

A professor who turned his car into a parking space only to find a young man squarely planted in the middle, a sizeable patch of white on the meter, and his way barred because the spot was "reserved" was accused of "unethical conduct" when he turned his car into the space. This took place in London, and it produced a short duel in the Letters to the Editor column in The Times.

It raises a nice legal point. Can one reserve a parking space on meter even if the car is not there to occupy it?

"I'm reserving this place. My wife will be along with the car in five minutes," might be exasperating to a motorist who had driven around looking for a spot to park and on thinking he had found one was faced with such a prior claim.

But if a dime buys exclusive rights to a parking place, might not a man, if he felt so inclined, bring a deck chair downtown, put his dime in the meter and enjoy the fume-filled air of King Street East to his heart's content? Secure in the knowledge that he had paid his rent and taxes, even for a brief period, could he not enjoy his small estate and that privilege the Landlord and Tenant's Act calls 'quiet enjoyment' do not usually leave loop-holes do not usually leave loopholes for the expression of such charming eccentricity. We suspect that somewhere it is explicity stated that these parking places are reserved for "vehicles" and that rules out young men "reserving" them and older men in deck chairs occupying

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

DANGER SIGNS FOR BREAST CANCER — A LUMP A DIMPLING, A SORE

"Dear Dr. Molner: What is the correct way for a doctor to examine the breasts for cancer? — H.S.G."

First, the examination is by inspection. For an abnormal swelling, dimpling, or (I hope nobody lets it go this far) a running sore or lesion.

Second, by having the patient lie down, arms raised, and then a manual examination—that is, running the hand around each breast for any sign of a lump.

Third, a "Pap smear" may be used on any nipple secretions. In a city the size of yours, there must be a chapter of the Cancer Society. I suggest that you find the address in the phone book, and ask or write for a copy of the pamphlet explaining how one checks for early signs of breast cancer.

False modesty should not interfere with saving useful lives. The signs are readily detectable in most cases — a lump, a dimpling, a sore.

CAN BE BENIGN CYSTS

Not all lumps, I hasten to add,, are cancer. More often they are benign cysts or "cystic mastitis." But every lump should be examined without delay to be sure.

The Cancer Society pamphlet I mentioned describes how you can examine yourself. The recommended interval is once a month. But for safety's sake, your physician should make the examination, also, each time you are having a routine check-up.

• •

"Dear Dr. Molner.: All I have been able to learn is that there is no recovery from rheumatoid arthritis. It would greatly encourage me if I knew there was just one case where the person's condition returned to normal or near normal. — M.C."

Somebody led you astray on this. I don't say there is a "cure" for arthritis, but that doesn't mean there can't be improvement. Why, I could reel off plenty of cases in which patients are active (although they have some pretty sharp twinges) although when the case was acute they were confined to bed. In all honesty, I can't let you think there's much chance of complete recovery. That's rare. But in equal honesty, I can't let you go on thinking that you can't look forward to improvement. It takes time and patience, but I implore you not to give up hope. The only truly hopeless patient is the one who gives up.

• • •

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have a mole on my back which has grown to the size of a dime. It becomes very thick, then crumbles away. — Mrs. J.W."

Never mind the rest of the details. The safe rule for moles is this: If the mole changes size, color or texture, have it examined by your doctor forthwith.

Most of the time it will turn out to be harmless — but if you never ignore this rule, you will protect yourself against having one that is malignant.

• • •

H.P.: Yes, it's possible that one could be allergic to plastic dentures, since some persons can be allergic to almost anything. On the other hand, if that is the case, wouldn't you expect more than just that one spot on the tip of the tongue to be affected? So I believe I'd look for something else as the likely cause.

Nut Gatherer Faces Perils

Austin Magazine

When you are cracking Brazil nuts at Christmas time, spare a thought for the people who collect them. They are native South American Indians who live in palm-leaf shelters along the River Amazon and risk death in several ways to send us our Christmas supplies.

Not the least of these risks is the falling of the nuts from the trees which grow to a height of 120 feet. The correct name for the trees is lecythidaceae, and what we call Brazil nuts are not nuts at all, but seeds nesting in the fruit of the trees.

There are 20 to 30 seeds in a fruit, fitting together with the thin edge inwards, so that they make a ball like the sections of an orange. The outside casing of the fruit is similar to that of the cocoanut and each one weighs anything up to 5 lbs.

The majority of the fruits grow at the top of the trees, so that when they fall they come down so heavily that they often sink several feet into the soft earth. A "direct hit" from one of them is sufficient to kill a person, and fatal accidents of this nature are not uncommon.

The ripe casings usually fall after the heat of the midday sun, so collecting is done in the morning. Even then the collectors keep their eyes alof as well as on the ground.

They finish work hurriedly at the slightest sign of a wind blowing up, for any breeze is likely to start a miniature air raid of "Brazil-nut bombs".

Other hazards experienced by the collectors come from the denizens of the jungle in which the nut trees grow. At any time they are likely to come face to face with man-eating jaguars, or with 20-foot long man-crushing anacondas or huge blood-sucking vampire bats.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Is there a living soul among us, from a professional public man like Prime Minister Diefenbaker down to the humblest carnival pitchman who sells patent paring knives at fall fairs (who is a public man of sorts, too) who could, would or should submit to the public ordeal through which we have lately submitted the royal family. Any of us who have taken a two weeks' motor tour for our summer holidays knows what fatigue is merely from having to meet a few motel managers and such casual strangers as might share a table with us in a highway cafe. What a relief it is to get safely home from a mere fortnight of it.

An elderly lady of my acquaintance who, like me, was born in the reign of Queen Victoria and who has seen kings come and go and whose loyalty has increased with them all, is planning to write to Her Majesty with what she deems to be a sensible suggestion.

"The next time," says she, "why don't the Queen and Prince Philip simply announce that they are coming to Canada for a holiday? Like anybody else, they should be free to visit us and see us as we really are. No plans, no official flubdub. In fact, don't let them tell what hotel they are staying at the first night, even. And tell all governments, federal, provincial, civic, to lay off. And tell all of us, her most devoted subjects, to make no fuss, and at the most, just lift our hats to them, and we ladies bow our heads, when we happen to see them on the streets. And like everybody else, they would go, from day to day, where they liked, just dawdling along, and never a stuffed shirt or a politician temporarily in office, or anybody temporarily wall-off, to be formally met from dawn to dusk. How we'd love them!

I believe we would.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

PROFIT AND LOSS

A few evenings ago I talked with a scientists who assured me that the modern world has not yet begun its course of scientific achievements. He declared that one hundred years from now we would look back on the greatest inventions of this age and regard them as no more scientifically wonderful than we regard the windshield wiper.

But this scientist then went on to say that what worries him is the quite perceptible moral decline which is manifest in the modern world. There is no getting away from the fact that we are in such a period of decline right now. Every year the number of divorces is one-fourth the number of our marriages. Crime of all sorts grows faster than the population.

What good will it do us if we attain undreamed heights of scientific achievement and yet as a race fail morally and spiritually? "What shall it profit a man" said a great Teacher on one occasion, "if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" And the world of that day was certainly not worth gaining compared with the world in which you and I live. What will it profit us if we gain this world, if we scale its heights, if we achieve unprecedented triumphs and then lose those moral values which really count, the faith by which we can be sustained.

"What doth it profit . . . if we gain . . . if we lose?"

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THIS IMPOSSIBLE WORLD

This world will never be a perfect world. We might as well recognize this fact.

But it's a wonderful world at that — the greatest of all impossible worlds. It's ugly — in spots. It's wicked, good, beautiful, mixed-up, serene, blasphemous, inspiring, glorious — everything. That's why it's so wonderful.

There probably must be vice and wickedness in the world — for it reminds one of how magnificent real nobility is. Of course it would please the moralists more if everything were perfect. But it wouldn't be a world then. It wouldn't be Life. It's the two natures struggling within us that make our greatest nature fine and strong.

And so when I see some majestic tree fallen, I immediately glance to its mates towering next to it. When I see a wrecked life I lead my eyes to its counterpart — a thing of standing form and substance — a Man!

We are unable really to hate Wrong, until we have learned how truly sound and splendid Right is.

Let us tramp on. There is work to be done. If this were a "possible" world — if good were everywhere you and I would be praying for "the wings of a dove" to take us to another place — anywhere — perhaps to a world "not made with hands."

Gordon Watkin, Bruce Miller Bowling Champs

CONGRATULATIONS

Two members of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club have brought a signal honor to the organization by winning the doubles championship of Ontario.

Bruce Miller with Gordon Watkin as skip defeated pairs from London, Galt and Toronto in a round-robin series at Oshawa on Saturday, where the provincial championships in singles, doubles, rinks and colts were played before an interesting and enthusiastic gallery.

The Belleville pair won the title the hard way. In the first game they met Ron Jones and partner from London and won the match 20-17. hey clobbered Murray Anderson and partner from Toronto Rosedale 22-8 but in the meantime James Law and partner from Galt were winning and enjoyed a higher plus than the Belleville pair. In the final game it was a nip and tuck afafir with the Galt rink coming up to the last end with a one-shot lead. Before the skips were ready to deliver their bowls. Bruce Miller had laid one near 'the cat' for shot. The front end was well plugged and it was difficult for Law to get in with a bowl to cut down the shot. There was a small port to draw and Gordon Watkin made the big shot. He pulled through the hole, tapped "the cat" in behind Miller's shot and lay two and enough to win. Law with his third bowl tried to draw but got wrecked and Watkin put his next bowl up in front to further make the road to the shot more difficult. The Galt skip with his last bowl tried to make the 'cold' draw but was short and away went the title. The final score was 21-19.

Miller and Watkin won their Red coats in 1955 when they won the Ontario doubles title and then went on to play for the Dominion Crown at Hamilton but were forced to take second place. They will go back for another try for the Canadian Title at the Toronto Boulevard Club in Toronto. This series opens on August 24th and continues for three days. In the doubles competition will be pairs from every province and they will play a round robin series with the highest count taking the title.

Both of the champions are excellent bowlers. They can play the draw or running game with equal skill and never become upset under pressure. They have brought distinct honor to the club and on Corbin Day received the congratulations of local and district bowlers.

Quinte Trap And Gun Club

Scoring 23's were D. Parker, D. Day and S. Keogh while J. Wardhaugh, R. Thomson, J. Walsh and E. Marvin scored 22's.

Minor Baseball

T. Locke powered the winners with a triple, double and single. Herring, McCoy, Law hit singles.

Around the Kitty

Weather plays a distinct part if a tournament is a success and the weatherman has certainly smiled on the Corbin Gold Cup tournament throughout the 15 years of its existence, on Monday the weather was delightful, the greens were in excellent condition and the bowling was most keen. There was the odd big score but this was due more to breaks than bad bowling. The committees in charge left nothing to chance and president Percy Graham and his executive can take a bow for the splendid arrangements.

Again the women members of the club are to be congratulated for looking after the wants of the inner man. Hot meals, sandwiches, pies and other goodies were served all day and the caterers were a tired lot when the last bowl was thrown. Mrs. Elsie Humphreys, president of the women's section was complimented on all sides for their wonderful food. The ladies in the soft drink booth did a rushing business all day.

Gordon Watkin and Bruce Miller, winners of the Ontario Doubles received the congratulations of the district bowlers on bringing this high honor to the Belleville club. The boys carry their honors with great dignity and will be worthy representatives in the Dominion Finals to be played in Toronto latter this month.

Eight rinks from the local club took part and most of them won their two games. Some of the rinks lost close ones and won some that were close. The rinks taking part were: C. D. Tice, W. Wright, Bruce Miller, Gordon Watkin, skip; W. Lavergne, G. Fitzgibbon, Lorne Lockwood, Percy Graham, skip; B. Batchelor, J. Fitzgerald, H. Staunton, G. B. Hyde, skip; R. Tuck, George McGee, Garn Dobbs, W Elliott, skip; W. Lancaster, Ernie Vanner, W. B. Vandervoort, J. Hanna, skip; B. Mascaro, Ken Bulford, Gordon Vince, Orlo Smith, skip; W. Van Tassel, Ernie Jones, Gordon Edwards, Austin Watkin, skip; and Dave Fisher, J. Johnston, W. Fox, A. E. Wonnacott, skip.

The 'spider' always an interesting event, was won by H. Whitely of Oshawa. The players line around the greens, the 'cat' is placed in the centre and at the word "go" all fire at the little white ball. It gets kicked around quite a lot and the bowl closest when it comes to rest is the winner. The money derived is for welfare work of the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association.

It was nice to see Cliff Argue, the promoter of the Corbin Tournament on the lawns during the day. Cliff, although in ill health, has never lost his enthusiasm for bowling. The past president of the Provincial Body was busy shaking hands with his old buddies of former days and thoroughly enjoyed his afternoon.

GODFREY OFF TO WORK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Entertainer Arthur Godfrey, looking well and in good spirits, left by air for Hawaii Friday to resume television work. Godfrey, who underwent a lung cancer operation April 30, planned to record on tape in Honolulu the first of a series of hour-long TV shows for next fall.

The appointment of Mr. McCarthy, Jr., to be general manager of Lakeland Natural Gas Limited is announced by George R. Gardiner, president. Formerly assistant general manager, Mr. McCarthy has been acting general manager during recent months.

Prior to joining Lakeland, Mr. McCarthy was a gas utility consultant with Commonwealth Services. Previously he had held various operating and sale managerial positions in the gas industry.

A native of Hartford, Connecticut, he is a graduate of Yale University. Mr. McCarthy and his family reside at 95 Hill Street, Kingston.

'Wolves', Gals Both Went to Press, Examiner Saw No Need for Stress

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Credulity," said a government trial examiner here, "is a girdle that can be stretched only so far".

The examiner was John F. Funke of the National Labor Relations Board and he was talking about the girl-tweaking case involving employees of the Charlton Press Derby, Conn.

The firm creates and prints comic books.

Eight composing room employees complained that John Santangelo, the company president, discharged them when they became union members.

Santangelo testified he let his entire composing room force go after receiving reports on his return from a Florida trip in February that the printers had been molesting copy girls.

Santangelo said his superintendent reported the composing room men had been acting "like a bunch of wolves".

Examiner Funke said the evidence just didn't sustain the boss' charges that the men had been "time wasting and fooling around" with the girls.

He added: "There are without doubt employers who would unhesitatingly sacrifice the immediate interests of their business to maintain a stadard of propriety and decorum at which Victoria herself could not cavil.

"When however, the professed concern of Santangelo, who could not be described as Victorian, is scrutinized . . . grave doubt arises."

Santangelo impressed him, the examiner said, as a man aware that "contiguous employment of male and female in offices and plants has inevitably led to a relaxing of formal barriers and to a tolerance of casual badinage and conduct not free from overtones of sex."

Funke said there was only the direct testimony of one girl that she had been crowded, patted and subjected to improper remarks.

The examiner noted testimony by others that the girl hadn't always resisted and commented:

"The tolerance of womankind for such advances may, unfortunately, vary greatly from day to day."

Besides, he said, the girl could not remember the place in New Jersey where she had been married only three months earlier. Funke said that shook him because "it is common knowledge the average wife will remember every circumstance of her marriage in agonizing and mortifying detail until she is silenced by death."

The examiner ordered Santangelo to rehire the eight printers and pay them lost wages. The firm was also directed to post a notice pledging it won't interfere with union activities.

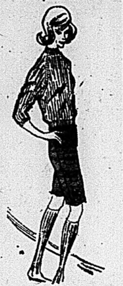
BOY SAYS HE KILLED

NEW YORK (AP)—A 17-year-old boy was quoted by police last night as saying that he killed and aged scrubwoman found gagged and strangled in her refuse-cluttered Brooklyn apartment last week. Police said Daniel Swiatkowski admitted he killed her while trying to get enough money to run away to California. The loot was $1.11 and a wrist watch.

Campus Look



By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Many influences are discernible in the clothes prepared for back-to-school wear. Typical of this trend is this Italian sweater done in orange or yellow coarse knit wool. The raglan shoulder offers a new look that is youthful and pleasing. It goes well with the deeper-toned Bermudas in linen-tweed with graduated pockets on one leg.

North. Author Has First Book Published

CALGARY (CP) — A Calgary woman who spent her honeymoon on a scow and her married life in Canada's northland will have her first book published soon.

Mrs. Mary Godsell, describes her life as the wife of an Arctic trader, explorer and author in I Was No Lady, being published by Ryerson Press.

Mrs. Godsell, the daughter of a Scots engineer, settled with her family in Winnipeg in 1909. Following the First World War, she joined the Hudson's Bay Company where she met Philip Godsell, an inspecting officer of the company.

They were married in 1921 and boarded a scow for their 500-mile trip at Fort Fitzgerald.

Mrs. Godsell describes her first home at the fort as the biggest in the Northwest Terrotiries. And it was hard to furnish.

"We found furniture in the post warehouse, but when this wasn't enough I told the men to bring every packing box they could get their hands on.

HANDY STAIN

"I remembered that in Scotland when permanganate of potash solution was put on a cut it turned brown. So I made a wash from eight pounds of potash to stain the furniture.

"I got the shock of my life when everything turned purple. But it turned brown later."

Mrs. Godsell, who traces her ancestry to the kings of Denmark and the Scottish laird of Cluny-MacPherson, says in the preface to her book, "We are a queer breed, we of the Old North. Despite hardship, intrigues and loneliness, the life in the North held many compensations, paramount among them being friendship."

"One of my best friends is Mrs. Gerald Card," Mrs. Godsell recalls after 35 years in the North. "Her husband was the first Indian agent in the Northwest Territories. She welcomed me to Fort Fitzgerald in 1921 and my husband and I were at her 90th birthday four years ago in Edmonton."

The Godsells' northern home was the home-away-from-home for RCMP stationed in the area. Deputy commissioner Ian T. Belcher wrote the introduction to I Was No Lady.

Mr. Godsell is the author of Pilots of the Purple Twilight, a story of the North and the bush pilots who helped to open it up. It was published by Ryerson Press in 1955.

Women's Institute

HARTS - RIGGS W. I.

MADOC — Mrs. Harold Dale was hostess to the members of Harts-Riggs Women's Institute on Wednesday evening for the July meeting.

Plans were completed for their annual outing. This year they enjoyed a bus trip to Niagara Falls having about six hours at the Falls to enjoy the scenery in and around the Falls. Mr. Harry Stocet, secretary gave a statement on financial balance received from Hoard's Sale Barn re the lunch.

The program followed, convened by Mrs. Dale and consisted of several readings by the members. The highlight of the program was a series of colored slides presented by Mrs. R. McCaffrey, consisting of scenes taken locally and throughout an interesting cross-section of this wonderful province.

Mrs. N. Broad expressed the thanks of the ladies to Mrs. McCaffrey and presented her with a gift.

AINTING with water and a clean brush is satisfying hot-weather play for youngsters. If they're dressed in swimsuits, splashes won't matter. And the side of your garage, your sidewalks or other such permissible surface won't mind being slapped with brushfuls of plain water. Even tree trunks are good paintables, with this kind of equipment.

ANNOUNCE MARRIAGE PLANS — Steven Rockefeller, son of New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller, and Anne Marie Rasmussen are shown July 26 in Kristiansand, Norway. The couple announced they will be married soon in the Lunde Church near Kristiansand. It is understood the wedding will take place August 22. (AP Wirephoto).

Rockefeller Weds Fiance On August 22

KRISTIANSAND, Norway (AP) Steven Rockefeller and Anne Marie Rasmussen said today they've definitely settled on Aug. 22 for their wadding date.

Steven told a press conference his father and mother, Governor and Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller of New York state, will be present unless something completely unexpected happens.

Young Rockefeller added that he hopes several other members of his family will be able to attend.

The couple will be married, probably in the afternoon, in the Lutheran church at nearby Soenge. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. Olav Gautestad, an old friend of the Rasmussen family.

VIEW CHURCHILLS WORK

LONDON (Reuters) — An exhibition of paintings by Sir Winston Churchill, which ended a run of 20 weeks at the Royal Academy here Monday was seen by nearly 142,000 persons. It was the second largest crowd drawn by a single artist at an academy show. In 1952, a 25-week Leonardo da Vinci exhibition attracted 212,000.

Community Honors Couple With Gifts

2ND THURLOW — Over 40 friends, neighbors and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Walker Grills gathered at S. S. No 3 Thurlow on Wednesday night in honor of their recent marriage.

The gathering was called to order by Mr. F. Mitchell. Mr. and Mrs. Grills were asked to take seats of honor.

After a few brief remarks, all sang, "The More We Get Together"

Mrs. Robt. Atkins read the address, signed on behalf of the community, by Mrs. Fred Mitchell, Mrs. Douglas Atkins, expressing the esteem in which Walker is held by his many friends and neighbors. A hearty welcome was extended to the bride and best wishes for a happy wedded life.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Mitchell, Mr. Archie Greatrix, Mrs. Douglas Atkins presented them with a plate glass wall mirror, bedroom chair, Two-Hob nail milk glass, dresser lamps ,and pin up lamp to match and clothes hamper. Many other gifts from relatives included wall candles, sconces, sheets, coffee percolator, pillow cases and table cloth.

Mr. and Mrs. Grills expressed appreciation for the lovely gifts.

Lunch was served by the ladies, and social time spent.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

WRITING CARD TO BE ENCLOSED WITH WEDDING PRESENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have no visiting-cards, and no informals. When I order a wedding present or a weding anniversary present sent from a store, and it supplies me with a plain white card, how should I write our names on the card — "Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jones"? — Wife.

If you wish to write only your names on the card . . . with no message . . . you write "Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jones," the form in which the names would be engraved on a visiting - card. But, if you wish to write a message, then your names become signatures, and your signatures must be your informal nar-

For example: "Dearest love and every good wish to you both for your happiness, always. Thomas and Mary Jones." (When you sign the card, you courteously write your name last . . . Thomas and Mary Jones. If your husband signs the card, he courteously writes your name first . . . Mary and Thomas Jones.)

GUEST-PROCEDURE AT AFTERNOON WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm not at all familiar with the correct procedure for guests at an afternoon wedidng recept: . That is, after guests have gone down the receiving-line, do they have to wait around until the bride and groom have finished receiving and have entered the room where the refreshments are to be served, or is it proper for guests to go to the rerfeshment-room when they wish to, and help themselves? G. S.

Customarily the procedure is for the gusets, after they have greeted the members of the receiving-line, to go to the refreshment room to serve themselves or to be served (depending on the type of service). As a matter of fact, usually there is (or should be) someone to direct the guests to the room w' c the refreshments are being served. Sometimes the bride's father, as host, does this, or a brother or uncle of the bride; very often this duty is assigned to the ushers.

On the comparatively rare occasions when there is a master of ceremonies, he does this. When the first few guests are directed or escorted to the refreshment-room, the rest of the guests see that they are to "follow suit."

TIPS ABOUT BABY SHOWERS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please answer some questions about a Baby Shower?

1. Who generally gives a Baby Shower? May a relative, say an aunt or cousin, or even a sister, give the shower?

2. Is it proper to invite unmarried friends of the guest of honor, as well as married friends?

3. Is it necessary to write notes of invitation or even to send the printed shower invitations?

4. When a close friend of the mother-to-be cannot accept the invitation, is she supposed to send a present for the baby-to-come?

5. When it is decided to invite only a few of the most intimate friends of the guest of honor, is it ever considered proper to ask each of the friends to contribute to a "joint gift," a small chest of drawers, for example? — Three Readers.

1. The closest woman friend of the mother-to-be very often gives the shower: often, too, the shower is given by a small group of friends. It is not considered proper or in good taste for a relative to give the shower . . . this looks too obviously like a "planned promotion" for gifts.

2. Yes.

3. The guests are usually invited by telephone or verbally, or cordial little notes may be written. Printed Baby Shower invitations of plain simple design are quite all right too . . . but nothing "fancy."

4. An intimate friend generally wants to send a present if she can't attend the shower. But it's not at all a must.

5. Yes . . . this is proper and, in some circumstances, the most thoughtful and sensible thing to do.

FOURSOME AT THE MOVIES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When two couples, two girls and their dates, go to the movies together, what is the correct seating-arrangement? — Marie.

The usual procedure, and I think the best, is to have one of the men enter the row first, then the two girls, and the other man on the outside, nearest the aisle.

JUNIOR

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our son, two months old, is a "junior." Should we write "junior" or "jr." after his name? — Mother.

Use either "junior" (not capitalized) or "Jr." (capitalized). When the abbreviation is used, the capital must be used. Hence "jr." is not correct.

Mother's Helper

HAVE YOU thought of having a "mass meeting" with your neighboring mothers and children, to agree on night curfews, yard rules, snacks, etc? Mothers might get together first, to talk over what suits each family and to arrive at a satisfactory procedure. Misunderstandings and problems which sometimes arise over different family routines can often be avoided in this way.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. M. E.—We have given her everything — and she is ruining her life.

• • •

Mrs. M. E. — My husband and I are heartbroken about our 20-year-old daughter Isabel. She has decided she wants to marry a divorced man twice her age with two young children on his hands.

Isabel is our youngest child and we have done everything to give her many advantages — some that we weren't able to give the older children. She is very pretty and intelligent so naturally we hoped for big things for her in the way of a marriage.

She met this older man on a train coming home from a week-end trip and she has known him about six months. We are sure he is looking merely for a mother to take care of his children. Well, he sure has made a bad choice because Isabel knows nothing about these things. She is ruining her life.

• • •

Isabel E. — My parents think I don't know anything at all, that I'm just an irresponsible child and the idea of my taking care of two children is just plain ridiculous to them. Well I'll show them! I've met these children and they are crazy about me!

Jack, the man who wants to marry me isn't just looking for a mother for the kids. If he were he could easily marry a widow of his own age who is after him. He really does love me and he says he can't go on much longer without me. He wants to marry me immediately, if not sooner.

My parents would like to see me make some sort of old-fashioned marriage of convenience. They want me to marry a wealthy man who will just spoil me. I'm ready and willing to work.

• • •

The Council: As an alternative to the marriage of convenience Isobel believes her parents want for her, she is choosing a marriage outstanding for its inconvenience.

Many women are ready to take on inconveniences and responsibilities for the love of a man, but we don't think that Isabel knows this man or her own feelings well enough to know whether her love is of this order. Neither does she have enough experience of life to know exactly what inconveniences she will have to face or how they will affect her.

We agree with Isabel that this man cannot possibly be solely interested in finding a mother for his children. It is unlikely that a responsible or loving father who is 40 would select a girl of 20 for this role. But we deny that his choice of Isabel involves love in any reasonable sense of the word. A man of 40 with two children doesn't pressure a girl of 20 into marriage if he has any decent human consideration for her or for his children. He ponders the problem long before even approaching such a girl and then insists that she takes lots of time to think it over.

We get the impression that for Isabel this would be a marriage of spite more than anything else. The "advantages" her parents have given her have somehow had the result of making her feel undervalued. Perhaps she feels that since she is the youngest her parents would like to baby her endlessly. It is obvious that she is very unsure of herself and is looking for huge challenges to assure herself of her own worth.

Unfortunately, this is a very self-defeating process. Isabel selects projects that are two big for her and wants to plunge forward before her instinctive fears hold her back. Projects undertaken in such a spirit are not likely to succeed.

YEAR FOR MOTHER

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Vivian O'Ree, 24, was sentenced to a year in a reformatory Friday for allowing her six-month old baby to starve to death. Mrs. O'Ree was found in a gas-filled room with the dead child about a month ago. Her four other children are in the care of the Children's Aid Society.

It Is Very Hard To Beat The Dutch

by Mary Moore

If by some lucky chance my little four-week-old grand-daughter Susan needed to accompany me on my return trip from Germany to Canada I could have lain her in a KLM cradle hooked it in the rack overhead and she could have gently swayed her way home, like Rockabye Baby.

Marianne and Herbie and Gary saw me off at Dusseldorf where, just as I was beginning to sip the most delicious bowl of soup I ever tasted, my flight was called over the loudspeaker and I had to leave it.

Since I was to be in Amersterdam for one day I determined on the spot to ask the head chef at KLM catering kitchens for that soup recipe. Out of that tentative request I was graciously given the recipe and enough additional European cooking information to keep you and me out of mischief for a month.

Gerrit Krielaart, chief cook at KLM's catering kitchens at Schipol Airport, let me wander from one hive of work to the next: a baker assembling cream-filled sponge squares; another brushing sweet rolls with a shiny apricot glaze. In the next room was a butcher making Chicken Roulades which are whole boned chickens, stuffed then rolled in readiness for the oven. The boney carcasses from these went into a huge 200-litre tip-kettle along with numerous fresh vegetables to make the strained broth for the soups for which KLM is famous — after fourteen hours of simmering.

I am writing this while we are aloft over Labrador and by peeking out of the plane window can see four mighty icebergs. One huge one is turquoise blue and spreading below the waterline.

Now for the soup. It may be made without the famous broth, but if you want to keep up with KLM standards boil yourself down some chicken bones.

DUTCH PEA SOUP

(Erwtenseop): Two cups split green peas, 3 quarts. chicken stock (or water to which chicken bouillon cubes have been added), 1 pig's trotter (a pig's foot to you), 1 pig's ear, 1 cup chopped bacon, 4 frankfurters, 1 lb. potatoes, 2 tablespoons salt, 1 chopped celery stalk, 1 cup celery greens chopped, 2 leeks or 4 green onions, soak the washed peas in the broth or water overnight in the refrigerator. Boil gently in this liquid with the trotter and ear and bacon for 3 hours. Add the peeled and sliced potatoes, salt and vegetables and cook until everything is done and the soup is smooth and thick. Add the sliced franks for the last 10 minutes. The longer this simmers the better. The next day it tastes even better.

If you want to learn how to make the French patisseries I saw in the making keep an eye on this space. I am going to translates them into Canadianese and make them up and pass them on. So look forward to some toothsome new Dutch recipes, KLM style, in the near future.

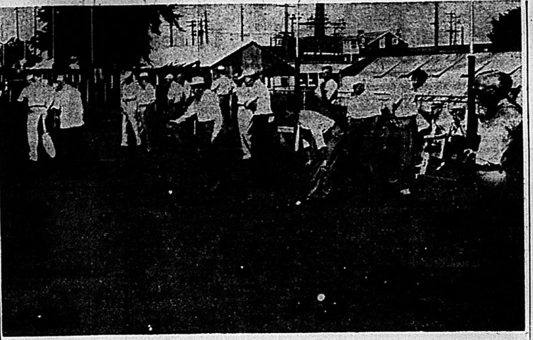
Morley Galt's Kingston Rink Wins Corbin Gold Trophy, Prizes at Lawn Bowling Club



This is a typical scene which took place on the greens of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club on Civic Holiday, when the Corbin Gold Cup tournament was staged. The intentness on the faces of the bowlers as the bowls come towards "The Cat" can be plainly seen. Forty-eight rinks from western and eastern Ontario, besides those from the immediate district took part in the tournament.

The Corbin Gold Cup has taken another trip to Kingston. On Civic Holiday, Morley Galt and his rink of Bill Piercey, Vic Sage and Bob Stringer won the beautiful gold trophy and the accompanying prizes of a complete fishing outfit including casting rod, reel, tackle box fully loaded and a landing net. The 15th annual tournament was a great success.

The weather was delightful, the bowling excellent and the greens were in perfect condition. Forty-eight rinks from as far west as Kitchener and east to Ottawa enjoyed an excellent day of bowling and the games were watched by a large gallery practically all the afternoon and evening.

The bowlers were welcomed to the city by the general chairman, Mayor Gerald B. Hyde, while Percy Graham, president of the club welcomed the bowlers on behalf of the club and wished for all a splendid day of bowling. The draw was conducted by Mr. Hyde assisted by Bruce Miller and Gordon Watkin and there were no delays and the tournament was concluded and the prizes presented long before the midnight hour. Many of the sponsors were on hand to personally present the trophies and prizes and the winning bowlers made appropriate speeches, thanking the city for the hospitality afforded and the la[illegible] bowling club for their excellent tourney.

CALVERT GIVES TROPHY

The Lord Calvert trophy was won by Grant Murray, Jack Piatti, H. Whiteley and Frank Keller of Oshawa, and the silverware and the trophy was presented by Larry Murphy, representative of the Calvert company in this district. The Hotel Proprietors' trophy and the transistor radios were won by Ed Dennison, Bill Duncan Jr., William Duncan, Sr., and Dick Edney as skip while the Sports Centre prize of four Sunbeam razors were won by G. Bureau, Lou Glover, George Nicholls and Archie Meyers of Campbellford.

RUGS PRESENTED

The four club bags were won by Gord McMillan, Ernest Carswell, Jack Hunter and Sam McMillan of Oshawa, while the Bata Shoe Company prize of four barometers were won by V. Foxhall, W. McLean, E. Wiggins and Albert Hoskin of Cobourg. Another two-game winner was Jack Lush, Ken Bain, Dutch Krantz and Bert Bredd of Newmarket who carted away the four Deacon sweaters by the Deacon Shirt Company.

The four motor rugs presented by Elliott Motors for a two-game high were won by Bill Gummer, Joe Brown, Rolly Crowe and Doug Nichols of the Rideau Club of Kingston. The four clocks presented by the Stephens - Adamson Company were won by E. Boyce, O. Newton, G. Mitts and Bill Fuller of Trenton, while the four cases of Wine Snack for one-game high was won by C. R. Whittmore, Charles Buskard, Andy Soderberg and Milton Carigan of Deloro. The 11th and last prize for the no-game high was won by Art Moore, Fred Leira, Clarence Knapp and Ron McLean of Brockville. The prizes were four Diamond cheese.

Although there was not a full draw of 64 rinks, the interest in this tournament has been sustained throughout the years. It is one of the last big tournaments for rinks in the province and it is one in which the men have a day for themselves to really put on a show. Practically every rink on hand on Monday signified their intention of being back next year and there is no doubt the prizes will be just—as good if not better and the boys will again meet to talk over old times.

EXCEL WITH SHELL

If the manufacturer recommends "premium"

Super Shell with TCP

You get the most mileage, a smoother-running engine, from the most powerful gasoline your car can use

Super Shell's superior road performance—the actual power delivered to the wheels of your car—now means more power-per-gallon than ever before. When cruising, Super Shell's new extra power converts to give you increased mileage and lower running costs. But—Super Shell's price has not been raised! And Super Shell has TCP* to neutralize harmful engine deposits that can rob your car of its peak performance.

If the manufacturer recommends "regular"

Shell Gasoline with TCP

It's loaded with premium features, but sells for the price of regular gasolines

Shell Gasoline is a quality gasoline with better performance than the very top premiums of only a short time ago . . . designed to give top performance in all cars except those with a very high compression ratio. And Shell has TCP* that helps smooth out engine "roughness" and spark plug "miss" . . . gives you all the power and mileage you pay for. And, with all these added benefits, Shell Gasoline still sells at the price of regular gasoline.

Esks Show Backfield Power In 20-7 Win Over Ottawa

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Football Union showed plenty of backfield power Monday night in closing their exhibition season with a 20-7 victory over Ottawa Rough Riders.

The win was the third for Eskimos in exhibition play. The loss gave Ottawa, of the eastern Big Four union, a 1-1 record. Riders edged British Columbia Lions 24-22 last week.

Quarterback Jackie Parker unveiled an accurate passing arm to cause most of the damage to riders. He threw one toucrdown pass and set up another with an aerial attack.

Quarterback Don Allard, who showed ability to run and pass, alternated with Frank Tripucka of Ottawa. The young all-American import connected with halfback Dave West, who went to Ottawa as part of the trade that moved Tripucka from Saskatchewan Roughriders, on a 72-yard pass-and-run play that set up Ron Stewart's touchdown.

Stewart, former Queen's University star, was Ottawa's most impressive runner. Ohio State whiz Don Clark, veteran end Bob Simpson and end Gerry Nesbitt also gained plenty of yardage. Allard made several good runs, one for 13 yards.

Esks opened scoring in the first quarter after end Steve Bendiak intercepted a Tripucka pass and carried it to Riders' 16-yard line. Fullback Johnny Bright went over. Nesbitt kicked a single minutes later.

After Stewart's second-quarter touchdown, the Riders had only one more scoring chance and muffed it when they were stopped at the five-yard line.

Early in the third quarter Parker passed to Rollie Miles, who went over to make the score 13-1. Parker sent Mike Lashuk over from the two four minutes later.

Parker converted two of the three touchdowns.

Harness Racing

WESTBURY, N. Y. (CP)—Jamin, owned by Mrs. L. Olry Roederer of Paris, France, and driven by Jean Riaud came charging down the stretch to capture the $50,000 international trot Saturday night before 48,000 at Roosevelt Raceway.

Italy's Tornese was second with Trader Horn, the favored U.S. entry, third. The time for the mile and a half was 3:08.3.

The Canadian entry, Philip Frost, owned by Mrs. Jeanne Levesque of Montreal, led the field at the half-mile mark of the 1½-mile inaugural of the event but broke stride about 400 yards later. He finished second to last in the field of eight.

The outcome was greeted with cheers and many joined in singing as The Marseillaise was played over the public address system.

"This was the great race Jamin has ever trotted," said Riaud, 28-year-old driver of the European champion.

GERMAN TEAM WINS

LONDON (AP) — West Germany's track and field team trounced Britain 117-95 Monday, winning 14 of the 20 events in the two-day meet. British women, however, defeated the visitors 64-51.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"Read something about the softball of the good old days in your column, and it brought back nostalgic memories," said the voice over the telephone.

"I well recall the days when we went all out for victory up at the Coleman Flats and had to stop occasionally when a passing CNR freight spewed a cloud of cinders and a pitcher had to stop and pick a pea-sized chunk of solidified ash out of his eye."

"However," said the voice, "you did forget some of the grand guys, but then a fellow cannot think of them all. I well remember good ole Chuck Barnett, who managed our club; Frank Sedore, the fighting manager of the Ox Pointers, who took 'nuthin' from nobody' and a lot more."

It was Ed Schrieder speaking. Ed called on Sunday during a stopover from vacation to visit brother Tom and family, and to talk about his two favorite topics, Canadian pro football and a youngish star named Gary Schreider.

Ed and attractive missus Doris, expect to join the grandpa and grandma ranks in the very near future. Gary is expecting to be a "poppa" (his first) within the next few days and it is hoped a new quarterback will be calling signals for his pablum shortly in the Gary Schreider nursery in Ottawa.

Ed, if we recall correctly, had some memorable battles with Johnny Bawden in those good old Coleman Flat days, not to mention Point Anne and its galaxy of guys who took their softball seriously.

And in that hurried flit back over memory lane the other day we forgot one of the best-known athletic families in the district. This posse of pitchers, catchers, infielders and utility men was sired by the one and only Murney Green, who with Pat Maracle is one of the Satchel Paige twins of Ox Point.

Murney, who starred in the old Central Ontario Baseball League, the Bay of Quinte Baseball League, softball leagues galore raised a family of athletes who have made their name in sports circles of the city and district. At one time a district hockey, baseball or softball team was not intact unless there was a Green on the line-up. Johnny, Murney Jr., and Peter were all fine hockey and diamond athletes with Johnny reaching Junior "A" status.

After all, what could you expect from a trio like that with a versatile old buck like Murney Sr. setting them an example. Murney was one of the best baseball catchers ever developed in this district, and one story we heard during our Picton Gazette days when Ron (The Colonel) Church, Roly Rorke, Pop Frederick, Pete Cole, Raymie Hadden, Warpy Phillips, Earl Mighton and company under the managerial aegis of Jacy Yanover, were battling for Ontario intermediate baseball championships, was that Murney could hole a ball in a tin can throwing from the plate to second.

And we would not mind wagering our income tax wampum that even now with a couple of weeks' roadwork, a diet and some arm-loosening practice would not do a bad job behind the plate.

There was another Green, too, who was quite a household name in baseball circles years back when the old Central League was the big noise in baseball in these parts. They called him "Sonny", who is now gainfully employed in a Northern New York town.

"Sonny," too, was a versatile cuss. He could pitch, catch, play the infield or outfield or cuss an umpire in Mohawk or English with equal ability. He could run like a scared deer but there is no truth in the story that he could go out there on the mound, throw his fast ball and gallop to the plate ahead of it to make the catch.

He, too, sired a couple of outstanding baseball players. They were Vern and Bud. Vern was a star second baseman while Bud covered a lot of ground in the outfield. Both were good hitters, and played for senior baseball teams here as well as lower bracket clubs in the district.

So much for the old days and the oldtimers.

Tonight the Bobcats trek to Cobourg where they take on the lakeshoremen in the second game of their district league semi-finals. The Cats copped the first one here Friday night and with a busy schedule ahead they hope to sweep this series. The third game will be played at the CNRA Park here Friday night.

Meanwhile the Ox Pointers with two straight victories under their belts take on the battling Trenton crew at the Point on Wednesday night and if they can take this one, hope to end the best-of-seven series in Trenton on Thursday evening.

Came in Third for 3-1 Lead And That Was the Game; Nat Sluggers Held Hitless

LOS ANGELES (CP) — Yogi Berra, an amazing veteran who has broken up many a baseball game, blasted a two-run homer over the right field fence Monday in leading the merican League to a 5-3 victory over the National League in the second all-star game of 1959.

The poke, which travelled about 350 feet, came in the third inning and moved the Americans in front 3-1. They never gave up the lead.

Berra, ace New York Yankee catcher, received the game's individual honors. He provided much of the scoring punch and the collective work of the American League pitchers, who kept such strongmen as Hank Aaron, Willie Mays and Ernie Banks off the bases, helped immeasurably. The slugging trio didn't get a hit.

REVENGE FOR CASEY

It was sweet revenge for manager Casey Stengel's American Leaguers, beaten 5-4 in the first all-star game July 7 at Pittsburgh. crowd of 54,982 sat through the engagement in sun-drenched Memorial Coliseum.

The game grossed $283,120 and netted $262,336.47. Last month's game grossed $229,636 and netted $194,303.46.

The winning pitcher was 20-year-old Jerry Walker of Baltimore Orioles, who just a year ago was laboring for Knoxville, Tenn., in the class Sally League.

Walker yielded only one run and two hits in the first three innings.

The loser was strikeout artist Don Drysdale of Los Angeles Dodgers, voted the most valuable player in the Pittsburgh game. He was rapped for four hits, serving up home run balls to Frank Malzone of Boston Red Sox and Berra.

ITALIANS STAR

"This was a great day for the Italians," said Yogi, referring to the homer by Rocky Colavito of Cleveland Indians in the eighth inning and Malzone's four-bagger.

Sharing pitching honors with Walker were Early Wynn of Chicago White Sox, Baltimore's Hoyt Wilhelm and Billy O'Dell and Cal McLish of Cleveland. Each gave up only one hit.

To some players, perhaps, it was just another game, strictly an exhibition. But Stengel was vigorous in insisting: "Don't think these players on both teams weren't trying. They wanted to win the game."

CONLEY GOOD

Gene Conley of Philadelphia Athletics, who hurled the fourth and fifth innings, retired six of the seven batters he faced, with only a walk to Pete Runnels to mar his work. Sam Jones of San Francisco Giants yielded an unearned run in his two - inning stint.

Elroy Face, the brilliant relief pitcher of Pittsburgh Pirates, allowed the other American League run, Colavito's homer.

Stengel, grizzled manager of the Yankees, succeeded in his gamble when he threw six left-handed batters into his starting lineup, almost ignoring the coliseum's inviting left field screen, 250 feet away at the foul line.

Four of the American League's six hits were made by southpaw swingers. Nellie Fox of Chicago had two, and the Yankees' Mickey Mantle and Berra had one each. The other two were the runs by the righthanded hitting Malzone and Colavito.

HOT DEFENSIVE UNIT

Stengel employed only two pinch - hitters and permitted shortstop Luis Aparichio, Fox, Malzone to play the entire game. They distinguished themselves on defence with Malzone particularly outstanding at third base.

The Nationals were guilty of three errors, all in the seventh, to furnish the winners with an important run.

Manager Fred Haney of the nationals used 20 players to Casey's 19, five of them as pinch-hitters and one as a pinch runner. Only Gilliam, who walked in the fifth, was successful.

When the all-stars were introduced, it was hard to say who drew the bigger hand—big Ted Williams of Boston or Stan Musial of St. Louis Cardinals. Williams, in his 16th all-star game, and Musial, in his record 17th, were the sentimental heroes. Unfortunately, neither got a hit.

Don't Forget 'Ole Clucker' Next Sunday

Tickets for "Herbie Hem Night" at the CNRA Park next Sunday starting 6.30 when the Bobcats meet Point Anne, are selling well — but there are lots left, says Umpire-in-Chief Harold Bawden.

Donations are coming in slowly and since there are but a few days left potential donors are requested to send their contributions to Geo. H. Carver, sports editor, this newspaper, or Fund Treasurer Herb Pointer, 18 Willard Street as soon as possible.

Ed Schrieder, former football and softball star of this city now of Toronto, is forwarding his cheque. The Commercial Softball League, it is understood is making a collective effort while Cuffer Noakes has plans started to have his Junior baseballers play an all-star South Hastings League team.

So don't shrug off a salesman when he asks you to buy a twenty-five cent ticket or a dollar book. After all, the guys are trying to do a little for a grand guy who did so much for softball here.

Special draw prizes have been donated by the Sports Centre, Don Thomas, Booths Radio TV, Dover's Men's Wear, Shaw's Men's Wear, Seven-Up and Lipsons. Stephen Licence and Cranstons Sports have donated two softballs each for use in the game.

Following is the list of cash donors to date — Andy Knott, Sr. $25; Maurice Rollins, $10; Bryson Reid, $1; Murney Green, $5; Terry Boyle, $1; Cleo Colling, amount not to be published; Carmen Cook $5 Gerald Ethier, $4; Mike Whalen, $4; Jim Tebworth $3; Harold Bawden, $3; Cliff Belch $3; Al Kelleher, $3; Herb Pointer, $3; G. H. C. $5; Keith Bertram, $3; Jack Smith $1.00, Total to date $84.00.

Juniors Hang 4-2 Defeat on Read Giving Latta 2nd Spot in Standing

By PETER CARVER

Belleville Lloyd's Juniors defeated Read 4-2 Saturday night in a tight pitching duel. The loss dropped Read to 3rd place 2 points behind Latta in the final standing of the South Hastings Baseball League.

Lefthander Bill Moxon limited the opposition to 4 hits while his opponent on the mound, Baz Hanley was touched for five hits. Moxon struck out seven and walked three, while Hanley whiffed eight, walked three, and helped his own cause with a tremendous home run.

The Juniors scored single runs in the first and sixth innings and two in the third. Both Read tallies came in the seventh.

Moxon doubled in the second and scored on Soden's single to give the homesters a 1-0 lead.

Errors won the game in the third inning when Mavety singled and Morris walked. Both scored on an overthrow by the catcher and errors by Shannon and Roach.

Hunter walked in the sixth advanced to third on faulty Read fielding and scored on Larry Soden's hit.

Read threatened in the fourth when Callory lined a triple and Milligan walked with no one out but Moxon struck out the next batter and a double play started by Soden's fine catch of a blooping fly retired the side.

The two Larrys, Mavety and Soden led the Juniors with two singles apiece, while Moxon had a double.

Baz Hanley with a four-bagger and Callory with a triple paced Read while Walsh and C. McMahon hit singles.

This was the final game of the season for the Juniors as they do not enter league playoffs but in a couple of weeks go in the O.B.A. playdowns, probably meeting a Kingston team.

READ — Walsh, C. McMahon, Shannon, Callory, Milligan, Roach, Brennon, H. McMahon, Hanley, K. Brennon.

Giants Have The Willies; Chisox Stretch Margin

Sensational McCovey, Mays Keeping Frisco on Heap Top; Indians Split, Yankees Win

After Luis Aparicio and Nellie Fox bunt and run you dizzy, Al Lopez waves in Turk Lown or Gerry Staley to shut the door in your face.

That is the reason Chicago White Sox are three games in front in the American League and pulling away fast.

Trailing the Senators 2-1 in the last of the ninth inning, Aparicio opened with a single. Fox bunted and catcher Steve Korcheck threw the ball away. Aparicio scored and Fox dashed to third. Two intentional walks loaded the bases and Billy Goodman plunked a fly ball single into left over a drawn in outfield for a 3-2 victory.

The White Sox won the second game 9-3. The Indians lost ground by dropping a 5-4 first-game decision to Baltimore in 10 innings. They won the second engagement 6-3. New York Yankees beat Kansas City Athletics 7-5 while Boston Red Sox edged Detroit Tigers 5-4.

On Saturday the Orioles beat the Indians 5-2, the Tigers belted the Red Sox 6-2, the White Sox edged Washington 2-1 and the Athletics beat New York 2-1.

Lown, who took over in the eighth inning in Sunday's first game, won his eighth. In the second game, when Bob Shaw began to stumble in the eighth, in came Staley to breeze through 1 1-3 hitless innings, saving Shaw's 10th victory.

Gary Bell won his 11th for Cleveland in the second while Al Cicotte lost his first on relief in the opener. Hoyt Wilhelm was Baltimore's winner and Billy O'Dell who worked in both games dropped the second.

Tito Francona's seventh hit of the day, a three-run homer, won the second.

Elston Howard drove in four runs with two singles and a double in New York's victory. Ryne Duren struck out seven in 3 2-3 shutout innings but Duke Maas was adjudged the winner over Bob Grim.

Jackie Jensen's three-run homer and Frank Malzone's two-run blast provided all the runs in Boston's win. Charlie Maxwell hit his 23rd of the year, his 11th Sunday home run. Ike Delock won on relief over starter Paul Foytack.

The new firm of Willie McCovey and Willie Mays is keeping San Francisco Giants on top of the National League. They again provided the dynamite Sunday while Johnny Antonelli's 15th victory—a six-hitter — tamed Pittsburgh Pirates.

McCovey is hitting a sensational .500 with nine for 18 since the Giants moved him up from their Phoenix farm club for Thursday's game.

Sunday he hit his first major league home run—a 390-foot two-run blast off Ronny Kline.

Mays put the Giants out front to stay with a seventh-inning two-run double off loser Bob Porterfield. The Giants added another run in the eighth off Elroy Face (still 14-0) for their 5-3 victory.

Los Angeles Dodgers regained second place, a half-game behind the Giants, by shading Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 while Milwaukee Braves were splitting a pair with St. Louis. The Cardinals took the opener 4-3 as Lindy McDaniel rescued Larry Jackson. Lew Burdette won his 15th in the second 11-5 when Billy Bruton hit a pair of three-run triples and Felix Mantilla connected for a three-run homer.

Rookie Jay Hook and veteran Brooks Lawrence teamed up with a five-hit shutout for Cincin-Chicago Cubs. Hook gave up only three hits but walked three in a row in the seventh, bringing Lawrence from the bullpen.

The Redlegs walloped the Cubs 12-3 Saturday. The Giants defeated the Pirates 9-5, Milwaukee overpowered St. Louis 8-1 and Los Angeles defeated Philadelphia 5-3.

Antonelli became the first pitcher in the majors to hit the 15-win mark but he was joined about two hours later by Burdette. The Giants' lefthander has lost only six. Burdette has dropped 10.

Tribe's Francona Cannot Win Batting Crown

NEW YORK (AP) — Although he owns the highest average among the regulars and has been one of the outstanding surprises of the 1959 season, Tito Francona of Cleveland has virtually no chance of winning the American League batting championship.

As the majors take a one-day respite from the heated pennant scrambles, Francona shows a .417 percentage in 74 games. He had seven hits in Sunday's doubleheader against Baltimore.

However, the 25-year-old outfielder, who was acquired from Detroit last March 21 in a trade for Larry Doby, has had only 216 official at bats. This coupled with 16 bases on balls, four sacrifices and one hit by pitcher gives him 237 total appearances. To qualify for the title with the required 477 total appearances, Francona would have to collect 240 additional appearances in the Indians' remaining 50 games.

Francona began playing regularly June 2. Before then he had four hits in 14 tries for a .286 average. He now has 90 hits, including 13 doubles, one triple and 11 homers. His RBI total is 50.

The actual batting leaders including games of Sunday, Aug. 2, are Harvey Kuenn of Detroit in the American League and Hank Aaron of Milwaukee in the National.

Kuenn, out most of last week with an injury, had one hit in three trips and his average remained at .343. He took over the top spot as Roger Maris of Kansas City slumped to fourth place. Maris had only three safeties in 23 at bats and lost 18 points to .326.

Aaron moved up three points to .366 and opened a 23-point margin over runner-up Joe Cunningham of St. Louis. Aaron collected 12 hits in 30 tries and Cunningham had 12-for-32 to pick up four points to .343. Bill White of St. Louis fell to third place at .330, a nine point slump.

Detroit Club Won Royal Canadian Henley

PORT DALHOUSIE (CP)—Members of the champion Detroit Boat Club headed home Sunday from the Royal Canadian Henley regatta with 15 victories to their credit, the greatest number ever won by any club.

Fighting choppy water and a stiff head wind Saturday, the Detroit senior crews ended with a record 428 points to win the four-day regatta's Maple Leaf Trophy for the second straight year.

St. Catharines pulled ahead in the 145-pound eights when their two crews nosed into first and second place. Detroit returned to take the senior 155-pound eights and won 80 points when it took the senior eights event, the last race of the day, winning the Hanlan Memorial Trophy in 7:21.3.

CRAMP CAUSES LOSS

Earlier, Detroit sculler Pat Costello, 30, won the championship singles when Toronto Argonauts' Jon Pearce suffered a cramp. Pearce came back to win the open quarter-mile dash in 1:43.3.

Third-place Buffalo West Sides, with 154 points, took the senior 145-pound fours from the Detroit Dreadnoughts in 8:14.2. Detroit won all the other four events.

Big Fight 'When' Is Settled, But 'Where, How' Still Vague

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—There was every indication today the Floyd Patterson - Ingemar Johansson heavyweight championship rematch would come off Sept. 22 as tentatively scheduled, but where it will be held and how the arrangements will be handled are in the vague category.

The two remaining directors of Rosensohn Enterprises, Inc.—Vincent Vellela and Irving Kahn—admittedly have no experience in fight promotion. Vellela says his interest primarily is in the finances. Kahn, as president of TelePromter, Inc., is interested primarily in the ancillary rights composed of television, radio and movies.

ROSENSOHN RESIGNS

This situation developed Monday when Bill Rosensohn, president, severed all connection with the organization and said he would sell his one-third interest for $75,000 to anyone who cared to buy.

Rosensohn's resignation came as an outgrowth of a feud with Vellela which came into the open last Friday. Vellela, who holds two-thirds of the stock, elected Kahn as a third director of Rosensohn Enterprises. Kahn and Rosensohn have not been on the best of terms.

Rosensohn, front man and ostensibly promoter of the first fight in June in which Johansson scored a knockout in the third round said he offered Vellela and Kahn a chance to buy his stock, or allow him to buy Vellela's stock for $150,000.

Vellela said he would not buy or sell without first going over the company's books.

LOST MONEY

Vellela said the promotional loss on the first fight was "closer to $70,000 than the announced $40,000," and that the promotional expense was close to $300,000, a figure he termed fantastic.

Rosensohn said he was entirely out of the picture now although Rosensohn Enterprises, Inc., holds Johansson's contract for the return fight.

In Sweden, the champion's advisor, Edwin Ahlquist, said:

"We very much regret the resignation of Bill Rosensohn and we are going to demand a full investigation into the whole business before any decision on the return match is passed."

Ahlquist also said he and Johansson are not satisfied with the accounts rendered so far of the income from the title fight.

"If we don't get a full account of the first match and a completely clear picture of the distribution of the income from the next one within reasonable time, we will turn to the New York Boxing Commission," Ahlquist added.

Kahn said the site of the rematch probably would be announced by Aug. 10 and that the two fighters would have ample time to reach their peaks by Sept. 22.

On the Tracks

NEW YORK (AP)—T. V. Lark, a 30-to-1 shot, Saturday won the $212,000 Arlington Futurity, richest race ever held in Illinois.

The two-year-old colt was a mutuel entry with three others in the Arlington Park stampede of 20 juveniles for the winner's share of $150,312.

T. V. Lark, owned by C. R. Maccoy of Paramount, Calif., scored by a neck over favored Edgehill Farm's Bally Ache. Lurullah was third.

T. V. Lark, ridden by Alex Maese, covered the six furlongs in 1:12 2-5 and paid $68, $17 and $7.

In New York Chilean-bred Babu ended the season's racing at Jamaica with an upset victory over Sword Dancer in the $113,300 Brooklyn Handicap. Amerigo finished third.

FORT ERIE (CP)—A crowd of 14,621 set an attendance record Monday as Admiral's Ace, owned by J. H. Stafford of Toronto, won the $8,265 Canadian Stakes Handicap. It was the first victory of the season for Admiral's Ace, which defeated Stinson's Boy by four lengths while the heavily weighted favorite, Foxy Phil finished a distant third.

The crowd set a Fort Erie wagering record of $704,395.

Admiral's Ace, ridden by Cliff Potts, paid $11.80 to win as he ran the 1 1-16 miles in 1:44 2-5.

Gene Kiniski Yukon Eric Here Friday

Yukon Eric, the be-muscled Alaska lumberjack, will collide with Gene Kiniski, the explosive Edmontonian, in Friday night's feature wrestling match at the Memorial Arena. Yukon's specialties are the kodiak krunch, the woodsman's chop and the chest smash. Kiniski's specialties are anything and everything designed to pulverize an opponent. However, Kiniski may find his best — and worst — tactics, are of little effect against the mighty Eric, whose massive physique repels most of the attacks that crush ordinary humans.

Sam Steamboat, the sprightly Hawaiian, who has everybody talking about his prowess, will have a tough assignment in the semi-final when he meets Hard-boiled Haggerty. If Steamboat sails past this one, he's somebody to be reckoned with.

BEARS ADD TWO

Robinson, a 1958 all-star with the Bears, formerly played with Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

Aussies Whip Cubans for Zone Title

MONTREAL (CP)—Australia's powerful Davis Cup team battered its way during the weekend into the inter-zone competitions for the most prized trophy in tennis.

They now meet Italy, European zone champions at Germantown Pa. The survivor plays India for the right to challenge the United States for the Davis Cup, which Australia has held for seven of the last nine years.

The smashing serve of Neale Fraser, 25, led Australia's sweep over Cuba's brothers Reynaldo and Orlando Garrido.

Fraser, the oldest and most experienced man on the Australian team, downed Reynaldo 6-3, 6-2, 6-4 Sunday after having beaten Orlando 6-1, 7-5, 6-3 Friday.

Fraser never lost his service once to Orlando and only once to Reynaldo. He aced Orlando 16 times and against Reynaldo scored 13 aces.

Roy Emerson, 22-year-old Queenslander beat the 24-year-old Reynaldo 6-0, 6-4, 6-4 Friday and partnered fellow Queenslander Rod Laver, 20, in a lack-lustre 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 doubles victory over the Garridos Saturday.

Emerson was rested Sunday but Bob Marks, 21, made a successful Davis Cup debut with a 6-4, 6-4, 6-2 victory over the 28-year-old Orlando.

Australian captain Harry Hopman said the tie had gone as he expected and Australia was ready for the Italians.

"They are going to be very difficult" Hopman said. "They have a well balanced team. All of them can give you trouble but our own team is coming along better than I expected and we will be in top shape."

Cubans Take Three Wins From Toronto

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rochester Red Wings and Havana Sugar Kings may have begun a lively International League feud as a result of the shooting incident in Havana 10 days ago that caused a game to be suspended and the next day's game called off.

A Rochester and a Havana player were nicked by bullets during wild shooting by Premier Fidel Castro's supporters in Havana's Gran Stadium July 25. When the Wings refused to play July 26 the Havana officials were irked.

Now it is reported Havana officials have told the Cubans not to play the second game of a scheduled doubleheader with the Red Wings in Rochester tonight. No further comment has been forthcoming for the Wings' management, the Havana management or league president Frank Shaughnessy's office.

CUBANS DUMP LEAFS

The Cubans climbed to second place Monday with three victories over Toronto — 3-0 in the completion of a suspended game of Sunday, and 5-4 and 5-2 in a scheduled twin bill. Richmond defeated Buffalo 8-5, Rochester won its first game under new manager Clyde King 12-4 and Montreal won over Miami 6-5 in 11 innings.

Ted Wieand (13-8) won the suspended game, with Frank Funk (5-5) the loser. Raul Sanchez (3-3) took the first game of the twin bill as Havana's three runs in the seventh and eighth innings handed Bob Chakales his ninth loss against 12 victories. Larry Novak's two-run homer and sacrifice fly accounted for three runs.

Havana, tronunced 21-2 by the Leafs Saturday night, recorded four victories over Leafs in the Sunday-Monday twin bills, winning a 16-inning contest Sunday, 2-1 to start the massacre.

BUFFALO BEATEN

Richmond piled up a 6-0 lead Monday but winner Jim Bronstad (4-6) needed relief help as the league-leading Bisons scored five runs in the last two innings. Frank Leja hit two home runs for the Vees and Pancho Herrera one for Buffalo. Fred Green (5-3) lost.

Rochester had 15 hits, including Gene Green's homer, double and two singles, to blast Ron Blackburn (0-1) and reliever Lynn Lovenguth. Nino Escalera homered for the Jets, who got nine hits off winner Bill Smith (6-4).

Sandy Amoros' looping single with one out in the 11th scored Angel Scull to give Paul LaPalme (3-2) Montreal's victory. Bunky Stewart (3-9) lost. Amoros homered for the Royals and Bert Hamric hit one for Miami.

Millar Trophy Won by Bob Cunningham

The 31-year-old former footballer picked up the $1,000 winner's share of the $5,500 pot by decisively beating Bill Thompson of Vancouver 5 and 4.

Cunningham, a long driver but light-fingered with his putts, took the lead on the third hole and was never behind.

Bob Sr., who won the Millar Trophy for the Canadian professional match play championship in 1930, was among the gallery in the final round at Toronto's Cedar Brae Club.

TROUBLE ON GREENS

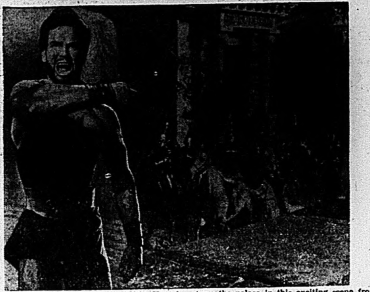
Second place was worth $650 for Thompson, 34-year-old pro at Vancouver Marine Drive, who had trouble on the greens. He missed a two-footer on the second hole and lost a chance to move ahead.

Cunningham canned a 15-footer on the third hole to go one up. He won the fourth after Thompson drove into the trees and conceded—unwisely, some thought. They halved the fifth and Cunningham went three up on the sixth with Thompson in the rough.

The Vancouver golfer recovered to take the next two holes in par, and appeared to be in line for the ninth until Cunningham putted in a 30-foot shot from off the green. They halved the 10th but Cunningham won three in a row and wound it up on the 14th, gaining a split with a good recovery shot from the trees.

HOLD VISITORS TO DRAW

OTTAWA (CP)—Eastern Canada all-stars played the visiting Marylebone cricket club to a draw Monday at the end of a two-day match on the grounds at Government House. With 168 runs for six wickets, the visitors declared their second innings and the Canadians went on to score 139 runs for five wickets, at which time a draw was called.



AT THE PARK — Greek warriors led by Hercules storm the palace in this exciting scene from the spectacular adventure film, "Hercules", in Eastman Color by Pathe and wide-screen Dyaliscope. A Joseph E. Levine presentation, this mighty drama of the legendary hero's labors and exploits now showing at the air conditioned Park Theatre, Belleville and Century Theatre, Trenton. Special matinee Wednesday for this attraction starting at 2.00 p.m.

AT THE BELLE — Walt Disney offering "Sleeping Beauty" as the crowning achievement of his organization, the producer says they have brought the fine art of animation to its peak of perfection. The $6,000,000 production in Technirama, Technicolor and full Stereophonic Sound, is now in its 2nd day of a 6-day engagement at the Belle Theatre.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Quite the finest day in a long time to go in search of pleasure or creative attainments that most satisfy. Be dynamic and wide-awake, but less talkative than usual. Tonight is then ideal for romance and gazing at the August Moon.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Increasing abundance and insuring present security are possible today, especially within the confines of your own home. Get together with ties harmoniously and start an uptrend through proper planning. P.M. have guests and fun at home.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Making many calls today is just fine to start an upswing in your affairs, provided you first map out itinerary and plan what you are going to do or say. This can be either in mercantile or social affairs. Gather much data, too. Be active.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) Good day to make headway in all practical affairs, especially real estate. You can now display that fine ability for business. But don't waste any time in any way. Fine opportunity for deliberate action on new and lucrative enterprise, too.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Today you are able to know exactly what you would like to have in the future. However, do something about these fine visions by quickly getting into the outside world and starting the ball rolling. Express your desires and have fun, too.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) By making plans secretly you can acquire some of the desirable things you so want. However, be certain you get the advice you must have from authorities by confidential consultations. Be sure to keep it all under your hat!

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Many individuals in the higher brackets can be reached today in order for you to get the backing that will bring you success or fame. Then do those things that will make you more popular, and be sure to handle credit properly.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) An upswing is possible now by taking those first steps toward new venture. However, you must be more broad-minded and live the Golden Rule to the best of your ability. Be very ethical in all that you do; pay your bills.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Act according to the highest policy in all affairs of credit, insurance, investments, etc., now. Be particularly careful in matters of government. P.M. is then fine for romance and relaxation. Be gentle.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can reach a better understanding with all associates and friends now. Show your devotion and co-operate to your fullest ability. Later, be out and about socially, decked out in your most charming best. Have fun.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) those who visit will be delighted. Also, show your friends in some tangible way how much you care for them, insuring inner tranquility.

If your child is born today . . The fine child born today will have a tremendous scope to his, or her, visions for the future, but you must early teach work by the sweat of the brow for greatest success, and to be constantly active. Make certain you give fine courses that will fit your unusual youngster for work before the public in great numbers, particularly in the field of acting, singing or any other creative sphere.

NOTICE

CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF TYENDINAGA

Take notice that the following is a true copy of a By-law passed by the Council of the Township of Tyendinaga on the 6th day of July, 1959, and all persons are required to take notice that anyone who desires to apply to have the By-law or any part thereof quashed must serve notice of his application upon the Head or Clerk of this municipality within 20 days after the date of the last publication of this notice, and must make his application to the Supreme Court of Ontario within one month after the said date. This notice was first published on the 15th day of July, 1959, and the last publication will be on the 4th day of August, 1959.

BY-LAW NO. 1368

A By-law to raise $20,000.00 to aid in the construction of tile, stone or timber drains.

1. That the Reeve may from time to time, subject to the provisions of this By-law, borrow on the credit of the Corporation of the Municipality such sum not exceeding in the whole $20,000.00, as may be determined by the Council, and in manner hereinafter pro[illegible] issue debentures of the Corpor[illegible] in such sums as the Council may deem proper for the amount so borrowed, with coupons attached as provided in Section 4 of the said Act.

2. That, subject to Section 10 of The Tile Drainage Act, when the Council is of opinion that the application of any person to borrow money for the purpose of constructing a tile, stone or timber drain should be granted in whole or in part, the Council may, by resolution, direct the Reeve to issue debentures as aforesaid and to borrow a sum not exceeding the amount applied for, and may lend the same to the applicant on the completion of the drainage works.

3. A special annual rate shall be imposed, levied and collected over and above all other rates upon the land in respect of which the money is borrowed, sufficient for the payment of the pricipal and interest as provided by the Act.

Passed the 6th day of uly, 1959.

W. J. WALSH,
Clerk.

28 Injured, Trains Collide Head-on at Udney

ORILLIA (CP) — A passenger train roaring round a curve near here Saturday collided head-on with a slow-moving freight train injuring 28 persons. Ten persons were admitted to hospital.

Crew members jumped clear seconds before the diesel locomotives of both trains smashed together, plunged down a 50-foot bank and burst into flames.

The accident occurred on a single-line curved track near Udney, seven miles east of here. The injured were taken to hospital in a fleet of ambulances and cars.

FIFTH CRASH

The crash is the CNR's fifth passenger train accident within two weeks.

Officials said one of the trains should have been on a siding allowing the other to pass.

The 15-car passenger train No. 56, from North Bay, bound for Toronto, which only runs Saturdays was travelling 70 miles an hour when it came on the freight moving about 20 miles an hour. Both trains braked hard.

Only one passenger car left the tracks. Five or six of the freight's box cars ran off and caught fire.

FOUR IN HOSPITAL

Monday, four of the 28 injured were still in hospital. They were Patrick Jamieson, 39, of Port Credit, engineer of the passenger train; his fireman, Ray Mayglothing, 36, Mimico; dining car waiter Val Velunhanoff, 20, Whitby; and a passenger, Mrs. Ethel Elliott, 73, of Fort Erie.

All were described as in good condition.

Persons released after treatment included Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Lawrence of North Bay.

MURDER CHARGE LAID

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Richard Alexander Huculak, 26, was charged Friday with murder in connection with the beating death of an eight-year-old girl. Huculak was arrested by RCMP Thursday, a few hours after the bodies of Linda and her mother, Violet Doris Townsend, 28, were found in their farm home 20 mile from Trail. Their bodies lay arm-in-arm on a bloodstained bed.

Canadian on Loan to U.S. Lands Crippled Aircraft

TORONTO (CP) — An RCAF pilot on loan to the United States Air Weather Service has been commended for landing a weather reconnaissance plane in Alaska June 29 after a 17-inch piece of propeller almost incapacitated the aircraft.

An account of the incident was reported in the July issue of the Air Weather Service Observer, published at Scott Air Force Base, Illinois.

Flt. Lt. Douglas G. Scott, 33, of Russell, Ont., was flying a regular weather route in a 55th Weather Reconnaissance Squadron WB-50 when a piece of propeller broke off.

It slammed into the plane's fuselage, severed power cables, air lines and bomb bay actuating rods, and rendered an engine almost uncontrollable.

Flt. Lt. Scott, who joined the Air Weather-Service in February, flew the crippled plane for five hours above wild Alaskan wastes, then guided it down for a safe landing at the Eielson Air Force Base.

REVERSED DIRECTION

The plane originally began its flight from Ladd Air Force Base, Alaska, on a lonely weather mission into the polar area. Following the crash of the propeller fragment into the plane, Flt. Lt. Scott reversed his direction for the 1,200-mile run back to the emergency landing strip at Eielson.

Lt.-Gen. William H. Tunner, U.S. Military Air Transport Service commander, described the incident as an "extreme in-flight emergency" and sent a "well-done" message to the Canadian pilot and his crew for "superior judgment and airmanship."

Maj.-Gen. H. H. Bassett, Air Weather Service commander, said later in a statement that handling of the emergency was an "extraordinary display of skill and leadership."

Flt. Lt. Scott, who served with the RCAF from 1943 to 1945 and rejoined in 1948, has logged 22 missions with the Air Weather Service reconnaissance squadron. He has 7,060 hours of flying time.

COOL IN EMERGENCY — —Flt. Lt. Douglas G. Scott, 33, of Russell, Ont., an RCAF pilot on loan to the United States Air Weather Service, has been commended for "superior judgment and airmanship" in an "extreme in-flight emergency" by Lt.-Gen. William H. Tunner, U.S. Military Air Transport Service commander. Flt. Lt. Scott was flying a regular weather route in Alaska June 29 when a 17-inch piece of propeller broke off and almost incapacitated his WB-50 aircraft. He flew the crippled plane for five hours above Alaskan wastes finally guiding it down to a safe emergency landing at Eielson air force base, 1,200 miles away. (CP Photo).

Mr. J. Donaldson, Mrs. Boldock and Jimmy Thomson spent Monday with Mrs. J. Simmons and family at Smithfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mitchell accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grills spent Sunday with Mrs. L. Moncrief, Peterborough.

Mr. Douglas Atkins spent an afternoon recently with Mr. James Garbutt, Front Rd.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Boldrick, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Barrett, Burlington, were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Lazaruik on Saturday night. The men folk were former pals in the navy some few years ago.

Mrs. C. Howard, Miss Barbara Howard and Mrs. S. Ray spent a couple of days in Watertown and Syracuse, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Keene were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. C. Bailey, Wallbridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Barrett of Burlington, were Saturday overnight visitors of Mr. and Mrs. William Lazaruik.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Greatrix called on Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Atkins on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Grills enjoyed a day in the Cornwall district on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Atkins were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wright and children, Stirling, enjoyed a drive on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Atkins and spent the supper hour with the latter.

Recent callers of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Keene were: Mrs. F. Tuepah, Mr. and Mrs. E. Keene and family, Mrs. Kincaid, Mr. and Mrs. Beale, and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Atkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thomson and children called on Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bowers, Trent Road, on Sunday night.

Little Misses Carol and Barbara Goodfellow spent a couple of days recently with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Atkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Atkins accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Russell Boldrick and children to Watertown, Syracuse and Boston last week.

Mr. J. Donaldson, Mrs. Boldock called on Mrs. William Donaldson on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tuepah and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Lee Johnson at Stoco.

Misses Catherine Jordan and Mary Alice Tuepah spent the weekend with Misses Nancy McGowan and Betty Jordan, who are attending six weeks' teachers' course in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Grills and children, also Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hall, Belleville, are spending several days at the "Yorke" cottage, Bancroft.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Thompson, Jack and Anne of Norwood, called on Mrs. Boldock recently.

RUSSIA BLAMED FOR FAILURE AT GENEVA

Khrushchev Asks U.S. To Establish Good Relations

Will Do His Best for Better Understanding

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Nikita Khrushchev today called on the United States to establish friendly relations with Russia and co-operate in guaranteeing peace.

Commenting on his visit to the U.S. in mid-September, the Soviet premier told a press conference in the Kremlin:

"We shall do everything we can to see that the conversations help to establish better understanding between the Soviet Union and the United States and promote peace.

"If there is an improvement in Soviet-American relations, then relations with other countries will also improve and the dark clouds in other parts of the world can be dispelled."

He wanted to talk peace with President Eisenhower "without any sabre-rattling."

He did not think his meetings with Eisenhower should be a substitute for a summit meeting.

FREEZE BERLIN ISSUE

Khrushchev said he is going to the Black Sea for a vacation to "work up strength" for the trip.

He said he was not going to stop over in England because modern transportation is so fast these days you get to your destination "without being able to stop over for tea."

He was not going to visit Canada, he said in reply to another question, because he had not been invited.

Soviet and foreign correspondents crowded into Sverdlov Hall of the Kremlin to hear the 65-year-old premier and party chief who had last given a press conference here March 19.

Edgar Guest, Famous Poet, Dies in Sleep

Known as the "poet of the plain people," Guest turned out 17 volumes of poetry and is perhaps known best by the lead line from one of his poems: "It takes a heap o' livin' in a house t' make it a home."

His poems appeared regularly in the Detroit Free Press to the time of his death.

Cause of death was not known immediately but his housekeeper, Mrs. Mary Showers, said physicians thought it was from cerebral hemorrhage. Mrs. Showers found his body.

Guest's syndicated daily poem [illegible] in nearly 300 newspapers at the height of his popularity. He had been in ill health in recent years.

BORN IN ENGLAND

Guest was born in Birmingham, England and came to Detroit with his family while a boy. After attending school here he worked in a drug store before joining The Free Press.

While exchange editor at The Free Press he began to write poetry, often slipping it into the newspaper as an exchange item. When his secret was discovered he was assigned to write poetry once a week. He later wrote a daily column, Breakfast Chit-chat.

His visits to the newspaper grew infrequent with ill-health and in recent years much of his work was done at home.

The poet's wife, Ellen, died in [illegible]. Guest is survived by a son [illegible] a daughter.

All's Not Well At Airfield

COLCHESTER, Ont. (CP)—The discovery of oil at an offshore drilling field here has resulted in a storm of protests from cottage owners on Lake Erie near the discovery.

The cottagers say oil lost in bringing in Place Gas and Oil Company's first well has contaminated beaches in the area. The oil discovery, made Sunday, was the second from the same well.

Lindsay Council Trying to Get 3,000 Acres Land

LINDSAY (CP)—Town council here Tuesday unanimously voted to apply to the Ontario municipal board for annexation of more than 3,000 acres of land around the present town limits.

The proposed annexation would double the present size of Lindsay. The area contains a parcel of land owned by a Toronto investment corporation which has been reported planning a $5,000,000 housing development.

PILOT DEAD

Order Blackout To Protect Town From Fish Flies

PORT DOVER (CP) — Town council has ordered a blackout to protect this Lake Erie community from millions of fish flies.

Piles of flies have to be shovelled off the streets and hosed off the fronts of buildings every morning. A slight grade on the main street had to be sanded after it had become slippery with crushed flies.

"We get flies every year, but I never remember them as bad as this," Mayor Harold Schneider said. "We have ordered the blackout to combat them."

The night police sergeant turns off main street lights and all but essential harbor lights when he sees the flies coming.

Nehru Howled Down by Commies As 'Dirty Murderer of Democracy'

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Communists called Prime Minister Nehru a "dirty murderer of democracy" today when uproar broke out in India's House of the People.

Nehru tried to intervene when the Speaker barred a Communist motion on alleged attacks against Communists in Kerala state.

Nehru was shouted down by cries of "you dirty murderer of democracy."

Deputy Communist leader A.K. Gopalan, who introduced the motion, said the Communist party and its sympathizers are "being annihilated" in Kerala.

The state's Communist government was dismissed by President Rajendra Prasad July 31 in the wake of an anti-Communist campaign organized by opposition parties. Sixteen persons were killed and hundreds injured in clashes with police during the campaign.

Nehru told a private meeting Tuesday night that the government had taken the action because civil war had almost broken out under the Communist regime.

At today's session, Gopolan complained that the Speaker had not given him the opportunity to put his case before the House and had allowed the motion without giving him a reason.

Proceedings were held up for 20 minutes.

MRS. MOM WHYTE CONTINUES VIGIL OUTSIDE VILLAGE

Aides Report Failure In Talks With Govt.

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte continued her vigil outside Sacred Heart village in suburban Scarborough Tuesday night after aides returned from Queen's Park to report unsuccessful meetings with provincial government officials.

The government took more than 100 children from Whytehaven Friday on a warrant charging neglect. The children were placed in welfare homes throughout the province after being removed from the Bowmanville mission operated by Mrs. Whyte and her husband.

Rev. James Spiers and his wife met a special government committee set up to deal with the problem. They were accompanied by about 20 parents of the children.

REPORTS NO PROGRESS

"We just went round and round in a circle with those men," said Mr. Spiers, who came from Winnipeg to help Mrs. Whyte.

The deputation talked with Dr. James Band, deputy welfare minister and Dr. W. G. Brown, deputy health minister as well as William Bowman, director of public prosecutions and W. H. Bury, director of child welfare.

Government officials later issued a statement that Mr. Bury would meet parents concerned about their children individually to arrange for them to see their children privately.

The statement said "children must remain in the custody of the director of child welfare, and he must continue to be responsible for their care until the matter comes before the court."

CALLS REPORTED

Mr. Spiers told Mrs. Whyte Mr. Bury said he had reviewed dozens of calls from mothers of children taken from the home congratulating the government on its action.

"I can't believe that," said Mom. "None of those children were being kept there against the wills of their parents. They could be taken out anytime."

Mrs. Whyte vows to remain camped outside the Roman Catholic welfare home until authorities give her back Bruce Wilkins, a six-year-old boy brought to her house as a baby after being badly burned.

Queen's Park officials said they would present a case of neglect before a magistrate sometime this week.

PLAN MASS MEETING

Mom and her workers laid plans Tuesday night for a mass meeting to be held at Canadian Legion memorial hall Thursday. They also discussed what legal action might be taken.

Mom's vigil outside Sacred Heart Village was marked by curbside sermons to the curious who came to stare at her stretched out in bare feet on her cot with companions sitting around her on lawn chairs and on the grass.

Most people only stayed for a few minutes to hear Mom's story of the events which led up to the decision to camp at the village. She told them she had not eaten a full meal for 12 days and was willing to go for as many more to get her children back.

Rackets Committee

Charges Hoffa Swung Deals Of 3 Million to Underworld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate rackets committee charged today that James R. Hoffa paid "a long-standing debt to the Chicago underworld" with $3,000,000 of Teamsters Union health and welfare funds.

The committee, in a report to the Senate, said that Teamster President Hoffa personally swung the deals to please the underworld and benefit the family of Paul Dorfman. It said Dorfman is the man who introduce Hoffa to "midwest mob society."

The committee said midwest Teamsters Union members paid dearly for the deals since 1950, in drastic reduction of health-welfare insurance benefits and inflated charges for the insurance.

The committee also filed two other reports with the Senate on its 1958 investigations, alleging:

1. That the brothers Max and Louis Block, who since have resigned as officials of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, "milked the treasuries" of two New York locals. The report said they got $241,000 in salaries and expenses in three years, 1955-57, and manipulated another $293,000 out of the locals' treasuries for other purposes.

2. That the A and P stores eastern division "participated in an elaborate conspiracy" with Max Block to force 10,000 A and P employees into his union under a 45-hour work week contract instead of the 40-hour week rival unions demanded.

The three reports followed one filed by the committee Tuesday.

The committee said then that "it would be hard to find a labor leader who has so shamelessly abust his members or his trust," as Hoffa has done.

Little Rock Schools to Open, Faubus Attitude Is Unknown

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The Little Rock school board Tuesday night advanced by three weeks the scheduled opening date for the city's high schools but denied fear of legislative interference prompted the move.

The board voted unanimously to open the four high schools, closed for a year against integration, on Aug. 12 instead of Sept. 8, when junior high and elementary schools will start their terms.

Board president Everett Tucker Jr. said the board was "familiar with rumors" that Arkansas Governor Orval E. Faubus might call the legislature into session in a new move to block Negro students from attending the same classes as whites.

"But those rumors had nothing to do with this decision," Tucker said. "The board felt these students, who have been out of the public school system for a year, needed additional time to prepare for resuming their studies."

Faubus, who called a special session in 1958 to secure passage of laws that enabled him to close the schools, was out of the city and unavailable for comment.

But he has been critical of the board's plan to assign six Negroes to two once-white schools and has hinted the legislature might be called to prevent it. A federal court struck down the 1958 school-closing law last June.

See No Religious Conflict In Appointment of Vanier

OTTAWA (CP) — Constitutional authorities say there is no religious conflict in the appointment of a Roman Catholic as governor-general.

This delicate question cropped up with Prime Dinister Diefenbaker's announcement that Maj.-Gen. George Vanier of Montreal will succeed Vincent Massey in September as the Queen's representative in Canada.

Gen. Vanier is a Roman Catholic. Mr. Massey and the other 17 governors-general since Confederation have been of the same religious faith as the Queen—Anglican.

With this precedent, the moot point is the concluding phrase of the Queen's title as applied in Canada:

"Elizabeth the Second, by the grace of God of the United Kingdom, Canada and her other realms and territories queen, head of the Commonwealth, defender of the faith."

Such is the wording agreed upon at the Imperial Conference in London in 1952, when the old title—couched in terms of empires—finally was scrapped 21 years after Canada gained autonomy through the Statute of Westminster.

Canada, Australia and New Zealand as well as the U.K. retained the phrases "by the grace of God" and "defender of the faith." But for obvious reasons, these were deleted from titles for the predominantly non-Christian countries—India, Pakistan, Ceylon and South Africa.

Paradoxically, the original Latin title of "fidei defensor" was conferred on Henry VIII by Pope Leo X in 1521, as a reward for publication of a treatise against Martin Luther.

King Henry, however, fell from Rome's grace in one of his half-dozen marital exploits. In 1544, Pope Paul II removed Henry's "defender" title, but the British Parliament just as quickly restored it—and there it has remained since.

Thus did the reigning sovereign evolve as the titular head of the Church of England.

In Canada, it has been accepted by many that the governor-general not only represents the Queen as head of state, but also in her religious capacity.

But apparently this has no constitutional foundation, say the Ottawa experts.

The phrase "defender of the faith" is interpreted here as applying to Christianity in general, and not to the Anglican Church specifically.

Governor-General Massey, who has attended Anglican services regularly in Ottawa and elsewhere, also on several occasions has gone to a Roman Catholic church—sometimes on the invitation of the church, sometimes for weddings of personal friends.

Gen. Vanier may also be requested from time to time to take part in Anglican and other Protestant services. Officials of both faiths here can see no reason why he would not accept.

Queen, Philip Still Plan to Visit Islands

LONDON (CP) — Buckingham Palace officials confirmed Tuesday night the Queen still plans to go ahead with her tour of the remote and storm-swept Orkney and Shetland Islands — despite newspaper reports that she is exhausted after her 15,000 - mile Canadian tour.

The two-day trip to the northern islands, off the coast of Scotland, starts Monday.

The Queen, with Prince Philip, will visit Orkney Island first and will be in the Shetlands Tuesday.

This Thursday the Queen and Prince Philip go to Balmoral, their official residence in Scotland, to prepare for the island trip.

The Queen is expected to undergo a routine medical check. Some newspapers, convinced the 45-day Canadian visit tired her out, have suggested she call off the island tour.

After the trip the Queen and Prince Philip will return to Balmoral for their summer vacation.

ADMITS SHOOTING FATHER

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP)—Authorities Friday charged 22-year-old Bobbie Juanita Osborne with slaying her father. She said she shot him, "Oh, just for the hell of it." Miss Osborne said she shot Robert A. Osborne, 58, after a tour of bars with him.

TROOPS GUARD JITTERY CARACAS AFTER RIOTING

4 Killed, 100 Hurt In Police Clashes

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Armed troops kept vigil today over Venezuela's jittery capital, shaken by nine hours of bloody rioting in which at least four persons were killed and more than 100 wounded.

Police had orders to seize anyone trying to resume the demonstrations that began Tuesday as an unemployment protest and snowballed into the worst riots since President Romulo Betancourt took office six months ago.

The president banned all demonstrations and public meetings for 30 days. He denied that the riots had any political overtones, declaring they had been touched off by adventurers. There have been many recent rumors, however, of brewing plots to overthrow Betancourt, elected to succeed the military junta that ousted dictator Marcos Perez Jiminez.

WORKERS PROTEST

The disturbance began with a rally of workers protesting cancellation of an emergency public works project to provide jobs for the unemployed. There were protests, too, against government plans to change a slum area into a park.

Goaded by agitators, the mob grew to an estimated 10,000 persons and began roaming in bands through sections of the city, attacking police, shops and government buildings.

Police moved in but were attacked with clubs and stones. They countered with a tear-gas barrage, then fired over the heads of the crowd. Gradually, government forces got the upper hand and cleared the streets.

The total number arrested could not be learned immediately.

EMERGENCY ACTION

At the height of the rioting, Betancourt called the cabinet into emergency session. Later he suspended the constitutional immunity from arrest without a warrant.

Betancourt's emergency works plan employed some 26,000 Caracas workers in repairing streets, building bridges and other improvements.

Venezuela has about 100,000 jobless. In ordering the emergency plan abandoned, the president said many of those hired showed up only to collect their pay. He said construction jobs are available for those who really want work.

Hail Storm Damages Crops

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP) A vicious hail storm blasted a 90-mile path of damage through this northern Saskatchewan area Tuesday night.

Crop damage estimates ranged from 25 to 100 per cent. Windows were smashed and garden crops pounded flat by the huge hail stones, some the size of golf balls.

Bridges With Three Levels Will Move up, Down Like Elevator

HANCOCK, Mich. (AP)—This upper peninsula area is being fitted for a bridge that moves up and down like an elevator.

And a spectacular bit of engineering will take place here some time late in August when a key segment will be added to one of the world's unique bridges.

A $10,000,000 vertical lift bridge now is under construction between Hancock and Houghton to link the rest of Michigan with the extreme northwesterly Keweenaw Peninsula.

The bridge spans the Portage Canal, which serves as a short cut for Great Lake shipping traffic.

When wind and weather are just right, a 3,500,000 pound doubledeck, combination road and railway steel lift span will be floated into place by tugs and attached to the 200 - foot high tower piers of the bridge.

It will have two levels of roadway—a lower one to carry train traffic and an upper level for motor vehicles and pedestrians.

The bridge will operate in three positions.

The first will have a normal clearance of seven feet above water. The second will raise the span to a 32-foot clearance to allow passage of larger pleasure craft. Cars will be able to use the railroad deck at this level to permit an uninterrupted flow of traffic on U.S. 41.

The third position will lift the huge span to 100 feet to allow passage of the largest ships.

The American Bridge division of the U.S. Steel Corp. and the A. H. Johnson Co. of Minneapolis will move the big span into place. The bridge firm has a $5,933,887 contract for structural steel and machinery. The Johnson Co. has a $4,075,000 contract for other construction, including piers and approach work.

The state highway department said the structure will be the world's widest and heaviest vertical lift bridge.

Charges Soviet Sought To Annex West Berlin

Were Not Interested In Improving Situation

GENEVA (AP)—The Western powers blamed Russia at the closing session of the Big Four conference today for their failure to reach agreement here on a Berlin settlement. They accused the Soviet Union of seeking to annex West Berlin to the Communist system.

State Secretary Herter said that as far as he had been able to determine in almost 10 weeks of negotiation the Soviet Union is "not really interested in improving the situation in Berlin."

"It is interested in getting the Western powers out of Berlin," he said in his final speech of the conference. "Apparently continued competitive coexistence of freedom and communism in Berlin is unrewarding to the Soviet Union. . .

"The Soviet proposals (in the conference) to date have seemed to us to be designed gradually to annex these people (of West Berlin) to the Communist system against their will. This cannot be permitted."

Herter held the door open to another round of talks among the foreign ministers, perhaps late this year. A recess agreement worked out Tuesday night with Russia's Andrei Gromyko was reported to leave the date open.

ON SUMMIT TALKS

Whether a new round will be able to accomplish more than the negotiations which began here May 11 probably will depend on the outcome of the discussions between President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev. The decision to hold these talks has already discounted the failure of the foreign ministers at Geneva.

Herter said the West had been willing to accept a Berlin agreement limited in time provided its rights in West Berlin were not jeopardized. But he declared that he and his colleagues had never been able to get from Gromyko a "plain answer" to the question of what would happen to Allied rights in Russia's view if such an agreement were made.

Gromyko would say "Let us not answer that question" or "Let us wait and see," Herter said and "any such answer is totally unacceptable to my government."

The ministers agreed to recess the conference—not end it. But the date for resuming negotiations was left open. Far more important now are the discussions Eisenhower and Khrushchev will hold next month in Washington and later in Moscow.

LESSENS THREAT

The exchange of visits lessened for the time being the Soviet threat to West Berlin. Were it not for this prospective exchange, the failure of the foreign ministers to reach any accord on Berlin might have created an extremely haxarduous situation.

There is increasing talk in diplomatic quarters here, however, that the new reprieve for West Berlin has not been secured without cost, and the Eisen-

Footprints Raise Hope Boy May Still Be Alive

WAWA (CP) — Two Indians, part of a search group hunting for a missing seven-year-old boy, have found footprints on a beach, raising hope that he may still be alive.

The prints were found Tuesday night, leading away from No Name Lake where it had been feared that Michael Vanreek might have been drowned. They crossed a beaver dam, went around the other side of the lake and through sand to a road.

The child, clad in shirt and shorts and wearing cowboy boots and cowboy gun, wandered into the dense bushland about 11 miles from Wawa Sunday afternoon.

The mother was brought to the scene and identified the tracks as that of the little boy which showed the imprint of the buckle and wedge heels of his cowboy boots.

Michael disappeared half an hour after Mrs. Henry Vanreek of Wawa arrived with him and her mother, Mrs. Marjorie Vanreek, and her daughter Sandra, 12.

Each night the others return to Wawa, but the mother, under sedation but refusing to give up hope, refuses to leave the cottage on the lake 100 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie.

STEADY SEARCH

A steady stream of 300 to 400 searchers has been out 24 hours a day since Sunday, drawn from Wawa and Michipicoten. A lands and forests helicopter joined the hunt but was hampered because observers were unable to see through the dense, fly - infested bush.

Day shift workmen from the Algoma ore properties are searching at night. Night workers take over during the day.

They have been joined by road gangs and "about 95 per cent" of the population of Wawa, provincial police said.

Henry Vanreek, the boy's father was drowned early in May on a fishing trip near Michipicoten.

POLICE REINFORCED

Provincial police reinforcements are being flown into this mining town to intensify the search for the boy.

Provincial Police Constable Grant Hill who has been in charge of searching operations is near exhaustion.

OPP Constable Max McCarthy who lived in Wawa for a number of years and is an experienced woodsman and a sergeant from the Sault detachment of the OPP will assist in directing searching parties.

Business is practically at a standstill in town as every available man joins the search parties.

SULPHIDE DRIVER HURT IN MISHAP

Vincent Farrell, Sulphide, is in Belleville General Hospital in satisfactory condition following a highway accident near Plainfield Tuesday evening. Mr. Farrell complained of general soreness and was undergoing X-rays to determine if there were any broken bones.

Police said that Mr. Farrell was alone in his truck when the vehicle went off the highway and crashed into a tree. The mishap occurred about 7:30 last night. Provincial Police from Belleville investigated.

SUMMER PROGRAMS OF BAND CONCERTS CONTINUED SUNDAY

The summer program of band concerts at Victoria Park will be resumed on Sunday following a recess for the month of July, it was noted today by Alderman Les Digby, chairman of the city council band committee.

Starting off the August program of concerts will be the Salvation Army Band which will be heard on August 9th. On August 16th the Quinte Highland Pipe Band will play, while the program for the following two Sundays, August 23rd and 30th, will be played by the Belleville Municipal Band.

POLICE CONTINUING DRIVE AGAINST TRAFFIC OFFENDERS

City Police are continuing their drive against traffic offenders with a number of motorists being checked yesterday and last night for speedings, failure to stop for stop signs and other traffic offences.

Otherwise police activities were at a comparative lull although a number of LCA offenders were rounded up and lodged in the police cells during the night.

FIRST VISIT HOME IN 38 YEARS

When Mr. Arthur Holton of England visits with his sister, Mrs. Violet Williams, 21 North Front Street, during the latter part of this month, it will be his first visit to his former home town since 1921. In order that his visit may be pleasant and so he may renew as many old acquaintances as possible, old friends of Mr. Holton are asked to contact WO-2-0850.

County Men Stake New Mining Areas

Extensive staking and prospecting activity in the central Hastings county area for promising copper and gold deposits, is reported by two-county men actively interested in mine development work.

Vers McMurray, Gilmour, and Carl Boslak of Stirling have recently optioned a 500-acre tract of copper bearing property to a Toronto mining firm, while staking of adjoining properties is rapidly going ahead.

Assay reports for the optioned copper property indicate ore veins bearing four to five per cent copper, it is stated. The ore vein is close to the surface.

Also in the same general area gold bearing ores have been located with assays showing from $7 to $70 per ton of ore. One high "spot" assay showed gold ore content of $7,000 per ton.

Gold properties in the area are expected to be tied up within the next few months with prospects for options with mining development firms as soon as staking is completed.

The Ontario Department of Mines is showing interest in the same general area and greatly increased activity is expected within the next two years.

CHARGES SOVIET

Gromyko was reported to have made a final effort to word the communique so as to recognize East Germany as a virtual participant in the conference. The West rebuffed him.

In its final form Tuesday night, the communique said that, despite Frank and comprehensive discussion, the ministers had not found it possible to reach agreement on Berlin. But they said they considered the talks useful.

Alan Edgar Haw Receives Degree In Literature

DOCTOR ALAN E. HAW

Alan Edgar Haw of 75 Humewood Drive, Belleville, has earned the degree of Doctor of Sacred Literature from The Colonial Academy, Rockford, Illinois, it has been announced by education executive director, R. Julius Hansen, Ph.D., D.D.

The Academy is affiliated with the Pioneer Theological Seminary, a Baptist college fully accredited by the National Association of Bible Schools, and duly authorized by the Laws of the State of Illinois, to grant appropriate degrees and diplomas upon students who have completed prescribed courses.

Dr. Haw's post-graduate work leading to the D. S. L. degree included a scholarly thesis on the subject, "The Ethics of Realism in Fiction".

Well known as a Christian author and journalist, Dr. Haw served a term as president of the Christian Writers' Association of Canada and is at present Honorary President of this nation-wide organization, which is said to be the largest of its kind in the world. He is also a contributing editor of "The Canadian Christian Writer", official organ of the association.

SHORT STORY WRITER

He has written short stories, serials and articles for various denominational magazines in Canada and the U.S.A. and numerous religious news reports, many of which have appeared in the Ontario Intelligencer and other newspapers during the past twenty years.

A devoted Christian worker, Dr. Haw was for a number of years chairman of publicity at Victoria Avenue Baptist Church and served several terms on the board of deacons. For the past few years he has acted as deacon, treasurer and Sunday School teacher at Calvary Temple.

A member of the professional branch of The National Writers' Club, with headquarters at Denver, Colorado, he was for some years on the board of critics for Christian and juvenile fiction. Several beginning writers achieved publication as a result of Dr. Haw's criticism and coaching.

Boy Cycling On Street Hit By Thrown Bottle

TRENTON — Carl Arthur, age 15, R.R. 2, Trenton, received a wound requiring six stitches from a coke bottle thrown from the window of a passing car on Saturday. This was revealed at Trenton Magistrate's Court yesterday, when Gordon N. Brown, of Toronto, was charged with the offence, described by Magistrate T. Y. Wills as a "case of gross carelessness."

Grant Gooding, well-known Trenton citizen, was immediately following the car concerned in his own car, and described what he saw. The car, which contained four young men, was being driven east on Dundas St. East, at Herman Street, when the bottle was thrown from the window, hitting Arthur, who was cycling along the street.

The lad was rushed to Trenton Memorial Hospital, where his injuries were treated. Constable Sid Vickers investigated the incident.

There was evidence that the accused had been drinking. Upon being questioned, Brown said he was just looking for a place to throw the bottle, and did not even see the boy.

Magistrate Wills ordered Brown to be remanded one week for sentence, and ordered him to write a letter to his family in Toronto, so that they could raise the money to pay for the hospital and doctor's bills involved and the costs.

VISITING IN TOWN

A visitor from far-away places arrived in Trenton this week. Mrs. Charles Grant flew in from Holywood, County Down, North Ireland, to renew acquaintance with Trenton friends. She is staying with her uncle, Rev. A. C. McCallum and his sister, Mrs. N. J. Mooney, 184 Byron Street.

TELEVISION FIRE

A fire which broke out yesterday evening in the wiring of a television set belonging to Mrs. J. Lucas, 181 Dundas Street E., caused principally smoke damage. Trenton Fire Department reported this morning.

CAR DAMAGED

$250 damage was caused yesterday afternoon when a 1952 Meteor, driven by Raymond Mercier, RCAF Station, Trenton, made a wide turn while going north on Front St., and hit a Graham's taxi, driven by Wm. Coltman, 129 Leopold St.

Plane Reported Missing Did Not Take Off

TRENTON (CP) — The RCAF search and rescue station here said today a plane reported missing with four persons aboard did not take off.

The single engine amphibious plane was reported missing between Orillia and Timagami—some 200 miles north—carrying Toronto executive Joseph Dunkelman, his wife, Claire, his mother-in-law and his three-year-old son Alexander David.

However, the RCAF said a communications check Tuesday night with a neighbor near the Dunkelman summer home on Timagami Island indicated the plane didn't take off because of adverse weather conditions.

A. T. Thompson of Toronto, Mrs. Dunkelman's brother, said the telephone to the summer home was out of order.

A household employee of the Dunkelmans in Toronto said Mr. Dunkelman left Friday and was to fly from Orillia to Timagami.

Mr. Dunkelman is the son of David Dunkleman, founder of Tip Top Tailors Limited.

He is president of J. D. Dunkelman and Son Ltd., a firm dealing in wool goods, and has also recently been active in a company which produces films for television.

Heavy Agenda For Magistrate In Police Court

TRENTON — Magistrate T. Y. Wills presided over a well-filled magistrate's court yesterday afternoon, when the temperature was more conducive to a pleasant sitting than it was last week.

Arthur Murray King Belleville, charged with driving on the left side of the highway at Dundas Street west, pleaded not guilty. As the accused wished to call witnesses, Magistrate Wills ordered the case to be heard again Aug. 25.

Everett Terry was charged with exceeding the speed limit on Front Street on June 13. Called as a witness, Vincent Hill, an electrical mechanic employed by Hyde and Sons, Trenton, said that he had removed and examined the speedometer in Mr. Terry's car, and in his statement said that it was one-half to one mile off.

Constable Schlager described how on the day in question he was at the railway tracks just past Division, when he was passed first by a black car and then by a sports car driven by the accused, which passed him at quite a speed. The constable then gave chase, passed the car at 65 m.p.h. blowing a warning horn at the driver as he did so. Constable Schlager continued to chase the car driven by Mr. Terry, for a distance of about six or seven blocks, and it was pulling away from him all the time.

When the constable got to O'Malley's store the sports car had turned off. When the car arrived almost at the approach to the 401 Highway, Constable Schlager succeeded in overtaking it and forcing it to stop.

The case was adjourned.

GUILTY OF THEFT

Edward Allen Berry, 23 Quinte Street, was found guilty of attempting the theft of money, less than $50, from a newspaper vending machine outside Ireland's drug store on the evidence presented.

Constable Jack Graham, in giving evidence, said that at 2.40 a.m. he was patrolling Dundas Street East, and from his position between the post office and the Bank of Commerce, he saw the accused working on the newspaper vending machine outside Ireland's drug store. As a car came along the street Barry left the stand and walked east. Finally, picking up the stand, the accused carried it behind the building to the parking lot. Constable Graham went up King Street and around the back of the stores in the square, and came on Berry still working on the machine with what appeared to be a tire iron. Both the machine and the tire iron were exhibited in court. Berry then fled, with the constable in pursuit, as far as the vacant lot between Woolworth's and the next store, where he vanished. Berry was arrested at his home later in the day.

Magistrate Wills said that in view of his previous convictions the public should be protected from this man until he could adapt himself to the laws under which everyone had to live.

Accused was ordered to appear in Belleville on Thursday morning.

Car Strikes Pole

WINDSOR (CP)—Frank Kenyon, 58, of Essex, was killed Tuesday night when the gasoline truck he was driving struck a hydro pole. Police speculated that Mr. Kenyon suffered a heart attack.

Doctors Fight To Save Life Of Young Baby

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Doctors are fighting to save the life of 18-months-old Gregory Bowden who spent more than 60 hours without food in a basement apartment filled with carbon monoxide fumes.

The gas killed the child's parents, Marvin, 22 and Audrey, 19.

The baby was reported in improved condition Tuesday night.

The parents were found dead in their apartment Tuesday after Mr. Bowden's mother became alarmed because she had not heard from him.

He had been visiting her Saturday night when his wife telephoned that she and the baby were sick and that he should come home immediately.

Coroner Dr. P. J. Sweeney said an autopsy showed Audrey Bowden had died of slow carbon monoxide poisoning, believed caused by natural gas.

All apartment winows [illegible] been closed tight. There was no odor of gas, police added.

The apartment kitchen contained a gas stove and refrigerator. The pilot lights were still burning, Dr. Sweeney said. It was believed the couple had been in a coma for at least 24 hours.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials did a turn-about today as yesterday's gains were erased and the stock market was mixed in light morning trading.

The 11 a.m. volume was 656,000 shares, down from Tuesday's 782,000 at the same hour.

Most industrial losses were in small fractions. Dominion Stores, down ⅜ at 70½, was typical.

In senior base metals International Nickel dipped ⅝ at 100 but Noranda and Steep Rock added [illegible] Gunar Uranium was down ⅛ [illegible] 13⅝.

Kerr-Addison, up ¼ at 21, had the major move in a quiet gold group.

Industrials gained .82 to 553.42 while base metals were ahead .40 to 177.0. Western oils were off .27 to 118.93 and golds dipped .37 to 89.57.

The final volume was 2,713,000 shares, somewhat better than Friday's with 2,255,000.

Steels showed the best over-all industrials gains.

Dominion Stores, Interprovincial Pipe Lines and Moare Corp. were up around 1 point. Canadian Tire led losers, off 4 at 196. Ford A, Loblaw Inc. and Toronto-Dominion Bank each dipped 2.

International Nickel added 1⅛ at 100⅝ while Falconbridge added ½ at 30½. Geco was down ½ at 18. Among uraniums, Consolidated Denision dipped ¼ at 15 and Gunnar was off ⅛ at 13¾.

In golds, Giant Yellowknife eared 30 cents at $7.55 while Aunor and Consolidated Discovery were off in a 10-to-15-cent range. Hollinger and McIntyre led seniors, each up ½.

Fights Shark Barehanded, Lands Him

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Harvey Hill wrestled an eight-foot shark with his bare hands and landed him on a beach Sunday.

"I never feared him," says Hill, 22, a maintenance man.

Here's how Hill tells it:

A friend of mine Mickey Swain, and me had spent Saturday night on the beach.

"Musta been daybreak when I woke up and saw the big fin in the water.

"I grabbed him by the tail and he started fighting.

"He lit out for deeper water but he couldn't go no place because of the sand bar.

"I grabbed him again, locked my legs around him and rode him for awhile.

"My friend Mickey come up, but he was kinda shark-shy."

The shark was identified as a hammer-head, a sluggish but still dangerous species.

It weighed about 250 pounds, Hill said.

20 Take Part In Annual Club Rally

Some twenty persons participated in the St. Lawrence Automobile Club's annual Belleville Rally which was held last Sunday. The event, organized by Jim Graham, assisted by Jim Williamson, led competitors "along the garden path" from Napanee, the rally's starting point, to Belleville via many of the scenic roads in Prince Edward County.

Many of the club members also saw a great part of the county to the north of Napanee, even as far as Cloyne, north of Kaladar. This route was in the nature of a "bonus" for not having correctly interpreted the information given to each entrant at the starting line.

For those who chose the correct route, which proceeded in a southerly direction to Picton, there was a pleasant three-quarter to one hour break whilst waiting for a ferry at Glenora. The recess allowed the navigators time to do much mathematical figuring re average speeds whilst those not similarly occupied congratulated the organizers on having laid on such a delightful route.

The rally finished at Mr. Graham's residence on the Trent Road, where the competitors managed to impress one another with the details of their prowess over coffee and a light luncheon After much calculation the results were complied and first place was awarded to James, Barbara and Lynn McCaw of Kingston, second place to Jim Dolan and Nadine Flunder of Belleville and third place to Wayne Read and Doug Phippen, also of Belleville.

ROYAL TOUR FILM

TORONTO (CP)—The National Film Board's 30-minute film of the Royal Tour through the St. Lawrence Seaway was shown in four Canadian cities Monday, less than 48 hours after the royal couple left Canada. The film, Royal River, opened in Halifax, Ottawa, Kingston and Cornwall.

BCI Undergoes Face-Lifting Other Schools Under Repair

Correcting the deterioration caused by 30 years of weather, an extensive face-lifting and exterior repair job is currently underway at the Belleville Collegiate.

Included in the $24,000 project is rebuilding of the roof parapet where necessary with installation of a copper course at the roof level to keep out the weather, repointing of the brick on the entire building, repointing of coping and trim stones about entrances and windows, and waterproofing of the entire brick area with a silicone application.

The work has been underway since late in June by A. C. Horne Company which last summer effected repairs to the clock tower at Belleville city hall. It is expected the collegiate job will be completed in another week or so.

Repointing of the countless thousands of brick on the exterior of the Collegiate is not done on a unit basis but is accomplished on a more or less mass production system.

Special width masking tape is used to cover each individual brick, leaving mortar joints exposed. Then the worker uses a big scrub brush to apply a mortar and cement mixture covering the entire area. When the mortar is set the masking tape is stripped away leaving the repointed mortar joints. The resulting job leaves a slightly wider mortar joint than the original and causes the brick to stand out more clearly.

To complete the job a silicone mixture is applied to the entire wall surface as a weather-proofing.

And as the exterior face lifting at the collegiate progresses another program of re-decoration has been going on inside the school.

During the holiday period the two east stairwells have been repainted as well as two classrooms. This work was done under contract by local decorator Walter McMormack. Also during the holiday period a new hardwood floor has been laid in the collegiate machine shop room.

With the Quinte Secondary school, a comparatively new building, no extensive program of redecoration has been necessary but flood lighting of the school parking lot and building exterior has just recently been completed.

School board secretary Roy Dulmage noted today that the board had the assurance of the contractor that the classroom wing of the new Moira Secondary School in the east end of the city will be completed in time for the school opening in September. The balance of the school will be turned over on a progressive basis.

It is expected however that all students assigned to the school for the September opening will be accommodated in the new building with only minor inconvenience. Non-completion of the shop rooms and certain other departments will necessitate a re-shuffling of some classes for a few weeks.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS

At the same time an extensive repair program is being carried out in various city public schools during the holiday season.

Most of this work with the exception of laying of a new parking lot area at Queen Alexandra School is being carried out by the school regular maintenance crews.

Roof repairs are being carried out at two city schools, while at three schools, school furniture is being sanded down and re-finished and floors are being given a general cleaning where required. The exterior trim at the Prince Charles School has been repainted.

The public school board has been in their new administration building at the corner of Bridge and Chatham Streets for the past two weeks. The new building replaces a former structure which was damaged by fire a year ago.

POPULATION GROWS

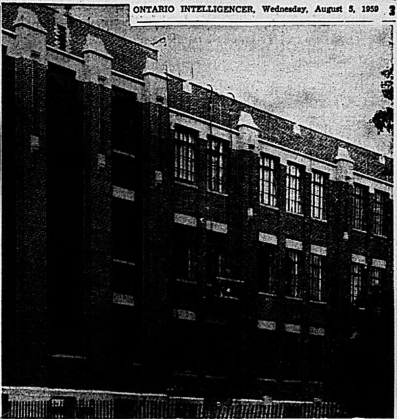
Canada has had an annual population growth of two per cent for the last few years.

Cannifton Clergyman Attends Rural School

Shown in the photo is a group of rural clergymen at O. A. C., studying soils and agriculture, left to right — Dr. B. C. Matthews, of the O.A.C. soils department, who lectured the clergymen; Rev. Ewart Madden, Watford; Rev. James Macartney, Cannifton; Rev. Andrew H. McKenzie, Acton; Mrs. G. K. Dolby, Campbellford, and Rev. W. L. Henley, Pakenham.

Clergymen from all parts of rural Ontario spent last week at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, attending the tenth annual School for Rural Clergy. The purpose of this school is to enable ministers in rural areas to become better acquainted with the latest developments and problems confronting the farmer today so that they may return to their parishes and provide more effective leadership with the knowledge they have gained.

The ministers are studying rural sociology which is emphasizing economic changes and their effect on rural living values, while a second course is on soils and land use and features studies of soil conservation, efficient farm practices, and field trips for a first hand examination of practical farm conditions.



Contrast of new work with the darker appearance of weathered brickwork, is clearly apparent at Belleville Collegiate as a program of repointing of brickwork nears completion. Repointing program is within a week of completion with only a few columns remaining to be done.

Brick repointing is done on a mass production basis. Here worker Wayne Gerry is seen using heavy brush to apply repointing mortar after brick is covered with special masking tape.

With building permits to the value of over half a million dollars being issued in the city during July, the city building total for the first seven months of the year now totals $3,114,827.

These figures were released yesterday by city building inspector Grant Stickle. During the past month there were 41 new permits issued, 10 of these being for the construction of new residences.

Included in the month's building total were permits for the construction of the new nurses' residence, the cost figure for this being in the $300,000 bracket, and the permit for the new Calvary Temple on Dundas Street East, at a cost of $90,000.

The building total for the city to the end of June was $2,559,918.

THE GREAT GAME

Into The Ontario Intelligencer office there comes, from time to time, a young man eager to be a reporter. Because of this and because a multitude aspire to shine in journalism, perhaps a few remarks would be in order.

The life of a newspaper reporter is no primrose path and rarely one of rich rewards. He cannot bank on past achievements. He must keep his curiosity untired, grinding out the news in logical sequence, until the little bell tinkles for the last time.

It is of uncertain tenure. No man may hold his job if he quarrels with the editor who sets his task or the publisher who pays his wage. He may "graduate" from a small to a big paper and find it has various taboos, friends, enemies, and political leanings, which may or may not conform to his own.

He sees his choicest prose hacked and mangled by impatient editors, hard-pressed for time and space, a deadline mere minutes away. Sometimes the work of several days, for which he has girded himself to audacities or gone without sleep to secure, is swiftly pushed off the page for more important news or, worse still, not used at all.

He may try freelancing, a very difficult undertaking, operating alone, submitting articles to various papers, and sometimes, long afterward, find his articles used without his name and without having been paid a penny. This is invidious robbery. It happens aplenty in Canada.

When a doctor or a teacher or an engineer makes a mistake it is known within the profession, often confined to a few. But a mistake in a newspaper is there for all to see. And when another secures a "scoop," the fault is usually the reporter's. He did not know. He should have known. What was he doing? Spooning with Susie at the movies?

Generally it is no job for a woman. Suffering is bad enough for a man to witness and certainly does not enrich the finer part of woman, which gives so much warmth and comfort to the world. If she remains a reporter long enough, she is liable to become cynical and hard. Some do.

* * *

Editors decide what should be given preference. Editorial writers sit back and comment. Behind it all is the reporter. He feeds the machine. Home life is not for him. He must hurry from home for a fire or a bad accident. He meets athletes, and the occasional hero. He sees the change and melodrama of daily life. And his own is one of tedium, excitement and toil, a constant strain on the mind and heart.

People are pleasant to him, sometimes affectedly pleasant, because they want to get into the paper. Occasionally he is tempted with liquor and money. He perceives the excess of adornment and the hollowness that often lies beneath. He has recorded the readily forgettable essence of interminable speeches from the platform.

The lure of adventure is strong. The test of wits, the thrill of getting into the middle of life, even for moments, with people in the public eye - - if the reporter's days are dull, it is his own fault. If his days are dull for long, he should not be a reporter.

For one with sharp eyes, some choice of words and interest in events and people, it is one of the best games in the world, provided he can steel himself to disappointment and keep his mind unsullied from the dirt.

* * *

How readers take the paper and enjoy it! How easily they read items and articles laid out just so, to catch the eye and interest, and to hold it as long as possible.

The finished page looks easy. Its composition is not. This kind of type or that? And what size? What word will fit the heading? How can this corner be filled? It must be exactly two inches. It is half-past two. Only ten minutes till press time and that photograph is not ready yet - - and so it goes. Headlines are written and pages made up and the paper goes to press.

It roars. The paper comes off. There has never been anything like it. Local, national and world news swiftly wrought to suit the day. Is it not a wonderful thing?

LIGHTNING RODS WORK

The lightning rod salesman apparently still has a place in the scheme of things. In 1958 more than 1,000 fires were caused by lightning where the buildings were not fitted with lightning rods. The loss was nearly $500,000. In contrast only thirty buildings fitted with lightning rods caught fire and the total loss was less than $10,000. (Tweed News.)

RESPONDING TO MALICE

By EDGAR A. GUEST

When bitterness begins to speak
Of people that I know,
I turn away and gently say:
"I haven't found them so."

When envy lifts its angry head
To snarl at friends of mine,
I never let myself forget
That I have found them fine.

I won't believe a man is base
Or false, whoe'er he be,
Until the day that I may say
That he's been false to me.

Real Artists Do Not Need a Push

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Scarcely a week passes that I do not receive at least a few letters from men and women (usually women) who think they might be writers if only given a little encouragement and a slight push in the right direction.

"My friends all tell me my letters are so wonderful," the correspondent often writes, "that I am taking the liberty of enclosing a few little pieces, and I hope you have the time to let me know what you think of them."

I always answer such letters politely and evasively, pointing out that I never give literary advice, that there are reputable firms which make a business of doing so, and that I wish the bludding writer the best of luck in his choice of a career.

In 99 instances out of 100, the material they send me is perfectly awful — from a professional point of view. But they would not believe me if I told them so, and would chalk up my reaction to jealousy or ill-temper or just stupidity.

Apart from the obvious lack of talent in most of these efforts, the dead giveaway is the desire for "encouragement" or a "slight push" in the right direction. With such beginning attitudes, no person can ever become a creative artist of any kind.

If you have the stuff of which artists are made, you cannot be discouraged. You will continue to produce work, not because you like to, but because you must. The artist's compulsion is very much like the addict's.

Nor does an artist require a slight push. He is self-propelling; he cannot be torn away from his mission. He will write, paint or compose, whether his children are starving, his wife has deserted him, or the world treats him like a lunatic.

I am not saying that these are optimum conditions for the artist; I am not making the foolish and insolent middle-class assumption that such scorn and sacrifice are actually "good" for the artist; I am simply pointing out that these are the dynamics of his nature.

If Mozart had waited for encouragement, he would have written nothing but cafe songs; if Melville had looked for a slight push, he would have continued a government clerk and put not a line of "Moby Dick" to paper. Such instances could be multiplied endlessly.

Writing chatty, amusing letters to friends has no more relationship to literary talent than trotting a pony has to winning the Grand Steeplechase. The amateur and the professional may differ in degree of talent; but, more than this, they differ in persistence, in courage, in zeal, in a spirit that need not be encouraged and cannote be at all discouraged.

RCMP Boat's Bad Example

Brockville Recorder and Times

It would be amusing if it were not alarming to find a branch of our law enforcement forces doing a pretty good job of setting a bad example.

Recently an RCMP patrol boat passed Brockville ahead of the HMY Britannia, a day ahead of it. The boat was travelling at a speed sufficient to throw waves over the docks along Brockville's waterfront. Even the larger ocean liners don't do this when observing the law. It takes about 16 knots to do the trick. The speed limit, as posted at the canal entrances is eight knots in the Brockville harbor area.

What happens to small river craft when a boat like this speeds by? What happens to people's respect for the law?

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

August 5th, 1939.

A letter received this morning by His Worship, the Mayor from an appreciative resident of York, Pa., a recent guest at the city tourist camp is published. Dated August 2nd the letter reads . . . On June 28th a party of three of us (in Canada for a week) camped at your tourist grounds. May I compliment you on the nice ground, the splendid equipment, and the very efficient and courteous caretaker, Mr. Wilder. We stayed until late in the next day because we liked the looks and spirit of your town. Merchants were usually polite and helpful wherever we went.

Mrs. A. W. Lent and daughter Elaine, have returned to Port Hope, after visiting relatives in this city.

Mrs. G. Dafoe, Burton Street entertained at a surprise party for her mother, Mrs. Mary E. Tompkins, in honor of her birthday. The guests played cards and had a very enjoyable evening.

At a meeting of the Belleville Cheese Board 2,548 boxes of white cheese and 60 boxes of colored cheese were boarded. Nearly all sold at 11 5-16 cents and 11 5-8 cents. These prices have prevailed for the past few weeks.

Letter To The Editor

French Students Enjoyed Visit to City

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

I read your editorial of the 29th of July about the French students' visit in Belleville. I appreciated it very much, and in the view of supporting it, I will give you, in spite of my bad English, the impressions that the French students transmitted to me.

What were their general impressions about their visit? These impressions, I think, can be expressed in two words: formation and kindness.

By formation I mean, in first, that they found here a way of living a little bit different from their own. They noticed, for example, the different hours and composition of the meals. As you see, it is a poor and, maybe, a too much material example. The reason is that they were surprised more by the resemblance than by the differences with their own way of living. In second, their visits in and around the city brought them a few elements of beauty, science and observation.

By kindness, I mean that they were impressed by the cordiality, the friendship and the goodness. They were welcomed, with open hands, by the city's representatives. The people who received them at their home, treated them like their own children and their English friends like brothers and sisters. The same people gave their time to organize activities to make them happy all the time.

I took part, myself, in a few of these activities, in favor of nice people, and I found cordiality, kindness and happiness among the English people of Belleville. And, thanking with the students of my maternal language, I hope, in the future interprovincial exchanges, Belleville will be selected at least a few times, as a place of meetings of students, with different languages, living in our beautiful Canada.

TRUST IN OTHERS

A few years ago I met a man who was in the small loan business. He lent money in sums ranging from $50 to $500 and he did this without requiring any collateral on the part of those who secured the money.

"Of course," I said, "you must have a tremendous percentage of loss." Imagine my amazement when he told me that the loss was less than one per cent. Then he gave me a little lecture on the essential honesty of the average man and woman. Most people, he said, are honest. If they borrow money, they expect to pay it back — and they want to. They would consider it an overwhelming calamity and disgrace if they could not. He ended his lecture by assuring me that he could not stay in business one month if his losses were not kept at a low percentage.

All this, of course, is good to hear, especially since we are all inclined at times to grow bitter about humanity in general and to conclude not only that all men are liars but that a considerable percentage of them are even worse than that. But such a conclusion is not justified by the facts. There is plenty of evil in men, but we may well thank God that the good surpasses the evil.

We're bad, but we're not too bad — not so bad that there is no hope of recovery and reform.

Trust your fellow men. They deserve it.

Alphabetic Order Unfair

Chicago Daily Tribune

The weather bureau is having to scratch pretty hard to find new feminine names to bestow on hurricanes, and may soon wish it had never started the business. The 1959 list runs from Arlene to Zasu, and includes Quella and Xcel, young ladies with whom we are totally unacquainted.

In fairness to the weather bureau, its predicament is not entirely its own fault. It simply misjudged feminine psychology, which is something that can happen to anyone. In 1953, it abandoned the previous alphabetical designations (Able, Baker, Charlie, etc.), and adopted the feminine name system which the navy uses in the Pacific. The bureau made up a list which, it expected would be repeated year after year, and which began with Alice, Barbara, Carol, Dolly and Edna. It includes Queen and Orpha, but stopped after Wallis, apparently on the theory there would never be enough hurricanes in one year to need X, Y, or Z.

This system lasted two years. By the end of 1954, everybody had heard of Edna, Hazel, Carol and others. Ednas, Hazels and Carols wrote in by the hundreds to ask indignantly why their names had been picked for hurricanes. Other ladies however wrote in to ask why their names had not been picked. They felt slighted.

The obvious solution was to pick different names each year, and in order to avoid hurting an feelings to include X, Y, and Z. In the last four years, the meteorlogists have run through Queena, Quenby, Quinta, Queeny, Xenia, Xina, Xmay, Xrae, Yurith, Zorna, Ursel, Undine, Udele, Venus, Viray. Orchid, and other names only slightly less odd.

But there are rarely more than 10 hurricanes a year, and therefore none of these names has been used. Last year the wind blew only as far as Janice. This is patently unfair either to the ladies in the early part of the alphabet or in the late part, depending on one's point of view. It is an imposition also on the meteorologists who have to concoct names beginning with Q, and Z — only to have them go unused anyway.

Clearly the present system can't go on much longer, and we don't know what the weather bureau can do then without creating a new and unnamed storm among the ladies — except perhaps to abolish hurricanes.

Canadian PLACE NAMES

VERNON, B.C.

Vernon was first known as Centreville, and then Forge Valley, which later was changed to Priest's Valley, because Jesuit fathers travelling from Kamloops to the International Boundary used this as a stopping place. None of these names found popular favor and when F. G. Vernon was named first commissioner of lands and forests for the province, his name was given to the town. F. G. and his brother, Charles, established the famed Coldstream Ranch later purchased by Lord Aberdeen.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BE YOUR OWN MAN!

I want to say something to you who are in the audience of life watching the art of those whose fine perfection stirs your blood and arouses your ambition.

"There is a time in every man's education," once wrote Emerson, "when he arrives at the conviction that envy is ignorance; that imitation is suicide; that he must take himself for better or for worse as his portion; that tho the wide universe is full of good, no kernel of nourishing corn can come to him but thru his toil bestowed on that plot of ground which is given to him to till."

The most thrilling moment of your life will be when you come face to face with the fact that you feel in your heart that you have a definite work to perform in the world, and decide once and for all that you are going to do it. At that very moment will come this consciousness — that you are able to make good on the feeling.

Nothing can equal the thrill of service. In elegant leisure, in the midst of luxury, in falsefaced pleasure, in the lap of money — in nothing is there to be found the compensation that flows from doing what you alone are able to do and which is a true expression of your personal worth to the world!

So be you. Remember that in all this great world there is none other like you. You have listened in the audience long enough. Take your place upon the stage. Be your own man!

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

MODERATION IS A GOOD RULE, IF YOU FOLLOW IT MODERATELY

"Dear Dr. Molner: Why is everything done so intensively these days? We can't seem to slow down our pace, whether it be business, recreation or athletics. Smoking, coffee drinking or the use of intoxicants are all carried to excess. A booklet on learning how to relax would be appreciated. Do you believe an alarm clock is detrimental to health? — F. N."

(1) I don't know why people overdo things, but I believe, as I've said before, that moderation is a good rule, if people will follow it in moderation.

(2) I'm not going to write a booklet on how to relax, because the people who need it won't have time to read it.

(3) No, I don't think alarm clocks are detrimental to health, but how I hate 'em! In the morning, that is.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am 21 and plan to be married soon. I have not had a glass of milk since age 5, and very seldom do I meet my requirement of calcium. I am in good condition and my teeth are, too. I do not seem to be suffering from any deficiency. My question is: Will I ever be able to have children? — J. H."

Doctoring would be so much easier if it weren't for occasional questions like yours! But I'm content.

First: It could be that you get plenty of calcium from other sources (spinach and other vegetables, cottage cheese, and other foods with calcium.)

Second: There are a few people, but not so very many, who have an allergy, or what amounts to an allergy, and must get their calcium from other sources.

Third: If you have good teeth, and bones, you must have gotten enough calcium from some source. Or are your teeth made of something different.

AN UNUSUAL CASE

Fourth: Nothing has so many exceptions as people. I know of one case (but only one) in which a patient, with a lack of iron in his blood, got better when he stopped eating too much iron in food. What's true for a million, or 100 million people, sometimes is not true for the 100,000,001 st.

Fifth: I trust you'll have 13 children, all wonderful.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I would like to know what the chances are, if any of my son and his wife having twins. His mother is a twin and so is her mother. They are expecting their first child. — Mrs. K. D."

The chances are good enough so that, if I were you, I'd be prepared to buy two baby blankets. But I wouldn't buy 'em until you know for sure. With twins on both sides of the family, the chances of twins are very good. But it doesn't mean that all babies will be twins. Have you ever heard of a family in which all the babies are twins? No, neither have I. Your son and his wife may have to try more than once — but with good luck they might have twins, and their chances are thousands of times as good as couples with no twins in the family trees.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What is dermatitis? And what causes it? They say there's no cure for it, but isn't there something to halt it? The doctor only gave me ointment to itching. — Mrs. J. K."

"Dermatitis" merely means a "disease of the skin," and there are many varieties, from acne to ichthyosis. The common types of skin trouble often are the most mysterious to us. Frequently it is very difficult to tell exactly what type of dermatitis is present. Many a physician, if he finds that the commoner treatments do not help, welcomes the idea of having the patient go to skin specialist, particularly if the dermatitis is severely bothersome.

Afflicted with arthritis? You may find relief if you follow the advice given in my pamphlet, "Don't Quit Because of Arthritis." To receive your copy, write to me for it in care of The Chicago Sun Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling.

How to Plant Corn Kernels

Scientific American

The orientation of a corn plant's leaves is determined by the way the seed is put into the ground.

Agricultural investigators have now taken advantage of this fact to develop a better way of growing corn. They insert each seed kernel point down with its flat sides parallel to the row of plants. As the corn grows, the first pair of leaves emerges at right angles to the row, and each subsequent pair is turned slightly counterclockwise with respect to the pair below.

As a result of the regular pattern, the leaves more effectively shade the ground and thus reduce evaporation of soil moisture.

Oriental planting increased yield per acre by as much as 22 per cent in tests conducted by D. B. Peters and J. T. Woolley of the United States agricoltural research service in co-operation with the Illinois agricultural experiment station. In addition, fewer weeds grew in the evenly shaded soil.

The agricultural workers believe that oriental planting can be made practical for large farming. Commercial planting machines could be adapted to position the kernels properly. Or the kernels might be attached to a tape, which could then be buried in long strips.

Peter and Wooley plan to follow up their research by planting oriental corn in rows parallel to or at right angles to prevailing winds to see whether they can increase yields still further.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

What's the use," wailed a friend of mine up at the cottage, "of buying a fast boat? Somebody always has a faster one."

There might be some satisfaction in being the fastest guy in the area. But nobody ever achieves that. No sooner do you gratify yourself with the thought that you have the fastest boat on the lake than some son of a gun goes whoosh past you, in front of everybody.

Then, what other purpose is served in having a fast boat? Is there any advantage in being able to go at forty miles an hour over to your neighbor's a quarter of a mile away? What is to be gained by going two miles down to the post office at the Landing at thirty miles an hour only to get yesterday's newspaper?

It is true they have invented a new gimmick called water skiing which requires a certain degree of speed in the towing boat. But after two or three whirls around the lake for about four days in the whole summer, even that palls; and pretty soon the only water skiers to be seen are characters from some place nine miles down the lake, showing off. Locally, everybody is tired of it, and you don't even raise your eyes from the paperback when these gaudy strangers go looping across your local scene.

Fast boats are best when in prospect. They are nice to look forward to. But when you consider the small space in which they have to operate in most Canadian inland waters, they are sort of silly. It is still the verandah couch that is the basic Canadian summer craft.

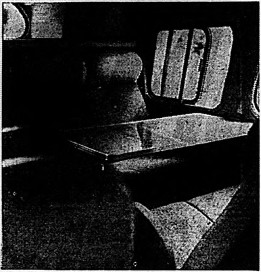
Above is the new Courier Model 95 coach which the Rawson Bus firm just acquired for their charter service. The coach, which utilizes air-suspension for smooth riding, seats 37 passengers and features a thermostatically controlled heater and fresh air system. This makes two highway coaches in the Rawson fleet.



Amongst the coach's features for passenger comfort and convenience is this special table arrangement at either side of the rear of the vehicle. If the tables are not desired they may be taken out and the rear-ward-facing seats turned to face the front of the bus.

Rawson Bus Co. Acquires Latest Passenger Bus Model

For the ultimate in riding luxury for local charter trip groups the Rawson Bus Co. Ltd. has acquired a new 37-passenger Courier Model 95 coach. From its handsome stainless steel exterior to the foam-rubber upholstered fully-reclining seats the new vehicle gives both the appearance and the feel of modern and comfortable transportation. The interior appointments provide almost every convenience for the passenger.

Individual reading lamps, the comfortable individually adjustable seats, individual control of fresh air inlets for each pair of seats, indirect heating systems, a five-speaker radio system, window blinds for each row of seats, and collapsible tables in the rear of the bus contribute to the customers' comfort during a trip.

The latest Firestone air-suspension system provides a degree of riding stability and ease hitherto impossible with the older, spring-type suspension systems. Proof of the effectiveness of the new system was amply proved in a demonstration run over a particularly bad railroad crossing, noted for its harshness on suspensions, out the four-lane highway east of Belleville.

MANY SAFETY FEATURES

Many safety features are prominent in the newest addition to the Rawson fleet. Designed to meet all the safety requirements of every province in Canada and every state in the United States, the vehicle comes complete with two fire extinguishers, a fire axe, a first aid kit, special seating fixtures by the emergency door to allow quick and easy exit if required, and warning lights and buzzers to inform the driver of low air pressure in the braking system or of someone tampering with the emergency door. For night driving there is a special indirect blue lighting for the interior of the bus which absolutely eliminates any reflections being cast on the driver's windscreen thus allowing him a clear view of the highway.

The new bus has met with the requirements of the Interstate Commerce Commission regulations so that it may take charter trips through any American state.

LONG TIME TO ACQUIRE

This special licence takes almost eleven months to acquire and the Rawson firm had to appoint agents in every state to be travelled in to satisfy the legal requirements. They are the only transportation firm in this district to be so equipped.

Besides the necessary documents for travel into the United States, the bus is also equipped with Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec exit permits to allow free access to and from these provinces. The bus may be used for charter trips anywhere on the North American continent without running into legal entanglements.

The bus, which is 32 feet long by 10 feet high and eight feet wide, weighs 18,150 pounds. It is powered by a 180-horsepower engine and can effortlessly maintain a cruising speed of 60 miles per hour with a cruising range of approximately 760 miles on 80 gallons of gas.

WITH THE FOXBORO CUBS AT CAMP MOHAWK

Our arrival at camp co-incided with the swimming period and the Cubs were really having a good time. Their welcome was sincere but a trifle damp. Cubs don't mind climbing all over you, wet or dry. It sure makes you appreciate the leaders' efforts when you see these happy, healthy boys enjoying every minute of camp life.

There were 18 Cubs in the group: Greg Moore, Arden Lewis, John Hill, Donny Bruce, Allan Johnston, Lynn Reynolds, Ken McKeown, George Diminie, Denton Lewis, Ronnie Scott, Henry Kinsella, Steve McKeown, Larry Finnamore, David Julian, Duane Horton, Doug Mann, David McPhee and Tucker Churchill.

CUBS ALWAYS HUNGRY

The success or failure of any Cub camp depends largely on the meals served. In this case Foxboro were fortunate in having Mrs. B. Hill as camp cook. We wondered, but were too polite to ask, how she did such a good job with the limited facilities. The kitchen is equipped better than most but not quite the same as her own kitchen. We can vouch for Mrs. Hill's excellent cooking, having sampled it. She can also make a good cup of tea, to us this is important.

The Cubs were subjected to strict discipline at all times, and protective measures ensuring their welfare were very obvious but never to the detriment of B.P.'s slogan, "Cubbing is Fun." Standards of a Cub pack are definitely raised in a well conducted camp. Proof of this is contained in Mr. Churchill's report of three Second Stars awarded to Cubs Larry Finnamore, Allan Johnston and Murney Bradshaw. Two First Stars to Cubs George Diminie and Ken McKeown, and also six Swimmers' badges, three First Aid and two Athletes'.

To all who helped make this camp so successful, heartiest congratulations and on behalf of your group committee our very sincere thanks.

Believed Eisenhower Made Master-Stroke in Arranging To Swap Visits With Nikita

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

GENEVA (AP)—The first impression of President Eisenhower's arrangement with Nikita Khrushchev to swap visits suggested Monday night it might go down as a master-stroke of American post-war diplomacy.

It appeared to climax one of the most delicate exercises in international politics since the cold war began.

President Eisenhower initiated and concluded the visits-deal with Khrushchev in about a month.

CHALKS UP GAINS

In so doing, on the strictly American-Russian level, he chalked up these gains which could transform the world scene.

1. He has given Khrushchev the chance to distinguish himself, in a way Stalin never did, as the first Soviet ruler to enter the White House. At 65, Khrushchev is a man in ahurry who is believed anxious to leave his mark on the pages of history.

2. The president has set the stage for direct talks with the man who lords it over communism's millions. These exchanges would be uncomplicated by the presence of sensitive outsiders.

3. He has made it possible for Americans and Russians to get better acquainted with the sources of each other's industrial, scientific and popular power. Greater mutual respect might follow.

On the wider, international level, these gains were also seen:

4. Eisenhower has ensured that the Berlin powder-keg, with its perilous possibilities of a nuclear explosion, will remain defused for some time. This will allow East - West negotiators to think again.

5. The president will have a chance of spelling out vital American and Allied interests in such tension areas as the Middle East and the Far East. This does not mean he will negotiate any deals for he has power to speak only for the United States.

OVERSHADOWS SQUABBLES

Rival assessments of Moscow's aims have led France and West Germany, for instance, bitterly to resist Britain's pet project for an early East-West summit meeting.

Eisenhower has set out to please both the British on the one side and the French and West Germans on the other through his display of leadership.

The exchange of visits sets back, but does not kill, Britain's plan for top-level talks. Indeed, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd has confided to associates here lately that he's sure a summit will follow the Khrushchev-Eisenhower visits, probably taking place in November or December.

At the same time by agreeing to visit Macmillan de Gaulle and Adenauer before Khrushchevs arrival, Eisenhower hopes to reassure them that their interests will not be prejudiced in any way

QUINTE 4-H CLUB

The seventh meeting of the Quinte "Neat Notions" took place recently at Mrs. M. Mitchell's home, and the next meeting will be held on August 6, at Marlene Mitchell's.

Sectional boxes and improvised curtains were discussed by the assistant leader, Mrs. M. Mitchell. Unfinished accessories were completed.

The home assignments were given and refreshments served.

Wedding

MacPHERSON — DICKIE

Standards of pink and white gladioli adorned the altar of Christ Church, Belleville, on Saturday, August 1st, at 2.00 p.m. for a very pretty summertime wedding when Sylvia Hellen Dickie, of Belleville, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Lee, became the bride of Flying Officer Roderick James MacPherson, of Winnipeg, Manitoba, son of Mrs. George MacPherson, of Morden, Manitoba, and the late Mr. MacPherson. Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan, rector of the church, officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Alex Dickie, of Toronto, the bride wore a lovely bridal gown of crystal silk organza over parchment taffeta, an original model fashioned with gently rounded decolletage and mere suggestion of sleeves. The empire waistline bodice was accented with appliques of seed pearls and crystals cascading at intervals from the neckline to the hemline of the gracefully bouffant skirt. She wore a headdress in tiara style encrusted with seed pearls, with shoulder-length veil of nylon net appliqued with lace and crystals, and carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses.

Miss Mary Johnston, Kemptville, Ontario, as maid of honor, wore a gown fashioned in candy-pink nylon angelskin, featuring a rounded neckline dipping to a "V" at the back. The draped bodice was enhanced by an empire waist line, in cummerbund effect, with bouffant bubble skirt of street length. She wore a ruffled headband of iridescent sequins, white gloves and shoes, and carried a nosegay of white and pink rosebuds.

Mr. Ronald George, of Morden, Manitoba, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was groomsman, while Messrs. Ronald Higgins of North Bay, and Russell Dickie, of Oakville, ushered the guests.

The reception was held at the bride's home, where the bridal table was appointed with white damask, and centred by a white and silver three-tiered wedding cake topped with a cluster of pink and white Sweetheart roses and flanked by silver candelabra with tall pink and white candles.

The bride's aunt, Mrs. J. Lee, received, attired in powder blue silk shantung with white accessories and corsage of pink carnations, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, in purple crepe with white accessories and corsage of white carnations.

For the wedding trip through the Northern United States, the bride donned a pesante silk in Mexico tan shade with matching accessories, turquoise hat and gloves and corsage of yellow 'mums.

Mr. and Mrs. MacPherson will make their home in Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Ottawa Trip Marks 52nd Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Enock Orser, of Frankford celebrated their 52nd wedding anniversary on August third during a visit to Ottawa. They left their home on the first and toured the St. Lawrence Seaway area by car in company with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. Irish, of Stirling.

This tour included a visit to New York state by way of the Ivy Lea bridge, with lunch at the State Park near Alexandria Bay. Saturday evening they arrived at the home of their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Parsons in Ottawa, and spent a quiet Sunday which included attending a church service at the Free Methodist church on Fifth Avenue.

In contrast Monday was a day consisting of many new and varied activities. In the morning there was a ride on the scenic boat cruise of the Rideau Canal. Lunch was cooked on the open barbecue at the spacious new Vincent Massey picnic grounds.

The afternoon was spent exploring out of the way areas in the Gatineau Park district of Quebec.

A busy but enjoyable day was brought to a close by a quiet evening talking over some of the highlights of the past fifty-two years.

Women's Activities

W. M. S.

ELDORADO — The Eldorado and Madoc Missionary Society held the July meeting in the Standard Church, Madoc, on Thursday evening.

The president, Mr. Lough, opened the meeting.

A reading was given by the president, entitled, "The Bible"; a message in song by Miss McCoy, of Marmora, the Bible Stands.

There were 23 present, and collection amounted to $14.75.

Miss Lamonia Post had charge of the program including Scripture reading taken from 1 Corinthians 5: 1-17. Her topic, "Now Then We Are Ambassadors for Christ," was well dealt with — a helpful and fine message. She also outlined her year in Bible College in Toronto, explaining the work and the splendid help it had been to her.

AUSSIE TOURIST TRADE

CANBERRA (CP) — Overseas tourists to Australia last year numbered 50,793, nearly 5,000 fewer than the total for the record Olympic Games year in 1956. Visitors on business numbered 13,934—highest for a decade.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Papke are shown cutting the wedding cake following their marriage in Christ Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Lois Anne Batchelor, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Batchelor, of Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin R. Papke, also of Belleville.

PAPKE — BATCHELOR

Standards of pink and white 'mums and gladioli adorned the altar to form a pretty setting in Christ Church, Belleville, on Saturday, July 18th at 2.00 p.m. for the marriage of Lois Anne, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Batchelor, Belleville, to Stanley Willard Papke son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin R. Papke, Belleville.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by Reverend Everett P. Smith, assistant rector.

Mr. John Croyden Withers presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Donald Cherry, who sang "O Perfect Love", before the ceremony, and "The Lord's Prayer", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her waltz-length gown of Chantilly lace and net over satin featuring an apron of lace with three tier back panel of net edged in lace, a square neckline encrusted with sequins and seed pearls, and long lily-point sleeves. Her finger-tip veil of nylon tulle was edged in lace and held by a seed pearl and sequin studded crown. She carried a cascading bouquet of Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Donald Webb, of Toronto, matron of honor attended the bride wearing a gown of chiffonized nylon over mauve taffeta in princess lines accented with dainty velvet bows in front and down centre back.

Miss Barbara Ritchie as bridesmaid, wore a gown of similar style in green. Both girls wore large matching picture hats and short white gloves. They carried identical nosegays of yellow, mauve and white 'mums with matching streamers.

Mr. Fredrick Papke attended his brother as groomsman, while Messrs. Edward "Ted" Batchelor, brother of the bride, and Ronald Papke, brother of the bridegroom, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in Christ Church Parish Hall, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, who chose a light-beige sheath dress of Swiss embroidered organza with accessories of beige and orange-ice. She wore a corsage of [illegible] 'mums. The bridegroom's mother also assisted in receiving the guests attired in blue Swiss embroidered organza with white accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

The bride's table was appointed in white linen damask, centred with the traditional three-tiered wedding cake and flanked by silver candelabra with blue and white candles. The bridal bouquets also were placed on the table.

Following the church reception the young couple were honored by a cocktail party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald F. Grose, with their son, Paul, acting as host. The group then moved on to the Club Commodore for an evening of dancing.

For travelling around Lake Ontario, and northern New York State, the bride wore a matching beige linen sheath dress and duster, with beige hat and gloves with shoes and purse in orange-ice tones, with corsage of [illegible] 'mums.

Prior to her marriage the bride was honored by a shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Bennett with their daughter, Donna, and Miss Barbara Ritchie, as co-hostesses. The couple were also given a rocker by the bridegroom's former employers, the Mountain View Cheese Factory.

This — — and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

If you are going shopping at the market these days, it is a good idea to make up your mind firmly in advance, because, once there, you are liable to be dazzled and confused. Such color and profusion. A fall market may be bountiful and beautiful, but it lacks the almost gay lushness of deep summer. Huge bunches of flowers of every type and color form a fine contrast to the practical vegetables and fruits.

The big news in vegetables is that there is an abundant crop of sweet corn. It is already on the market in quantities, so that you will be quite safe in scheduling corn roasts as often as you like. There is nothing quite like corn at an outdoor barbeque. Of course, if you can manage to get your corn fresh-picked from a farm, so much the better; when you do get it, keep it refrigerated until use. But you have never tasted corn if you have not had it from field to table within the hour.

The home-grown cherries are over for this year, but a good Ontario plum from a new crop is something to be thankful for. Early Goldens (small, sweet-eating plums tinged with red) have arrived and soon we will see the Methleys, a medium-sized purple plum with red flesh, and the first Shiros, which are yellow and one of the most popular of the Japanese Varieties. The latter not only have a very attractive appearance but are good-flavored as well. Burbanks are starting to appear too and they can be used for jam as well as fresh fruit.

It is wonderful to see baskets of peaches again. The early ones, although thin-skinned and therefore not good "keepers", (which makes them unsuitable for canning), are sweet, juicy and fine flavored.

Among the early apples to put in an appearance are the transparents, duchess, Crimson Beauty and Astrakhans. Although slightly sour, the duchess make excellent early applesauce, real treat in the dessert line. Good shopping!

The Ontario Safety League is conducting an intensive campaign to provide awareness to adults of the hazards inherent in plastic materials. They hope to combat the "scare" factor which can so easily arise where danger is discovered in a new and relatively unknown product, and replace it with knowledge and caution.

They point out that there was far more danger to children in the first gas stoves, later electricity in all its forms, automobiles and patent medicines, etc., yet these products still thrive and are in great demand. The problem of danger has largely been overcome by common-sense precaution.

Points to remember with regard to plastic bags are the following:

1. When plastic bags have served their purpose, discard them safely. Tie them in a knot and put them in the garbage. Make your home safe by keeping thin plastic away from children.

2. Never use thin plastic to cover baby's crib or pillow. Ten Canadian children have been suffocated by plastic film this year; therefore your home is not safe if there is a young child sleeping on, or playing with, a thin plastic bag. You would not dream of leaving sharp knives or matches where small children could reach them. Thin plastic film should be treated in the same way. It is dangerous only in the wrong hands — children's hands.

Along with the above warning from the Ontario Safety League, may we bring to your attention again that government regulations now call for an approved life preserver for each person in a pleasure craft. Life jackets should be the fashion for all boaters, young and old. Never say, "We won't bother with them this time."

100th Birthday Is Celebrated

A son and four daughters had planned a birthday party but called it off when Mrs. Hunt fell in June and injured the arm.

Messages of congratulations were received from the Queen, Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Opposition Leader Lester Pearson, former cabinet minister C. D. Howe, Premier Leslie Frost and others.

Mrs. Hunt, who has 15 great-grand daughters and two great-great grand daughters, was born at Wellesley in Waterloo Township. Her husband died in 1940.

166 Members Rollins Clan Hold Reunion at Tweed Park

The Rollins' reunion was held at Tweed Memorial Park and it was one of the finest picnics of the Rollins Clan with 166 registered, the largest number since 1939.

After the dinner hour a business meeting was held with the president, Roy Rollins, of Queensboro, as chairman. The picnic next year will be held at Tweed Memorial Park, on the fourth Saturday in July. A memorial silence of one minute was observed.

Clarke Rollins, M.P., spoke briefly mentioning that the good work our forefathers had started in 1925 should be kept up. He was pleased to see so many out to celebrate the family reunion. Mrs. S. B. Rollins, Tweed, gave a warm welcome to Tweed, seeing the number had increased. She felt "It was good to be here".

Mrs. Cole, St. Thomas, expressed great pleasure in being able to meet with her relatives at this time. Mr. Peter Hill, St. Catharines, a guest, commented on the friendly people; he felt quite at home. He has been coming among the Rollins' for 20 years.

Mr. Hugh McMullen favored with a solo, "There is a Spot to Me More Dear".

Mrs. S. B. Rollins, Tweed, received the prize for the oldest woman present. John Rollins, Plainfield, took the prize for the oldest man present; six months' old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rollins, Carrying Place, carried away the prize for the youngest child present. The prize for the married woman with the smallest feet went to Mrs. Fred Rollins, Carrying Place; for the unmarried woman with the largest feet went to Elizabeth Rollins, Cooper; Harper Rollins received the prize for the gent wearing the brightest bow tie. Mrs. Cole came the farthest distance and won that prize.

FAMILY TREE

The family tree book was mentioned and it is felt that by next year copies will be ready. It was asked that the secretary send a card to a member in Belleville Hospital.

"Happy birthday" was sung for Mrs. Rex Rollins.

RACES

Boys, 6 years and under — Eric McMillin, Brian Rollins.

Girls, 7 years to 12 years — Suzanne Cox, Gail Gregg, Doreen Hubble; boys, 7 to 12 years — Garth Rollins, Ivan Wilson, Douglas Graham.

Girls, 13 years and up — Sherrill Hill, Elizabeth Rollins; boys, 13 years and up — Doug. Rollins, Garth Rollins.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual [illegible]ase history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Jack G. — She should make allowances for Mom.

• • •

Geraldine G. — My husband and I are feuding over an in-law problem.

A few months ago his mother made an awfully nasty crack to me. It was something to the effect that I'm always calling on her to be a babysitter but I never invite her to our home on a social visit.

Well, it just happens we can well afford a regular babysitter. I only call upon my mother-in-law for her sake. I know how she loves the children and I want to give her as much time with them as possible.

[illegible] for having her over on [illegible]ial visits, it's just silly. She doesn't fit in with our friends and I, myself, have nothing to talk about with her. I haven't spoken to her since this happened. I've hired a regular babysitter. Now she's mad at me!

• • •

Jack G. — It's cruel to deprive my mother of the children. She has been frantic since this happened. Her other grandchildren live far from here and she sees them only once or twice a year.

I know that Mother isn't always tactful, but I think Gerry ought to make some allowances for her age, etc. Mother has been babysitting for us for years and was always happy to do it. She just blew up this one time because she had been sick all week and Gerry hadn't called her until she needed her.

It's true that Mother isn't the [illegible] company. She constantly [illegible]plains about her ailments and she never gets around so she hasn't much else to talk about except her neighbors. It's boring, but after all, she is my mother.

• • •

The Council: After all, she is Jack's mother. We're glad he had that afterthought. It does make a difference to some civilized individuals.

Geraldine's brazen defence of her conduct doesn't in the least obscure the fact that she lacks normal human feeling, to say nothing of manners. Kindly, decently behaved humans simply don't use another individual "for her sake." This lonely mother may have been willing to scrub floors to have contact with her children and grandchildren, but no self-respecting person would let her do it.

Jack appears to be easily led by his shallow, smug wife. He should never have let things come to such a pass. He must recognize that he owes his mother some filial consideration. Mothers are not just dropped when they aren't good company. One makes an effort to enrich their lives and to comfort them occasionally in their illness and loneliness.

Geraldine is now in a position of power. She can withhold companionship and affection from someone who seeks it. But she won't always have this power. Some day she may want these very things from another, but she won't be able to get them because she is an emotionally undeveloped person who has never learned to give of herself to another.

Aside from these considerations, we can only mention that the children involved here have been shown an ugly example of family life. Depriving them of future contact with their grandmother will distort and impoverish their lives still more. They should be given a chance to find out that Grandma is more than a babysitter in their lives.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: ABOUT A DANGEROUS HABIT

You're being very unwise if you let the habit grow on you of constant criticism of people and things. This is really a poisonous habit to have, and it "grows by what it feeds on." Don't mislead yourself by thinking that such criticism will give others the impression that you are an extremely discriminating person, very forthright, too. On the contrary, it will convince them that you are opinionated, that you are sure you "know all the answers" . . . and (watch out!) that it would be dangerous to cultivate you and your destructive habit.

SHOULD INCLUDE SON'S WIFE IN ADDRESSING LETTERS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our only son has recently been married in the West, and my husband and I went to the wedding. He has been away from home for several years, but we have always written each other about once a week. I am continuing to write him every week, addressing my letters to him only. My husband says he is shocked that I do this, that I should address my letters to "Mr. and Mrs." or else our new daughter-in-law will feel I don't like her, will feel that she has no share, on her own, in us or news about us.

This has me very much worried, for the truth is that I love and very much admire my daughter-in-law, always express my devotion and messages to her in my letters to my son, and wouldn't hurt her for the world. What should I do? — G. L.

Your husband is right . . . you should follow his advice and address your letters to "Mr. and Mrs." If you don't, naturally she might feel left out, an outsider, and, of course, she wouldn't have the right to open the letters from you.

WHEN BRIDE CANNOT GIVE WEDDING PHOTOGRAPHS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My brother has asked me to ask you a question. Recently he was best man for our one-and-only cousin. Yesterday he received a letter from our cousin's bride, saying that the photographs of the wedding party can be ordered directly from the photographer (she gave his name and address), and said that if he wanted to have one, would he please enclose a check or money-order for the amount (she mentioned the cost of each). Was this the correct thing for her to do? I had always thought, and so had my brother, that the bride gave each of the wedding attendants a photograph of the wedding group. True or false? — B. T.

Formerly this usually was true, but today, when wedding budgets are very often limited, the bride does just what this bride did . . . tells each of the wedding attendants that the photographs are available, gives the name and address of the photographer, and the cost per photograph. Then the attendant can do as he or shes wishes about ordering the photograph.

WHAT "G. P." MEANS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What does "G.P" mean? A friend of mine used this expression, I thought sarcastically, about a very expensive present a mutual friend of ours gave her doctor. I didn't want to show my ignorance by asking her to explain the initials. — W.

"G.P." means "Grateful Patient."

TOMATO-SHRIMP SALAD:

3-4 cup diced celery, 1 1-2 cups cooked or canned whole shrimp, drained, 1-4 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing, parsley, 4 tomatoes peeled and drained, salt and pepper to taste, dash of paprika, lettuce, mayonnaise or salad dressing.

Combine the celery, shrimp and the 1-4 cup of mayonnaise or salad dressing along with seasonings to taste. Toss lightly until celery and shrimp are well coated. Cut each tomato into five sections, leaving intact at stem end. Place on lettuce leaf on salad plate. Spread the tomato sections apart and fill with shrimp salad. Place a mound of mayonnaise or salad dressing on top of each serving and garnish with a sprig of parsley.

STUFFED TOMATO SALAD:

2 cups flaked crabmeat or diced chicken, 1-2 cup finely diced cucumber, drained, 1 cup finely chopped celery, 4 hard-cooked eggs, sliced, 1-2 teaspoon salt, dash freshly ground pepper, 1-2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 6 thick peeled tomato slices, or scooped out tomatoes, lettuce, mayonnaise or salad dressing.

Combine the crabmeat or chicken, cucumber, celery, eggs and seasonings. Add 1-2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing and lemon juice. Toss until well blended. For each serving place a lettuce leaf on each plate, then a thick slice of tomato or scooped out, drained tomato; fill or cover with crabmeat salad and serve with additional mayonnaise or salad dressing.

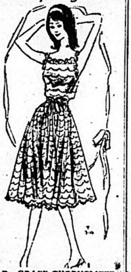
TOMATO SALAD BOWL:

Line a shallow salad bowl with crisp inner leaves or slices from a small head of iceberg lettuce. Arrange a ring of fork-scored cucumber slices around the edge. Inside that ring arrange another of hard-cooked egg slices. Fill centre spaced with peeled tomato wedges and garnish with sprigs of watercress or parsley. Now sparingly drizzle all over with

TOMATO FRENCH DRESSING:

Mix together 1-4 teaspoon each dry mustard, paprika, salt and sugar, 1\ tablespoon best quality catsup, 1 tablespoon vinegar and 5 tablespoons oil. Shake well before pouring over prepared salad. Chill for 1-2 hour before serving.

Dreamy Nightdress



By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Scalloped and pleated nylon picot worked in horizontal bands is the formula employed for this nightdress. The color is yellow with delicate white lace at the neck and hem. The lace is used to form an inset at the waist, from which the ribbon sash extends. Other color schemes for this nice nightie include apricot and white or blue and white as well as all black.

WORSHIPPERS FIGHT FIRE

ALLENFORD (CP) — Members of Park Head United Church left in the middle of the service Sunday to fight a fire on a farm. Despite the help of about 70 members of the congregation, the $10,000 farm home of Harold Brant in this community about seven miles west of Owen Sound was destroyed.

HONOR GREY OWL

TIMAGAMI (CP)—One of Canada's leading conservationists and nature writers was honored posthumously Sunday at this tourist community 64 miles north of North Bay. A plaque, unveiled by Lands and Forest Minister Spooner, commemorated the life of Grey Owl, an Englishman turned Indian who died in 1938.

NATO Shield Appears Thin, Sword, While Still Sharp, Losing Some of Its Edge

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization has been hailed as Europe's bulwark against Soviet aggression for 10 years. Here is the first of four on-the-spot reports by a reporter who talked both to generals and plain soldiers in NATO's heartland—central Europe.

By BEM PRICE

PARIS (AP) — For 10 years now the North Atlantic Treaty Organization has been looked upon as the sword and shield of Europe.

NATO's defensive shield consists of ground troops with the task of blocking any Soviet attempt to overrun Europe quickly.

The sword is the retaliatory striking power of the West—nuclear or thermonuclear bombs delivered against the Soviet Union by manned aircraft or missiles.

U. S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, NATO's present military chief, once emphasized Europe's need for a strong defensive shield by observing that unless an aggression was soon halted, the allies would be faced with the impossible task of separating the invaders from the invaded as targets for nuclear weapons.

SHIELD STILL SHARP

At the moment, the shield appears thin and the sword, while still sharp, is losing some of its edge compared with the powerful and increasingly modern Communist forces arrayed against it.

A reporter's tour of NATO commands indicates that as matters now stand the Allies possibly could muster 250,000 men on the ground next to the Iron Curtain, though not all would be mobile forces equipped with up-to-date arms.

The immediately available air cover for central Europe now consists of somewhere between 1,500 and 2,000 jet aircraft of all types.

The Allies also have a classified, but apparently limited, missile counter-punch, mostly in the short-range category.

This Allied force confronts a Soviet bloc in central Europe which Western sources say has 1,500,000 men close to the borders of the free world and a 23,000 all-jet air force, most of which is concentrated in Western Russia and the satellites.

MORE MISSILES

In addition, the Soviets are said to be building large numbers of missile-launching sites for their 700-mile-range M-103 missiles and their 1,500-mile T2 intermediate-range missiles in the satellite areas west of Russia.

Although written into existence April 4, 1949, as a military organization, NATO really began Jan. 7, 1951, with the arrival of Dwight D. Eisenhower, then a five-star U.S. general, to assume command of Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers, Europe (SHAPE). The organization's assignment: To safeguard the freedom, common heritage and civilization of the signatory nations.

Upon his first inspection tour Eisenhower found only seven skinny divisions and an air force of about 400 planes, mostly piston-engine types.

But hopes were high.

In November, 1951, the French turned up at a NATO meeting in Rome happily pushing proposals for an international army.

Under the French plans, all national forces would be organized into standard-size divisions—13,000 men—and everyone would have a standard pay and but one uniform.

Optimism ran high at the Rome meeting. The NATO council even set itself a goal of 100 battle-fit divisions in Europe by the end of 1954. It was claimed at the end of 1951 that NATO had 23 combat-ready divisions at hand.

FRENCH WITHDRAW UNIT

A bare five months later—May, 1952—found SHAPE officers, now commanded by Ge. Alfred Gruenther, grumbling about the withdrawal of a French division from the shield forces to fight rebels in Algeria.

At that time, Gruenther had 15 divisions assigned to NATO and based in Germany — five each from France, the United Kingdom and the United States. Somehow, those other eight divisions had not materialized.

What disturbed SHAPE was not so much the withdrawal of the French division but the precedent set in weakening the shield, in subordinating NATO interests to national interests.

Meanwhile, the technology of warfare was undergoing a steady evolution from non-nuclear to nuclear. The age of the guided missile and the battlefield rocket had arrived. Each can carry atomic warheads.

In the dawning age of atom-toting missiles and rockets, the need for armies to increase their mobility and dispersion likewise increased. The day of the foot soldier, fighting in mass, was ending.

On June 6, 1959, Gen. Norstad said the Allies greatest danger might spring from weaknesses "which would invite Soviet exploitation."

PROBE WEAKNESS?

Norstad told a long meeting that the weakness of NATO might start a Soviet probing operation "which might well get out of hand."

Norstad went to Washington last spring to report on NATO's military posture to the U.S. Congress. He said the 21 1-3 divisions now asigned to NATO were not enough, that he needed a minimum of 30 divisions equipped with atomic weapons and more missiles.

Whether NATO really possesses 21 1-3 combat effective divisions is open to debate.

When NATO was born the aircraft detection radar operated 40 hours a week. Now the radar network scans the Iron Curtain around the clock. It still has a short range, reaching only to the Russian border. But gaps in the network have been plugged.

"They are even dumber than chickens, if that's possible," said Roger S. Payne.

After two years of studying owls, Payne said, he has concluded that the first most curious thing about them is their almost complete inability to learn by experience.

The second is how they ever succeeded in being thought wise in the first place.

"They don't seem to be very far from earthworms, which only know enough to advance or contract," he said.

British Columbia Declared Free Of Public Debt

KELOWNA, B.C., (CP) — An oil-soaked pyre of cancelled bonds has meant the end in British Columbia of a column of figures called the direct public debt.

It meant for Premier W.A.C. Bennett and his Social Credit government an opportunity for some big-city showmanship on quiet Lake Okanagan, and for promises of baundance from a $25,000,000 pot.

He launched a flaming arrow from a bow at a $70,000,000 pile of bonds floating on a raft. He then declared the province free of some $191,000,000 of public debt which was on the books when his government took over seven years ago.

With the $25,000,000 a year which the premier said would be saved on interest payments on the debt, he promised a wide range of benefits for British Columbians.

"Twenty-five million dollars a year is a lot of money," he told a civic luncheon earlier, "and you can look for more help for homes for elderly citizens, you can look for new plans for chronic hospitals and you can look for a reduction in municipal taxes and an increase in the $28 grants to homeowners."

Mr. Bennett's claims about the debt are not uncontested. His political opponents maintain his elimination of the direct-debt column in the public accounts is a result only of a much bigger increase in contingent liabilities.

Dept. Starts Study of Bids For Starfighter

OTTAWA (CP) — The defence production department has started study of the bids of the big three of the Canadian aircraft industry for a multi-million-dollar contract to build the airframe for the Lockheed Starfighter.

Defence Production Minister O'Hurley said Monday the bids of Canadair, de Havilland and Avro aircraft were all received by last Friday's deadline.

He told a reporter that the government's decision on the contract — expected to amount to some $165,000,000—will likely not be announced before the end of next week. The matter still had to go before the cabinet defence committee and the full cabinet.

The government a month ago decided to buy 214 American Lockheed F 104G Starfighters to re-equip eight squadrons of Sabre jets in the RCAF air division in Europe. The plane would be used mainly in a strafing role and be capable of carrying nuclear weapons.

The contract for the J-79 General Electric engine, worth about $100,000,000, has already been awarded to Orenda Engines Malton, like Avro a subsidiary of A. V. Roe (Canada) Limited.

Dates Intrigued With Idea Of Escorting Woman Dentist

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Maryanne Charlebois has provided a feminine touch to her dental office with pale blue equipment and freshly - cut flowers. She has practised dentistry in Toronto for 15 months.

She decided to become a dentist while attending high school at Penetanguishene and intends to make her profession a lifetime career.

"One of the big advantages of this profession for a woman is that she can continue to practise after marriage," she says.

"The ideal arrangement for a married woman is to set up her office in her home. That way, she can efficiently direct both operations."

COMMUNITY SERVICE

Besides her own practice, Dr. Charlebois devotes time to community service projects. This fall, she will be among the dentists who donate their time to Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children.

Her $10,000 training ended when she graduated in 1956 from the University of Toronto. The $2,000-a-year cost included board, fees and necessary small instruments. She practises with an established dentist for nearly two years until she was able to buy the $8,000 worth of dental equipment for an office of her own.

About half of her patients are children. Many are referred to her by other dentists because she is a woman. She finds it particularly satisfying to introduce children to dental treatment because "their future attitudes depend on their early experience of it". She disapproves of parents accompanying their children into the operating room.

After hours, she enjoys cooking, boating, water skiing, tennis, ice skating and high - fashion clothes. She gave up glass-blowing as a hobby because of the possibility of injury to her hands or eyes.

NEW FOREIGN MINISTER

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Horacio Lafer, an industrialist and financial expert, took over Tuesday as Brazil's new foreign minister. He replaces Francisco Negrao de Lima.

Calgary Mayor Won't Resign Despite Inquiry Finding

CALGARY (CP) — Mayor Don Mackay said Monday he has no intention of resigning as chief magistrate of Calgary despite a judicial inquiry which said he used his office to improper advantage.

At the same time, he was critical of the Turcotte report, the result of a 24 - day hearing into Calgary's civic administration, which strongly reprimanded Mr. Mackay and three senior city officials for accepting gifts from persons having business with the city.

The mayor's statement came at a stormy council meeting which defeated by one vote a motion calling for his resignation. It was Mr. Mackay's first formal comment on the report prepared by Judge L.S. Turcotte of Lethbridge, since it was released Friday.

At times more than 100 spectators laughed and applauded until the deputy mayor threatened to clear the chambers.

In a four - page prepared address, the mayor said: "I refuse to admit I have committed an offence and I do not feel I need to, nor do I intend to, resign to satisfy my critics."

ALDERMAN LEAVES

His critics included Alderman James Macdonald who resigned and stalked from the meeting after an unsuccessful bid to have council cut off the mayor's $14,000-year salary.

The mayor said: "Judge Turcotte has been critical of me and I reserve the democratic right to be equally critical. Judge Turcotte has generalized to an extreme in his repititious listing of improper advantages.

"To emphatically and consistently labor the term of 'improper advantage' is not acceptable to me . . . How could he say it was improper for me to accept gifts.

The report found, among other things, that the major improperly accepted gifts from the executives of several companies which had a total of $9,000,000 in business with the city during a four-year period.

The report added, however, there was no evidence which warranted charges under the Criminal Code.

The motion calling for his resignation was the second he has survived in less than a year. Last fall a similar motion was defeated after the mayor admitted borrowing 35 bags of city cement for use at his summer home in Banff.

His admission, however, led to his censure and the appointment of the inquiry by Premier E.C. Manning of Alberta. The premier, in his capacity as attorney-general, has also received a copy of the report and is free to take action should he feel it is warranted.

NOTICE

TAKE NOTICE that the Board of Trustees of the Roman Catholic Separate Schools for the City of Belleville did pass, on the 24th day of July 1959, By-law No. 15 to authorize the borrowing of the sum of one hundred and sixty five thousand dollars ($165,000) by the issue of debentures to the principal amount of $165,000, bearing interest at the rate of six and one-quarter (6¼%) per centum per annum, payable annually, and maturing in twenty annual instalments of principal of varying amounts as set forth in Schedule "A" hereto.

The purpose for which the money is to be borrowed is for the building and equipping of a new six room school, a two classroom addition and the acquisition of a site.

The security for the amount to be borrowed is as follows:

(a) During twenty years, the currency of the debentures the respective sums set forth in the fourth column of Schedule "A" hereto shall be levied and collected annually by a special rate sufficient therefor, over and above all other rates in the same manner and from the like persons and property by, from, upon or out of which other Separate School rates are levied, raised and collected for the said period of twenty years. In each of the said twenty years, the currency of the said debentures, the said Board shall, pursuant to the provisions of Section 71 of the Separate Schools Act, request the Municipal Councils of the municipalities wherein properties rateable for the purposes of the said School- Board are situate, that the said Municipal Councils through their collectors and other municipal officers, cause to be levied in each such year upon the taxable property liable to pay same, all the sums of money for rates or taxes imposed thereon in respect of Separate Schools.

(b) The debentures, as to both principal and interest are a charge upon the Separate School rates and upon the school house property and premises and any other real or personal property vested in the said Board.

Jim Gladstone Will Not Be Feather-Buckskin Senator

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Jim Gladstone is determined not to become known to Canadians as a feathers-and-buckskin senator.

This friendly, soft-spoken member of Alberta's Blood Indian tribe says that if he is to represent his people effectively in Parliament he must have the respect and confidence of his fellow senators, members of the Commons and the government service.

James Gladstone, born Akay-Na-Muka or "Many Guns" 72 years ago near Mountain Mill, Alta., said in an interview that no one would listen to him if he sought to use his status as an Indian to focus public attention on himself.

"I'd likely get a lot of publicity but I wouldn't be able to get anyone to listen seriously to my views on the many problems facing my people," the successful Cardston, Alta., rancher and grain grower said.

CHANGED HIS MIND

After his appointment Jan. 31, 1958, he said at Cardston that he hoped to wear ceremonial dress when he made his first appearance in the Red Chamber.

"I would have liked to have entered the Senate in my full Indian regalia," he said later. "However, there were no other Indians with me in Ottawa to escort me to the entrance of the Senate chamber.

"Under the circumstances I decided it would be out of place for me to wear clothing different from that of other senators. So I wore morning clothes like the rest of my colleagues."

Senator Gladstone said he has since decided that if he were at any time to wear ceremonial dress in the Senate he would only be making himself conspicuous in a way that would not help his fight to get a new deal for Canada's 174,000 Indians.

But he said he's ready to wear his $300 outfit—buckskin jacket and chaps, headdress and moccasins—on almost every other occasion, particularly if this will make people think about the plight of his people.

STUDIED IN PARLIAMENT

A shy man who chain-smokes cigarets, Senator Gladstone said he feels the dawn of a new life for Canadian Indians is just around the corner. The job of improving the position of Indians was studied at the last session of Parliament and is expected to continue next year.

"The committee didn't have time last session to more than scratch the surface of the many problems facing my people," he said. "I hope that next session the committee will be able to make concrete recommendations and that there will be time to put them into force through legislation."

His aim for his people is "equality of opportunity" in all fields of life and "equal status" with other Canadians, including the right to vote.

As a treaty Indian, Senator Gladstone himself hasn't the franchise. He receives an annual grant of $5 from the crown.

HAPPY IN OTTAWA

Life in Ottawa last session was "pleasant" for the grey-haired Indian senator and his wife, Potaina or "Little Daughter." They lived in two rooms in a tourist home and ate out, but next session hope to rent a small apartment.'

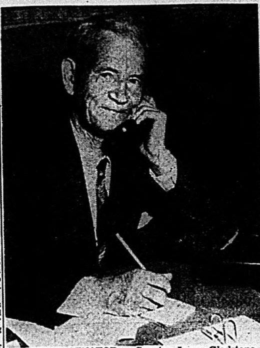
Senator Gladstone said that when he first came to Ottawa he knew nothing of protocol. He learned to find his way around the capital without making too many blunders by taking advice from E. R. Hopkins, law clerk of the Senate.

"I felt very humble when I was asked to become a senator," he said. "I think my appointment will help my people. I already sense that members of the government and my fellow senators are keenly aware that steps must be taken to help the Indians of this country. Let's hope that there is some action next session."

Senator Gladstone said he has enjoyed meeting and talking with influential people at the Ottawa receptions he has attended. But he doesn't think much of the food that is served.

"You get tiny sandwiches, pickles and other titbits. I always have to go to a restaurant and get something to fill up with."

Asked to comment on how he found his fellow senators, he said "you couldn't find a better bunch of fellas."



INDIAN SENATOR — Senator James Gladstone, a member of the Blood Indian band of Alberta, says he would make himself conspicuous but would not help his people if he wore Indian dress in Ottawa. But the 72-year-old Senator says he would gladly don his feathers and buckskin if it would help him in his fight for a new deal for Canada's 174,000 Indians. - Here he is in business clothes, as he is most frequently seen in Ottawa, and working at his desk. Minister Says Nikita Visit Very Helpful

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Green Monday night warmly welcomed the announcement of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's forthcoming visit to the United States and President Eisenhower's visit to the Soviet Union.

The reciprocal visits should prove "very helpful" in the attempt to resolve East-West differences, the minister said.

In answer to a question Mr. Green said he had been expecting the announcement.

Asked whether he thought the Khrushchev visit to the United States would lead to a summit conference, Mr. Green said:

"There is no direct connection. But a summit conference may be one result."

The minister said there is a feeling in the cabinet that Vice-President Nixon's just-concluded visit to Russia was beneficial in opening the door to furthe. contact.

Saskatoon (CP)—The possibility of inviting Russia's Premier Nikita Khrushchev to Canada next month will be considered within several days by the Canadian government, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Monday.

Mr. Diefenbaker said no consideration has been given to extending an invitation to Mr. Khrushchev to visit Ottawa or other parts of Canada during his trip to the U.S.

However, he said a decision on whether to offer the invitation will be made when he discusses the idea with his cabinet on his return to Ottawa within several days.

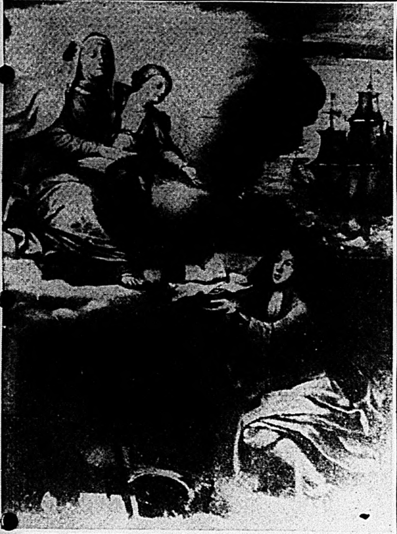
BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 5, 1959



FRENCH ADVENTURER — Pierre Le Moyne d'Iberville was one of the adventurers who carried the French flag to the interior of this continent in the 17th Century. Born near Montreal, he trained with the French navy and then embarked on a series of expeditions which took him into the Hudson Bay region and down the Gulf of Mexico where he founded what is now Louisiana. This photo is from an ancient painting now kept at Ste. Anne de Beaupre, Que. The man kneeling on the deck of a ship is thought to be d'Iberville holding a letter from the King of France. The figures above him are thought to represent St. Anne and St. Mary. (CP Photo).

Forgotten in a Cuban Grave, Iberville Would Have Won Fame If Not Canadian-Born

MONTREAL (CP)—The name of Pierre Le Moyne d'Iberville is seldom heard when men recount stories of Canada's past. Iberville's body has lain all but forgotten in an unmarked grave in Havana, Cuba, for more than 250 years.

But his exploits smack of romance. He was handsome and rugged, a devil with the women and a first-class adventurer, warrior and wilderness statesman.

He was as respected in the court of Loui XIV of France as in his native New France.

He was such a formidable foe of the Hudson's Bay Company that the company paid no dividend during the years Iberville was active in the north. He sacked Newfoundland and helped devastate Schenectady, N.Y. He founded Louisiana and won what has been called the greatest victory in France's naval history.

ALMOST FORGOTTEN

Yet Iberville has been largely forgotten, along with his distinguished French-born father and [illegible] brothers.

Historian Thomas F. Costain, who has chastised Montrealers for not better honoring such a hero, says of Iberville in The White and the Gold, his history of the French regime in Canada:

"His brief career was filled with such amazing exploits that the lustre of his name would have shone with the bravest figures in French history had they not been enacted in the obscurity of an overlooked colonial backwater.

". . . He would have been ranked as one of the great fighting men of all time had he played to a European audience on a world stage."

Born at his father's seigneury at Longueuil, across the St. Lawrence River from Montreal in 1661, Iberville went aboard a French warship for training in his 13th year.

[illegible] was nearly 25 when the first chance came for him to make his name.

JOINED EXPEDITION

With his brothers, Jacques Le Moyne de Ste. Helene and Paul Le Moyne de Maricourt, Iberville joined an overland expedition led by the Chevalier de Troyes against the Hudson's Bay Company.

The party of more than 100 men left Montreal in March, 1685, and reached Fort Hayes on James Bay in June, after slugging through breaking ice and melting snow along the Ottawa and Abitibi Rivers.

The Le Moyne brothers vaulted the back wall of the four-bastioned stockade in pre-dawn darkness, and shattered the dreams of the 16 sleeping Englishmen with whoops and screeches.

By the time Troyes' main party began thumping at the gate with a battering ram, the garrison had surrendered.

At Fort Rupert, 120 miles east, the daring Iberville led a boarding party to an English ship—the Craven—at anchor in the bay, while Troyes attacked the fort. Iberville's men killed the drowsy watchman and stamped on the deck to bring up those below. At least two were sabred; the rest surrendered. Among them was Governor Bridgar, who commanded the area for the company.

WELCOMED AS HERO

Leaving the forts in Maricourt's charge, Iberville returned to Montreal for a hero's welcome in the fall of 1687.

But he probably wished he hadn't left Hudson Bay. The guardian of a young woman of the colony was waiting for him with a paternity suit. Iberville denied only the girl's good character, and the case was settled later by his representatives.

In the meantime, Governor Denonville arranged for Iberville to leave immediately for France to report on Hudson Bay. The French officials, impressed with the young gallant, gave him his first command—the fast-sailing ship Soleil d'Afrique—and orders to collect fur on the bay.

Iberville ran into trouble with the British and wintered on Hudson Bay, but returned to Quebec the next fall in characteristic triumph. He had captured three Hudson's Bay Company vessels and their cargoes, valued by the company at £15,000.

OFFICIALLY AT WAR

War with the British had broken out officially in the meantime, and Iberville marched with the forces of New France through February weather in 1690 to attack the English-Dutch settlement of Schenectady.

Iberville muffed one of his parts—perhaps intentionally. He was assigned to lead a party to close the rear gate of the village stockade to prevent escape, but missed it in the dark. As a result, some settlers avoided massacre or torture at the hands of the attackers' Huron allies.

Iberville was again in Hudson Bay on an expedition against Port Nelson when the English unsuccessfully besieged Quebec City in 1690. Iberville's brother Ste. Helene was killed in the fight.

After returning to Quebec in the fall of 1691, Iberville set out for France to interest the king in schemes for Hudson Bay.

By this time he was French commander-in-chief of the bay, a seigneur in his own right with lands on the Baie de Chaleur, and the first Canadian to hold a commiion in the French navy. He was 30 years old.

3 West German Lines Feeling Competition

OTTAWA (CP)—Shipping sources here said Tuesday that withdrawal of three West German lines from Great Lakes shipping conferences may be an indication that they are feeling the pinch of stiff competition for cargoes in the area.

The shipping conferences—Continental Canadian Westbound and United States Great Lakes Bordeaux-Hamburg Range Westbound — are making arrangements among shipping firms for standard shipping tariffs and for frequency of sailing.

A shipping source said that a great many shipping companies rushed into the Great Lakes area at the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway earlier this year in the hope of cashing in on a boom in overseas movement of cargo. However, the tonage did not materialize to the extent anticipated.

As a result, the German lines may be feeling the pinch of tough competition on the lakes for overseas cargo.

Another possibility was that the German lines were withdrawing from the conference in preparation for launching a rate war against competing shippers.

The anouncement by the German firms has created a stir in Montreal shipping circles. A number of agents said they fear a price war could develop when the three lines leave the conferences and set their own prices.

They were also keeping an eye on the situation in New York. Several agents said the situation would deteriorate badly if the German firms decided to leave New York conferences too.

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP)—George Wilson, who has seen many an innovation in his newspaper career, is still apt to throw a contemptuous glance at a colleague's chattering typewriter and snort.

"I've outworn many of those machines and can still outwear some more," he says.

He has written in longhand all his life. Having just completed 70 years as a newspaper man, he is unlikely to change his ways.

He still walks to work six days a week at The Standard-Freeholder, where he has been district editor since 1932. More often than not, he's there long ahead of the rest of the staff.

George Wilson was 16 when he started work July 29, 1889, as a printer's devil at the Cornwall Weekly Standard. He had gained a reputation as a top-notch handsetter by the time he moved into the editorial rooms.

He became district editor when The Standard and Cornwall's weekly, The Freeholder, were united in 1932, and took over the direction of 99 correspondents. That force now has increased to more than 125, most of whom he knows by name and sight.

As an athletic young redhead, he was once Cornwall's roller-skating champion. He was an avid writer and booster of lacrosse.

Still active at 86, he has a capacity for work that often stuns his younger colleagues. Often he comes to the office carrying a sheaf of work he has completed at home the night before.

Sundays he usually drops in to study back issues of the paper, digging up material for his weekly Down the Lane column of city and district personalities and events.

This is largely just to refresh his memory. After working an average life span as printer, reporter and editor, he carries around a filing system of his own in his head.

He remembers, for instance, a livery stable that once stood on the present site of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority building.

His fellow editorial workers helped him celebrate his 70th anniversary at a luncheon, during which he was given a presentation by J. B. McKay, Standard-Freeholder editor and publisher, on behalf of K. R. Thomson of Thomson Newspapers.

President May Have Modified Position Since Dulles Era

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The spirit of John Foster Dulles may stalk the halls of the White House when President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev meet for their momentous talks in the latter part of September.

But that spirit may be a little bowed, a little broken.

Eisenhower placed great reliance on his late state secretary and listened attentively to his advice. Is it likely this advice is forgotten now, just three months after Dulles' death?

Dulles was a hard fighter against communism; a man who repeatedly warned against Russian delusion. He summed up his views on a summit conference at a luncheon address 20 months ago when he said:

"The Soviet leaders would like to use the summit talks to create an illusion of peace which would then cause free peoples to relax their common defence measures.

"Nothing could create more folly for us than to act on the belief that all our dangers could be ended by peaceful platitudes proclaimed from the summit by heads of government . . . ."

He believed a summit should follow only after a great deal of progress in lower levels of East-West negotiation, such as the Geneva negotiations of Big Four foreign ministers now about to adjourn after 10 weeks of deadlock.

NO SIGN OF GIVE

The Russians have not given an inch in their attitude on the Berlin crisis—a crisis of their own making.

Eight months ago Dulles warned Americans they must be prepared to face up perhaps to generations of self-sacrifice and self-discipline to counter the economic growth of communism.

It is significant that just a week ago Eisenhower told a private gathering of White House correspondents he too is no great believer in summit conferences—that the field of diplomacy should be left mostly to the experts, the foreign ministers.

He also gave this private gathering the impression he wouldn't want to confer with Khrushchev unless Khrushchev first showed willingness to give a little in his stand in Berlin and other vital issues.

SUDDEN CHANGE

Then suldenly on Monday Eisenhower announced that for almost a month he had been negotiating to get Khrushchev to come to the United States and that Khrushchev had accepted.

Had Khrushchev given a little? No, he hasn't, Eisenhower said. But he clarified his previous position by saying he would want Khrushchev to give a little before any negotiations were opened. The September talks would be merely "exploratory."

But the importance Eisenhower attaches to these "exploratory" talks is seen in the fact that he first will fly overseas to confer with Western leader in Europe before the talks are held.

Whatever the status of the "exploratory" talks, it appears Eisenhower may have modified his position since the days of the Dulles era.

Govt. Studies Economic Barometers With Federal Election in Mind

OTTAWA (CP)—It might seem a trifle early, but unofficial sources say the government is already studying the economic barometers with the next federal election in mind.

If the government follows the usual pattern of a return to the voters every four years, the next election will come sometime in 1962.

Obviously, any government cannot afford to let future elections out of its thoughts for long It takes time to prepare for them, especially in the field of economics and the country's prosperity.

The reason for the concern—or at least purposeful interest—in economic trends arises particularly out of the experience of the former Liberal government in 1957, these sources say.

During the previous two years, the country's economy was booming along at a clip so brisk that interest rates were rising steadily and the opposition—now the government — was hammering away at what it termed a faulty tight-money policy of the Liberals.

As current interest rates indicate, money is again "tight," the only difference in the present situation being that the government is Progressive Conservative instead of Liberal.

Looking back over 1955-56-57, some strategists in government ranks see a pattern of boom and bust that might — just might—worry the Conservative administration next election as it did, to a degree at least, the Liberals in 1957.

No one can say for certain what defeats governments, but the fading of the boom that rolled along through 1956 and then began a sudden tapering off in 1957 is considered to have had some effect.

There are a good many indications that the country's economy is rolling toward recovery at present. Interest rates are rising. The Bank of Canada rate last week was at a record 5.72 per cent.

But how long will this new boom continue? Will it turn out to be just another temporary pop, so to speak, fading away again in a year or two, along about election time?

Nobody can say at this time, of course, which is one of the reasons governments usually seem a little worried. But unofficial sources say the problem of greater concern to the government today than any other single one is how to stretch economic ups and downs out into a steady prosperity.

The government has other election-view headaches. There's the Newfoundland feud over federal aid to that province. But how much of it will be remembered by the voters in 1962 or thereabouts?

There's the problem of federal-provincial tax-sharing. But that's been tucked away for the moment, at least, in a committee of officials from both levels of government.

It's a good bet this committee will be busy studying fiscal problems for at least a year, maybe for a couple of years. Then there'll be time for a federal-provincial conference.

SPUTNIK STILL GOING

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia's Sputnik III completed its 6,284th lap around the earth at 6 a.m., it was announced today. The 1½-ton cone-shaped satellite was launched May 15, 1958.

Rules Hourly Worker Entitled To Notice

TORONTO (CP) — A York County court has ruled that an hourly-paid worker hired for an indefinite period is entitled to a week's notice or one week's pay on dismissal.

The decision by Judge Frank McDonagh, made public Tuesday, involved seven McCulloch Company of Canada Limited workers dismissed without notice.

Although all seven employees were concerned with the outcome, the test case was brought on behalf of one employee, Althea Macgregor. The decision is beyond appeal since it involves a sum of less than $100.

The judgment, ordering the company to pay the plaintiff $53.60 and costs of the action, held that the plaintiff was entitled to one week's notice since she was hired for an indefinite period.

Judge McDonagh said the trial had not established that it was the company's practice to dismiss employees without notice nor was there evidence that the employee had been dismissed for cause.

Norman Mathews, company counsel argued that it was not the common practice in industry to give hourly-rated workers notice or payment in lieu of notice. Personnel managers from three other companies testified in support of this.

Plaintiff's counsel, David Lewis argued that there is a principle of law that, except on dismissal for cause, an employee can expect reasonable notice.

Four Yugoslavs Seeking Entry Into Canada

MONTREAL (CP) — Immigration authorities may rule today on whether four Yugoslavs—one of them a pregnant woman—can land in Canada after five months of wandering the Atlantic aboard a Danish tramp freighter.

The four stowed away on the Olav Bjark when she sailed from Le Havre March 7 and came ashore when the ship docked in Montreal Tuesday. They spent the night in immigration department detention cells while authorities decided what to do with them.

They have already been refused admission to Venezuela, the Dutch West Indies, Mexico, Dutch Guiana, Brazil, Argentina and England.

The woman, Mileva Stanjic, 29, became pregnant aboard the ship. Capt. Peter Pedersen said the baby is due in January.

The three men were identified by authorities as Ivo Pujic, 21, Mate Akrap, 28, and Suraka Slavko, 31.

"They have worked hard and proved to be good people," Capt. Pedersen said. But he would like to see them ashore "for their own good."

Child Becomes Flaming Torch

His father, Antero Sousa, about 35, also suffered burns about the face and body. He is in satisfactory condition in hospital at Simcoe.

Sousa stopped to give aid to a motorist. Gas from the car's carburetor spilled on to the hot engine and ignited. The boy's clothing was set afire.

Heavy Damage In 3-Alarm Fire

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — A three-alarm fire swept through a one-storey frame building here Tuesday night, causing heavy damage to three business establishments. One fireman suffered a leg injury when the roof caved in.

The flames roared through Atherton Electric Co., Kris Body and Equipment Co., and Machine Tool and Design Co. More than 100 firemen fought the blaze for more than an hour before bringing it under control.

Cause of the fire was undetermined, and no estimate of damage was available.

Allies Could Not Muster More Than 250,000 Troops To Guard Invasion Routes

(Does NATO have the tools to carry out its assignment of protecting central Europe from attack from the east? Here's an appraisal, second in a series of four articles by an Associated Press reporter who toured NATO's central European commands.)

By BEM PRICE

FONTAINEBLEAU, France (AP) — On paper 21 1-3 divisions constitute the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's shield for the protection of central Europe.

These divisions supposedly are near full strength, well-equipped and combat ready — 425,000 men. A reporter touring Allied commands, however, finds it difficult to believe the Allies could muster more than 250,000 troops, some indifferently equipped, against an attack.

Under NATO policy, this land force would meet any Soviet aggression as close to the frontiers of the 750-mile-long Iron Curtain as possible and hold them there until the rest of Europe could mobilize.

The job of these 21 1-3 divisions is to guard the three main invasion routes into the heart of NATO from the east — the north European plain, the Mittelgebirge Gap in central Germany and Danube Valley in the south.

PAPER FORCE

The shield force consists on paper of five U.S. divisions, four from the United Kingdom, two from France, seven from Germany, two from Belgium and one from the Netherlands, plus one-third of a Canadian division.

But paper strength does not win battles. How many of these divisions actually are ready for modern combat?

Gen. Jean-Etienne Valluy, who has been a French soldier for 42 of his 60 years, is commander-in-chief of the Allied forces in central Europe with headquarters at Fontainebleau.

In an interview conducted through an interpreter, Gen. Valluy said that if he had to undertake a land war in Europe tomorrow there would be three divisions he could not commit immediately — one each from France, Belgium and the Netherlands.

Could Britain really muster four divisions? "The British could muster three," Valluy replied.

NOT AT FULL STRENGTH

"do all the divisions assigned to your command really exist?" After a moment's reflection, Valluy said, "all the divisions exist but not at full strength."

Thus by Valluy's reckoning the shield force for central Europe now is 17 combat divisions ready for action, but that is not the whole story.

The seven German divisions exist, but four are essentially training divisions. The other three are heavily-armored, highly mobile units of 9,000 to 10,000 men each.

If the German training divisions are removed from the list of the combat-fit units, Valluy's land forces are reduced to 13 1-3 divisions, but again that 's not the whole story.

Gen. Valluy noted that the British and Belgian forces contain large numbers of foot soldiers. In these days of atomic battlefield weapons and mechanization, the walking soldier may be an anachronism.

Valluy was asked what he considered his major problem. "My main fear and worry is the feeling of moral disengagement some nations seem to have toward NATO."

REDUCE BRITISH TROOPS

In February, 1957, Britain formally advised her allies that a strained economy was forcing her to reduce her NATO commitment in Germany to 50,000 troops from 80,000. France notified NATO of a similar intention at the same time.

Gen. Lauris Norstad, SHAPE commander, called the cuts dangerous.

Aside from the economic angle, Britain said she felt the development of missiles and rockets had reduced the manpower needs of NATO.

As for the French, nearly all of her first-line troops are committed to the suppression of the Algerian rebellion. Once France had five divisions in the NATO shield. Now she has two—neither at full strength, according to an American source.

All this boils down to a single hard fact: There seems to be precisely eight divisions now in the NATO shield which are full strength, well-equipped and highly-trained for atomic warfare — five U.S. divisions and three German.

There are 20 Soviet divisions in East Germany alone — 400,000 men. In addition, there are seven East German divisions, 95,000 men, 14 Polish divisions, 280,000 men, and 14 Czechoslovakian divisions of 170,000 men.

In all the Russians have about 175 divisions, 160 of which are stationed west of the Ural Mountains. Russian divisions range in size from 13,000 to 15,000 men. A standard U.S. division contains 14,500 men.

Intelligence reports indicate the Russians maintain all their active divisions at somewhere between 65 and 75 per cent of wartime strength.

There are published U.S. estimates that the Russians have 4,000 of their medium T-54 tanks in East Germany. Current intelligence estimates place the number at between 5,000 and 6,000 tanks.

While the number of tanks available to the Allies is classified, an educated guess is that the Soviet and satellite nation tank forces outnumber those of the Allies about three to one.

Red Equipment Being Used in Laotion Fighting?

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain charged today that military equipment from Czechoslovakia and Communist China is being used in fighting under way in Laos between government forces and Communist rebels.

A spokesman at the foreign office said this information had been received from the British Embassy, at Vientiane, capital of the troubled Indochinese state.

The spokesman said these reports stated that fighting still is in progress there.

Nixon's Political Fortunes Enhanced by Russian Trip

WASHINGTON (CP) — Vice-President Richard Nixon flies back to Washington today, his political fortunes sharply enhanced by his headline-making visits to Russia and Poland.

While some confusion still seems to reign in this capital as to what Nixon actually did accomplish, most commentators seem to agree he has surged ahead as the leading Republican who might capture the presidency in 1960.

Some critics even accused him of initiating his presidential campaign behind the Iron Curtain. The avalanche of publicity Nixon received would indeed be heart-warming to any presidential aspirant.

News commentator Walter Lippman wrote that Nixon handled himself with skill and poise, producing a diplomatic breakthrough. Most important of all, "he negotiated the exchange of visits."

Somehow the impression has been left, perhaps because of the timing of the Khrushchev-Eisenhower anouncement, that Nixon engineered plans for the visits.

What may have added to the impression were periodic reports from Nixon's party that he planned to recommend that Khrushchev be invited to the United States—a step the president already had initiated.

Undoubtedly all this may have some political benefit in elevating the statute of the 46-year-old Californian. But memories are fleeting. Nixon's big job will be to maintain the political momentum of his Soviet trip. That may not be so easy.

Watching on the sidelines is Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York. Many Republican buddies are urging him to take Nixon on but Rockefeller is biding his time.

He let it be known he will wait until November. If the public opinion polls show he can top Nixon in popularity for the presidential nomination, then he'll come out and fight.

'Jest a Second'

Canadian Visit

Queen Would Do It Again But Hours Would Be Shorter; Prince Was Royal Helpmate

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP)—Hard-working Queen Elizabeth, certain of her place in the hearts of Canadians after a highly successful Royal Tour, is ready to do it again any time her advisers wish. But there is evidence that, while she may be asked to stay as long, she may not be asked to do as much as she did in the 45-day, 15,000-mile tour just ended.

A future tour might cover the same distance and variety but the Queen's day might be cut by two hours, giving her more relaxation. What isn't generally known is that there is a good deal of paper work to be handled, extending the Queen's day beyond the time at which she takes her last bow.

"What she needs in the future," said a prominent Canadian, "is a sort of banking-hour setup: available to the people until mid-afternoon, then back to the books so they can be cleaned up in reasonable time, giving her more freedom."

The Queen appreciated the good intentions of editorial commentators in Canada and Britain—she looks at up to 20 papers a day—critical that the tour was an exhausting grind. But she is reliably understood to have felt that it was not beyond her endurance. She prides herself on her staying power.

ILLNESS ANNOYING

Her illness in the Yukon was more annoying and confining than anything and the type that may happen to any tourist, running into new foods and different water.

It is known, too, that the Queen feels she was neither overtired nor overworked. Her only concern was whether the effort was worth while — and she is convinced it was. Her pride may have been hurt by suggestions the tour was too much for her.

She feels this is part of the tough job for which she was trained and to which she is dedicated.

She has let it be known that in future she will carry out the type of tour her advisers ask her to, and has made it clear that she has few reservations. She would expect her governments to assess public opinion and tell her what kind of a tour would be most appropriate. She feels the marathon just ended was about right.

But there is growing sympathy among Canadians that the Queen should be protected from overworking herself. That is probably why Prime Minister Diefenbaker, enthusiastic about the lasting worth of royal tours, has indicated there will be more, but of a less formal, less strenuous nature.

The Queen's tour touched most facets of Canadian life. It was obvious she enjoyed most of its highlights, because her reactions are honest and unhidden.

As for criticism that some of the program was repetitious and dull, the Queen was aware what she came to Canada to do and conscientiously participated at each similar occasion because she appreciated the effort that had gone into it and that it was not dull or repetitious for the people involved.

The Queen took seriously the arduous chore of the reception lines and feels they are a very necessary part of a tour. She has replied to critical comments within her own entourage that, after all, those in the reception line are elected representatives of the people. She can't see everybody but can see as many of their representatives as possible.

It is known that she feels the tour achieved two important results.

First, it caused people to write and read about the significance of and values symbolized by the monarchy. The Queen has been especially happy about the general editorial acceptance of these values, and feels well rewarded if her long tour caused people to reflect on them.

Second, she believes the tour focused attention on Canada's industrial and economic resources and development. If not only Canadians but people in the other countries represented in her accompanying press party have learned more about Canada through the Queen's eyes, she feels an important contribution has been made.

She was impressed with the variety of the tour. She asked intelligent, sometimes penetrating questions; enjoyed her pre-arrival briefings; and did a lot of research and study. There is little doubt she is better informed about Canada than most Canadians.

TIMING IMPORTANT

If she had a reservation, it would be about the timing of a future tour. Spring or fall would be a better period to see more children, now scattered in family vacations. She feels it would be less difficult for leaders to organize mass rallies in any season but summer to give her an opportunity to appear before a maximum number of Canada's youth.

While she would be last to complain, a non-summer tour would also escape the heat that caused discomfort and sometimes interfered with rer rest and sleep.

However, she saw many children and one of her most vivid impressions is their ruddy healthfulness, and happy freshness. They gave her many of her most wistful moments. On at least two occasions, youngsters brought a tear to her eye when they asked about Charles and Anne.

By protocol half a pace behind but by nature adventuring many steps ahead, Prince Philip proved an extraordinary royal helpmate. His relaxed good humor and eye for public relations kept the show on the road by deft handling of situations that could have been dull, embarrassing or awkward.

With a sweeping disregard for regal restriction he ventured into areas that endeared him to many Canadians. He took a light-hearted poke at Ontario liquor laws, got in a plug for the British automobile industry when a North American vehicle stalled, and even tackled regional politics at times—but always with a grin.

GAY, BUT HELPFUL

He was jaunty and gay most of the time. His spirit was contagious and gave the Queen a lift at the end of a hot day's schedule. But he was also serious and husbandly, making sure the Queen missed no deserving cause or individual.

Like the Queen, he went back to England with a healthy tan and eyebrows burned almost white by the sun.

They enjoyed themselves most of the time but seemed most relaxed when talking to Canadians who process the pulp, dig the ore, pour the metals and mould the nation's industrial strength. They met a ready response and friendliness that seems to have set a new—perhaps distinctively Canadian — relationship between sovereign and subject.

The Queen was touched by the simply - spoken appreciation of survivors of the Northumberland Strait fishing-fleet disaster. Here again the Prince was a strong support, coming up with questions that turned the pathetic little interviews away from tragedy. He was remembered in the Maritimes for his visit a year ago to the hard-luck mining town of Springhill.

They were at home on the farm and responded warmly to country courtesy that took little account of ceremony. In the big cities they seemed surprised at warm greetings having little to do with curiosity.

CHICAGO SUCCESS

The Queen, who may have had some pre-tour reservations about Chicago, left that mid - western metropolis with a happy air, confident of having captured many hearts. It was one of the most boisterous and enthusiastic receptions in the six weeks.

But perhaps the most gratifying part of the tour for the royal couple was the genuine warmth with which they were greeted in French-Canada. But the Queen and prince showed a ready and knowledgeable respect for the language and traditions of Quebec and received appreciation in return.

There was appreciation, too, when the Queen, head of the Church of England, bowed reverently at a Roman Catholic drumhead service blessing the color of the Royal 22nd Regiment, the famous Vandoo. In the same category, all denominations, Protestant and Roman Catholic, had a hand in a similar service when the Canadian navy's color was consecrated at Halifax.

The Queen generally liked the way her tour was reported and said so in her final address. Accompanying reporters and photographers found few of the obstacles of previous royal tours.

HELP FOR PRESS

The Queen had laid down the principle that, if the tour was to have its maximum effect, press, radio, TV and newsreel men must be free to report it unhampered by security arrangements. The unbending wall of Mounties of previous occasions almost became interference-runners for the press party. At one point early in the tour, startled photographers found themselves being persuaded into closer range after they had decided to use long-distance lenses.

At the end of the tour there wasn't a reporter or photographer who didn't speak in admiration of the good, hard - working job done by the Queen and her husband.

The tour introduced a new element that provided the Queen with her own mobile home: the use of Britannia. The Queen could retire to the royal yacht at the end of a busy day and, without the disturbance of being a guest and having to observe formalities, relax in housecoat and slippers or slacks and sweater.

On this trip, the Queen may have got closer to Canadians than any previous monarch.

TO RESTORE ARCHWAY

NORTH BAY (CP) — The "Gateway to the North" archway at the southern entrance to this city is going to be restored. The stone archway over Highway 11, one of the most - photographed structures in the province, was damaged by a truck more than a year ago. A new highway entrance is being built and the renovated archway will be erected on it.

DIES OF INJURIES

CHATHAM (CP) — David C. Kearns, 58, of nearby Tilbury, unconscious since a June 28 highway accident, died in hospital Thursday.

Major League Cities Plan Stadia for Big-Time Ball

TORONTO (CP) — Controller Donald Summerville proposed Tuesday a scheme involving a debenture issue and an annual rental to get Toronto into the third major baseball league without cost to taxpayers.

He suggested the Canadian National Exhibition approach Jack Kent Cooke, owner of Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League, to see whether he would agree to a rental plan similar to that undertaken with the CNE by the Argonaut Football Club.

The scheme calls for a debenture issue to cover the cost of making the CNE's lakefront sta[illegible]m, new home of the Argos this [illegible], suitable for baseball. The debentures would be retired through rental payments by the Leafs.

Mr. Summerville said his proposal could result in a stadium seating as many as 60,000. As for conflict between football and baseball, "I'm sure these men could sit down and iron things out so there will be no scheduling problems."

The joint board of park commissioners would seek authorization to issue up to $9,500,000 in revenue bonds "when and if" the opportunity arises to get a major league franchise for the cities, 30 miles apart.

NEW YORK (AP)—The projected third major baseball league may count on a $3,000,000-a-year boost from television and radio receipts, Television Age says.

The magazine in its current issue said the Continental League could get such a figure if full broadcast rights were permitted by eight teams.

[illegible] the teams elect to restrict [illegible]erage to away games only, the total would be $1,500,000, the magazine added.

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP)—An official group decided Tuesday to ask Fort Worth and Dallas voters for permission to issue bonds to build a major league baseball stadium between the two cities.

Says Owners 'Steam-Rollered' All-Star Game

BALTIMORE (AP)—The players wanted the second all-star baseball game to start next year "but the owners steam-rollered it in this season," Bob Nieman of Baltimore Orioles claimed today.

"They (the owners) saw a chance to pack that Los Angeles bowl with maybe 90,000 people," said Nieman, Baltimore player representative.

Otherwise, Nieman defended approval of two all-star games in one season by the players. He said it was done to provide the money to pay pensions to older players.

The pension plan was revised two years ago and Nieman said a $12,000,000 fund deficit was created "when we agreed to make the new plan retroactive to include players active as far back as 1946."

The second game at Los Angeles Monday drew 54,982 fans and netted the players' pension fund $262,336.47 plus $153,000 of the television account.

Ontario, Quebec Junior Golfers Meet Today

MONTREAL (CP) — Ontario's 10-man junior golf team practised Tuesday for today's meeting with Quebec juniors and to no one's surprise Bobby Panasiuk of Windsor was the hottest man in the workout.

Bobby shot a three-under-par 67, debiting himself a penalty stroke and a one-over-par score when he tried an extra shot at one of the holes.

The 10-man teams meet over Summerlea today in the second annual Ontario - Quebec junior team match. Ontario won last year in Toronto, 11 matches to four.

The teams are comprised of five age groups—14 to 18. Scotch foursomes alternate-stroke play—are scheduled for the morning starting and singles for the afternoon. Match play governs.

The Ontario boys arrived by plane and went immediately to the Summerlea club for a workout. They were entertained at dinner later by the Province of Quebec Golf Association and then took in the Winipeg Blue Bombers - Montreal Alouettes football game.

In other practice rounds Tuesday, Gary Black of St. Catharines and John Kindred of Peterborough shot 73s while Kitchener's Gary Dornhauffer had a 77.

Jackie Jensen Will Wait to Decide Future

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Red Sox outfielder Jackie Jensen will not decide his baseball future until after the 1959 season, he told general manager Bucky Harris Tuesday night.

Jensen and Harris held a brief closed-door meeting prior to a Boston-Kansas City twi - night doubleheader at Fenway Park.

Both agreed that Jackie had not definitely decided on quitting the game though he has given it serious consideration. Jensen and his wife, contacted in their Lake Tahoe, Nev., home admitted he has talked of quitting during previous seasons.

"Jackie told me he would give me a definite answer after the season is over", Harris said.

IMPROVE HAWKS' ICE

CHICAGO (AP)—A new $175,000 hockey rink has been completed in Chicago Stadium, home of the Black Hawks.

Ten miles of 1¼ inch pipe were laid under five inches of concrete to form the freezing unit. The rink was the major item in a $300,000 refurbishing bill for the stadium.

KWONG TRADE FAILS

VANCOUVER (CP) — Negotiations between Edmonton Eskimos and B.C. Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union over Normie Kwong have broken down, the Lions said Tuesday. General manager Herb Capozzi said it now appears Kwong won't be traded to the Lions as Edmonton wanted former Eskimo guard Ted Tully and the Lions weren't prepared to give him up.

HARRIS TO RETURN

MONTREAL (CP) — Hard-throwing Billy Harris from Marysville, N.B., was pronounced fit Tuesday night to return to Montreal Royals' lineup within two or three days. The chunky righthander twisted his left ankle Saturday night while sliding into second base.

BUY FIELDER

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Los Angeles Dodgers said Tuesday the club has purchased the contract of outfielder Chuck Essegian from Spokane of the Pacific Coast League. The righthanded power hitter joined Dodgers immediately.

CANADIAN WINS UPSET

HAMBURG (CP)—Hanna Sladek of Montreal eliminated second seeded Yola Ramirez of Chile Tuesday in the first major upset of the German international tennis championships here. The former Czech girl beat the temperamental Chilean in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, to enter the last 16 of the tournament.

MATCHES WORLD MARK

GOTEBORG, Sweden (CP)—Ray Norton of the United States matched the world record of 20.6 seconds for the 200-metre event Tuesday in an international track and field meet. He also won the 100-metre dash in 10.4 seconds.

TO TOUR ARCTIC

OTTAWA (CP) — An international scientific team, including at least one representative from Russia, will make a 5,000-mile flying trip to the Canadian Arctic from Aug. 8 to 18. The team will be made up of 30 botanists from eight countries who later will attend the ninth International Botanical congress in Montreal Aug. 19-29.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Scarcely had the boys in the press pews of the Patterson-Johansson fight—recovered from the shock of seeing the champion bite the dust seven times, than an important question posed itself. Was it a record? Nobody knew. But most all of the millwrights knew someone who did know. So all hands reached for the Bible of Boxing, Nat Fleisher's Ring Record Book.

Mr. Fleischer did not fail them. He never has. And there it was in black and white that Johansson's seven knockdowns of Patterson had merely tied Jack Dempsey's twin marks of flooring Jess Willard and Luis Angel Firpo.

The Ring Record book makes fascinating reading. Gad, those boxer-fighters of the past were all man and Nat reveals some highly interesting facts. It made good holiday browsing.

So you think Archie Moore is the Grand Old Man of boxing? Shucks, he's still wet behind the ears compared to Jem Mace who began his career as a 24-year-old in 1855 and concluded it in 1890 at the age of 59.

The record number of knockdowns in one fight, and a lot of fans never heard of it — is forty-three. Battling Nelson, the Durable Dane, was flattened forty-two times by Christy Williams in 1902. Williams went down once—for keeps. The winner was Nelson with a knockout in the seventeenth round.

Joe Grim was termed the "Human Punching Bag," and he earned the name. He appears in the knockdown column four times. Bob Fitzsimmons flattened him 20 times in one fight and nine in another. Jack Johnson did it seventeen times on one occasion and fifteen on another. None of the fights went beyond six rounds either. Wow!

Joe Louis earned $4,626,721 in the ring, but 50 years earlier the mighty John L. Sullivan pulled down $1,221,320. But, those were the days of nickel beer and dime shots, with no income tax bloodhounds on one's tail.

Gene Tunney received the most money of any one individual. He reaped a cool $990,445 in his second fight with Jack Dempsey. The highest receipts were $2,658,660 for the second Tunney-Dempsey brawl and the largest crowd was 120,757 for the first fight between the same pair.

There is tragedy in the Ring Book, too. Take the case of Beau Jack, the colorful lightweight, who brought in more than a million and a half at a gate during the height of his popularity. What is he doing now? Shining shoes at a Gotham stand, cheerful, happy and completely broke.

And get this. No heavyweight champion ever has lost the championship and then regained it. Will Floyd Patterson, the youngest man to win it (21), and the youngest to lose it (24) be the first?

They had few sissies in those days. The longest fight ever staged was that between Andy Bowen and Jack Burke in 1893. It went 110 rounds but the boys wasted their time. It was declared a draw after seven hours and 19 minutes of slugging and neither had the strength to continue.

Only four men in the recorded history of boxing went through their careers undefeated. Rocky Marciano, Jack McAuliffe, Jimmy Barry and Jimmy Carruthers. There have been eleven double knockouts as a result of simultaneous punches to the chin . . . but Pat Kissinger and Al Doriac got the same result by bumping heads.

No fighter ever gave away the weight like Ruby Robert Fitzsimmons in his fight with Ed Dunkhorst, the Human Box Car. Ruby weighed 160 and the Box Car 300. But Robert derailed the Box Car with a second-round knockout.

And Georges Carpentier, the fabled Orchid Man of France, who fought the Battle of the Century with Jack Dempsey, was afraid of none. He campaigned in all eight divisions, flyweight to heavyweight.

And if you are still interested, the first recorded heavyweight champion is James Figg in 1719, while John L. Sullivan was both the last of the bare-knuckle fighters and the first under the Marquis of Queensbury rules.

Television has definitely hurt the beak-busting industry. Madison Square Garden fight shows in a single season drew a million and a quarter in dollars and half a million in customers. Last year the receipts were $157,923 and 58,870 in customers, for twenty-seven shows, too.

Francona Sparks Tribe Win As Orioles Peck Chicago; Warren Spahn 3-Hits Giants

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

With Tito Francona on the warpath, there is new hope in the camp of the Cleveland Indians who now trail Chicago by only two games in the American League race.

Francona leads both majors with his .416 batting average but he probably won't have enough at bats to be eligible for the league title. He needs about 255 more appearances at the plate and the Indians have only 49 games to play.

Certainly the deal that brought Francona to Cleveland from Detroit in exchange for Larry Doby last March ranks with one of the best Frank Lane ever made.

DRIVES IN FOUR RUNS

Francona helped send poor stumbling Washington down to its 17th straight defeat Tuesday night when he drove in four runs in Cleveland's 8-2 victory. The outfielder sparked a four-run surge in the third with his two-run triple and hit his 12th homer in the seventh after Minnie Minoso walked. Jim Perry threw a six-hitter to beat Bill Fischer.

Cookie Lavagetto's Senators, who haven't won since they beat Kansas City in the first half of a July 19 doubleheader, can beat the club record for futility if they blow today's doubleheader. In fact, the American League and modern major league record is only 20.

Baltimore gave Chicago a dose of its own one-run medicine. The Orioles came up with two unearned runs in the eighth for a 3-2 decision over the White Sox, who had won 26 of 31 previous one-run games.

LEAVES BASES LOADED

Rookie Ken McBride from Indianapolis left in the seventh with the bases loaded and Chicago winning 2-1 on Johnny Romano's two-run pinch homer. Reliefman Turk Lown walked in the tying run before Gerry Staley took over. The Orioles scored the tie-breaker when Luis Aparicio couldn't get off a throw after fielding Billy Klaus' grounder. Billy Hoeft was the winner and McBride the loser.

Frank Lary worked his usual magic on the Yankees as Detroit made it 11 out of 15 over New York with a 4-3 decision. Lary now has won five in a row over the Yanks this year and holds a 21-5 lifetime edge over his favorite cousins. Neil Chrisley, who has only nine hits, slammed his sixth homer for the Tigers and Mickey Mantle hit No. 21 and Elston Howard No. 13 for New York.

Kansas City dropped to fourth place by splitting a twi-nighter at Boston. Pete Runnels drove in three runs in Boston's 4-1 opening victory for Tom Brewer. The Athletics scored six in the sixth to take the second game 8-6. Eleven men batted in the big inning that ruined Al Schroll and gave Murry Dickson his second victory.

Warren Spahn has led the Milwaukee Braves back into the National League lead. He hurled a brilliant three-hitter against San Francisco Giants Tuesday night. Braves won 6-1.

The 38-year-old left-hander who has won 261 games, only five short of Eppa Rixey's all-time high for a National League southpaw, allowed only one hit in the first 7 2-3 innings.

The victory put Braves on top by .001 over Giants with Los Angeles, a 4-1 loser to Cincinati, another half game behind.

Sloppy Giant fielding helped ruin the night for the capacity 22,949 at Seals Stadium. San Francisco was guilty of five errors, two by losing pitcher Mike McCormick at first base.

HOT STREAK

Milwaukee won its 11th game in its last 13 starts. Del Crandall hit his 13th homer with Billy Bruton on base in the eighth.

Vada Pinson hit a two-run homer and lefty Joe Nuxhall allowed only three hits in beating Dodgers who led momentarily in the first inning on Wally Moon's home run. Pinson connected for No. 11 over the left field screen during the three-run third to hand defeat No. 1 to Stan Williams. Jerry Lynch also homered in the eighth off Roger Craig.

Pittsburgh's Vern Law subdued St. Louis 7-3 despite home runs by Stan Musial and George Crowe. It was Law's 12th victory and Bob Gibson's first defeat since he was brought up from the Omaha farm club.

Harry Anderson's two-run double provided Robin Roberts with enough runs for Philadelphia's 2-1 margin over Chicago in the only day game. Roberts' 10th victory over the season was the 216th of his brilliant career.

Lane Blasts Stengel for All-Star 'Trick'

CHICAGO (AP) — Frank Lane, Cleveland general manager, today called Casey Stengel's use of Indians pitcher Cal McLish in the all-star game a "damned dirty trick."

Lane said he backed Paul Richards, manager of Baltimore Orioles, 100 per cent. Richards, in Baltimore, said the use of three of his Oriole pitchers in the second all-star game in Los Angeles Monday had "messed up" his scheduled rotation of pitchers.

"Why did Stengel use McLish when Cal had just pitched against Baltimore Sunday?" Lane asked. "I thought Stengel was a better baseball man than that. Richards wouldn't do it. Joe Gordon (Cleveland manager) wouldn't do it. It's sort of an unwritten law.

"What right did Stengel have in pitching Billy O'Dell, who worked in both games for the Orioles on Sunday? He uses McLish and O'Dell while his own Ryne Duren never left the bullpen. I'll leave it to the public to judge Stengel's motive."

Probes Promotional Antics Of Heavyweight Title Fight

NEW YORK (CP)—The well-muddled aftermath of the Ingemar Johansson-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title fight was off on another tangent today with the disclosure by District Attorney Frank Hogan that his racket probers have stepped into the case.

Hogan, emphasizing that the investigation has nothing to do with the result of the fight itself but of the promotional activities, said Tuesday nigh his office has been questioning promoter Bill Rosensohn off and on since July 23.

Hogan said they are particularly interested in "the promotional activities leading up to the fight and what may have occurred since between Rosensohn and his associates."

Rosensohn was scheduled for further questioning today.

Rosensohn, who resigned Monday as president of his own promotion company, Rosensohn Enterprises Incorporated, told his version of at least part of the story in a coyyrighted article appearing in Sports Illustrated today.

It it, he charged he unwillingly signed away control of his company to salvage the June 26 fight in which Johansson lifted the title in three rounds at Yankee Stadium.

Rosensohn said this consisted of turning over one-third of the stock in Rosensohn Enterprises to Charley Black, described as a friend and associate of Cus D'Amato, and another third to Vincent Velella, an attorney and friend of Black's.

The promoter said if these terms had not been met, D'Amato — Patterson's manager —would have called off the fight.

Velella termed Rosensohn's story untrue.

"I shall study it carefully with a view to possible action," he said in a statement. "I understand that the New York State Athletic Commission has announced it will investigate this situation. I welcome such an investigation and will be delighted to rest my case upon its outcome."

Last week, Velella turned up with two-thirds of the stock and, over Rosensohn's objections, seated Irving Kahn of TelePrompTer Inc., as a director of the promotion company. Three days later, Rosensohn resigned as president.

In another development, federal court Judge Frederick Van Pelt Bryan ordered Johansson's purse from the first fight released from custody of the U.S. marshal's office here.

The marshal, however, said he could not release it until he learned the exact amount of the purse, an accounting of which has not been revealed—even to Johansson. Johansson's share has been estimated at about $250,000.

The purse was attached by a writ brought by the Chicago Stadium Corporation and heavyweight Eddie Machen, who claimed he had a contract for a return bout with Johansson before the Swede met Patterson for the title.

Rain Halts Cats-Cobourg Softball Game

Rain halted the Bobcats-Cobourg second semi-final game in Cobourg last night. It will be played tonight weather permitting.

The Cats were leading 4-3 in the bottom of the third inning when the rains came.

"Sleepy" Dawe was on the mound for Cobourg, his first appearance since he was injured on July 3. Bobby Green did hilltop duty for the Cats.

Temple's Tabbies scored four runs in the first inning, but Hart's groundball homer with one on whittled the lead to two. Cobourg scored another in the second.

The third game of the best of seven series will be played at the CNRA Park here Friday starting 6.30 and the fourth in Cobourg Saturday night.

Royals Blank Columbus 6-0; Toronto Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Havana Cubans stayed eight games behind front-running Buffalo in the International League pennant race by defeating Rochester 5-3 Tuesday night. The Bisons beat Miami 8-6.

Emilio Cueche (7-7) spun an eight-hitter that beat Rochester's Bob Keegan (12-7). It was Havana's fifth straight victory and their 19th in the last 26 games. Keegan's wild pitch with the bases loaded in the fifth inning allowed the final two Havana runs to score. Luke Easter homered for the Red Wings.

Henry Mason's four-hit relief pitching over the final 5 1-3 innings stifled Miami as Bill Taylor, Bobby DelGreco and Bobby Morgan homered for Buffalo off Harry Byrd (5-10). Taylor also had a two-run double to help Mason up his record to 9-3. Chuck Oertel and Bert Hamric hit home runs for Miami.

Bob Lenon's three-run homer, his 27th, in the first inning off loser Curt Raydon (6-2) propelled Montreal to undisputed possession of third place, dropping Columbus to fourth. Babe Birrer (7-11) pitched a six-hitter for the victory.

Toronto scored five runs in the first inning to get its victory over Bill Short (13-4), who lasted only two - thirds of an inning. Jim King's two-run homer as the big blow. Ron Negray (13-8) was the winner, giving up Gerry Thomas' fourth homer, Richmond's only run.

Masters Show Youngsters in Senior Tennis

By TOM MITCHELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—The old masters taught the youngsters the finer points Tuesday when play in the Canadian tennis championship moved to the end of the second round.

Veterans Henri Rochon of Montreal, former Davis Cupper, and Jacques Giguere, the Quebec City champion, were the teachers. And Toronto's John Bassett and Winnipeg's Jim Ioanidis were the students.

Bassett, a wiry, hard - hitter, took his lesson from Rochon—bowing 6-3, 6-1. The Montrealer, fourth-seeded, kept Bassett off balance most of the match.

Ioanidis went to Giguere's school and came out the loser 7-5, 6-3. Giguere, seeded seventh, was quick to convert any error into a point.

About 200 spectators were on hand for the evening matches.

Top Canadian Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., didn't lose a game in taking two sets from Quebecer Jacques Boivin. The first foreign seed, Mexico's Antonio Palafox, downed Yvon LeBlanc of Marieville, Que., 6-1, 6-0.

The second Canadian and foreign seeds were also successful: Toronto's lanky Don Fontana won 6-0, 6-1 over Montrealer Doug Robertson and Whitney Reed of California 6-2, 6-4 over Marc Blondeau of Quebec.

Orlando and Reynaldo Garrido, Cuban brothers rated third and fifth respectively, both posted second-round wins. The Cuban won 6-4, 7-5.

Montreal's Val Harit, third-ranked Canadian, defeated Fred Rheaume of Chatham 6-3, 6-2.

Nell Hopman, wife of Australia's Davis Cup team coach and sixth foreign seed, and Marian Boundy, an English girl now living in Montreal, staged the hottest tussle of the day in women's play.

Mrs. Hopman won it 6-3, 9-11, 7-5 but had to fight off a determined rally.

Rocket Marks 38th Birthday Ready to Blast off Again

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—The man celebrated his 38th birthday Tuesday and just in case there are folks around the National Hockey League who figure—or hope for their own good—that the aged gentleman is through they can forget it.

The amazing Maurice (Rocket) Richard, greatest hockey scorer of all time, not only is looking forward to his 18th season but has raised his goal target.

"I know that before the last couple of seasons or so I've said I'd like to get at least 20 goals," the Rocket told The Canadian Press. "That's not enough. The target now is 25 to 30."

Has the rocket given thought to retiring?

"Sure, I have. But not as long as I feel okay and as long as I can follow the other guys. Right now I feel fine and that injury of last season doesn't bother me. Of course, I can't say if I'll be 100 per cent until the training camp starts next month, but you can be sure I'm going to try hard."

BESET BY INJURIES

Serious injuries have beset Montreal Canadiens' star the last two seasons. First it was an almost - severed achilles tendon; then, an ankle fracture at the end of the shin bone.

From the first injury Richard bounced back to score 11 goals in the Stanley Cup playoffs. In last spring's playoffs he was out of shape; just back skating again. He made only brief appearances and scored nothing.

This summer he has been playing a lot of golf. Soon he will go to work at tennis and handball to get himself into top physical shape. If ice facilities are available before the training camp opens he will do a little skating.

What does managing director Frank Selke think about the 38-year-old Rocket?

"There's one thing certain. I'm not going to let him retire. I need him in my business. He's good for another 25 or 30 goals.

"I'm not forgetting about fellows like Eddie Shore and Bill Cook who played until they were around 40. Anything they could do the Rocket can do better. He's a superman."

In his 17 NHL campaigns the incomparable Rocket Richard has played in 1,052 games, including playoffs, and has scored exactly 1,052 points—one for each game.

Gibson Left Off American Tennis Team

NEW YORK (AP)—Althea Gibson said Tuesday she was a little disappointed but not bitter over her omissions from the United States Wightman Cup tennis squad which meets Britain later this month.

"I wanted to play, certainly, because I wanted to represent my country," the world's foremost woman player said. "I advised Mrs. du Pont (Margaret du Pont, captain and committee chairman) of my availability.

"But the team probably was picked on the basis of tournament performances. Since I have not played in any tournaments this year, I have no kick coming.

"It's a good team and I think we can regain the cup."

The British team beat the United States last year for the first time in 28 years. Miss Gibson, reigning Wimbledon and U.S. champion at the time, lost a heartbreaking match to Britain's Christine Truman.

Named to the U.S. team were Wimbledon runner - up Darlene Hard, Beverly Fleitz, Jeanne Arth, Sally Moore, Janet Hopps and Mrs. du Pont. Miss Hopps and Mrs. du Pont are co-captains.

The series—three singles and two doubles matches — will be played Aug. 15-16 at Sewickley, Pa.

The British team will consist of Christine Truman, Mrs. Shirley Bloomer Brasher, Ann Haydon and Angela Mortimer.

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—Bobby Locke won the New Hampshire open golf title Tuesday with a four-under-par 68 and a two-round total of 13.

Cubans Send Sugar to Red Wing Fans

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Sugar — not bullets — was rained on fans Tuesday night at the International League baseball game between Havana Sugar Kings and Rochester Red Wings.

The Cuban Tourist Commission sent in 5,000 bags of Cuban sugar plus some Cuban literature to be distributed among the fans.

The commission says it's just a good will gesture and has nothing to do with the shooting incident in Havana 10 days ago when players Frank Verdi of Rochester and Leo Cardenas of Havana were struck by spent bullets which fell into Havana's stadium during a celebration marking the aniversary of the Cuban revolution.

Soccer Cup Play

Northern Electric and Wilsons played to a one-all draw in the first of the home-and-home goals-to-count series for the Belleville Charity Cup at the Fair Grounds last night.

Both teams scored in the first half, and battled hard for the tie-breaker in the second.

The teams play the second game of the series next Tuesday at the Fair Grounds, the kick-off at 6.30.

Replaces Scott In Fri. Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba was substituted as opponent for Gaspar Ortego of Mexico in their 10-round welterweight feature fight Friday at Madison Square Garden.

Paret, who was in a supporting bout, replaces Charlie Scott of Philadelphia. Scott felt he was not in proper condition. Scott previously had substituted for Florentino Fernandez of Cuba, who was stricken with virus.

Cricket

OTTAWA (CP) — The touring Marylebone Cricket Club of Britain had everything its own way Tuesday in an exhibition match against the Ottawa Valley Cricket Club on the grounds at Government House.

The visitors piled up a whopping 347 runs for eight wickets while the best the Canadians could do before the match was rained out near its conclusion were 59 runs for one wicket.

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton and District Cricket League has announced their eleven which will face the touring Marylebone Cricket Club here Friday.

Captain of the team will be Barbados-born George Archer, a fine change bowler, who plays for Hamilton Cricket Club.

Other players include: A. Keir, St. Catharines; D. Beckford, Guelph; C. Weir, Guelph; H. Nakhooda, West St. Catharines; G. Morrissey, Welland.

WORLD'S BEST

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) Andy Laird of Stockton, Calif., won the champion of champions event in the world skeet shooting tournament Tuesday by breaking 150 straight in a shoot-off of a 13-way tie. Barney Hartman of Ottawa was second with 14x150 in the shoot-off.

City Commercial Softball League

Meads-Sportsmen took an 8-3 decision from Corbins in a Commercial Softball League game last night.

Bunk Young started on the mound for the winners, and was relieved by McCurdy in the fifth. They struck out six and walked five giving up seven hits.

Powers on the mound for Corbins was touched for ten clouts while going the route, he wiffed three and walked the same number.

Meads piled up a three-run lead in the first, added one in the third and clinched the win with four in the fourth.

Corbins scored singles in the third, fifth and sixth.

McBrien and Young had two singles each for Meads, Bill Muirhead hit a two-run homer while Moynes, Worsley, Belnap, Gray and Vandervoort had singles.

Hughes hit three singles for Corbins, Powers had a pair, with Latchford and Meraw also hitting safely.

Valdes Meets Liston Tonight

CHICAGO (AP)—Two of the biggest heavyweights in the business, Sonny Liston of Philadelphia and Cuban Nino Valdes, will try to bomb each other into submission tonight.

Liston, ranked the No. 3 contender by the National Boxing Association, is a solid favorite to extend his winning streak through 18 bouts in the televised 10-rounder at Chicago Stadium. It starts at 10 p.m. EDT.

The 34-year - old Cuban has knocked out 35 foes in winning 48 of 67 starts. He has been kayoed four times.

Liston, 27, who has kayoed 15 opponents, has lost only once in 25 bouts.

Roger Smith Is Recovering From Brush With Grim Reaper

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Roger Smith passed unnoticed in the restaurant, though he was known by millions of movie and TV fans. I failed to recognize him myself, so changed was he.

Thirty pounds had dropped from his already slender frame and his hair was close-cropped. But his spirits were bright, as any man's would be after returning from a brush with death.

Roger is one of the new crop of stars created by television. He plays one of the slick sleuths of the hit show, —77 Sunset Strip. He also scored as Rosalind Russell's grownup son in Auntie Mame.

Life was full for Roger. He was making money, had a happy marriage with actress Victoria Shaw and they were blessed with two young children.

A month ago, he was leaving his house for the studio. His vision was impeded by a hi-fi set he was carrying and he stumbled. As he fell, his chin hit the record player and his head jarred backwards. His wife rushed out to find him dazed and helpless.

REST PRESCRIBED

He believed he was still in Chicago on another tour he had just completed. A doctor diagnosed his trouble as temporary amnesia, which he had suffered before in football at the University of Arizona. Rest was prescribed.

But he had suffering headaches and had to be admitted to hospital. This time he was said to have had strained neck ligaments and was placed in traction. Pain tortured him for five days, then vanished. He returned home, painted his garage and did some interviews. But the pain returned.

Now he was told he had migrane headaches and was given sedatives and tranquillizers.

"I could think about nothing but the pain," he recalled. "One night I lost the power to speak. My arm became paralyzed, then my tongue and my cheek. The pain was so great I went off my rocker. I rolled on the floor, rocking my head from side to side, trying to find some comfort."

PHYSICAL TROUBLE

They said Roger had a nervous breakdown and sent him to a private sanitarium. But his wife felt he needed more help, and she brought in a psychiatrist-neurologist. He recognized Roger's trouble as physical and tested him at another hospital. The tests revealed a blood clot.

Five ounces of blood, discharged from veins by the impact of the fall, were drained from Roger's skull. For four days he was on the critical list; he remained paralyzed and speechless and had no will to live. His wife stayed with him constantly, trying with all her skill as an actress to cheer him.

On the fourth day he smiled at her and she knew he was going to be all right.

Roger is eager to get back to work as soon as he adds some hair and a few pounds. He admitted the ordeal has changed him: "I notice things more—sunsets and my children playing and things to eat. And I can't get mad at anything any more. I try, but I just figure that I'm lucky to be alive."

"Sleeping Beauty", New Disney Film Marks a New High

"Sleeping Beauty" represents Walt Disney's greatest entertainment effort. It is safe to say that it will also be proclaimed his greatest triumph. This not to except even, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs", with which inevitably it will be compared.

Successor in the classic fairytale line to such animation masterpieces as "Snow White", "Pinocchio", "Lady and the Tramp", and not to forget "Dumbo", "Fantasia", "Bambi" and other more recent highlights of the producer's 35-year career in Hollywood, the magnificent Technirama Technicolor presentation of the beloved imperishable fairytale was six years in the making at a cost of $6,000,000.

But even these figures give no adequate idea of the enormous artistic labors, the sustained teamwork of hundreds of artistic and skilled craftsmen under constant guidance of Disney which went into 75 minutes of compacted beauty, dramatic power, emotional excitement, thrill and spectacle.

Walt himself, with proper pride in his organization and staffs speaks of "Sleeping Beauty" as the ultimate in the art of animation. In command of wondrous new camera, screen and projection devices here used for the first time in cartoon animation, Walt demonstrates the full power of his own brand of artistry to beguile and enchant with the illusionments of life and all its passions.

Disney's "Sleeping Beauty" is much more than a version of one of the oldest tales deriving from medieval time. While it is nominally adapted from Charles Perrault's saga, Walt's elaboration for the splendors of the Technirama screen is actually a recreation of the timeless love story personalized in a miracle play of Springtime resurrection.

The characters are all fascinating and freshly drawn for Disney's famous gallery of cartoon personages. They have in them the real breath of life of celebrated Hollywood voices.

"Sleeping Beauty", is preceded by Walt Disney's Academy Award winner, "Grand Canyon", in Technicolor and CinemaScope, and a funny Three Stooges comedy "Triple Cross".

AT THE PARK — Her Hero — Steve Reeves in the title role and Sylva Koscina as his romantic interest in the mighty adventure drama, "Hercules", in Eastman Color by Pathe and wide-screen Dyaliscope, now showing at the air conditioned 20th Century Theatre Park, Belleville, and Century, Trenton.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN — Tight Spot — Richard Alexander as El Lobo and John Carroll as the dashing Zorro in a suspenseful scene from "Zorro Rides Again", Republic's exciting adventure thriller about this famous masked hero, opens Thursday at the Belleville Drive-In Theatre. Duncan Renaldo co-stars as Zorro's faithful servant. 2nd. feature in color is "Son of Ali Baba", featuring Tony Curtis and Piper Laurie.

Sam Levenson's Morning Show Into Grave on Sept. 25

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—How do you like Sam Levenson?

Personally, I think his good-humored morning show on CBS-TV (10:30 a.m. EDT) is the brightest spot on network morning television. It's witty and it's wise.

There in the morning, tucked among the shrill giveaways and depressed soap operas and old reruns, sits Sam holding interesting conversations with interesting people.

But said to relate, they've prepared the obituary notice for Sam's morning show. They've dug the grave and will drop the show in it Sept. 25. They can't, of course, bury Sam Levenson—only this particular show.

In its place, unless plans are changed, will go a re-re-re-run of December Bride.

Well, I'm tired of being a mourner at the funerals of good television programs. I know of only one thing to do. Let's give Sam a shower instead of a funeral. If sponsors and networks pay as much attention to viewer mail as they claim to, the show might continue to live.

It now appears that the forthright, superb See It Now series will return to CBS-TV a year hence after Edward R. Murrow returns from his year's sabbatical leave. At least 10 hour-length See It Now shows will be seen in prime evening viewing time during the 1960-61 season.

Time flies and things change. It seems only yesterday that this corner carried an obituary of See It Now.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Working with perseverance to make your environment more lovely will pay big dividends in the future. Also a good day to do for others so that they may enjoy a more harmonious and happy life. Tonight is then fine for frolic, laughter.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — You can find the right hairdresser, tailor, beautician who will do wonders with your appearance today. Look into these things early because the rest of the day is just fine for business or social advancement. Have fun, too.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)— Many fundamental matters in your life need attention right now, especially within the sphere of own home and in connection with closest ties. Get an early start and put all in the most harmonious and efficient order. Take charge.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — You are very fussy about shopping, and here is one day when you can get out early and find the things you want. Stock up and be ready for busy days ahead. P.M. is ideal then for being with family, neighbors, others you love.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21)— Concentrate on just how you can make your holidays pay off bigger dividends right now. Also, put over some fine deals in business world. Set up a better bookkeeping system, too. Be sure to look after throat or other weakness.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Think of yourself exclusively today for a change. While you may not realize it, you have an inner spirit which works wonders in dealing with others. Put over your ideas easily and then be off to a good time.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — You can get wonderful results today from utilizing that knack for perfection which you possess. Be secretive about your ideas and mode of operation in carrying them through.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Don't beat around the bush today in going after what you want; direct speech brings fine results. P.M. is then excellent for any social affairs. You can make the right conections you desire. Be charming.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — An excellent idea today to express your views and ambitions to those in high position in any sphere most vital to you. Also, try to take your employer out for dinner or entertain at own home, no matter how modest your surroundings.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Step out of that dull but rather comfortable way of living today and seek to know persons of means and different cultural background to yours. Also, be mone broad-minded than you are usually. Cater to perfectionists.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)— It is imperative you first put behind you all important obligations and regular duties that mean real security before you take time to be with beloved one. Make sure that all papers are in order, especially insurance.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)— Excellent day to converse at length with all vital persons, especially in conjuction with any contemplated new enterprises or government affairs. The results will be very worthwhile. But be very practical, observant.

If your child is born today . . . The delightful youngster born today will superficially appear to be concerned only with appearance and personal comfort, but do not let this fool you. The subconscious mind is constantly at work on matters of great scope and has an eye toward achieving fame. So, be sure to give as comprehensive an education as possible, since there is a most charming and talented adult in this chart.

"Spud Island" Goes To Polls On Sept. 1

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Following Prince Edward Island tardition, Liberal Premier Alex Matheson has called a provincial election a year before he was required to by law.

The lanky premier announced Monday that islanders will vote Sept. 1.

By tradition, islanders vote every four years although by law the government can stay in office for five years. The last election was held in 1955 when the Liberals were elected for the fifth consecutive time since taking office 24 years ago.

Issues involving the federal government are expected to play a big part in the P.E.I. campaign. Standing in the 30-seat House now is 25 Liberals and four Progressive Conservatives.

Conservative supporters point to increased federal aid under the Diefenbaker government. They also hope to score on the PC sweep of four island federal election.

The Liberals are expected to base their campaign largely on past achievements in rural electrification and road building and Premier Matheson's plans for the future, including a possible potato-processing industry.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

74 Doukhobor Children Home With Parents

KRESTOVA, B.C. (CP)—Amid tears, laughter, prayers and nudity, 74 Doukhobor children left the care of the British Columbia government Sunday to become the responsibility of their parents. It was a strange reunion.

The childre came to this capital of the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect from the government dormitory at New Denver, 50 miles west of here.

There were prayers and welcoming speeches here and at nearby Crescent Valley, where the children got off buses. It was difficult for an outsider to tell where one stopped and the other began.

The children had been taken away and held for periods of up to five years because their parents had refused to send them to school. They received schooling at the regular schools in New Denver and lived under government supervision.

WELCOMING CEREMONIES

About 65 of the 74 children who left the former sanatorium in two yellow buses and two cars were brought here for welcoming ceremonies that coincided with a religious festival.

The children wer herded together in a hot, dusty square in the centre of this community with its small, unpainted shacks. They heard and participated in prayers and hymns.

Many were obviously humilated at the sight of six nude women who had shown their pleasure by disrobing.

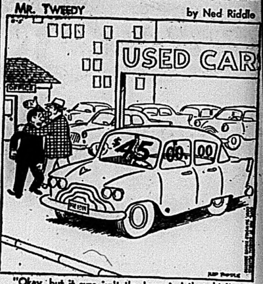
MR. TWEEDY by Ned Riddle



"Okay, but it sure isn't the bargain I thought it was at first glance."

KHRUSHCHEV

tended today's conference, which was held behind closed doors.

Khrushchev said "In the course of our visits we shall have unofficial talks, talks to be precise, and not negotiations."

He added, however, that he did not "attach significance to the form of the talks."

"COMMON LANGUAGE"

What was important, he said, is "to find a common language and arrive at a common understanding of the problems that have to be settled."

Khrushchev affirmed he would visit the United States in mid-September and Eisenhower would come to the Soviet Union "later in the autumn."

"We hold that the heads of government and the heads of state should meet and exchange views more often," he said.

Khrushchev added:

"We believe that every meeting will bring about a better grasp of the problems requiring solution and a better understanding of the position of the other parties to the talks.

"Such talks will produce results only if each party makes the point of striving to ensure a lasting peace."

"We must act on the assumption that no one loses by agreements which promote peace. All nations only stand to gain by them since peace will thereby be fortified."

Asked about an agenda for his talks with Eisenhower, Khrushchev said the problem of the liquidation of the remnants of the Second World War—a reference to Germany and Berlin — was still the gordian knot which should be untied.

"NEAR POWDER KEG"

Khrushchev went on: "In our view, these remnants are a fuse near a powder keg.

"Therefore the first thing to do would be to put out the fuse by signing a German peace treaty. This would greatly facilitate other problems such as disarmament, and the withdrawal of foreign troops."

On the question of whether his meeting with Eisenhower was viewed as a prelude or a substitute for a summit conference, Khrushchev replied: "I think that my meeting with the president will be a meeting of the representatives of two nations and it is not designed to discuss matters related to other countries.

"Therefore this meeting cannot be a substitute for a summit, which we think would be a useful thing.

"The two are not contradictory but neither does one exclude the other. Rather the one should help the other."

Asked whether he would accept an offer of television time in the U.S. he replied: "In general, I think I might well make use of the invitation."

Dies of Injuries

TORONTO (CP)—Edgar Davis, 51, of Bracebridge, died here Tuesday from injuries suffered in a gasoline explosion on the boat Peerless II at a Bracebridge pier last Friday.

Davis suffered a fractured spine.

Capt. Bert Brown, 70, also of Bracebridge, still is in critical condition with a fractured skull, concussion and cuts to his head and arms.

PARTY FOUNDER DEAD

BUDAPEST (Reuters)—Jozsef Revai, one of the founders of the Hungarian Communist party and a member of the central committee died Tuesday "after a grave illness," the Hungarian news agency MTI reported.

Madman Blasts Crowded Room With Shotgun

Kills Two, Wounds Four In Home for the Aged

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A madman fired repeated shotgun blasts into a crowded dining room of a home for the aged today, killing two of the residents and wounding four others.

He was then wounded and captured in a battle with police riflemen.

The gunman, Kyrlo Czupirczuk, 42, an unemployed carpenter, had been placed in an institution earlier this year after sending threatening letters to President Eisenhower. He was released in April.

He babbled incoherently after his capture and police were unable to determine what imagined wrong led to his outburst.

About 150 residents of the home were gathered for breakfast in the first-floor dining room when the gun blasts started from the adjoining home where Czupirczuk lives.

Shotgun pellets shattered the windows and sprayed the residents of the home. Several fell to the floor. Others ran in wild confusion. Some of the more elderly and infirm sat stuned.

Killed were Kalman Galer, 79, and Michael Berman, 84.

Iowa Farmer Will Host Mr. Khrushchev

COON RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) This little town in west-central Iowa apparently is taking in stride the news that Soviet Premier Khrushchev may come here to visit farmer Roswell Garst next month.

"I've heard very little comment from the townspeople," said Thomas Rogers, who edits the local weekly newspaper, The Enterprise. There's no indication so far that anyone is getting overly excited about it."

In talking to reporters in Moscow Wednesday Khrushchev said he had been invited by an American farmer named Garst to stay with him and that he probably would.

Garst lives in a big place on the outskirts of this town of about 1,700. His specialty is growing seed corn. He has visited Russia, has talked with Khrushchev and has sold the Russians seed corn. Since 1955 several Russian farm delegations have visited the Garst showplace.

"We're used to Russians coming here," said Rogers. "They stayed at the Garst place and we did nothing special to entertain them. It was mostly a private affair."

"As Garst says, Khrushchev seems to be interested in corn. We have plenty of corn around here for him to see."

Garst said he had nothing special in mind except to show the Soviet leader some Iowa agriculture.

Sea Drama May Be In the Making

VICTORIA (CP)—A sea drama was in the making in the Pacific 4,000 miles southwest of Victoria today as the tug Cambrian Salvor wallows westward in the path of hurricane Dot with a 32,000-ton battleship in tow.

The Island Tug and Barge Company tug and its tow were proceeding westward at six knots company officials said Wednesday night. But hurricane Dot, with 140-mile-an-hour winds, is overtaking at 12 knots. The next two days will tell the story.

The battleship Alumirante Latorre is headed the breaker's yard there. She bore the name HMS Canada as a Royal Navy ship in the First World War. The battleship is riding at the end of a 1,000-foot steel cable which has a 190-ton breaking point.

Believed First To Fly Pacific Solo to Australia

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) An American pilot landed in Sydney Wednesday after a 7,730-mile flight from San Francisco and was hailed as the first man to fly the Pacific solo to Australia.

Richard Wiese, a ferry pilot taking a twin - engined Cessna 310-B to an Australian ranch company, made the trip in 42½ hours flying time at an average speed of 190 miles an hour.

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Warm humid weather will continue across Southern Ontario today and Friday. Scattered showers and thunderstorms are expected in the southwestern regions late today and over all of the lower Great Lakes area Friday. Afternoon temperatures will be in the eighties.

Showers and thunderstorms occurring over Northwestern Ontario this morning, will spread eastward across the north country today.

Preston Sturges, Director, Dies Of Heart Attack

Sturges, 60, who also was a successful playwright, died in his room at Hotel Algonquin where he had lived for several months.

Sturges' wife, Sandy, was reported to be in Hollywood.

Sturges came to Hollywood in 1932 as a writer for Universal International. But he didn't hit the jackpot until the late 1930s after he offered to sell Paramount a script for $10—if he could direct the movie. Paramount accepted.

The picture was The Great McGinty, a political satire starring a then obscure actor, Brian Donlevy. It won Sturges an Academy Award for the best screen play of 1940.

Later hits included Strictly Dishonorable, Miracle of Morgan's Creek, Hail the Conquering Hero and Unfaithfully Yours.

His popularity waned after a series of flops. He formed a partnership with Howard Hughes but ended it shortly afterward in a dispute over the film Vendetta, a costly failure. He left Hollywood about 10 years ago, an embittered man.

He went to New York and Europe but could never match his earlier successes.

PRIME MINISTER MAY SOON MAKE CABINET CHANGES

Macdonnell, Brooks Slated for Senate

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker is expected shortly to announce changes in the makeup of his cabinet.

Some informed sources provide a picture of possible changes that goes like this:

POSSIBLE SENATOR

The Senate appears to be the next stop for Veterans Minister Brooks, 68, who has pleased veterans organizations during his two years in his present post by instituting a number of changes in veterans pension payments. He is from New Brunswick.

A similar appointment might be in store for 74-year-old J. M. Macdonnell, minister without portfolio from Toronto Greenwood, when an Ontario vacancy in the Senate occurs.

There are currently only six vacancies in the 102-seat Senate—three in Quebec, two in Nova Scotia and one in New Brunswick.

One of Mr. Diefenbaker's purposes in rearranging his cabinet is expected to be to give Quebec an additional French-speaking representative. The leading possibility is said to be Pierre Sevigny, now deputy speaker, from Longeueuil.

He might be made transport minister if Mr. Hees goes to trade or he could be appointed

The dayliner was coming into Ottawa from Brockville.

Fiver Sneaked From Hubby's Pants Helped Break up Counterfeit Ring

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A fake $5 bill sneaked out of the trousers of a sleeping husband by his wife proved to be a pivotal clue in helping the U. S. secret service break up a counterfeit ring.

Assistant U. S. Attorney W. Francis Murrel said Wednesday the investigation took a climatic turn when Mrs. Dallas S. Barr fished the $5 from the pocket of her cab driver husband.

He said Mrs. Barr bought some dry goods and handed the merchant the $5 bill, unaware that it had one blank side.

Mrs. Barr blushingly retrieved the bill and left the store but the merchant called police. Secret service agents raided Barr's home last weekend and found the $5 bill and printing plates.

Arrested were Barr, 28, and four other men. Agents said Mrs. Barr was not involved.

The secret service said the five men spread $10,000 in fake bills throughout the Middle West in the last few weeks.

Barr, described as the ringleader, was charged with unlawful possession of printing plates and ordered held on $5,000 bond.

Four Parties Seek Labor Vote In Newfoundland Election

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Labor—and labor laws — continue to move into the spotlight in the early stages of the spirited campain for the Aug. 20 provincial election.

The election, called because of money matters, appears to be turning into an all-out, four-party effort to win the labor vote and controversial labor legislation has become a key issue.

The Progressive Conservatives, in a reverse play, pledged Wednesday to repeal legislation that decertified two Newfoundland locals of the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) if they are elected. One of the locals was on strike against the Anglo - Newfoundland Development Company in Grand Falls at the time.

The announcement was made by Conservative Leader Malcolm Hollett, whose four-man opposition party solidly backed Premier Smallwood's Liberal government when it passed the legislation last spring.

Mr. Hollett said the party had decided to favor repealing the legislation "after careful consideration."

Premier Smallwood, who opened nightly street-corner addresses Tuesday in his personal battle with Mr. Hollett in St. John's West, continues to lean heavily on the federal government's handling of Term 29 of the 1949 Confederation agreements. Mr. Smallwood called the election to gain support for his condemnation of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's proposal to cut off special financial grants after 1962.

First word of the Conservatives' new stand on the labor laws came Tuesday when it was learned that a letter from Mr. Hollett to the Newfoundland Federation of Labor had offered to rescind the legislation if labor backed his party. Federation Secretary-Treasurer Steve Neary termed the offer a "bribe." He said "we turned it down with the contempt it deserved."

Mr. Hollett Wednesday released the letter which said if elected the party would "repeal these acts which are so objectionable to labor." It also would study and enact "such legislation as shall not only protect the primary rights of labor but shall comprise the most enlightened labor legislation now existing in the British Commonwealth."

The Progressive Conservatives, who intend to contest all 36 seats, have named 24 candidates.

The Liberals have named 33 contenders. The United Newfoundland party, formed when two PC House members bolted three weeks ago, have named six. The labor-backed Newfoundland Democratic party has named none so far.

The Liberals held 32 seats in the last legislature. There were four Conservatives.

Canadian Steel-Users Soon Will Feel Pinch of U.S. Strike

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian steel users, helped in many cases by precautionary stockpiling, have so far weathered 22 days of the United States steel strike with remarkably little trouble. But there are signs that some will start feeling the pinch soon.

Shortages may start developing in some fields in one or two weeks, a Canadian Press survey found. The squeeze will get more severe after that if the strike continues.

And a prolonged strike will have a delayed-action effect on newly - started construction projects by requiring them to wait in line for post-strike steel supplies. Canada relies on the U.S. for much of its requirements in heavy structural steels.

However, there are no reports of current construction jobs being delayed.

PRODUCTION EXPANSION

Besides the stockpiling, which began long before the strike started on midnight, July 14, the Canadian situation has been helped by the expansion in Canadian steel-making capacity during recent years. Mills in this country now supply about three-quarters of Canadian needs.

In fact, there have been weekly declines of 7.2 per cent and 4.9 per cent in Canadian steel ingot production during the last two weeks — the second and third weeks of the strike. Steel mills

New Flatcar Being Designed To Carry Vans

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A new concept in "piggyback" hauling that could improve railway freighting trucking methods was announced Wednesday when General Motors Diesel began tests of a new flatcar designed especially to carry large truck vans.

The car runs on four wheels inside of the normal eight, has no centre section except a single beam, and weighs about half as much as a standard flatcar. It has a locking device that grips the kingpin of the van, and can be loaded from either side.

A sideloading device is being developed by another London firm and promises to eliminate the loading problem. Both new devices are being developed in co-operation with the Canadian Pacific Railway.

JUDGE PHILP WILL DECIDE FATE OF MOM'S CHILDREN

Expect Hearing Will Be Lengthy

TORONTO (CP)—The decision on the immediate future of nearly 117 children removed by Ontario health and welfare department officials from Whytehaven Mission at Bowmanville Friday night now rests with juvenile court judge W. R. Philp of Peterborough.

Judge Philp was named Wednesday to preside at a hearig to determic what will happen to the youngsters taken out of the home operated by Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte and placed in various welfare homes.

The removal was prompted by overcrowded conditions at the farm mission and the recent outbreak there of several contagious diseases.

SITE NOT YET PICKED

William Bowman, director of public prosecutions, said Judge Philp will announce the opening of the hearing into charges of neglect after notices have been sent to witnesses. No site has been named but Port Hope and Cobourg were both being considered.

Informal courts are to be set up today at the institutions where the children are staying so they can be identified as those taken from Whytehave. This is being done so the children won't have to attend the formal hearing, which is expected to be lengthy.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Whyte spent her third straight night camped in the open in front of the Roman Catholic Sacred Heart Children's Home in suburban Scarborough. She has vowed to stay there, sleeping on a camp cot outside

Three Killed In Accident

LOUVICOURT, Que. (CP)—Two men and a woman were killed Wednesday night when a car and a pickup truck collided outside this centre 200 miles northwest of Ottawa, police reported. Two other persons were injured.

The identities of the victims were not immediately known. The car bore Ontario licence plates and the truck, Quebec plates.

Says Seat Pinched, Not Punched Judge Disagrees, So Puncher Fined

LONDON (AP) — Did the man of the political right hit the woman of the electoral left a left and right that wild Brighton night last May?

And did Conservative Frank Baker pinch Socialist Mrs. Doris Coulthard where she sits, or vice versa, or both? Or possibly neither?

After hearing conflicting testimony, Judge Dutton Briant decided Wednesday that Mrs. Coulthard was punched but not pinched. He ordered Baker to pay her £21 damages on a charge of assault.

The disorderly scene that led to the court action by the 49-year-old Mrs. Coulthard occurred after the last Brighton city election. As is the custom in British politics, the winning and losing candidates got together in a hall to tell the people what they thought of the outcome.

Baker, 51, was one of the winners, retaining his seat on the city council. Mrs. Coulthard's husband, a Labor candidate lost his seat.

Another Socialist candidate, who failed to win a seat, was making a speech when loud

U.S. Welcome Mat For Nikita Urged By Nixon

Says Talks Will Affect World Peace Course

WASHINGTON (CP) — Vice-President Richard Nixon believes the forthcoming Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks will have a great bearing on the course of world peace. But he is known privately to fear that the cold war may go on for another 50 years.

The fast - moving Californian, ending a 15-day Iron Curtain tour, flew into a rousing reception by 3,500 persons at Washington's National Airport Wednesday.

He urged Americans to put out the welcome mat when Premier Khrushchev arrives to tour the United States next month.

President Eisenhower later endorsed these remarks.

BITTERNESS EXISTS

"I realize that many Americans, including Hungarian refugees, have reason to be bitterly resentful of Soviet policies," Nixon said as airport welcomers crowded around him.

But since the president had invited Khrushhcev, "I would suggest and urge in the interest of peace and justice that the people of our country show him the same courtesy that the people of the Soviet Union and leaders showed to me."

Sources close to Nixon suggested that the Eisenhower-Khrushchev discussions would be a form of holding operations to prevent the current Berlin crisis turning into an explosion.

They said Eisenhower initiated negotiations on Khrushchev's forthcoming visit, fearing that otherwise a summit conference might be forced on the West in an atmosphere of crisis.

HOPE TO IMPRESS

Nixon said at the airport that what Khrushchev sees in his American visit is not likely to lessen his advocacy of communism, but he might be more impressed with the vigor of the American economy and the unity of its people.

Nixon sped from the airport to the White House where he spent 75 minutes with the president.

Nixon is to make a report on his trip to the full cabinet Friday.

Queen, Charles Forced to Learn A Little Welsh

LONDON (Reuters) — The Queen and Prince Charles probably will learn some Welsh soon, the tabloid London Daily Sketch says.

It adds that the lesson will help rescue the Queen from a possibly embarrassing situation next year when she attends the national Eisteddfod or Welsh gathering.

Some Eisteddfod members have resigned in protest that the Queen's proposed speech will break the "Welsh only" rule. The Sketch says that "even if she is unwilling to attempt anything more ambitious, it is certain she will begin and end her speech with a few words of Welsh."

The 10 - year - old Charles will have to learn some Welsh by the time he is 16 or 17—he then will be invested as Prince of Wales at Caernarvon Castle.

Balky Bittern Finally Had to Be Put in Cell

NEW YORK (AP)—Brooklyn police have learned to take the bitter with the better. But a balky bittern is something else again.

The Liberty Avenue police station became a place of confusion Wednesday when two patrolman appeared with a formidable, squawking bird with a four-foot wing span.

"My god, what's that?" asked desk Sgt. Robert Winter.

Patrolman Andy Nappi looked at fellow Patrolman Barnett Cohen and replied: "We think it's a cross between a stork and vulture."

"A vagrant stork - vulture," said Cohen. "He was loitering at Atlantic and Hopkinson Avenues, and causing a crowd to gather."

All scrutinized the creature. It was about 1½ feet tall, had orange circles under its eyes, green legs, a sharp beak and three toes on each foot.

Said Winter: "Don't put him in a cell. They've just been cleaned. Tie him to a chair in the back room."

The belligerent bittern, also known as a swamp scavenger, flew into such a rage that he finally had to be put into a cell before he was taken away by a representative of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

How the bittern got embroiled in Brooklyn traffic will probably remain a mystery. But the ASPCA says the bird will be released far from the city streets.

Will Discuss Question of Inviting Nikita

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Green said today the question of inviting Soviet Premier Khrushchev to Ottawa will be discussed by cabinet today, but that no decision would be announced until at least Monday.

Mr. Green, acting prime minister, made the statement shortly before entering the cabinet meeting.

He said that any decision would have to await the return next weekend of Prime Minister Diefenbaker from a vacation in Prince Albert, Sask.

Mr. Green said he is leaving Ottawa at noon EDT today for a vacation in Western Canada and will be speaking to Mr. Diefenbaker tonight from Calgary about cabinet business, including the possibility of a Khrushchev visit.

Asked whether any visit by the Russian premier would include points other than Ottawa, Mr. Green said that he did not think so.

The Soviet leader is scheduled to visit the U.S. about Sept. 15.

Mail Delivery Authorized to Annexed Area

Postmaster Al Clare announced yesterday that the Post Office has authorized letter carrier delivery to most of the newly annexed area in the eastern section of the city. The new delivery service is to commence as soon as the houses concerned have been properly numbered and as soon as 80 per cent of the householders concerned have installed proper letter slots or mail boxes.

The local Post Office department will presently be contacting the householders involved to advise them of Post Office requirements for adequate mail receptacles. Once the above conditions have been complied with delivery will begin. Postmaster Clare expects that this should commence no later than September 15th.

Householders on the following streets will be affected by the new delivery proposal: Herchimer, Willow Drive, Bridge East, Farley Avenue, Smith's Crescent, Linton Park Drive, Lambert Drive, Bradgate, Elizabeth, Strathcona, Woodland Acres and Eleanor Gardens.

Penny Carnival Winds up Playground Week

Playground week in the city of Belleville winds up tonight with the choosing of a Miss Penny Carnvial at the East Hill Playground. Miss Penny Carnival is chosen from a group of eighteen, representing each playground. Playground Week, instituted a few years ago to acquaint parents with the program on the playgrounds, was highlighted with mother-daughter teas on most parks, father-son ball games, skits put on by the youngsters and a showing of crafts. However the big event of the week is the Penny Carnival concluding four days packed full of activities. Beginning at 6.30 p.m. children will be running the show with a fat lady, fortune teller, ring toss, hit the cans, bingo, weight guesser, etc.

Alemite, Roxanne Rowe; Bayview school, Luanne Bell and Joy Peacock (both tied for first place); Churchill Heights, Leslie Dennis; East Hill, Marianne Morgan; Fire Hall, Susan Keitch;; Hillcrest, Linda Pearson; Parkdale, Phyllis-Jean Cronkright; Pine St. School, Kathy Lynch; Wading Pool, Debby Bailey; West Hill, Pamela Flindall; Bayview, Lynn Harrington; CNR, Helen Denise McDonnel; Queen Elizabeth, Lee Anne Doran; King George, Anita Grey; OSD, Nancy Keller; St. Paul's, Karren Sommerville, Prince of Wales, Susan Foster; Wellington Crescent, Kathy Burshaw.

Bumper Bent By Unknown Car At Parking Meter

TRENTON — Even parking one's car at a parking meter may not be safe, as Edward Brown, R. R. 1 Carrying Place found yesterday. Mr. Brown had parked his sedan at a meter in front of the Star Cafe, Dundas Street East, when an unknown car backed into the Brown car, and then drove off, after bending in the front bumper.

BOY KNOCKED OUT

In Trenton Memorial Hospital with suspected head injuries is Case Uitbeyerse, 18, who was hit on the head early this morning by a 100 lb. bag of gelatin at the Delft Gelatin Plant where be works.

Case, who is the son of John Uitbeyerse, Smithfield, was standing near a pile of the heavy gelatin bags, when the topmost bag toppled off the pile, and hit him with great force on the head.

BREAKS ANKLE

14-year-old Robert Soules looks like staying in Trenton Memorial Hospital for a few days yet, after a horseback riding expedition he took with his brother yesterday. Robert, who lives on the farm of John Bashley at Hillier, mounted the horse in approved cowboy style, but the animal threw him, and he fell to the ground, fracturing his ankle.

Department Busy Putting up New Street Signs

TRENTON — A crew of men from the Town Engineer's Department go to work today, putting up street signs on a number of Trenton streets which have been without signs for some time, stated Eric Aldersey, town engineer.

The work is more complicated than might appear on the surface, as the signs have to be set in solid blocks of concrete to avoid damage from collisions and other sources. Holes have to be dug to accommodate the concrete foundation for the posts. About 40 streets will be resplendent with their new name signs when the job is finished.

The engineer's department is also busy on reconstruction on Ontario Street, after having had a sewer placed there.

A technical instructor from the Nordic Truck suppliers came yesterday to instruct the foreman of the street sweeping crew on the running of the sweeper, which is to make Trenton streets clean today.

Mayor Burtt Says He Has Not Changed Mind

TRENTON — After close to a quarter century of service to town of Trenton both as mayor and councillor, Mayor Ross Burtt told The Ontario Intelligencer this morning that although he still has not changed his mind about not running for the office of mayor this coming election, the election was still some time away, and that changes may have come into the picture by then.

Mayor Burtt, whose grandfrther came over from Surrey in the year 1835, and built the house on Joseph Street, where Mr. and Mrs. Burtt still live, said that he was born and brought up in Trenton, and has always done what he could for the town.

These statements were made in view of the fact that ex-councillor James MacDonald has said that he will offer his services again to the ratepayers of the town of Trenton as their mayor.

SEARCH FOR TALENT

Ron Thornton, manager of the Trenton Community Gardens, told a representative of The Ontario Intelligencer yesterday evening that he is making a thorough search for amateur talent in the Trenton area, with a view to putting on as many of them as possible under contract to appear regularly at the Gardens.

Mr. Thornton expects a visit from theatre agent J. Barrish about the middle of this month. Mr. Barrish will interview those performers who have come forward and shown themselves to be talented in the meanwhile.

Not only singers and musicians will be welcome to the Gardens, but also magicians, comics, and impressionists.

NEW LOOK

LAIRA, England (CP) — The 132-year-old iron bridge in this Devon town, one of the oldest iron bridges in Britain, will be replaced by a new one this fall.

Flashers Cause Some Confusion

Installation of four-way red flasher signals at the two East Hill intersections of Bridge and Bleecker, and Victoria Ave. and Bleecker, has caused a bit of confusion and a great number of enquiries on the part of local motorists, it was noted today by city police.

The four-way flashers were ordered by council at a special meeting of city fathers held last week. The move was recommended in an attempt to reduce the number of accidents which in recent months have plagued the two interestions. plague the two intersections. Highway Act regulations call for a full stop for a red flasher signal, but state that many motorists are failing to observe this regulation at the above intersections.

Four-Year-Old Struck by Car, In Hospital

Struck by a southbound car as he drove his tricycle onto the roadway in front of his home, four-year-old Frank May, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert May, 366 Sidney Street, is in the Belleville General Hospital suffering from a broken leg and head lacerations.

The accident occurred shortly after eight o'clock last evening as the boy was playing on his tricycle in front of his parents' home.

Driver of the car involved, Conrad Piwowarski, 446 Victoria Ave., told police that he did not see the child until he was almost on him and was unable to avoid striking the boy.

Thailand Keeps Uneasy Watch On Frontiers

BANGKOK, Thailand (Reuters) Thailand kept an uneasy watch on its frontiers today as reports reaching here from northern Laos said the important city of Sam Neua has been seized by Communist rebels.

A Thai official said his country is ready to defend itself if Communist forces move across the border.

He said the Thai government is "concerned" by the fighting between royal Laotian troops and Communists.

The Laotian government declared a state of emergency two days ago in five of the country's 10 provinces. It had flown troops to Sam Neua city in Sam Neua province last week in an attempt to halt an advance of Communists from the vicinity of the frontier with Communist North Viet Nam.

Tiao Kanoan, Lao's ambassador here, said Wednesday his government will try to handle the situation itself before appealing to the United Nations.

He said an appeal for help to the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization would be a "last resort."

Lightning Bolt Impairs Hearing

CLEVELAND (AP) — Until a bolt of lightning struck her down on a golf course green July 29, Mrs. Gordon Wetzel always enjoyed thunderstorms.

Now, lying in a hospital bed, the 33-year-old mother of three wonders whether she ever again will enjoy hearing the rumble of the summer thunder.

"Maybe I'll be afraid now," she said. "I'll know when I see lightning again or I near thunder—if I hear it clearly."

Mrs. Wetzel's hearing was impaired by the lightning bolt that glanced off her body and ravelled the head of the golf club that grounded the electric current. Her clothing was ripped apart—zipper metal twisted and part of her synthetic fibre shorts melted.

"And my hair is still awful," she added. "It's all singed and matted. I'll probably end up with a crew cut."

SEE OCTOBER ELECTION

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's general election now is widely expected in October. The most frequently suggested dates are Oct. 15 or Oct. 22 but a summit conference in the fall or preliminary Western contacts preceding such a meeting might cause Prime Minister Macmillan to postpone the contest.

Kiwanians Hear Discussion on Oil Industry

At the last meeting of the Kiwanis Club member Don Deverall gave fellow Kiwanians an interesting account of the problems of the oil industry, especially concerning the distribution of a firm's products from an area storage plant to the retailers in a district. The plant superintendent of the local Shell Oil distribution point, gave his listeners an account of the handling of his firm's products from the time they come into his plant by pipeline, the operation of which is controlled from Toronto.

The major purpose of the local plant employees is to ensure that the products pumped into their storage tanks are free from contamination and that the quality, color and octane-flash of the products are up to specifications. The local demand for different products affects the storage arrangements in the tanks in the local plant, which range from 15,000 to 500,000 gallons.

Three methods of distribution are used locally to move the products from the storage area to the retailers and consumers. Tank trucks deliver gas to local outlets and the problems of keeping delivery costs down through planned deliveries to make the most efficient use of the tank trucks' capacities and through careful preventive maintenance of the vehicles.

These are but a few of the problems related to this phase of the distribution aspect of the business.

Tank cars are also used, especially for delivery of aviation gas to the Toronto area. Pick-up trucks are used for distribution of bulk products in the area.

Mr. Deverall pointed out the advantages of the pipeline in introducing a higher degree of efficiency and a lower delivery cost in the distribution of oil. The pipeline also offers the advantage of a continuous supply of oil products throughout the year and distribution is not affected by the close of the navigational season.

Club president Jerry Wishart was back from holidays for the meeting and performed the duties of chairman.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market faded today after a fairly good opening but the trading pace was the fastest in almost four months.

The 11 a.m. volume was 1,250,000 shares, of which more than one-half was contributed to Buffadison, a speculative mine that climbed 22 cents at 35 cents on a turnover of 640,000 shares. In the first hour Wednesday 656,000 shares traded.

Among industrials price changes were generally less than one point. Minnesota and Ontario Paper was the exception, up 1½ at 34.

In senior base metals Noranda added ½ at 54 but Falconbridge was off ⅛ at 30⅝.

McIntyre had the big win in golds, ahead ½ at 89.

On Wednesday industrials received their sharpest setback in more than six weeks.

Industrials dipped 1.73 to 551.69. Western oils were down .46 to 118.47 but base metals gained .55 to 177.55 and golds added .04 to 80.61.

The final volume was 2,382,000 shares, down from Tuesday's 2,713,000.

Among industrials, Goodyear Tire took the big loss, down 20 points at 200, on a single sale. Loblaw Inc. was off 3 at 132 while Steel Company of Canada and Dominion Stores were off more than 1 point. Mexican Light led winners, up 3½ at 15½ while Canadian Cottons was ahead 3 at 21. Ford Motor and Dupont added more than 1 point.

Noranda added ½ at 53½ while Hudson Bay was up ⅜ at 53⅛. Consolidated Mining and International Nicel were off ⅛.

In golds, McIntyre added 1 at 88½ and Campbell Red Lake gained ⅛ at 10⅞. However, Hollinger dipped ½ at 33½.

In western oils Home B dipped ⅛ at 15 while Canadian Devonian was off 20 cents at $4.50 and Bailey Selburn gave up 10 cents at $7.90.

Allies Believe West Berlin Safe From Soviet Pressure

GENEVA (CP) — West Berlin was seen today by the Allies as probably safe from Soviet pressure for many months to come despite acknowledged failure of the Big Four foreign ministers conference.

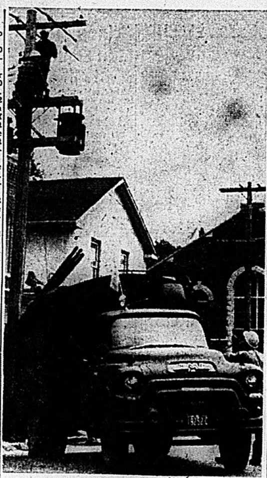
The conference—one of the longest high-level international sessions in more than a century—recessed indefinitely Wednesday night without agreement on either of the two major problems discussed—a German peace settlement and the future of West Berlin.

American sources said State Secretary Christian Herter, who plans to see President Eisenhower this afternoon an hour after his scheduled arrival by air force jet, headed home convinced that the danger of any overt Soviet action to force the Western powers out of West Berlin has been suspended and that a new period of decreased tension in East-West relations seems to be opening.

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd expressed a somewhat similar view on his arrival in London from Geneva. Recalling the tension which flared up when Premier Nikita Khrushchev made his first threat last November to drive the Allies from West Berlin, Lloyd said the Geneva conference had succeeded in creating "the kind of atmosphere in which you negotiate."

Herter's view is reported based mainly on two developments: (1) The agreement by Eisenhower and Khrushchev to exchange visits and hold informal talks beginning in Washington in September and (2) Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's repeated statements here that his government prefers a negotiated settlement for Berlin rather than a decision forced by unilateral Sovet action.

Gromyko, as he took off for Moscow, said in a statement at the airport that the conference "has led to a definite rapprochement" between East and West on the German and Berlin issues.



Belleville Utilities men are shown installing three new transformers on MacAnnany Street to convert the hydro supply in that area from a single phase to a three phase 120-volt/208-volt supply. This type of current is required for the air-conditioning units being installed in the new James Texts building and is useful for other purposes such as running electric motors. The new type of supply will be available to any users in the area affected.

PRIME MINISTER

to the veterans' portfolio if Mr. Brooks goes to the Senate.

Mr. Diefenbaker might also make a move soon to replace Defence Minister Pearkes. At 71 he directs one of the biggest departments and he may move on to make room for a young man.

Mr. Pearkes is reported to have indicated an unwillingness to become a senator.

But the term of British Columbia's Lieutenant Governor Frank Ross, 68, is soon to expire and Mr. Diefenbaker might give that post to Mr. Pearkes who is said to have in mind stepping out of politics at the end of this parliament whatever happens.

Justice Minister Fulton, considered one of the ablest men in the cabinet, is one possibility to succeed Mr. Pearkes.

David Walker, MP for Toronto Rosedale, has been mentioned for the public works job Mr. Green will vacate.

Police Charge Youth With Housebreaking

An eighteen-year-old Fredericton N.B., youth, Richard Chas. Etherington, has been charged by Belleville police with housebreaking following forced entry to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carre, 247 Dundas Street, early this morning.

Police said Mrs. Carre had awakened at three o'clock this morning and finding the dining room light on realized that someone must have been in the house.

The police were called and a search of the area resulted in the New Brunswick youth being apprehended in the near vicinity.

Entry to the Carre home was gained through an upstairs bathroom window after the intruder gained the top of a porch roof with the use of a ladder found in the backyard. A cap said owned by the accused youth was found on the roof of the porch.

Nothing was said taken from the Carre residence.

District Firemen Attend Meeting Mutual Aid

Some 40 firemen from Hastings and Prince Edward Counties were present at the annual meeting of the Hastings and Prince Edward Mutual Aid Association, held in No. Two Fire Hall on West Moira Street, last evening. The association holds monthly meetings at the various fire departments which are members in the Mutual Aid system, and the host department puts on a display and lecture on some aspect of fire-fighting.

Last night the Belleville Fire Department put on a display of relay pumping, a method used to carry water over a long distance to a fire. The system, which is particularly useful in areas where the source of water is often some distance from the fire, consists of laying down a long line of hose and placing pumper trucks at intervals along the line in order to maintain an effective level of water pressure throughout the system.

Two pumper trucks were used in the demonstration and the effective use of various types of nozzles and sizes of lines were shown. Of especial interest to those present, which included firemen from Trenton, Batawa, Deseronto, Frankford, Madoc, Picton, Stirling and Tweed, was the use of a fire-shield attachment which the Belleville department had made up. This device is coupled to the end of a hose and throws up a wall of water which acts as a heat reducer so that firemen can move in close to oil and gas fires behind this shield.

Following the demonstration outside, which was under the direction of Chief Gerald Vance, Deputy Chief Gerald O'Brien, Captain Ted Poste and Captain Leo Culhane, the observers moved inside the building where Captain Poste explained the process of relay pumping. Proper procedure was laid down and the elemental principles of hydraulics involved in determining the placement of pumper trucks in the system in order to maintain an effective nozzle pressure were explained.

Captain Poste offered his assistance in explaining any of the problems involved in greater detail to those who desired it at any time in the future.

Alderman Frank Grandame welcomed the visitors on behalf of Mayor Gerald B. Hyde and expressed his wish that people would realize the amount of time which firemen devote to learning more about their work during their free time by attending sessions such as this.

A resolution was passed by the association recommending that greater co-operation be sought re traffic control when emergency calls are being answered and the control of pedestrians and traffic around the danger zone from municipal authorities and police departments. Emphasis was placed on the failure of many motorists to observe fire sirens and move their vehicles out of the way of fire trucks going to the scene of an alarm.

A discussion followed on the forthcoming Firemen's Field Day to be held in Batawa on August 30th. This event, which is sponsored by the Mutual Aid Association, is composed of seven events, including such things as hose cart races, equipment race and hose reel races. The members of the Trenton Fire Department have donated their annual trophy for the hose reel races to be placed in the Fire Marshal's School at Gravenhurst. The winning team will be noted on the main trophy and a replica given to the winning department each year.

Alderman Frank Grandame also donated a trophy for the hose cart races.

The meeting, which was chaired by Fire Chief Gerald Vance, Chief Co-ordinator for the association, in the absence of president John Aquino of Batawa. Refreshments were served by the members of the Belleville Fire Department following the meeting.

Two civil engineers, Jim L. F. French Student Wants to Study English in Ont.

An opportunity of a student exchange visit for real, is offered to some Belleville family by a Shawinigan Falls, Quebec, youth who wants to study English in an English School.

Following is the Quebec boy's letter which has been forwarded to Mayor Gerald Hyde. If any Belleville family is interested Mayor Hyde will pass along the information.

Mr. Gerald Hyde,
City Hall,
Belleville, Ontario.

Dear Sir:

I finished my 15 grade in French and I would like to learn English so I'll have to go in an English school. But, I did not find a job yet and my finances do not permit me to go there in Belleville but I think you could help me.

Do you know among your citizens a young boy who would be interested to come in Shawinigan and do a French course in one of our schools. My mother would be ready to care for him here in Shawinigan and stay with my family free and same conditions for me there. He'll have, like me, to pay just for the school and personal spending. I would be ready for September.

Kind of courses here —

Employment Office Supplies Needed Engineers For Firm

"If you need them, we'll do our best to find them."

That might well be the motto of the local office of the National Employment office which has recently supplied two civil engineers for Wilson Concrete Products Ltd. here, one of them being brought all the way from the United Kingdom.

The two engineers, Jim L. F. Clarke, of London, England, and Christian Stieda, formerly of Germany, are engaged in concrete structural design work for the local firm. Mr. Clarke arrived in Canada only two weeks ago, while Mr. Stieda has been in Belleville for three months.

Mr. Gordon Crawford, supervisor of the employment branch of the local employment office, noted that when an employment office cannot fill an employer's order for workers or specialized personnel locally, it has the clearance procedure to seek such a man in all parts of Canada or even the United Kingdom.

It was through this procedure that the two civil engineers were chosen for structural design work with the Belleville company. Efforts of the local employment office branch in assisting to bring the two engineers to the city are much appreciated by Wilson Concrete Products officials.

"Simply marvellous" was the way which Mack Curzon, manager of the pre-stress division of Wilson Concrete, described the co-operation given his firm by the local employment office.

HAPPY WITH JOBS

An honors degree graduate in civil engineering from Bristol University, Mr. Clarke said he had been much surprised upon arrival in this city to a population of over 25,000 instead of a small place "with wooden sidewalk sort of thing."

He has been greatly impressed by Canadian supermarkets, by the numbers of automobiles and the fact that Canadian life seems to be centred around the automobile.

At the same time he is just a bit critical of the driving habits and commented on the almost complete absence of hand signals.

The spaciousness of lots on which most homes are located also impresses the new arrival.

"In London where I lived there was nothing but row housing," he noted.

This is his first trip to Canada but he has relatives in this country, including a married sister in Montreal. His wife, whom he met at university is a public school teacher.

Mr. Stieda has been in Canada for seven years. He has a masters' degree in civil engineering from the University of Manitoba and did post graduate work at the University of Alberta. Before coming to Belleville he was doing research work at an Ottawa laboratory.

SERVICE ALWAYS AVAILABLE

He also is extremely happy with his work at Wilsons and is likewise taken up with Belleville.

By co-incidence he has now located within 100 miles of where he first set foot in Canada. He crossed into Canada from the United States by way of Ogdensburg and Prescott, then proceeded to Western Canada and is now back in the east. He is married with a family of two small girls.

Mr. Cecil Hluser, manager of the local employment office, pointed out that the same service which was able to supply needed engineers for Wilsons was available to any Belleville district firm requiring workers of a classification unavailable in the immediate area.

If required workers cannot be found locally every effort will be made to supply them through zone, regional, inter-regional or United Kingdom clearance.

FLEE EAST GERMANY

BONN (Reuters) — A total of 12,107 persons from East Germany fled to West Germany last month, the West German refugee ministry announced today. They included 77 members of the East German Peoples Police.

What Will He Do Next?

Lord Beaverbrook, born here in Ontario, has sponsored 24 Canadian teachers, recently arrived in Scotland, to tour Britain from Loch Lomond to Land's End and increase their knowledge as much as possible.

This astonishing young man, as a boy in his father's church, embarrassed his family by not sitting with them in the pews for the elect; he preferred to sit in the gallery with a colored boy, one of his cronies. And when he had to pump the organ, secluded from the severe eye of his father, he furtively read adventure stories during the long sermons.

One time, during a hunting party in Nova Scotia, with plenty of whiskey to keep it going, young Max Aitken suddenly resolved to stop fooling around and to work like mad.

He did. While still in his twenties, in Montreal, he created every big trust then created in Canada; not one of them failed. He went to England, insinuated himself into behind-the-scenes politics and achieved a knighthood (Sir Max Aitken), and subsequently a peerage, which caused an uproar.

"This engrafting on Canada of the effete system of hereditary titles," snapped the Stratford Beacon, "is most reprehensible." "Honors bartered in the political market are a source of weakness to the Empire," declared the Toronto Globe, "we would be well advised to put an end to this traffic in titles."

He was a principal force in dethroning H. H. Asquith, prime minister of Britain, and in the elevation of Bonar Law, the only Canadian ever to become prime minister of Britain. He was outstandingly successful as minister of information during the First World War, and as minister of aircraft production in the second, indeed his plane production helped turn the tide in the Battle of Britain.

He meanwhile bought the London Daily Express (cir. 229,344) and drove it to a circulation of more than four million, paying the highest wages in Fleet Street. Meanwhile, he gave New Brunswick a series of gifts—numerous scholarships, magnificent libraries, rinks and residences to Newcastle, Saint John and Fredericton, where his latest gift is an exquisitely beautiful art gallery. In all his gifts are estimated conservatively at $20,000,000.

Now he broadens Canadian teachers' knowledge of Britain.

What, indeed, will he do next?

The Bard and A Belleville Girl

A Belleville girl, Miss Caroline Daugherty, one of the students chosen by the Canada Council to attend the Stratford Festival, writes glowingly of the performances of "Othello" and "As You Like It'," as well she might.

Othello depicts the terrible consequences of that green-eyed monster, jealousy, if it is allowed to take root; while As You Like It is on the lighter side. That is the Stratford plan, one serious and one light, to balance.

Few of us are fortunate enough to be able to attend these sterling performances by superb actors in this comparatively new and very excellent theatre in Stratford. But the plays are always available, dirt cheap.

What is there on TV, or among best-sellers, or in newspapers or on the radio, to compare with the perennial wonder of a Shakespearean play; the beauty of the lines and the construction of the plot, which invariably opens like the break of day?

What topic or idea is there, that is not expressed better by Shakespeare?

Gossip? "Give every man thine ear, but few thy voice." (Hamlet.)

Clothes? "It yearns me not if men my garments wear; such outward things dwell not in my desire." (King Henry V.)

Passion? "Give me that man that is not passion's slave, and I will wear him in my heart's core, ay, in my heart of heart." (Hamlet.)

Men? "Man, proud man, dressed in a little brief authority, most ignorant of what he's most assured, plays such fantastic tricks before high heaven as make the angles weep." (Measure for Measure.)

Humility? Alone, King Henry rallies his army to defeat the French. Afterwards, his generals want him to parade through London in his battered helmet. "He forbids it, being free from vainness and self-glorious pride, giving full credit, quite from himself to God."

JACK OF ALL TRADES

By EDGAR A. GUEST

He's Jack of All Trades, he'll confess.
He runs a motor car,
He is a soldier for a time
And then a jolly tar;
And then he is a cowboy bold,
A big policeman, too;
A fireman, and most everything
Before the night is through.

Sometimes he's general of the troops,
Then just a private plain,
Or he may be the engineer
Of some departing train.
When evening comes and Sonny claims
The right to play with thee,
There is no end to all the types
Of men a dad must be.

Strictly Personal

How to Tell The Owner of A New Home

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

Every unlikeable person is, at bottom, disliked by himself; if you want to be liked, the solution is not to be sought in making yourself more attractive to others, but in learning to like and respect yourself in the proper way.

A new home owner is a man who walks into a hardware store to buy a socket and walks out carrying three large packages.

There are writers one can admire without wanting to have known them; and there are others who fill us with a burning desire to know them personally: I would give a year of my life to have spent some time with Shakespeare or Chaucer or Montaigne, but would scarcely cross the street to meet Milton or Tolstoi, great as their work is.

The man who is proud of knowing his own mind often doesn't know his own heart; and this is why his mind usually betrays him into dangerous aburdities.

When someone else is involved in an accident, we always suspect at least a bit of contributory negligence on his part; when we are involved, we call it a "bolt from the blue".

The woman who boasts that she never flirts is employing her demureness as a subtle form of flirtation.

Educated fools create more mischief in the world than ignoramuses; as Rousseau warned: "Keep this truth ever before you — ignorance never did anyone any harm, error alone is fatal, and we do not lose our way through ignorance but through self-confidence."

A nation that knows how to laugh at itself is stronger and has greater survival-value than one that takes itself with ponderous solemnity; the weakness of fun of its own institutions.

I know a convinced liberal, exuding love for humanity from every pore, who is also a misogynist — a man willing to give affection to Hottentotts, Eskimos, and Kaffirs, yet withholding it from the 50 per cent of the human race who are women. (Naturally enough, he cannot see the contradiction in his position.)

A person who is aware of his modesty has already lost it; for self-consciousness is the deadliest enemy of all the virtues.

Few words sound as much like what they mean as "spunk".

Liberal Leader Eager to Start

Ottawa Journal

Mr. John Wintermeyer, feeling perhaps unaccustomed strength as he stands ready to march a doubled force into Opposition, is impatient to have the first session of the new Ontario Legislature begin. He wants the House to meet in the Fall.

With this eagerness to do the Province's business there can be no quarrel. Mr. Wintermeyer is wrong, however, when he says "right now the entire Legislature is wasting time". If it is, it shouldn't be. The fact that it is not in session has nothing at all to do with the efficiency of its time.

The Parliament of Canada is not now in session. But surely when its members speak to their constituents, have some leisure to read and to think while spared for a time the busy work a session demands, surely then Parliament is not wasting time.

Nor are the members of Ontario's Parliament wasting time if they are preparing themselves diligently for a session in the Fall or Winter or Spring.

A Legislature works not only when it is passing laws or conducting debates.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

August 6th, 1939.

Gleaming in burnished gold, atop a shining pedestal of beautiful red cedar, the handsome Belleville Sargent Trophy, emblematic of the 255 cubic inch hydroplane championship of the Belleville Rotary Yacht Club Regatta is now attracting the undisguised admiration of the members of the club. Unique in the fact that it is the only trophy of its kind in Canada that is a product of the design, material, workmanship and manufacture of the locality in which it will be presented, the beautiful trophy is a shining testimonial to the ability, resources and generosity of residents of this city and its environs.

A busy city paused in its stride today to offer best wishes and congratulations to one of its best known residents, Mr. Jack Roblin, of South Front Street who today observed in quiet fashion the eighty-third anniversary of his birth. Veteran waterfront resident, the well-known citizen is one of the most competent marine authorities and boat men in Ontario. An encyclopedia of Belleville in its early days, Jack Roblin draws from his keen and gifted sense of humor and retentive memory to regale the questioner with many a colorful incident of the old-time log drives, the whining saw mills on the sawdust flats which are now Victoria Park, and of the days when noisy lumber-jacks clumped the boardwalks of Belleville.

Crack artillery unit of this district, the 34th Field Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery leave for Petawawa this week where they will undergo eight days competitive drills in an effort to retain the trophies won last year and if possible add to their already imposing array of prizes. Thirty-five members all ranks will comprise the unit.

If you hear a few citizens talking a bit loudly these days, do not be alarmed. They are probably discussing the matter of sewage system. The matter seems to be like a red rag to a bull, to some people.

Canadian PLACE NAMES

LAKE OF THE WOODS

Lake of the Woods has more islands than any other lake in the world, 14,000 in all. It was first called "Lake of The Islands" by the Indians, the Indian name being "Min-es-tic." The Indian name for wood was "mistic." The similarity of the words confounded the French explorers, whose knowledge of the language was acquired conversationally, so they caused the name to be changed from "Lake Of The Islands" to "Lake Of The Woods."

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A CONTINUING FACTOR

The family appears to be a constant factor throughout the universe. hat is, of course, the universe. That is, of course, the not know much about the other planets, but we do know that heaven as set forth in the Bible is a great family which God has gathered about Him.

Family life exists here on earth. Family life exists in heaven. If the planets are populated, we can be pretty safe in assuming that family life exists there also. And in all probability such family life is not much different from the family life we have here on earth. The family as a pattern and a unit appears to be a constant factor with which the whole life of the universe has to deal.

And can we think of anything better the Lord could have done for us than to have gathered us into His family? To be sure we are part of a great kingdom — the kingdom of God. But the unit within this kingdom is the family. Here on earth there is a father and there are children — and, of course, a mother. The highest form of family life is held together by the love of God. It is warmed and made vital by the love which the members have for each. It is illuminated by love and supported by love and pervaded through and through by love.

Membership in a family gives us all a sense of confident security. We belong.

Prince Makes Men Squirm

By Louis Cook, in
The Detroit Free Press

The trouble with having a fellow like Prince Philip around is he makes the rest of us look like a bunch of awkward clowns.

His royal wife, Queen Elizabeth, drew awed applause as she rode into Windsor's Jackson Park, standing in the back of a Chrysler Imperial which can best be described as a semi-convertible.

But Philip drew cheers, mostly from women in the crowd whose hearts suddenly began to go pitty-pat.

Philip is tall, light and handsome. Not a pretty-boy type, but a tall, lean, hawkfaced sort of handsomeness, with a sort of reckless quality about it.

Ladies could easily imagine Philip swooping down on their caravels in his pirate ship, his blond hair whipping in the salt air and his white teeth flashing in a debonair smile.

At six-feet-one Philip looms over his slim wife, but he manages to hand her in and out of cars and up steps without stooping. He was 38 on June 10.

Philip must have had a fine lunch Friday for he was in a gay mood as he and his Mrs. swept into the park.

He waved his brown, muscular hands at the crowd with easy, sweeping gestures.

His smile had a sort of Franklin Roosevelt high-voltage feel to it, and occasionally he flung back his head and laughed.

He was wearing a gray striped tie, a two-button dark suit with the top button buttoned, a discreet edge of hankie protruding from the breast pocket.

His face was deeply tanned, and his eyes a startling blue.

It was the sort of situation which caused women to turn and inspect their husbands critically while the men looked uneasily into the distance.

Queen Elizabeth was in a chatty mood during the afternoon, but Prince Philip was downright gabby.

During the presentation at Jackson Park the receiving line was often backed down off the platform while Prince Philip engaged in breezy pleasantries.

He wanted to know what the young people were going to do after they got out of school, and inquired after the health of the more elderly.

He laughed a considerable lot, and if he wasn't having a good time he didn't show it.

As he rolled out of sight he was cheerfully assisting the Queen in the task of folding a reluctant umbrella and the ladies thought he could help them with thesir umbrellas any time.

Then the women went home to throw rocks at their husbands.

Mine Reopens, 100 Recalled

The New Japan

A 100,000-ton order of coal from Japan has resulted in the reopening of the Greenhill Mine largest in Alberta, at the town of Blairmore.

The coal will be used in extensive tests in Japanese steel mills and long-term orders are expected if it meets requirements.

Greenhill Mine, operated by Western Canadian Collieries Ltd., had been closed for two years. It recalled 100 men and began operating in May following the Japanese order.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

OUR EYES

Physiologists tell us that our eyes are the most intricately constructed organs in all the intricately constructed body. Over forty separate parts make up the wonder of the lids alone! Surely fit windows to the Soul — our eyes.

The boxer fights with his eyes. The artist reflects his finished masterpiece in his eyes. The orator's fervor snaps its fire from his eyes. Eyes daring. Eyes telltale. Eyes conquering.

What you tell to your experienced and knowing physician you tell with your eyes, unknowing.

I like to study eyes. To me they are the most interesting of all the features of a face. They tell so much without asking questions. They speak so deeply without talking. Eyes cold and calculating, eyes warm and unchanging, eyes kind and loyal, eyes honest — eyes that you could build an empire in!

Eyes blue, eyes grey, eyes brown, eyes black — eyes clean and eloquent.

Reverence your eyes. You will never have another pair. Give them rest and health. Give them light and beauty. Give them memorable books to read. Give them companionship with the fit and fine and great, and they will continually lead you to better things.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

YOUNG CHILD EMOTIONALLY UPSET OVER BATHTUB

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can you advise me what to do about my 2½-year-old girl concerning bath tubs? Her sister, 6, apparently frightened her into believing that she could go down the drain.

"She not only refuses to be put in the tub but screams hysterically if I or my daughter takes a bath. If she is out in the hall, she pounds and screams.

"I've tried to explain that only the water goes down the drain. I realize she will outgrow this, but in the meantime I could use some advice on how to take baths and how not to make the situation worse on her little mind. — Mrs. R. S."

It's too bad that the older sister started this, but at 6 she didn't realize what might happen. We can forgive. But I'm still annoyed, after some years, at a high school baby sitter who threatened a 2-year-old, "If you're not good, I'll wash you down the drain."

That caused a problem for several weeks, although now that the little one is grown, she has forgotten about it and spends as much time in the tub, shower and bathroom as is to be expected when a girl gets to the printing age.

Now to your problem. I dare say that the poor little girl knows that she won't go down the drain, but with either little people or big people, an emotion — such as fear — isn't readily overcome by reason.

To her emotions, the idea is simply: "There's something fearful about the bathtub." No matter how she tries to reason it out, with her 2½-year-old mind, the emotion remains.

LET HER FORGET

You're quite right, I'm sure, that she will outgrow this, but the best way for her to outgrow it is to let her — as much as you reasonably can — forget about the bathtub. Take your baths after she's asleep. Perhaps the older girl can take hers at some time of the day when the little one won't notice, or will be intent elsewhere.

Presumably you can rely on sponge baths. It could be that before the hot weather is gone, the tyke may gather the notion that a bath can make one feel good.

But I wouldn't force the issue. Forcing will only serve to keep the idea of the tub fresh in her mind. What she needs is time to let the emotional pain fade. Logic, reasoning, argument and pressure won't do it, because emotion and logic don't dwell together when the emotion is overwhelming.

And obviously, this sad incident was an overwhelming experience for the youngster.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have a ganglion on my wrist. It hurts sometimes when I'm holding anything heavy. Should it be removed or shall I let it alone as long as it doesn't hurt all the time? — J. F."

I haven't seen your wrist, haven't been able to ask how much it hurts, or to use a few small tricks that you, too, would use if you were a doctor. But in general I'd say that unless the pain is such that your mind is quite clear on the yes-or-no, I'd wait a bit. It isn't likely to be something that's going to flare up into a dangerous situation. Oh, by the way, what's your doctor's advice? I'd accept his suggestion, because that's why you go to him! They tend to recur. Removal is usually for cosmetic reasons or pain.

Mrs. M. F.: Sorry, but I do not under any circumstances give names or addresses of those who write to me. I realize that in many cases this would do no harm and might be individually helpful, but what a patient tells a doctor is strictly confidential, and the same rule holds for what any reader writes to me about a medical problem. Either a rule is a rule or it isn't. And this is a cardinal rule.

Bed wetting can be conquered! To learn how, write to me in care of The Chicago Sun Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., requesting a copy of my booklet, "Enuresis — Ten Ways To Stop Bed Wetting," and enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20c in coin to cover handling.

Retire Now, Work Later

Financial Post

If wishes were horses beggars might ride, but it's not just wishful thinking to believe that someone, some day, will build a case for retiring men at age 30, taking them back on staff at age 40, then keeping their noses to the grindstone until they depart this world.

The reason: Within a few decades, whether we like it or not the average life-span of North Americans may be 100 years.

This may mean moving retirement age up to 85 or 90 according to Dr. Edward L. Bortz, past president of the American Medical Association — unless someone thinks up an alternative.

The advantages of a mid-career retirement are positively legion. For example, it would refresh the worker for his next 50 years of work — and, with that exhausting prospect hanging over him, he may well need it.

And almost anyone could have a lot more fun with a pension at 30 than he could with one at age 90.

There's only one drawback to the scheme. If the potential 100-year-old waits to retire until he's 90, there will be three women for each man. Some may not be able to resist the prospect of whooping it up with a covey of gay old girls — 96, 97 and 98.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The happiest and merriest summer cottage I have been in for some years solves the basic problem of the holiday season by serving all meals buffet. Breakfast, lunch and dinner are all buffet. The lady of the house, instead of being more of a slave during the holidays than at any other season of the year, simply puts the components of the meal on the table. And then everybody, each in his own time, helps himself. For breakfast, for instance, if anybody wants fried eggs, there are the raw eggs on the table, and all he has to do is go and darn well fry them himself. Toast. There's the bread, all ready cut on the table. Go and toast it the way you like it, light or dark.

Roast beef for dinner? The lady of the house roasts it, true enough, but even it is buffet, hot. She puts it on the table; and if you like hot roast beef, you get there on time and slice off what you want. All the gruesome business of the mother of the house toiling from four p.m. to six preparing a mansion-type dinner in a hot cottage kitchen is taboo. It is mother's holiday as well as everybody else's.

And as for guests lolling around the verandah, as if they were staying at a fancy hotel at fancy rates, there is a list put up on the wall showing each one's turn, guest and family both, at washing the dishes, sweeping the rooms, making the salad, putting together a ready-built pie.

It is a happy cottage because the lady of the house is happy and sets the tone. A poohed-out hostess can wreck a summer.

Map shows the newest section of Highway 401, the extension of the Kingston by-pass from the Joyceville sideroad to just east of Gananoque, to be completed by the Ontario Department of Highways. The distance is a little better than 10 miles. Official opening ceremonies will be held today and the new section opened to traffic at 6 p.m. With the opening of this 10-mile section it is now possible to travel continuously on Highway 401 from west of Kingston to the junction with Highway 2 at Crystal Beach, five and a half miles west of Brockville—a distance of 48½ miles—the second longest section of Highway 401 in the province. While providing two convenient interchanges for traffic into and out of Gananoque, the new highway will greatly relieve traffic conditions on Highway 2, especially through Gananoque.

'Auntie Mame' Author Forgot Vaccination

NEW YORK (AP) — Patrick Dennis, author of the best-selling book about a fun-loving, flighty world traveller named Auntie Mame, is in quarantine on Staten Island for two weeks. He forgot to get vaccinated before going abroad.

When Denis returned Monday from a visit to Russia, officials at Idlewild airport noticed that his vaccination certificate was out of date. The bearded author, whose real name is Edward Tanner, said he forgot to be inoculated against smallpox before leaving the United States in June.

The government promptly sent him to the U. S. public health hospital on the island, where he'll remain until Aug. 16—enough time to determine whether he has contracted smallpox.

Although Dennis is in effect a prisoner, he seemed undisturbed.

"It's very pleasant here," he commented. "Private room, fine food, good service, restful atmosphere."

Leaving on Trip? Do Not Forget To Water Trees

It pays to soak the rich, as long as they're trees rich in greenery.

When lawns and gardens need water your trees, evergreens and woody shrubs need it too. These woody plants need a good, long, drink just before you leave on that late Summer vacation. The dog days are here and even dogwoods will have their troubles seeking out moisture from drying soils.

When the thermometer zooms, trees and foundation plantings are likely to give off more moisture than they can replenish from the ground. This can mean foliage wilt and general debility. Mulches help preserve moisture but trees growing under lawn conditions often suffer at this season. So make sure entire root areas are thoroughly saturated just prior to departure time or you and your trees may be sorry you ever left home.

G. R. Elliott, field representative of the Davey Tree Expert Co., points out major landscape sentinels need wetting that reaches at least two feet into the ground. And this is not merely around the base of the tree. Roots generally reach out a little beyond the widest branch spread.

Late vacationers should seek out tree watchers, especially those who have newly planted trees to worry about. If you don't want to impose on neighbors, it is sometimes possible to hire professional gardeners to care for lawns and trees.

Drying trees may have still another problem on their hands and foliage — spider mites. These minute pests thrive in hot dry weather and feed on many species of trees, shrubs, evergreens and flowers. Remedy is a contact spray, such as nicotine or pyrethrum, before departure.

Halt Efforts To Locate Girls Said Drowned

WINDSOR (CP) — Suburban Riverside fire department and RCMP dragging teams late Wednesday night halted for the night efforts to locate the bodies of two Windsor girls missing and believed drowned in the Detroit River near the entrance to Lake St. Clair.

Carol Ann Pineault and Susan Butler, both 12, were last seen swimming in the river near their parents' cottage early in the afternoon. Police discounted the possibility the girls had gone somewhere, pointing out that they had no clothes with them other than their bathing suits.

Police and firemen were to be joined in their search today by two men from the Sarnia Skin Diving Club.

Wedding

WIDEMAN — ALEXANDER

FRANKFORD — On Saturday, July 25th, a very pretty wedding was solemnized in Stockdale United Church, when Cora Aleane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Alexander, of Consecon, became the bride of Edward Wideman, of Frankford, son of Mrs. Orie Wideman of Toronto and the late Mr. Wideman.

The marriage ceremony was conducted by the Rev. C. Judd.

Mrs. Charles Margetson provided the wedding music and Mr. Charles Margetson sang, "I Love You Truly."

The bride, given in marriage by Mr. Donat Roy, was charming in a wedding gown of white tulle over satin. She wore a fingertip veil of net and carried a bouquet of red roses, forget-me-nots, backed with fern.

Mrs. Bates and Miss Robinson carried white Bibles with streamers formed from forget-me-nots and lily-of-the-valley.

The groomsman was Mr. Frank Cassman, of Toronto, and the ushers were: Mr. Charles Woods and Mr. Fred Wiest, of Rochester, N.Y.

For the reception, which was held in the garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donat Roy, the mother of the bride received the guests dressed in a floral gown with black accessories. Mrs. Roy assisted in receiving the guests in a black and white dress with white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Wideman will live at Frankford, R. R. 1.

Out-of-town guests were from Rochester, N.Y.; Belleville; Plainfield, and Toronto.

MATADOR GORED

MADRID (Reuters) — Spanish matador Pepe Caceres was gored in the thigh during a bullfight at Malaga Wednesday. Caceres, whose wound was described as grave, is the sixth matador to be gored in Spain during the last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Terrance James Belanger are shown signing the register following their marriage in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Mary Edna Dawn Langman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Langman, of Belleville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Belanger, also of Belleville.

BELANGER — LANGMAN

Before a lovely background of white and pink peonies, blue iris, and ferns, a very pretty wedding was solemnized recently in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, when the Reverend Peter F. Murphy united in marriage Mary Edna Dawn Langman, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Langman, to Terrance James Belanger, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Belanger.

Miss Dorothy Grant presided at the console of the organ, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Robert Burke in his rendition of "Ave Maria," "Panis Angelicus" during the Mass and "On This Day," while the register was being signed.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Russell Langman, the bride was radiantly lovely in her white Chantilly lace over net and satin bridal gown, fashioned with fitted bodice having short sleeves and bateau neckline. A white satin bow cascading from the front to hemline added a pretty accent. She wore a crown type headdress encrusted with seed pearls, finger-tip veil of tulle illusion, and carried a white prayer book crested with pink Sweetheart roses and satin streamers knotted with rosebuds.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Jean Bisdee, of Ameliasburg, wearing blue nylon chiffon in street-length accented by a blue back panel. A white feather headdress and short white gloves, completed her nuptial costume.

Miss Donna Belanger, Belleville, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Arlene LaGruff, also of Belleville, cousin of the bride, were bridesmaids. Both were attired as the matron of honor, and all carried star-shaped bouquets of white 'mums tied with blue satin ribbon.

The little flower girl, Miss Joanne Belanger, sister of the bridegroom, was frocked in white organdy with pink rose design, white hat and gloves, and shoes, and carried a tiny star-shaped bouquet of white 'mums tied with blue ribbon.

Mr. David Poirier of Belleville, was groomsman, while Mr. Eugene Bisdee, of Ameliasburg, and Mr. Thomas Lew of Belleville, ushered the guests.

The reception was held at the New Queen's Hotel, Belleville, where the bride's table, with white damask centred by a three tier, all-white wedding cake, topped by a cluster of baby white 'mums, and flanked by tall white candles in silver holders and the bridal bouquets, presented a lovely bridal picture.

The bride's mother, gowned in a navy-blue sheath with white polka dots, and blue satin cummerbund, with matching three-quarter duster, white hat and accessories, and corsage of white 'mums mingled with pink Sweetheart roses, received. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, wearing a tan sheath with white hat, and accessories, with white 'mum and pink Sweetheart corsage.

For the wedding trip to the United States, northern and eastern New York, the bride chose a mauve chiffon dress with white picture hat, white accessories and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

The young couple are residing at 285 John Street, Belleville.

Prior to her marriage the bride was entertained at several showers; one at the home of Mrs. Roland Belanger and Mrs. Karl Belanger; another at the home of Mrs. Arlene LaGruff, and at a miscellaneous shower with Mrs. Jean Bisdee and Mrs. Ray Parthanais as co-hostesses, at the home of Mrs. Fred Toley, St. Charles Street, Belleville.

Those attending the wedding were from Toronto, Belleville, Kitchener, Foxboro, Ameliasburg, Trenton, Point Anne and surrounding districts.

Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas Jenkins are pictured signing the register following their recent marriage in Gilmour United Church, Gilmour, Ontario. The bride is the former Miss Betty Marilyn McKenzie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton B. McKenzie, of Gilmour, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jenkins, also of Gilmour. DE VRIES — VOS

The Christian Reformed Church, Belleville, was the setting on Saturday, July 25th at 2.00 p.m. for a pretty summer wedding when Stella Vos, of Corbyville, R. R. 1, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rikkert Vos, became the bride of Charles De Vries, of R. R. 5, Trenton, son of Mr. and Mrs. William De Vries. The Rev. P. M. Jonker, of Brampton, Ontario, officiated before a background of lovely white chrysanthemums.

The wedding music was provided by Mr. John De Vries, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride, lovely in her white bridal gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta in floor-length, fashioned with fitted bodice accented by sequins and seed pearls, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a headdress studded with sequins and finger-tip veil of tulle illusion and carried a shower bouquet of white 'mums and Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Jenny Klompmaker, of Belleville, as matron of honor, was gowned in blue, with matching headdress, and carried a bouquet of white 'mums with pink-tinted tips. The bridesmaid, Miss Hilda Vos, sister of the bride, was attired in pink with matching headdress, and carried a bouquet of white 'mums with blue-tinted tips. The little flower girl, sweet in her yellow dress with black ribbons, carried a basket of white 'mums mingled with cornflowers.

Mr. Francis De Vries, of Trenton, R. R. 5, attended the bridegroom, while the ushers were, Messrs. Wiebe De Vries, of Belleville, Edward Klompmaker, of Stirling, and Ralph Dykstra, of Whitby, Ontario.

Following the ceremony the reception was held in the Moose Hall, Victoria Avenue, Belleville, where the bride's table was prettily appointed with white damask, and the traditional wedding cake. White chrysanthemums and the bridal bouquets lent an additional nuptial note.

The guests were received by the bride's mother, who wore a blue-toned gown with corsage of pink 'mums. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother, attired in a gown of floral design, with corsage of white 'mums.

For the wedding trip around Lake Ontario and to Niagara Falls, the bride chose a white sheath-style gown with green duster, white hat and accessories, and corsage of orange-ice roses.

Mr. and Mrs. De Vries are residing at 88 Dundas Street West, Belleville.

The bride was entertained, previous to her marriage, at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Lorna Lambert, Belleville. Guests attended from Kingston; Oshawa; Bowmanville; Woodstock, and Harriston.

SURGEON TO EUROPE

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Missionary surgeon Dr. Albert Schweitzer has left his jungle hospital in French Equatorial Africa on one of his infrequent visits to Europe. News of his departure was received by letter by Johannesburg pharmacist Henry Friendmann, who has helped Dr. Schweitzer at his hospital in Lambarene in the storage of medical supplies and drugs under tropical conditions.

MEANT SPRING

The Teutonic word Lent, which denotes the fast preceding Easter originally meant the spring season.

Mr. and Mrs. John Royle Happily Wed for 50 Years

Today's streamlined families or two or three children have little in common with that of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Royle, 52 Forin Street, who raised ten children of their own as well as took care of two grandchildren and then for good measure entertained as many as a dozen servicemen on weekends during World War 2.

This week Mr. and Mrs. Royle are celebrating their golden wedding and will be "at home" during an anniversary party to be held Friday at the Club Canara.

Nine of their ten children will be home for the anniversary, their eldest son coming all the way from Denver, Colorado.

Although having followed various vocations in the past half century, nothing for Mr. and Mrs. Royle stands out better than the years in which they operated a boarding and rooming house on Coleman Street.

Ill health had forced Mr. Royle to give up his farm machinery business and the couple opened the boarding house business "to raise our family".

Those were busy days for the Royles. But in addition to looking after their own family, and preparing meals for as many as 35 boarders, Mrs. Royle found time to do up over 30 noonday lunches, and then for good measure entertained as many as 12 or more airmen on weekends.

"We were glad to do it", noted Mrs. Royle. "Two of our own sons served overseas and were treated well in English homes".

ALWAYS REMEMBERED

Long after the war had ended Mr. and Mrs. Royle were remembered on special occasions as Christmas and anniversary cards were received from all parts of Canada from airmen who had enjoyed weekend leave at the Royle home.

During his lifetime Mr. Royle has farmed, made cheese and butter and operated a farm machinery business.

Now 78, he was born in Dublin, Ireland and came to Canada back in 1892 to become hired man for a farmer in the West Huntingdon district. Then he learned the cheese making trade and made cheese in the Belleville area and in Quebec for several years. For four years he was buttermaker, at Grand Rapids, Michigan.

In 1917 he returned to Belleville and was associated in the farm machinery business with the late J. B. Boyce for ten years before taking over the business himself in 1927. Ill health forced him to quit in 1934 following which they took up the boarding house business, giving this up in 1949.

Mrs. Royle is the former Annie Juby, and was born at Flinton, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Juby. The family moved to Deseronto and the future Mrs. Royle came to Belleville to work. She met her future husband at a dance.

"In all the fifty years we have never had an argument", Mrs. Royle recalls "difference of opinion, yes, but never an argument".

The couple was married at the then Holloway Street Methodist church parsonage by the Rev. Benjamin Greatrix.

6 SONS IN SERVICE

Six of the Royle sons were in the armed services during the war, two of them serving overseas. One got married in England and has remained overseas.

Mr. and Mrs. Royle's 10 living children are Edward, of Denver, Colorado; Robert of Hamilton, William "Bert" in England; Jack of Belleville; Mrs. Arthur (Irene) Quinn of Winnipeg; Stanley of Stirling; Mrs. Robert (Phyllis) Lane of Belleville, Wilfred "Mac" Royle of this city; Gerald "Bud" Royle of Oshawa, and "Al" of Belleville.

There are 34 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren.

Brother, Sister Honored by Useful Gifts

DESERONTO — On Wednesday night of last week, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Detlor were hosts at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Beryl and Douglas Hodges. Beryl Hodges was married the following Saturday and her brother, Douglas, is to be married in September.

The shower was in the form of a pot-luck supper and a goodly number of the friends and acquaintances of the two Hodges took advantage of the opportunity to enjoy a meal on the shore in front of the Detlor cottage on the Island.

After the appetizing repast several baskets filled to overflowing with gifts for the sister and brother were brought to a table where each unwrapped his and her own. Surprisingly enough the gifts were all of the useful and personal type. As the boxes were unwrapped two of the ladies present took the colorful bows from each and with the use of a paper plate made bridal wreaths for both Beryl and Doug.

The two recipients briefly voiced their thanks to all present and particularly to Mr. and Mrs. Detlor for their organization of the shower.

Teen-Agers Sponsor Street Dance

DESERONTO — The Teen Agers of the town sponsored a street dance on Friday night. This was the first venture of the youngsters in this field and, while some may have thought the crowd was not too large, still the results were gratifying to the committee in charge.

The dance began shortly after nine o'clock and continued until midnight. There was a slight admission charge for the entire evening of dancing and the music was supplied by a record through an amplifier. It was noted that the majority of the younger crowd of the town were in attendance and the crowd of spectators included a great number of adults. Some of the latter expressed the opinion that it was a splendid idea and hoped the teen-agers would continue the dances on a regular schedule.

Mrs. R. K. Jackson and Mr. Gerald Lott gave their assistance to the committee and James McVicker, Jr., handled the records for his associates.

BUSY RED CROSS OFFICIAL — One of the heaviest jobs in arranging the conference Toronto this month of delegates to the Canadian Junior Red Cross international study conference has fallen on the shoulders of Mrs. H. B. Knap. Since early in May the Toronto Red Cross worker has spent more than 12 hours a day plotting the routes of the teen-age delegates who come from 41 countries. She has had plenty of experience in that work. In 1942 she started helping bring war brides back to Canada and has helped with the post-war wave of immigration. Here, in Red Cross uniform, she works with a group of European immigrants at Union Station in Toronto. (CP Photo).

Works Months to Arrange Trips to Jr. Red Cross Meet

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — When more than 200 teen-age delegates to the Canadian Junior Red Cross International Study Centre arrive here Aug. 11, one Toronto woman has promised herself a rest.

Her rest will be brief. The job of getting the delegates to their [illegible] es in 41 different countries [illegible] be an additional responsibility of Mrs. H. B. Knap. She has been doing voluntary work making arrangements for the delegates' visit to Canada.

All but the Canadian delegates will spend a week prior to the meeting as guests of Canadian families from coast to coast. They will then be brought to Toronto, and leave for their homes on Aug. 22.

BUSY WORKER

Since early in May, Mrs. Knap, wife of a Toronto businessman, has spent more than 12 hours a day plotting the routes for the delegates to the conference.

"It all started because I could read a time - table," she said. That was back in 1942 when she helped in bringing war brides to Canada.

"Some day I'm going to write a book about my experiences," [illegible] Mrs. Knap, an active Red C[illegible] worker for many years.

She had plenty of trouble making reservations for the delegates. A strike interfered with the sailings planned for the Italian delegates. Confirmation of passage for northern delegates was delayed when the airline was sold and the schedule of the new company was not known.

The Canadian girl who has received the most attention is 15-year-old Beverly Mitchell, a student at a government school at Aklavik, N.W.T. At her home on the Mackenzie River delta she wears sneakers in summer and mukluks in winter. Her first stop will be in Edmonton where a more conventional pair of shoes will be purchased. The stop has been extended to four days to allow her to visit a brother in the sanatorium there.

WIDE REPRESENTATION

Each province will send six delegates. There will also be three from the Northwest Territories and two from special Indian schools. The United States has been allowed 20 and 120 foreign delegates plan to attend.

There are an equal number of boys and girls among the delegates who range in age from 15 to 19.

While in Toronto, delegates will study the history of the Red Cross movement. This year marks the 100th anniversary of the birth of the Red Cross idea by Henri Dunant. The study centre will also mark the 50th anniversary of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

The sessions, to be held at the University of Toronto, will be in English, French and Spanish with a simultaneous translation system. Prime Minister Diefenbaker will give the address at the official opening Aug. 12.

Resolutions resulting from the study will be presented to the senior international conference at Athens in September.

First Native Of India on OAC Staff

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Parvathi Basrur has become the first native of India to be appointed to the staff of the Ontario Veterinary College.

The slim, lovely professor will teach cytology and genetics to senior students. She is also engaged in cancer research, a project she hopes to continue with her husband on their return to Bombay.

At the present time, her husband, Vasanth, is a medical student at the University of Toronto. Until he completes his formal education and spends a year as an intern, the Basrurs will only be able to see each other weekends and holidays.

"Vasanth will miss her too, but he is stronger than me in that respect," she said. "I can't get along without her at all."

Mrs. Basrur met her husband while she was attending Central College in Bangalore. He came to the University of Toronto to study for his PhD and she followed him within a year and enrolled at the university for postgraduate studies They were married at the Toronto city hall.

EAT IN WINTER

Oysters spawn during the months through May and August when their meat is thin and less flavorable than other months.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

NAME AND ADDRESS ON INFORMALS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When I want to send informal invitations to an informal party, is it proper for me to buy plain white Informals and write my name (Mrs. John Smith, for example), on the first page, and my address in the lower right corner? In other words, handwrite what usually is engraved? — R. T.

Yes. On the outside of the folded-over card write your name and address (also, for special convenience, you may write your telephone number in the lower left corner, opposite the address), then the invitation on the inside pages.

THE GIRL'S MOTHER DOES THE INVITING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I live in a suburb near a metropolitan city, and I go to a private day-school in the city. Through a dear friend of mine, a classmate, I have met a very attractive boy, and four of us (this boy, my girl friend and her boy friend and I) have had luncheon two or three times at her house. Mother says she would like to have them all come out to our house for a weekend. But she says she, not I, should invite them. Is this the proper way? — Ruth

Yes, this is the proper way. You might propose the idea to the girl and the two boys, but your mother, as hostess of your home, should second the invitation, either by note or telephone. (Preferably, in this circumstance, by telephone, for then she would also have an opportunity to chat with the other of the guest-to-be, to explain the invitation and the plans.)

BEST FORM OF NAME FOR CHECK-SIGNING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What do you consider the very best form of name for a married woman to use when she signs her checks? — A. B.

I think the best form of name for her to use when signing her checks is: (1) her first name; (2) her maiden surname: (3) her married surname. For example: Alice Brown Clark. Writing her maiden surname in full (instead of using the initial for it) is an added name-identification. Also, most women proudly wish to honor their maiden surname by retaining it (spelled in full) in their signature.

CONCERNING PLACE CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is my face red! When my husband and I have given dinners, I've always put place cards at my place and at his place. I took this for granted. Yesterday quite by chance I heard someone say that place cards should never be put at the place of either the hostess or the host. Is this really true, Mrs. Beeckman? — Reader

Yes.

TODAY'S WEDDING INVITATION FAVORITES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman

I'm about to start shopping for my wedding invitations. I've been studying the advertisements, but I can't decide what type of lettering to choose. What do you consider the most popular lettering for wedding invitations and announcements today? — T. W.

The favorite type of lettering for today's brides is, I should say, Shaded Antique Roman. Deservedly so, too, I think, for this lettering is graceful, effective, youthful. However, always in excellent taste, indeed the most conservative and traditional lettering is Script, either the conventional size Script or the larger lettering, the handsome London Script.

(Warning: If you do choose Script, please don't choose the too-small lettering, which has a skimpy appearance.)

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. B. N. — Sue should have told me this long ago.

Sue N. — Mother makes a fuss about everything.

• • •

Mrs. B. N. — Is it natural for an 18-year-old girl to keep everything to herself, not letting her own mother in on important matters affecting her?

I recently overheard a conversation between my daughter, Sue, and her friend. From what I could get in snatches I gathered that a much older man, a long-time friend of the family had been making advances to her.

I was just furious about this! There she sat telling her girl friend something I should have known long ago. I have given this man so much hospitality and he dares try a thing like that! Sue has begged me not to say anything. She claims she can handle it. But I'm seeing red.

• • •

Sue N. — It's just because Mother always acts up that I don't like to tell her things. She makes a big fuss over every little thing. I'm not a little girl and I don't think I should be forced to discuss every personal thing with her.

This man wasn't obnoxious in his advances. He didn't make a pass or anything like that. He just suggested that we ought to get together some time. He said he'd like to know me better. I met him once for lunch and he was very gentlemanly. He said he'd like to take me to the theatre some evening, but I was very busy at that time and he said he'd be in touch with me. That's all there was.

The man is a bachelor of 40. Is there harm in seeing him?

• • •

The Council: It is very foolish for parents to pressure adolescents into making confidences. For one thing, it can't be done. If they decide to keep a secret they'll do it. Pressure makes them feel they are being spied upon and they'll go to extremes to preserve their privacy. When they become more self-assured, more certain of their own independence, they may once again confide in parents.

In this case, it is fairly obvious that Mrs. B. N. hasn't fully understood the information she gained by eavesdropping. Sue has apparently encouraged this man. She may even have initiated the advances in a subtle way. Naturally she doesn't want her mother to interfere.

We gather that Sue found it necessary to boast to her girl friend about this exploit. Possibly she is merely playing what to her is a very exciting game. Yet it could have serious consequences.

Now that the secret is out, we believe that Mrs. B. N. should caution her daughter against further involvement. It may not help to say anything to the man — if Sue is determined to go on with this game. It is far more important for Sue to make up her mind to avoid a relationship that cannot have a happy outcome.

We think that if Sue had happy relationships with young men of a suitable age, she would be far less intrigued by this older man. These parents should encourage her to involve herself in more social activities with a suitable group of young people. They should openly observe her more and intrude on her privacy less. Sue will give many clues to her real feelings. When she sees that her parents understand without prying, she may feel more encouraged to talk over her problems with them.

A Picnic At Arnsberg

by Mary Moore

We had a picnic near Arnsberg in Germany — a memorable spot for in the preceding week it had been the camp where Herbie and staff had Headquarters for a competition between European-based Canadian troops. By Sherlock Holmesy sleuthing we could find sunken tent pegs, thumb tacks, truck tire treads, a little mirror on a tree to reveal the recent manly occupation.

Dinner Menus

THURSDAY

Dutch Pea Soup (see Tuesday); Tomato Shrimp Salad (see Wednesday); Hot Cheese Tea Biscuits; Chilled Compote of Plums; Date Squares; Tea.

SUNDAY

Chilled Melon Ball Fruit Cup; Roast Leg of Lamb; Mint Jelly or Homemade Mint Sauce; Buttered Broad Beans; Sliced Carrots in Parsley Cream Sauce; Butterscotch Pie (see Saturday); Coffee.

Gary and Davey delighted in setting up camp too with a fire just like Dad. Susan quietly slept in her carbed under a spreading bush, protected by netting.

We cooked hamburgers Canadian style.

COOKOUT HAMBURG:

For three adults and two very little boys mix together 1 1-2 lbs. ground beef, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon each grated onion, Worcestershire sauce, catsup, 1 slice whole wheat bread soaked in 1-2 cup boiling water, 1-2 teaspoon salt. These I shaped into 4 big and 2 little cakes, 2 of the big ones being for Herbie. With squares of wax paper between I stacked these in a plastic bag and chilled them before leaving. Then I tucked them into an insulated bag so they would keep well. When Herbie had the fire burned down to hot coals we erected our grill (an old oven shelf) over it on rocks and heat a long-handled frying-pan and in went the meat cakes. In Germany the hamburg buns are not big enough for us so I took along a loaf of German bread, like a French stick, and cut it into very thick slices. On 6 I placed a thin slab of Dutch cheese and warmed these around the outside edge of the grill while the meat was cooking. A cooked meat cake was placed on top of the cheese, then came a dollop of Barbecue Sauce: Cook slowly together 1-4 cup vinegar, 1 chopped garlic clove, 1-4 cup chopped onion, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, shake of cayenne, slice of lemon, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1-4 cup chili sauce, 2 teaspoons Worchestershire sauce for 15 minutes. Cool and pour into covered jar. This may be served hot or cold.

For dessert we had Italian peaches and this

PEANUT BUTTER PICNIC CAKE:

(Fluffy and delicious). Two cups plus 2 tablespoons sifted cake flour, 3-4 teaspoon each salt and soda, 1 1-4 teaspoons baking powder, 1-3 cup butter or margarine, 1-3 cup homogenized peanut butter, 1 1-3 cups sugar, 2 medium eggs, 2-3 cup buttermilk, 1-3 cup orange juice. Sift sifted flour with soda, salt and baking powder 3 times. Cream together butter and peanut butter till light, then beat in sugar until fluffy. Beat in eggs well. Add orange juice to buttermilk and add alternately with flour mixture 1-3 at a time. Turn into 2 buttered and paper-lined 9" layer cake tins and bake at 350 deg. F. 25 to 30 minutes. Cool in pans 10 minutes. Turn out on racks to finish cooling. Return to pans to carry to picnic.

Clear Thinking Affected by Mumbling Habit

WINNIPEG (CP) — There are mumblers in every country in the world says a Montreal phonetic expert who devotes her time to helping people overcome the fault.

Dr. Berthe Gagnon, interviewed here recently, said this mumbling habit has far-reaching results, affecting personality and clear thinking.

Dr. Gagnon holds doctorates from the Universities of Paris and Montreal, and 15 years ago founded the Institut Canadien de Phonetique in Montreal, which has the approval of the Institut Phonetique de Paris.

Her teaching methods involving articulation, lip exercises and voice placement are devised to correct every type of fault pronunciation.

Dr. Gagnon said stress — emphasizing certain syllables in a word, or one or more words in a sentence — is the remedy for mumblers.

"Stress confirms rhythm to the sentence," she said, "and rhythmical groups linked together create the charm, expression to the sentence."

The average English - speaking Canadian respects stress more than a French - Canadian, she said, "because the English language would be unintelligible otherwise."

POLIO CASES GROW

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Six new victims of poliomyelitis were admitted to the fever hospital in St. John's during the weekend, bringing Newfoundland's 1959 count to 36. Chief medical health officer A. McDermott has ordered all public swimming pools here closed.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, AUGUST 6, 1959

D'Iberville Seemed Doomed To Perish in Hudson Bay Before Great Naval Victory

MONTREAL (CP) — Pierre Le Moyne d'Iberville, Canada's almost - forgotten hero, seemed doomed to perish in Hudson Bay moments before his greatest naval victory.

But Iberville never met defeat in battle. The Le Moyne courage and elan, which he possessed in good measure, made him a consistent winner. He has been called "one of the truly remarkable figures of French Canada."

That same flair for colorful greatness brought some of Iberville's nine brothers position and fortune, others an untimely death in the service of the French king.

But it was not enough to win for any of them a vivid place in the memory of Canadians of a later age.

NORTHERN EXPEDITIONS

Iberville was assigned by King Louis XIV to lead a number of expeditions—some successful and some abortive—against Port Nelson on Hudson Bay. The trading stronghold passed from English to French and back again several times.

In 1697, Iberville, then 36, sailed to recapture the fort with five ships, the largest fleet the French had sent to Hudson Bay. But four were trapped by ice and Iberville's 50 - gun Pelican was confronted alone by three British warships.

Iberville had only 150 men fit for active service of a quota of 250—some were ashore and some down with scurvy.

The British ships approached, led by the 56 - gun Hampshire which passed out of range. The Pelican fired a broadside that carried away the tackle of the 36-gun Dering, next in line, and another that riddled the rigging of the 32-gun Hudson's Bay.

The Hampshire returned, firing a barrage that swept the Pelican's forecastle, holed her waterline, and damaged the rigging. For three hours the battle raged.

NO SURRENDER

The Pelican was badly crippled and at last the Hampshire bore in to deliver the coup de grace. Capt. John Fletcher called for the Pelican to strike her colors.

"Never!" shouted Iberville.

The two skippers, from their bridges, solemnly toasted one another's courage with a glass of wine. Then the Hampshire swung in.

Iberville, expecting the worst, ordered a broadside. Flames spurted from the Pelican's cannon and the British ship lurched and listed. Through the gunsmoke Iberville saw a gaping hole in her side. The ship broached to and sank with all hands—including Fletcher.

Iberville headed the battered Pelican for the Hudson's Bay which promptly struck her colors. The Dering fled.

That battle against such odds has been called the greatest victory in French naval annals.

SACKED NEWFOUNDLAND

These were active years for Iberville. In the winter of 1696-97 he sacked Newfoundland, ravaging the fishing villages of the Avalon Peninsula on orders from his king. About 200 Newfoundlanders perished.

This action brought charges of ruthlessness against Iberville by later historians, but most concede that, by the harsh standards of his age, Iberville was a humane man.

In 1696, Iberville sailed against the fortress of Pemaquid in Maine and won such an easy victory that the British commander, Capt. Pasco Chubb, was later tried for cowardice.

The glory of his Hudson Bay victory was still fresh when Iberville was chosen to establish a French colony in Louisiana. On March 2, 1699, he became the first man to discover the mouth of the Mississippi River from the sea.

After exploring the river and establishing good relations with the Indians, Iberville had a fort built at Biloxi Bay for his colonists and left his brother, Jean Baptiste Le Moyne de Bienville, in charge. Bienville was to remain governor of the colony off and on for the rest of his long life, and is known as the father of Louisiana. It was he who laid out and founded New Orleans.

ILL FROM FEVER

On later trips exploring the great Louisiana territory, tropical fevers began wracking Iberville's powerful frame.

In 1706 he was sent from France to harass the British in the West Indies and the Carolinas. He captured the fortified island of Nevis.

Some say it was plague, others yellow fever. He died July 9, 1706, two weeks before his 45th birthday. He body lies in an unmarked grave in Cuba.

Nellis M. Crouse called Iberville "unquestionably the greatest Canadian of his generation" in the biography Le Moyne d'Iberville: Soldier of New France, published in 1954.

Iberville's oldest brother, Charles de Longueuil, made the family lands he inherited from his father at Longueuil the model seigneury of New France. He became a wealthy businessman, and was named a baron. He died in action at Saratoga in 1729.

KILLED AT QUEBEC

Jacques de Ste. Helene was the second son of Charles Le Moyne, the first seigneur of Longueuil, Indian fighter, interpreter and citizen extraordinary of New France. Ste. Helene died in the British seige of Quebec in 1690.

The fourth son was Paul de Maricourt — Iberville was the third. Maricourt, born in 1663, died of the rigors of a campaign against the Iroquois in 1704.

Francois de Bienville, another great Le Moyne fighting man, was killed at 25 in a battle with Oneida Indians at Repentigny.

Francois Marie de Sauvole shared some of Iberville's adventures but most historians treat him as a nephew or cousin of the clan and not a son of Charles Le Moyne. Other historians, however, list him [illegible]n 11th brother. He lived from [illegible] to 1700.

Joseph de S[illegible]gny became the distinguished commander of a French naval base. He died at 66 in 1734.

Louis de Chateauguay, fearless and gay family favorite, died in his 18th year in a reckless charge against an English fort while fighting with Iberville in Hudson Bay.

Jean Baptiste, father of Louisiana, lived from 1680 to 1768. Next to Iberville, he is best remembered of the brothers.

Gabriel d'Assigny, born in 1681, also took part in the Mississippi adventure but died in San Domingo of yellow fever in 1701.

Antoine de Chateauguay, born in 1683, became governor of French Guiana.

CARTOONIST DEAD

NEW HOPE, Pa. (AP)—Frank Godwin, 70, cartoonist, book illustrator and comic strip artist, died Wednesday at his home. Cause of death was not disclosed. Godwin drew the comic strip Rusty Riley, distributed by King Features. He also illustrated children's and adults books.

Peach Hunger Was Expensive To Alaskan

SPARTANBURG, S. C. (AP) — Businessman A. D. Cudd, in Anchorage, Alaska, developed a craving for some home-grown peaches. So he telephoned grower Paul Black Tuesday and asked him to ship a bushel.

The peaches left by air express a few hours later. Shipping charges amounted to $69.88.

Teamster Boss Says Committee Relied on Rumors

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa, president of the internation aaTlemsters Union issued a statement late Wednesday accusing the Senate rackets committee of relying on rumor, innuendo and false testimony.

The committee had accused Hoffa Wednesday of using $3,000,000 of Teamsters' money to pay off gangster pals in Chicago.

Hoffa noted that the committee had released reports both on Tuesday and Wednesday criticizing the Teamsters chief. He said:

"The committee's policy of releasing portions of its report each day in order to keep the pressure on for a union-busting labor bill is just as dishonest as the hearings themselves were.

"You can't dignify by an answer the rumor, hearsay, inuendo and false witness which are the tools of this committee."

Women Want More Recognition In Legion Work

KITCHENER (CP) — Ontario ex-service women would like greater recognition as veterans when it comes to membership in Canadian Legion branches.

This was the consensus of 18 women veterans attending the biennial convention of the provincial command, Canadia Legion Tuesday.

Biggest problem facing women veterans is the recruting of more members, said Mrs. Eleanor Blackburn of Ottawa, who heads the women's delegation, representing 1,000 members in Ontario.

It is estimated there are 45,000 ex-service women in Canada but less than one-ninth belong to Canadian Legion branches. Mrs. Blackburn has said previously, "it is incredible to think there are still some branches that think women veterans cannot join the Canadian Legion."

Mrs. Eva Sutton, secretary of Hamilton Branch 413 said "The men don't want women in their branches, leaving a lot of ex-service women with auxiliary memberships."

Stamps, Cash Carted Away At Hastings

HASTINGS, Ont. (CP)—An undetermined amount of cash and stamps were stolen Tuesday night from the post office in this village 25 miles southeast of Peterborough.

Police said a stamp cabinet and two filing cabinets were carted away by the thieves who forced their way into the office.

Army's Mobility, Firepower May Be Increased by Family Of Vehicles Based on Bobcat

OTTAWA (CP)—Now that the government has hurdled some major air force and naval problems it is finding time to get around to consideration of the army's needs.

Officials said Wednesday army equipment requirements have rated lower in the scale of priorities than those of the RCAF and navy.

A government spokesman said the next major decision—after choosing in the next week or so the Canadian manufacturer for the Lockheed F-104G Starfighter airframe—will deal with army material.

The decision will be whether or not to put into production a family of vehicles to increase the army's mobility and firepower.

DECISION NEXT SPRING

A highly-placed informant said the decision will likely be taken next spring and indicated that it probably will be to order tooling up for a 1961 production start.

And production may be for British as well as Canadian Army needs.

The family of vehicles in question is that based on the Bobcat, a new tracked amphibious armored personel carrier now under advanced development at Canadian Car Company, Fort William.

The army says a whole family of vehicles—weapons carrier, gun hauler, missile mount, ambulance and the like—can be produced with the basic Bobcat design. These would give the army the mobility and protection it needs to fight on an atomic battlefield.

Cost of re-equipping the army with these vehicles might run to $200,000,000.

TALKS IN BRITAIN

During his recent visit to Britain, Defence Minister Pearkes pressed Defence Minister Sandys of Britain for co-operative Anglo-Canadian development of army equipment. The British are developing a vehicle similar to the Bobcat but are one or two years behind the Canadian development.

As a result, a British team is expected to arrive in Canada in the next two months to work out with a Canadian team a design for a group of vehicles which could be used by both countries.

The idea would be that shared production could be achieved, with each country supplying certain components.

Like his Liberal-predecessors, Hon. Bro[illegible]e Claxton and Hon. Ralph Campney, Mr. Pearkes is an exponent of standardization of weapons within the North Atlantic Alliance.

DENY REHEARING

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California Supreme Court Wednesday denied a rehearing on author - convict Caryl Chessman's appeal from a death sentence handed down 11 years ago. The trial court which first convicted him of sex crimes is expected to set a new execution date. Chessman, now 38, said he will appeal again and ask the U.S. Supreme Court for a stay of any new execution date.

Rattler Went Into Washer, Badly Mangled

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A housewife put a rattlesnake through her automatic washer Tuesday.

Mrs. Rita Brant, 47, said she picked up a pile of rags used by her son to wash the car. The snake apparently was snoozing among them.

The 18 - inch rattler was sudsed, agitated, rinsed, spun dry and very dead.

Iraqi Communist Chiefs Getting Different Orders

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Reliable reports from Iraq say some Communist leaders there are getting directives from Moscow and others from Peiping and that the two Communist capitals often contradict each other.

The Russians appear to favor a go-slow policy in Iraq in the hope it will strengthen their position in the Middle East as a whole.

The Chinese favor a tough line. They want an all-out campaign to take over Iraq and make it a Communist state. They preach chaos, disorder and an unrelenting war on "reactionary" elements.

MOSCOW PREVAILING

The Soviet line apparently is prevailing, at least for the moment. A statement from the Iraqi Communist party's politbero has condemned terrorist activities, which it blamed on "ill-advised individual leadership." The statement reiterated the party's determination to remain loyal to Premier Abdel Karem Kassem's revolution and republic.

Several months ago Moscow warned the Iraqi Reds against a premature grab for power. The Russians apparently felt a premature takeover would stiffen resistance to communism all over the Middle East.

CHINESE TACTICS

But the recent uprising in Kirkuk indicates the Chinese doctrine still is very much in the running.

There was no clear-cut clash in Kirkuk between the Communists and the authorities. It was a kind of disorganized brawl, exactly what the Chinese ordered. Such troubles undermine law and order, shake army discipline generally and breed a chaos that could lead to a Communist take-over.

If the Chinese line wins out, an early Communist attempt to overthrow Kassem should follow. If the Russians prevail, the Communists probably will continue to back Kassem for an indefinite period, possibly years.

Columnist Takes Apprehensive View of Forthcoming Talks

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A solitary British columnist, swimming against the tide of popular and press opinion, takes an apprehensive view of the forthcoming Khrushchev - Eisenhower talks.

The objections raised by Henry Fairlie in The Daily Mail bear heavily on the belief, long cherished by the old isolationist wing in the midwestern United States, that no right-minded democratic statesman is a match for the ruthless cunning of a dictator.

But Fairlie drives his point home shrewdly and painfully by drawing a parallel with a previous occasion when top-level negotiations were widely and enthusiastically acclaimed.

"Didn't we and our fathers do exactly the same on that famous day when Neville Chamberlain announced that he had brought back peace with honor from Germany?"

Having invited disquieting comparisons between Chamberlain and Eisenhower, the columnist—a consistent foe of summit diplomacy—proceeds to weaken his case by carrying it to illogical extremes.

As additional evidence of what he considers top-level fiascos, he cites Yalta and Tehran, where Joseph Stalin "ran rings around" President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, and Prime Minister Macmillan's excursion to Greece and Turkey last year and to Moscow in February.

Here Fairlie is on shakier ground. The post-war summit conferences, whatever their limitations, gave birth to the United Nations, which remains the world's best hope of establishing permanent machinery for the peaceful settlement of international disputes.

Fairlie's argument that United States intervention, rather than Macmillan's activities, was responsible for settling Britain's dispute with Greece and Turkey is open to argument, as is the columnist's contention that the prime minister's trip to Moscow "created a deadlock."

The worst to be said against Macmillan's efforts is that they failed to accomplish anything of significance. The most ardent of his political opponents could scarcely accuse him of playing a role comparable to Chamberlain's at Munich.

In this light, re - examination of Fairlie's comparison between Munich and the impending exchange of visits between Khrushchev and Eisenhower raises the question whether there is any similarity between the circumstances or the participants.

If Khrushchev is a dictator, he is not a dictator whose principal aim is military conquest. And if Eisenhower seeks the peace of the world, he has given no sign that he wants it at any price.

Air Carriers Not in Healthy Financial Shape

OTTAWA (CP)—The financial situation of Canadian air carriers is "not healthy," says Paul Davoud, chairman of the Air Transport Board.

He reports that the air carriers, both scheduled and non - scheduled, had operating revenues of $201,815,000 in 1958 against expenses of $200,622,000, leaving a net operating income of only $1,193,000.

The seven carriers operating scheduled services — Austin Airways, Canadian Pacific Airlines, Maritime Central Airways, Pacific Western Airlines, Quebecair, Transair and Trans-Canada Air Lines—showed a combined loss of $142,000 in 1958. Only TCA and PWA reported a profit.

Revenue passengers totalled 3,933,000 in 1958 compared to 3,727,000 in 1957 and mail carried was 15,710 tons compared to 14,632 in the previous year.

AIR CARGO DOWN

But amount of revenue goods carried dropped to 81,934 tons from 128,074 tons in the same period. Mr. Davoud, writing in the current issue of the trade magazine Aircraft, says there are far more big aircraft available for charter work than present requirements call for.

Mr. Davoud says the significant decrease in tonnage of goods carried and the "dangerously low" net income on a $200,000,000 volume of business are of growing concern to the Air Transport Board and the air transport industry.

The board now is studying the problems of regional carriers in Canada with the aim of recommending to the government a policy for a strong secondary network of scheduled operators.

Reds Charge U.S. Officers Sent to Laos

HONG KONG (Reuters)—The Communist New China News Agency claimed that United States military advisers were sent to Laos last month to take command of the Royal Laotian troops before fighting broke out between government and Communist forces.

The agency quoted Laotian newspaper sources as saying "Four United States colonels and many other United States military advisers" were sent to four military sectors in late July.

The agency report followed a declaration of a state of emergency by the Laotian government in five provinces of the Indochinese state.

The five northern provinces are Phong Saly, Zieng Khouang, Cammon, Savannkhet and Sam Neua.

TAKE UP ARMS

Declaring the state of emergency, Premier Phouy Sananikone said "a group of persons" had taken up arms against the authorities in the five provinces and called on the army to give the "necessary assistance in the maintenance of peace and order."

Clashes between army units and rebels flared up more than a week ago after claims that the allegedly Communist - backed Pathet Lao guerrillas had swept into Laos from mountainous regions near the Communist North Viet Nam border.

The fighting in Laos was discussed Tuesday by Western statesmen at the Big Four foreign ministers conference.

Prince Charles Has Good Time At Carnival

LONDON (Reuters)—The heir to the throne ventured unheralded into an amusement park Tuesday and squandered pennies on boyish games like many other schoolboys on vacation.

Prince Charles, 10, toured Battersea Funfair on the south bank of the Thames with the royal governess, Katherine Peebles, and a detective.

Charles and his sister Anne, 8, are engaged on a program of visits aimed at showing the royal children how average citizens work and play.

Charles saw a movie, took a ride on a miniature speedway tried a ring-tossing game, got lost briefly in a mirror maze and spent some time at a stand throwing balls at a dummy clown with an open mouth.

Reds Probably Have Missile, Air Superiority Over Allies As of Today Declare Experts

(How long and how sharp is the sword NATO maintains for the protection of Europe? In this third article in a series of four, an Associated Press reporter describes NATO's central European counter - punch and what it's matched against.)

By BEM PRICE

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP) Manned aircraft and some missiles constitute the striking power —the sword — of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

When you begin asking specific questions about the length of the sword and the temper of its cutting edge, NATO officials become vague. On a month - long tour of European commands, I frequently was referred to some other echelon which — it usually turned out — referred me to still another in an endless chain.

What the Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers, Europe (SHAPE), considers an adequate air umbrella for central Europe has never been announced.

There are 30 short - range missile battalions in Europe. The goal is 100 such battalions by 1963.

At the moment, the heaviest missile counter - punch available to the Allies on the continent itself consists of two Redstone missile groups attached to the U.S. army, Europe, command a Heidelberg.

REDSTONE GROUP

A Redstone group contains two batteries and each battery has one firing section. In brief, the army could launch about four simultaneously and about two to three hours later could launch another four.

Officially, the Redstone missile has a 200-mile range. Unofficially, it can carry fuel for 500 miles.

In addition to the Redstone, the U.S. army has a classified number of 90-mile-range Corporal guided missiles.

The U.S. air force has a squadron of Matador missiles near Sembach, Germany. They currently are being replaced with the 650 - mile - range subsonic Mace-A missile, a sort of unmanned bomber.

In December, 1957, the NATO council agreed in principle to gird Europe for push-button warfare, using primarily U.S.-developed intermediate - range ballistic missiles (IRBMS) of 1,500-mile range.

An unknown number of such missiles now are deployed near the Continent in England.

HAVE FIVE NOW

While the British never have officially disclosed the number of launching sites for the IRBMS, a labor dispute brought out the fact in a London court last June that five launching pads have been built and 13 more are under construction.

Britain has adopted the U.S. air force Thor, but whether each site is manned by the equivalent of a U.S. missile squadron is unknown. A U.S. Thor squadron handles 15 missiles.

As for the rest of central Europe, only the Netherlands has indicated a willingness to have IRBM launching sites built on her soil. France has declined because the U.S. will not give her control of the atomic warheads. Germany has said she is content with the battlefield type rockets such as the Honest John, a 20-mile - range projectile. Outside central Europe, Italy has agreed in principle to accept intermediate - range missiles but negotiations have bogged on technical points that have not been made public.

When NATO came into being the defensive air cover for central Europe consisted of 400 aircraft, mostly piston-engine types.

RATIO IS SECRET

Gen. Jean - Etienne Valluy, commander-in-chief of the Allied forces in central Europe, estimates that he now can muster between 1,500 and 2,000 jet aircraft — fighter - bombers and fighter - interceptors. The ratio of interceptors to bombers is secret.

The interceptors are basically defensive weapons for the destruction of enemy aircraft while the fighter - bombers are designed to destroy enemy ground forces and installations on or near battlefields.

For long - range striking power, the Allies can bring to bear the deep penetration capabilities of the U.S. air force's Strategic Air Command, which has bases in England, North Africa, Turkey and Spain.

Some Allied forces maintain a round-the-clock alert. A certain number of planes and pilots are kept in a constant state of runway readiness.

The NATO air picture was hurt by French refusal to allow atomic bombs to be stored on her soil unless she is given atomic knowhow and control of the bombs.

On July 8 the United States announced that three fighter-bomber wings — 200 planes — would be transferred out of France and most would be sent to England. Since the bombers based in France would have to go elsewhere to be loaded with A-bombs, the United States decided they were useless in France.

The departure of the fighter-bombers leaves only the 1st RCAF division — 300 F-86 interceptors — as the only major NATO air force in France. The Canadians shortly are to receive 75 supersonic F104s and then will be given counter - offensive missions.

Reinforcing the NATO air forces is the fast-growing West German air force. At present, the Germans have about 350 of the subsonic F84s and some F - 86 Lockheed jets.

The West Germans have ordered 86 F-104s and plan to build 250 more under contract. By 1963-64, the West Germans expect to have an air force of 1,000 first-line jets.

Britain, which holds that manned aircraft are becoming obsolete, have contributed 250 Canberra bombers and Hawker-Hunter supersonic interceptors to the NATO sword force.

The French have declined to integrate their air force into the NATO operation except for a few Mystere IVs and F86s in Germany.

BACKBONE OF FORCE

By and large, the U.S. air force, equipped with "Century series" aircraft — F100s through F-104s — constitutes the backbone of the defensive and counter - offensive air forces in central Europe, about 1,100 planes.

The Danes, Belgians and Dutch have small forces, flying mostly F-84s and F-86s.

East of the Iron Curtain in the satellite nations and along the Russian border 300 airfields are reported. The Russians are said to have a 20,000 all - jet air force, including 3,100 medium bombers and 200 long-range heavy bombers.

There are 25 NATO air bases in Germany, all within minutes flying time of the Russian fields. The Russians have a large number of MiG-17 aircraft of the sort defeated by the F86s in Korea. They also have come up with a MiG-19 and a MiG-21 in numbers believed to be roughly a match for the United States' Century series planes.

The Russians also are said to be building a number of missile launching sites for their 700-mile-range M-103 missile in the satellite nations and pads for their 1 500 - mile missile, the T-2, along their western borders.

Added up, this means that the Russians probably have a missile and air superiority over the Allies as of today.

Half Bikinis Not Tops With Cops

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Accused of wearing only the bottom halves of their bikinis, two French-born women go on trial today.

The specific charge: Outraging public decency.

Aurelia la Mar, 34, and Ilena Rovira, 32, both of Los Angeles, were arrested on the beach, where they had been camping. They told arresting officers that women frequently went without bathing suit tops at French beaches and weren't arrested.

NO ATOMIC BASES

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi of Japan said Wednesday his country never will permit the establishment of bases for atomic weapons or guided missiles on its territory. He also told a press conference Japan believes the manufacture and testing of atomic weapons should be prohibited. Kishi, on a goodwill tour, arrived in Mexico Wednesday from Peru.

Head Injury Said Not Cause of Death

TORONTO (CP) — Norman Alles, 49, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., who died in a Toronto hospital Tuesday, was the victim of acute bronchitis and pneumonia and not of head injuries received in an Ayton, Ont., street fight July 23.

A coroner's report after an autopsy said the head injury was not the cause of his death.

Mr. Alles was visiting his brother Albert, 47, in Ayton, near Owen Sound, when they became involved in a dispute with two Ayton brothers in a hotel.

The dispute moved to the street outside and Mr. Alles was injured when he was knocked to the sidewalk.

3rd Hillier

3RD OF HILLIER — Mr. and Mrs. Charles Benway spent Sunday, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Woof, of Hillier. Mr. Aubrey Woof and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Woof, of Codrington, were also guests on Sunday.

Jet Pilot Spends Summer Sailing Through Air on Kite

OTTAWA (CP)—Jet pilot John MacDonald is spending his spare hours this summer sailing through the air with the aid of a kite.

Towed behind a fast motorboat on the Rideau River here, he takes off on water skis. With a combination wind and boat speed of 28 miles an hour he ascends smoothly, hanging from a trapeze-like bar attached to the canvas and aluminum kite he made himself.

Most flights are under 35 feet, and last about 90 seconds. It's a tiring sport, even for one in top physical condition.

"This sport has to be approached cautiously," said Flt. Lt. MacDonald, whose parents live in Cornwall, Ont. So far he has come through several crash landings in the river without mishap.

He relies on a team of three to help him: a boat driver, a safety man, and a second boat to fish him out if necessary. Safety man Flt. Lt. Jim Childs controls the kite's altitute by gauging speed and handling the tow line. Side motion is controlled by the airborne skier shifting his weight on the crossbar.

Flt. Lt. MacDonald built his own kite, 11 by 13 feet, after seeing a flying demonstration in Florida. Kite skiing is the latest thrill in his nine years of water skiing. He can ski expertly on the bare soles of his feet.

The pros have been talking a lot lately about big things to come concerning major league baseball and football in Canada and the United States. A lot of it could be just that—talk.

In New York, it was announced that an eight-team, third major league, involving a Toronto franchise, would be established in 1961.

In Philadelphia, Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League said a new pro circuit was in the books.

In Vancouver and Regina, there was talk that Hawaii might at some time come into the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

NO WORD FROM NHL

The only persons not heard from are National Hockey League officials. No one has ever mentioned the possibility of setting up a second major hockey league.

After the announcement of the founding members of the proposed new major ball league, just about everybody connected with the project has been mum. They'll do their talking Aug. 18 when they meet Commissioner Ford Frick's seven-man committee from the National and American Leagues.

Jack Kent Cooke, owner of Toronto Maple Leafs in the Triple A International League, was enthusiastic. He said he was prepared to invest at least $2,500,000 to back up his claim that Toronto can support a big league entry.

First, there's a matter of a stadium. The Leaf park holds 19,000 and a 35,000 layout is one of the required conditions for entry.

Toronto city fathers think the idea of a major league club is dandy but, said Mayor Nathan Phillips, development of a park "looks to me like a chore for the private promoters."

If that is the case, Cooke's $2,500,000 isn't going very far.

CASH NOT WANTED

Major league teams aren't particularly interested in selling players. They prefer straight player trades, with a little cash involved, because they've found, much as NHL owners have discovered, straight cash doesn't buy a major league player.

The Leafs are an independent club. Cooke can buy minor-league players at small prices and as every fan knows, it's a huge step from Triple A to major baseball.

The new football league? Well, the old American conference was forced out of business a few years ago and was succeeded by the NFL, a tightly-knit 12-team circuit with teams from New York to San Francisco.

Hawaii in the WIFU? There was a lot of screaming before British Columbia Lions were admitted in 1953 because of the added transportation costs to Regina and Winnipeg.

Right now, Hawaii hasn't a snowball's chance of getting in. Imagine an interlocking schedule involving Eastern Big Four teams, the WIFU and Hawaii.

Sport Briefs

KWONG WITH ESKS

EDMONTON (CP) — Normie Kwong will play for the WIFU Edmonton Eskimos this season. The China Clipper showed up at the Eskimos' training camp Wednesday night, hours after negotiations for a trade of Kwong to British Columbia Lions had failed.

MARLENE DEFENDS

TORONTO (CP) — Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto will defend her Canadian women's open golf championship against an international field here next week. A record 176 entries from Canada, United States and Britain will compete. Play for the open championship will start Monday with the 176 starters playing in the qualifying round. Match play gets under way Tuesday.

PLAN GAMES TRAINING

LONDON (AP) — Britain's swimming chiefs are planning a one-month's training camp for their charges immediately before the 1960 Olympic Games in Rome. It's the first time anything like that has happened in the history of British swimming. The cost will be about $5,000.

Ontario Turns Back Quebec In Junior Golf Tournament

MONTREAL (CP) — Ontario junior golfers rolled up 33 points to 12 for Quebec youngsters Wednesday to win the second annual meeting of 10-man junior teams representing the two provinces.

The Ontario boys all but scored a shutout in the scotch foursomes—alternate - stroke play—in the morning round and counted heavily in the afternoon singles.

In last year's inaugural, played in Toronto, Ontario won 11 matches against Quebec's four. The matches this year were scored on the Nassau system—one point for the winner of each nine and one for the over-all winner. Match play governed. This meant split points.

Ontario counted the maximum of three points in four of the five foursome matches and in four of the 10 singles. The visiting youngsters didn't give up a full three points in any match.

The competition brought together youngsters of five age groups, 14 to 18, with two in each class.

Bobby Panasiuk of Windsor, 17-year-old Ontario Open amateur champion, had an easy 6 and 5 over-all win over Andre Gingras of Quebec and led three-up at the turn.

Panasiuk got a good roll with his powerful drive at the 12th hole, the ball stopping 335 yards from the tee.

Both Ontario 14-year-olds—Billy Lee and Gordon Harrison of Toronto — and 15-year-old Gary Black of St. Catharines also counted three points each for their team in the singles along with Panasiuk.

Three Quebec boys scored 2½ points each in the singles. In the 18-year-old class, Black won 3 and 1 over Brian Darling of Montreal. Stan Clarke of Montreal was all square with Charlie Jacobs of Toronto after nine holes and finished with a 3 and 2 win.

In the same class Ray Zabowski of Montreal took a one-up lead over Phil Brownlee of Toronto and won by the same margin, Brownlee holding his opponent even on the second nine.

Adre Maltais, 17, of East Angus, Que., and Gary Dornhauffer of Kitchener were even at the turn and Maltais won the match one up.

Brian Wilcox of Toronto lost the back nine to Ross Conklin of Val Morin after piling up a six-hole lead going out but won 3 and 2.

John Kindred of Peterborough had to settle for an all-square result against Gordon Leriche of Montreal, 16-year - old Quebec junior champion, after setting up a front-nine lead of three holes.

Ron Dines, 17, of Montreal missed a four-foot putt at the 18th and split the three points with Dave Lowry of Windsor.

In the foursomes Ontario cleaned up with 14½ of a possible 15 points in the five matches. Quebec's fraction was gained by LeRiche and Maltais against Kindred and Dornhauffer when the match was all square at the turn.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The tomatoes can go take a jump into the nearest canning factory; the corn can make the can or silo unassisted, and the cows can turn on their own milking machines, for it is playoff time in the South Hastings Baseball League.

The boys in the oldest organized baseball league in this part of Ontario, if not the entire province, start their chips-down series tomorrow night when Foxboro meets Read on the latter's diamond while Saturday night Latta entertains Cannifton. Both games start at 6.30.

It won't be world series baseball. If you happen to drop by you won't see the Milwaukee Braves, Yankees'-type—or wait a minute, the way Casey Stengel's crew is going mayhap one of these clubs could give them a battle, but you would see crews of baseball guys that take their sport deadly serious.

The South Hastings League has been in live action since Batawa's Art Duncan wore diapers, and they tell me Art played shortstop in the Balaclava squad of the Crimean League. But Time has not dimmed their interest and to their eternal credit it must be said that the South Hastings League has been one of the main factors in keeping baseball, above the minor brackets, alive in this neck of the diamond woods.

Cuffer Noakes' fine young crew of Lloyd's Cleaners Juniors, played in the league during the schedule and finished on top of the heap. However, they do not take part in league playoffs but later go on to the Ontario Baseball Association playdowns. Read finished in second place with Latta third, and Foxboro and Cannifton next. These teams meet in a best-of-five semi-finals, then comes the big series for the league championship.

So if you like baseball drop around and see these teams in action. There will be a few rough edges but the fun you will have will make your time worth while.

TWO TOUGH GUYS

That tough muscle-mauler Gene Kiniski, fresh from several victories over lesser opponents, comes back to the local wrestling wars tomorrow night with blood in his eye and mayhem in his heart. He may have run into some pushovers since his last appearance here, but tomorrow night when the lights are low and the humidity high, he may run into trouble — and no one knows it better than one Kiniski.

For he tangles with a formidable opponent, one he has met before without any great margins of success, in fact the only verdicts he claimed over the mighty Yukon Eric here were the fruits of some choice skullduggery. So tomorrow night should see some fiery action between this pair of bulldozing battering rams.

And what should be a choice runner-up to the main bout is the first clash between the popular Hawaiian sensation, Sam Steamboat, who meets the meanest guy in the wrestling game, one Hardboiled Haggerty. Now here's a bout that should be worth the price of admission alone. The clever young matman from Honolulu has had an unprecedented run of successes since his Canadian debut, but he runs up against a tough, rough customer in this mat seance. This should be one for the book.

* * *

The Ox Pointers made it three in a row from the hard-fighting Trenton Garretts at the Point last night, but not before Charlie Drake's crew tossed an early-game scare into them. It was a wide-open free-hitting affair with both Al Carkner of the Point and Harold Cole of Trenton being pounded fairly hard. The teams go at it again tonight at Trenton and if the Loft-Shaw crew wraps it up they probably will have time on their hands waiting for a winner of the Bobcats-Cobourg series.

Incidentally the Pointers won the Kingston Penitentiary Softball Congress for the second year in a row over the holiday. They met and defeated the Pen Saints in the first round by a 2-1 score with Pat Maracle hurling two-hit ball. In the other bracket a smart Bloomfield team took out a Toronto squad, and met the Point in the finals.

Al Carkner hooked up with a fine young flinger from the Prince Edward County village and outduelled him with a nifty one-hit effort. The Pointers won it 4-0 and retained the handsome Warden Dick Allan Trophy they won a year ago. They have been invited to return on Labor Day. Just in passing, Johnny Batchelor poled a towering home run over the left-field wall, but due to local regulations the outfielder was not permitted to retrieve the ball.

Bob Temple's Cats ran into a snag in Cobourg last night when they were blanked 3-0 by the lakeshoremen. This squares the series at one game each and the teams go at it again at the CNRA Park tomorrow night. Fourth game is set for Cobourg on Saturday at 8.15 p.m. This looks like a dog-eat-dog series with anything liable to happen. Temple's Tabs will have to be on their best diamond behavior tomorrow to grab that important third game.

Two Home Runs Give Giants 4-1 Victory and Top Spot; Senators Halt Losing Streak

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

They were kidding Fred Haney, the National League all-star manager, about Willie McCovey. Somebody asked why McCovey, a San Francisco rookie who came up from Phoenix last Thursday, wasn't on the squad.

Haney joked right back. "I's told that this Willie simply wasn't available," he said. "He already was up in Cooperstown getting measured for a plaque."

That was a couple of days ago. Haney hadn't seen McCovey at that time. He probably wishes now that he never did see him because McCovey knocked his Milwaukee Braves right out of the National League lead Wednesday.

HOMERS IN FIRST

McCovey gave the Giants a first-inning lead with a 380-foot homer off Bob Buhl. After Willie Mays' double scored Jim Davenport with the tie-breaking run in the eighth, McCovey tapped Buhl for another home run, a two-run 400-footer that nailed down a 4-1 victory. Jack Sanford went all the way with an eight-hitter for his 10th triumph.

So the Giants, who had dropped one percentage point behind the Braves Tuesday night, moved back in front. And the Braves dropped to third as Los Angeles Dodgers remained within one-half game of the top by downing Cincinnati Reds 6-3 on the hitting of Duke Snider and the pitching of Johnny Podres.

Snider hit two homers, No. 15 and 16, and a single good for three runs to help Podres post his ninth victory in 16 decisions. After a shaky start which saw the Reds score all of their runs in the first two innings, the southpaw allowed only one hit over the last seven innings. Bob Purkey (10-11), first of three Cincinati pitchers, was the loser.

THIRD SHUTOUT

Ernie Broglio, St. Louis rookie, pitched his third big league shutout, a four-hit job against Pittsburgh 3-0. Singles by Joe Cunningham and Wally Shannon and Hal Smith's infield out gave the Cards a second-inning run, enough to cost Bob Friend his 14th defeat.

Philadelphia hopped on Bill Henry, the Chicago Cubs' usually reliable relief man, and scored two in the ninth for a 6-4 victory. It was the Cubs' seventh straight defeat with Henry, the fourth pitcher, taking the blame.

Truman for president! That is the new cry in Washington. They mean Clevenger, not Harry, as the Truman of their dreams for he is the man who broke Senators' 18-game losing streak.

Cookie Lavegetto was a desperate man after watching his Senators tie a club mark by dropping their 18th straight in the first game of a doubleheader with Cleveland Wednesday night. The modern major league record of 20 was just around the corner.

Cookie finally settled on reliever Truman Clevenger, a 27-year-old son of Visalia, Calif., who had not started a game all season.

Clevenger threw his first big league shutout, a seven-hit 9-0 job at second-place Indians and the streak was over. It was Senators' first victory since the first game of a July 19 doubleheader.

ANOTHER FOR KILLEBREW

Harmon Killebrew woke up, too. He hit his first home run since July 27, No. 34.

Jim (Mudcat) Grant handed Washington its 18th defeat in the opener 7-3 as Indians scored six runs in the seventh inning. Cal McLish lost the second.

There was no change in the pennant race. Chicago also split a twi-nighter in Baltimore, holding tight to its two-game lead. Barry Latman shut out Orioles with three hits in the 2-0 opener but Baltimore took advantage of Early Wyn's shaky pitching and five White Sox errors to grab the second game 7-1 behind Arnold Portocarrero.

New York finally beat Yankee killer Don Mossi after bowing five times to the talented Detroit lefthander. Little Bobby Shantz fired a five-hit shutout and Mickey Mantle hit his 22nd home run with a man on for a 3-0 victory over Tigers.

Gary Geiger drove in six runs and Frank Malzone knocked in five as Boston clubbed Kansas City 17-6. Ike Delock, second of three Boston pitchers, was the winner over rookie Howard Reed who replaced Johny Kucks in the first.

In the second game at Washington, Billy Martin suffered a broken jaw and cheek bone when he was hit by a Clevenger pitch leading off in the first inning. Doctors said he would be out four to six weeks.

Gene Conley got ninth - inning help from Taylor Phillips to earn his 10th victory.

Leafs Lose Two To Richmond; Royals Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Since Buffalo doesn't show any signs of weakening its eight-game hold on first place in the International League, all eyes are focusing on the battle for the next three playoff berths.

Only five games separate second - place Havana and eighth-place Rochester.

Rochester defeated Havana Wednesday night 8-2. Third-place Richmond won a doubleheader from Toronto, 7-3 and 5-3 to move within two games of the Cubans. Montreal stayed one percentage point ahead of Columbus in fourth place, though it lost 9-7 to the Jets. Both are 2½ games out of second.

Buffalo lost to Miami, 5-4 in the other game.

HOME-RUN ASSAULT

Homers by Luke Easter, Gene Green and Johnny O'Brien sparked Rochester's 14-hit attack. Cal Browning won his 12th against eight losses and Vince Amor (9-8) lost.

Richmond banged 19 hits off eight Toronto pitchers in the two games, scoring five runs in the first three innings to wrap up the opener and rallying with three in the eighth inning to take the nightcap. Johnny James (7-4) and Zack Monroe (7-7), both with relief help won for the Vees. George Susce (3-7) and Dick Brodowski (2-3) were the losers.

BURGESS STARS

Tom Burgess' two-run homer (No. 21) and tight ninth-inning relief work by Don Williams helped Columbus. The Canadian-born Burgess scored the deciding run on John Jacluk's triple in the sixth inning. Joe Gibbon (12-7) was the recipient of Williams' relief work while Ralph Mauriello (1-1) lost.

Art Mahaffey gave only three hits—homers by Miami's Bert Hamric, Leo Burke and Fred Valentine—but lost his fourth in nine decisions. John Anderson, with ninth inning relief help by Art Kay, raised his record to 12-5. Max Surkont pitched the final 3 2-3 innings for Buffalo, giving two hits.

TRIPUCKA TO START

VANCOUVER (CP) — Quarterback Frank Tripucka will get the starting assignment for Ottawa Rough Riders here tonight when the Riders oppose British Columbia Lions in an exhibition game. Coach Frank Clair said Wednesday that Tripucka, former Saskatchewan Roughrider passing wizard will alternate during the game with Don Allard, a Boston College graduate.

Canadian Russ Jackson will get some work on offence, probably late in the game.

Cardinals Whip Argos 55-26 Toronto Centre Breaks Ankle

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts fattened their treasure Wednesday night, if not their prestige, but it cost them something they can't pay for with mere cash.

Their 55-26 exhibition football defeat at the hands of the National Football League Chicago Cardinals was nothing compared with the loss of their prize Canadian centre Norm Stoneburgh.

The graduate of Toronto high school ranks broke an ankle in the second quarter when he was low man in a pileup. He will be out of action for eight to 10 weeks.

To replace him, coach Hamp Pool will be forced to invest some of the coin poured in by the record-setting 27,770 fans in telephone calls to the south since there are no homebrews on the horizon capable of filling Stoneburgh's shoes.

TRAFFIC HEADACHE

Otherwise, this rugged and free-wheeling meeting of the Big Four and National League athletes was a rousing success and a big headache for the Toronto traffic police.

Main arteries near the football grounds were jammed. Some cars were at a standstill for an hour and in some places were backed up for a mile.

It was a record gate for a football game in the east and the biggest crowd ever to watch an exhibition anywhere in the country, surpassing the 23,566 mark set at Vancouver's Empire Stadium in 1956 when British Columbia Lions met Edmonton Eskimos.

The game inaugurated the Argos' new lakefront exhibition stadium which had been used previously only for the intra-squad affair. Adding to the interest was the first appearance of an NFL club here and the mixture of Canadian and American rules.

ARGOS HAD LEAD

Ahead 13-7 at the first quarter, Argos caved in after half time before the superior weight and blocking of the Chicago crew. Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy used his first stringers extensively and only after they had built up a big lead did he start cleaning out his 30-man bench.

The Argonauts emerged with higher hopes than ever for Ronnie Knox, the brilliant young UCLA quarterback on loan from Chicago Bears of the NFL. He completed 19 of the 23 passes he attempted, had only one intercepted and picked up 219 yards through the air.

Also sparkling were Johnny Green of Chattanooga who took over from Knox late in the last quarter, and rookie halfback Bob Dehlinger from Idaho who ran 70 yards on an interception for one of Toronto's four touchdowns.

Dave Mann scored two and Jerry Philp the other. Vic Kristopaitis kicked two converts.

SHARED SCORING

Chicago touchdowns were scored by Joe Childress, Bobby Watkins, King Hill, Bobby Joe Conrad, Jim Crow, Mal Hammack, Leo Sugar and Lee Williams. Conrad converted six and kicked a single.

The four Chicago quarterbacks —Hill, M. C. Reynolds, Huston Patton and Hunter Enis—had the Argos in a dither with their pitch-outs and faking.

Aside from the crippling of Stoneburgh, the Argos emerged unscathed with the exception of a foot injury to linebacker Don Caraway.

GET SECOND WIN

HAMILTON (CP) — Austria's Rapid Vienna soccer club scored its second win in as many Canadian starts Wednesday night as it downed a National League select team 5-1 before nearly 2,000 fans.

Ox Point Clears Decks for Sweep With Third Victory Over Trenton

POINT ANNE (Staff) — Phil Loft's Ox Pointers cleared the decks for a clean sweep of their district league semi-finals here last night, turning back the Trenton Garretts for the third straight time. The score was 7-4.

Backs to the wall, Trenton entertains the Pointers in the fourth game of the best-of-seven series tonight starting at 8.15.

Both starting hurlers went the route in a wide-open free-hitting affair, the Pointers bat blasting out thirteen clouts and Trenon claiming ten. Only two strikeouts were registered, these by the Trenton pitcher.

Using a tantalizing slow ball Harold Cole did mound duty for the visitors and clustered hits in bunches of three in as many innings. He walked a half-dozen.

Al Carkner failed to whiff any opposing batters and was hit freely giving up ten safeties. He turned in a fine clutch chore in the fifth when he loaded the bases with three consecutive singles then retired the side without a runner crossing the plate. He walked three.

The Pointers grabbed a first-inning two run lead, but Trenton whipped back with two runs and two singles to lead 4-2 at the end of the fourth. Carkner held them scoreless over the rest of the route.

The Point roared back with three in the fifth to tuck the game away, scoring clincher runs in the sixth and seventh.

Singles by Carr and Jones and a walk gave the Pointers their opening runs. Davy Jones' double, singles by Johnny Batchellor and Pete Green, a walk, and an error accounted for their fifth inning trio of counters.

Alexander's double, a walk and a Pointer bobble gave Trenton a run in the first and another Point bobble, Drake's single and L. Wannamaker's triple accounted for a pair in the third. Smith's triple, a walk and infield outs scored their last run in the fourth.

Davy Jones double and two singles led the Point hit parade with Dougie Hull getting three singles. Johnny Batchelor and Claude Carr each had a pair of oners with Peter Green, Gary Goyer and Al. Carkner hitting safely.

L. Wannamaker belted a triple and single to pace Trenton with Drake, Mitts and D. Cole each hitting two singles. Smith lashed out a triple and Alexander a double.

TRENTON — Alexander, Drake, Mitts, L. Wannamaker, D. Cole, Smith, DeFosse, H. Cole, Stinson, Burns.

Cats Drop 3-0 Verdict to Cobourg Homer Nips Sensational Mound Duel

COBOURG (Staff) — Cobourg softball fans will talk about this one for the next ten years.

They sat agog as one of the most sensational pitching duels ever seen in this lakeshore town unfolded before their eyes.

They rose and roared as a fitting home-town climax came when a three-run eighth-inning homer brought their team the victory.

Belleville Bobcats Bobby Hull, Cobourg's ace "Sleepy" Dawe and Dick Turpin were the heroes in the homesters 3-0 victory in the second game of the best-of-seven district league semi-finals The 3rd game is slated for Belleville Friday night.

Both hurlers turned in sensational performances. It was anybody's battle until the fateful eighth inning, when Turpin's ground-ball homer with two mates aboard settled the issue.

Hull was never in better form. He tossed no-hit ball for six innings when Turpin scratched out a single. He gave up back-to-back singles in the eighth preceding Turpin's game-winning homer. He struck out an even dozen and issued two walks.

Dawe celebrated his return to the mound in sensational fashion. He gave up but two hits and sent down seventeen Bobcats via the strikeout route. He yielded but one walk.

Bert Faulkner got aboard with the first hit off Dawe —in the second frame but died as Sleepy whiffed the next two batters. Stacey the first man up in the third shot out a single but he too perished as Dawe retired the side in order. The Cats were hitless and runless over the rest of the route.

Hull struck out J. Hart beginning the eighth then O'Brien and B. Hart lashed out back-to-back singles. Turpin came to the plate and blasted a sizzling grounder along the third base line that struck the bag and rolled almost to the lake for a base-cleaning four-bagger.

Hull retired Campbell then McGahan singled for the fourth and last clout off the Bobcat hurler. He struck out Dawe to end the innings.

The Cats threatened only twice, once in the first when Crawford walked and went to third on passed balls freezing there as Dawe settled down to blank the side. "Wiener" Brown reached second with one out in the ninth on a Cobourg error and a stolen base, but he too "perished" as "Sleepy" struck out Hull and Hayden in order.

Only 31 Bobcats faced the Cobourg mound star, while 33 homesters went to the plate in front of Hull.

BOBCATS — Crawford, Brown, Hull, Hayden, Goegan, Faulkner, Cousins, Smrke, Stacey.

COBOURG — O'Brien, B. Hart, Turpin, Campbell, McGahan, Dawe, Church, McIvor, J. Hart.

BILLY MARTIN HURT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Billy Martin, Cleveland Indians' second baseman, suffered a broken jaw and broken left cheekbone Wednesday night when he was hit by a pitch by Truman Clevenger of Washington Senators. Doctors said Martin would be out of action from four to six weeks.

Normie Kwong Will Play With Eskimos

EDMONTON (CP) — Normie Kwong, with a $2,000 fine for missing training hanging over his head, arrived here Wednesday night and said he intends to play with Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Iterprovincial Football Union this season.

Kwong was to meet club officials today before officially joining the Esks.

"If he's here and in shape, we can use him," said club president Eric Duggan when told of Kwong's arrival.

The China Clipper, angling for a trade to British Columbia Lions since late 1958, flew in from Vancouver and less than an hour later was at the training camp.

The bruising fullback did not comment on the fine, but an Eskimo spokesman said it probably will stick.

NEGOTIATIONS FAILED

Negotiations over Kwong began months ago between Esks and Lions but collapsed Tuesday Duggan said chances of a trade now are "remote." Lions are "as fed up as we are" with the talks, he said.

Kwong hinted last month he would rather not play this season than return to Edmonton.

The 29-year-old Kwong held the league rushing record until 1956, but last year placed fourth.

The biggest hitch in a reconciliation seemed to be the fine. Even to a player said to be the highest-paid Canadian in football, $2,000 is a lot of money.

Quinte Retains Tennis Title, Bata Trophy

In a sudden death playoff with Bata last night the Quinte Tennis Club successfully defended the Bata Trophy, emblematic of supremacy in the Bay of Quinte Tennis League.

The Bata team got off to a fast 2-0 lead by wins in the men's events. In the men's singles Wm. Mulhauser defeated youthful Pete Annis in straight sets, 6-0, 6-1. At the same time Bata's men's doubles team of Wm. Templeton and Jerry Ireland were running roughshod over the Belleville team of Wm. Redquest and T. Woodley in straight sets, 8-6, 6-4

Belleville's Alec Cunningham and Tony Jacobs defeated Bob Sager and Tony Cervinka of Bata 6-0, 6-3. The mixed doubles team of Madge Cowley and Tim Cook evened the score by downing Bata's Freda MacDonald and Joe Pacas 6-0, 6-3.

With the score standing at two matches apiece, all eyes were on the final and deciding ladies' doubles. Belleville went on to win as Pauline Crawford and Dorothy Curzon defeated Bata's Paula Mitas and M. Cervinka 6-2, 8-6.

Kingston Enters Pro League, Satellite of Boston Bruins

SUDBURY (CP) — The recently - formed Eastern Professional Hockey League became an official six-team league at a six-hour meeting here Wednesday.

Joining the five teams who had entered earlier Sault Ste. Marie, Sudbury, Hull-Ottawa, Montreal and Trois - Rivieres — was the Kingston club.

The league promptly applied to the parent professional organization for acceptance "on a basis equal in status with the Western Hockey League."

Representatives of the six teams concluded working agreements with six of the National Hockey League clubs. The following affiliations were anounced:

Sault Ste. Marie with Chicago Black Hawks, Sudbury with Detroit Red Wings with assistance from Toronto Maple Leafs, Kingston with Boston Bruins, Montreal with Montreal Canadiens and Trois - Rivieres with New York Rangers. Hull-Ottawa entered no formal affiliation agreement.

In other business conducted the league set a player limit of 14 players plus goaltender, three of whom must be rookies whose professional experience is not more than 20 games.

Opening dates were set at Sault Ste. Marie Thursday, Oct. 8; Kingston Saturday, Oct. 10; Trois - Rivieres, Montreal and Hull-Ottawa Sunday, Oct. 11; and Sudbury Monday, Oct. 12.

During the meeting interim chairman Clarence Campbell, NHL president, outlined the new pro clubs' responsibilities and obligations under the professional-amateur agreement in force, the position of the individual clubs as to insurance protection and related internal arrangements.

Exact dates for a series of exhibition games in late September and the first week in October remain to be settled. Toronto, Chicago and Detroit all plan to barnstorm through Northern Ontario.

Campbell explained the difference between professional and senior amateur hockey and expressed confidence the league would be a success.

"Contrary to popular opinion, the pros are not mad at the amateurs," he said. "But this is the best opportunity for these teams to operate on a sound basis."

Four of the teams in the league were Senior A clubs last season. The Soo and Sudbury were members of the Ontario Hockey Association - Northern OHA series while Kingston and Hull-Ottawa were in the OHA Eastern division. Montreal and Trois-Rivieres played in the Quebec Hockey League.

Fear of Violence Injected In Heavyweight Fight Probe

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—The fear of violence has been injected into the district attorney's probe of the unsavory circumstances surrounding the promotion of the Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight championship fight last June.

When Bill Rosensohn, promoter of the bout and until last Monday president of Rosensohn Enterprises, Inc., left Frank Hogan's office Wednesday after answering a subpoena he was accompanied by a detective he admitted was a bodyguard.

He did not say whether he had asked for protection or whether it was volunteered by the authorities. Hogan's office declined to comment.

This note hinting of sinister influences at work came during a day which saw both Rosensohn and his erstwhile partner in the enterprises, Vincent Velella, answering subpoenas from the district attorney's office. There also was the announcement by the New York State Athletic Commission that it was starting a full-scale investigation.

SET SECOND APPEARANCE

Velella's attorney, Raphael Koenig, said his client had been subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury Friday morning. Rosensohn said he tentatively was scheduled to return to the district attorney's office under subpoena Aug. 28.

Velella, whose falling out with Rosensohn precipitated the investigations, and Rosensohn appeared separately before Assistant District Attorney John Bonomi, who is conducting the probe.

He took a verbal potshot at Rosensohn when newspaper men asked him what was wrong with Rosensohn:

"He quit because he can't take orders," Velella said. "He's just a boy trying to do a man's job. He's made some wild statements that can't be documented."

Rosensohn, when asked if "the underworld boys are in the picture," replied he did not know, but said he signed away his rights in the promotion because he had to.

In Goteborg, Sweden, Johansson's advisor, Edwin Ahlquist, welcomed the news of the investigations, and also the information that Johansson's purse for the June fight in which he knocked out Patterson in the third round had been released by a New York court.

The purse had been held up by an attachment filed by Eddie Machen and the Chicago Stadium Corp. In their suit for $1,229.375 damages against Johansson, Patterson and others, Machen contends he was promised a rematch with Johansson before the Swede met Patterson for the title.

Elroy Face Says He Is Only Human

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Little Elroy Face, whose relief record was inhuman the first half of the season, said Wednesday he slumped along with the Pittsburgh team "because I'm human, just like all pitchers."

Face insisted he's been pitching the last two weeks exactly as he has all season, but bloop hits and infield rollers were hurting him.

"The whole team was in a slump and I went with them," Face said.

In his last 10 1-3 innings, Face was rapped for nine earned runs and 14 hits. He didn't lose any, and saved only one game.

Face still has the best pitching record in the majors this season, with a 14-0 won - lost mark and a stingy 1.96 earned run average.

In his first 58 2-3 innings, Elroy was touched for just six earned runs, giving him an unbelievable 0.92 earned run mark at that point. He has won 19 straight during the last two seasons.

BUY FIELDER

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Cubs Wednesday bought outfielder Billy Williams, 21, from Fort Worth of the American Association. The Cubs must release one player today to make room for Williams, who batted .319 at San Antonio of the Texas League before his recall to Fort Worth last Friday.

Durelle, Moore Fight Aug. 12, Arch Favored

By JOHN YORSTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—The Archie Moore-Yvon Durelle light-heavyweight title fight looks as though it will finally go on after two postponements. But neither side thinks it will go the 15-rounds limit.

Both fighters, the worst of the training over, have started tapering down to the 175-pound limit. Both say they weigh in the neighborhood of 178.

"The fight will never see round 10 this time," said Durelle's manager Chris Shaban, "but Yvon will have to be stiff to stop."

"It could end anytime. It'll be that type of fight," said Jack (Doc) Kearns, Moore's manager.

Moore is defending his title for the eighth time since winning it from Joey Maxim in 1952.

ODDS FAVOR MOORE

Early odds favor Moore 3-1. Shaban termed them "fair."

The battle goes on Aug. 12 in Montreal Forum. So far ticket sales have totalled $85,000 — a sellout would be $277,000. On the two postponements, only $2,300 was reclaimed by ticket holders and some people predict a sellout.

Originally scheduled for July 15, the fight was put off to July 29 when Moore injured a heel. Then it was postponed another two weeks when his wife Joan underwent an operation in San Diego, Calif.

Both fighters said the setbacks did not affect their training. In fact there were mutterings that the first was an excuse to give Moore more time to make the weight limit.

One little cloud still sits on the horizon. Both boxers want six ounce gloves. They used eights last December as required by Montreal Athletic Commission rules.

They argue that the commission is affiliated with the National Boxing Association of the United States which approves of six ounces for title fights. That means, they say, that the gloves should be used here.

The matter will come before the commission Friday.

Canada Has Strong Team for Pan-American

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—The largest and strongest athletic team ever assembled by Canada for a major international amateur meet will represent this country at the Pan-American Games at Chicago Aug. 27 to Sept. 7.

The 69 British Columbia members of the 206-member team are highly rated.

Team general manager Bob Osborne of Vancouver, often critical of amateur sports standards in Canada and of an alleged indifferent attitude by the Canadian public, said Wednesday in an interview:

"It's the best team Canada has ever assembled. We should be a threat in every event we've entered and a power in three or four. In over-all team standings I doubt we'll finish lower than third, second would be a good mark.

"I fully expect B.C. athletes alone will win more medals at Chicago than the entire Canadian team won at the British Empire Games at Cardiff, Wales, last summer."

On the Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP)—New weekday records for attendance and wagering were established as W. R. Beasley's colt Hidden Treasure won the $5,000 Summer Stakes at Fort Erie Wednesday.

The crowd of 9,006 eclipsed the previous mark of 8,661 established Aug. 1, 1956. Wagering was $483,780. The former weekday wagering record of $477,145 also was recorded Aug. 1, 1956.

Hidden Treasure and jockey Charlie Clark came to the end of the 5½ furlongs of the summer stakes 2¼ lengths before Windy Ship, with Men at Play third.

The time was 1:05 1-5 and the net prize $3,600.

Producer Says Religious Programs Not Dull Any More

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — The experiences of Doris Ann, one of the few women producers in network television, demonstrates her remark that "nobody can call TV religious programs dull any more.

As supervisor of all NBC-TV religious programs—Frontiers of Faith, The Eternal Light and The Catholic Hour — Miss Ann says she has the co-operation of all religious faiths in presenting professional shows that deal with contemporary human problems.

But, like all TV shows, religious programs can also have their very human problems.

There was, for example, the Sal Mineo and several young actors, were made up to look like toughs for a taped Frontiers of Faith program dealing with juvenile delinquency.

NOT ALLOWED BACK

They went out to eat after rehearsal and hadn't come back as showtime approached. Finally someone dashed out frantically in search of them. The "juvenile delinquents" had been prevented from entering NBC elevators by elevator operators.

But human problems are minor compared to some of the zoological problems confronted on Frontiers of Faith. Like many another TV show, it has had its share of troubles with flies.

Miss Ann insists, however, that the flies which sometimes have flown into Frontiers of Faith studios are the most brazen in existence. On one show, as the camera moved in for a closeup of an open Bible, a fly alighted on it and strolled about the page.

MICE SLEPT

There was, too, the case of the lazy white mice in The Story of Louis Pasteur. The script required them to race madly on a treadmill. But someone fed them too much before the program and they fell asleep and refused to stir.

On the other hand, there was the case of the boa constrictor who refused to be lazy during the telecast of The Story of Adam and Eve. The non - poisonous snake was supposed to lie torpidly in a sand box. But he wouldn't — and so a hand kept reaching out and pulling him back.

Such things happen frequently on all types of TV shows. Miss Ann merely happens to be more candid about a producer's woes.

Thanks in a large measure to her efforts, religious programs have become as professional as any commercial shows.

"Nobody can call religious shows amateur any more," she says. "They use the same writers, actors and technicians you get on high budget commerial programs."

Harness Racing

OTTAWA (CP)—Foxy Frisco, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., entry driven by Ivan Farr, won the fifth race at Connaught Park Wednesday night with a time of 2:18 3-5 for the mild D pace.

Lee Mac from Penetang was second.

An Elmira pacer, Merry Brook, won the ninth, a D pace, with Farr again holding the reins. Merry Brook's time was exactly the same as Farr's first winner of the evening.

TORONTO (CP) — Old Woodbine Park fans saw one of Ontario's great trotters Wednesday night, a three - year - old filly named Dalyce Blue who wins just about as she pleases.

The $2,440 Metro Trot was no exception in spite of a sudden rainstorm that turned the track heavy. Dalyce Blue, owned and driven by Dr. J. S. Findley of Arnprior, won her fourth race in six starts by nearly five lengths over Owen Lee, owned by Peter Thibaudeau of Markdale and driven by Allan Walker.

Baron Hal, owned by Howard Latimer of Turnerville, won the first and Lexie Herbert, owned by J. R. Lampman of St. Catharines and driven by George Gilmour, won the second for a double of $112.10.

HERCULES INSPIRATION FOR MODERN OLYMPICS

It was fifteen hundred years after the ancient festivals of Olympia had concluded that the first Olympic games took place at Athens in 1896, a modern revival which was stimulated by the ancient Greek ideals which legend has it were fostered by Hercules.

Today we believe in "a sound mind in a sound body", and nations throughout the world send their best athletes to compete in contests which include many of the ancient games — running, leaping wrestling and the like.

An archery contest and the hurling of the discus are shown in the spectacular new film, "Hercules", now held over at the air-conditioned 20th Century Theatres, Park Belleville and Century Trenton, in which Steve Reeves, whose outstanding physique won him the title of Mr. Universe, portrays this superhuman legendary hero.

The fabulous adventures of Hercules and the excitement of the era in which he lived are highlighted in this new film, directed by the noted Pietro Francisco, who recreated "Attila" in that notable motion picture success. Among the thrilling exploits which are shown are the strangling of the Nemean lion; the killing of the Cretan bull; the fabulous voyage to the wild island of Colchis in search of the Golden Fleece; the visit to the island of the beautiful but deadly Amazons; and the crumbling of the Temple of Jolco.

Co-starring with Reeves is Sylva Koscina as the lovely "Iole"., for whose love Hercules performs some of his most daring exploits. Gianna Maria Canale is featured as Queen of the Amazons.

"Hercules" is a Joseph E. Levine presentation, in wide-screen Dyaliscope and in Eastman Color by Pathe. A Three Stooge comedy and a Walt Disney cartoon completes the bill.

'The Drunkard,' 26-Year-Old Melodrama, Staggers to Stop

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Drunkard may stagger to a stop earlier than expected.

The long-run champ (26 years) is likely to fold by the end of the month instead of Oct. 2 as announced. The Los Angeles fire department has aimed a coup de grace at the ancient melodrama, demanding removal of 100 seats at the Theatre Mart. That would cut the capacity to 240.

"I don't think we can continue operating on that basis," says Mrs. Mildred Isle, the show's producer . . .

Gregory Peck is going to work for other producers for a while, but he isn't going to give up his own company. He's doing Beloved Infidel and goes to the Greek isles early next year for The Guns of Navarone.

"I have three stories which I may do later for my company," he said. "It's no problem to remain inactive; we have only one employee — a secretary — on the payroll."

Peck produced two films, The Big Country and Pork Chop Hill, and both will wind up in the black. The Big Country didn't do big in the U.S. but Peck said it's a smash in the three biggest foreign markets: England, Japan and Germany. . . .

What happened to Green Mansions? The Audrey Hepburn-Tony Perkins film was one of the disappointments of the season, and Tony admits he was disappointed, too.

"The main reason it went sour was because it was shot on the lot", he said. "You can't get the same quality on Stage 30 that you would get in the jungle. . ."

Thoroughness is what wins Fred Astaire Emmies. He is already at work on his next TV spectacular, which won't hit the home screens until Nov. 4. It's aptly titled Another Evening With Fred Astaire. This week he got permission from 20th Century-Fox for Barrie Chase to dance with him again . . .

AT THE PARK — Italian beauty Sylva Koscina, who co-stars with Steve Reeves in the giant spectacle "Hercules", the exciting picture about his incredible labors and adventures. A Joseph E. Levine presentation in Eastman Color by Pathe and in wide-screen Dyaliscope, now held at the air conditioned 20th Century Theatres, Park, Belleville and Century, Trenton.

CANADIAN STEEL

were operating at 83.5 per cent of rated capacity last week.

The reason may lie in the heavy stockpiling the U.S. strike was anticipated a long time ago. Also there may be local reasons, such as the shutting down of a blast furnace for relining at the Steel Company of Canada until mid-September.

There has been no sign of Canadian mills taking advantage of the strike by getting U.S. orders for steel. Federal government officials said Canadian mills likely will try to look after their own customers.

Officials of the four big steelmakers say they have received no U.S. orders. The companies are Stelco and Dominion Foundries and Steel Limited, both at Hamilton; Algoma Steel Corporation at Sault Ste. Marie, and Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation at Sydney, N.S.

A spokesman of the Canadian Construction Association reported that strike effects are starting to be felt by builders who hadn't planned ahead and built up supplies.

But virtually all large firms surveyed appeared to have prepared well for the situation.

John D. Butler, purchasing agent for Standard Structural Steel Company at Montreal, said the firm has enough steel until next February.

In Ottawa, federal officials said it is impossible to estimate how many projects were postponed because of the strike. But they said a lot of firms probably put off new construction work until next year when talk began that the strike was likely.

There appears little chance of immediate supplies from other countries.

Some concern was felt early in the strike that Canadian mills might run into shortages of iron ore this winter. But federal officials said the situation appears improved. Three ore boats, headed for the U.S. early in the strike, were diverted to Stelco at Hamilton.

SAYS SEAT

blasts from a hunting horn were heard.

Mrs. Coulthard identified the horn-blower as Baker's son, David, 18. She left her seat and went over to ask him to stop.

Baker also left his seat and according to Mrs. Coulthard, prevented me from returning to my seat." There are a lot of seats involved here.

"Mr. Baker," Mrs. Coulthard said, "told his son to carry on blowing. He put his hands behind and gripped hold of my skirt. Then he nipped me.

"I was embarrassed and annoyed. 'Well,' I said, 'two can play at that game.' — and I nipped him back. . . ."

Summing up, Judge Briant said:

"Mrs Coulthard did not suffer any serious injury. But she was struck in public and into the lap of a man, a very undignified position to find herself in."

Mrs. Coulthard said she regarded the decision and the amount of damages, as fair.

"But I am never going to attend another election night results meeting again," she declared.

JUDGE PHILIP WILL

the wire fence surrounding the grounds, until she is permitted to see Brucie, her six-year-old favorite who spent five years at her mission.

W. H. Bury, Ontario director of child welfare, said that visiting privileges were being extended to parents but not to "Mom Whyte or any one of Mom's group."

At least seven parents saw their children Wednesday for the first time since they were taken out of Whytehaven. Appointments for interviews with department officials necessary before permission to visit is given have been made by another 25.

Rev. James Spiers, a Winnipeg evangelist and one of Mrs Whyte's supporters, said a habeas corpus writ will be sought to free one of the children.

"This will be a test case to see if we can gain custody of the child," he said.

HORDES OF FLIES

Mr. Bury, describing conditions at Whytehaven, said he had been told by Dr. Gordon Brown, deputy provincial health minister, that "in all his war experiences in Asia he never saw such a horde of flies in any place."

Mrs. Isobel Sankey, social worker with the Children's Aid Society, said at a press conference that Mom Whyte had "made it easy for parents to not face up to their responsibilities."

"Any one could walk in and leave their youngsters there," she said. "The great tragedy of this whole affair is that many of the parents of these children may never be found."

Mrs. Sankey said she was most concerned with the emotional neglect of the children who had been at Whytehaven.

"They were unstimulated—left to lie. Every woman is mummy to them now. They cling to us all . . . they are just craving affection."

New Cars Will Be Smaller But Luxury Will Be Theirs

By BEN PHLEGAR

DETROIT (AP) — The Spectacular Sixties take over from the Fabulous Fifties in the automobile industry this month.

Within 30 days the last of the 1959 models will roll from the assembly lines. And the transition already is under way with a few 1960 models completed.

What will the new decade bring? Some of the new developments are certainties, such as cars and aluminum engines. Some are still in the dream stage, but will be commonplace by the time 1969 models are in the showrooms.

Consider for a moment some of the changes during the 10 years now ending.

Cars grew heavier, wider, longer, lower and almost twice as expensive.

The 1950 models included Hudson, Nash, Packard, Kaiser Frazer and Willys—all missing from the 1960 passenger list.

The new 1950 model Fords, Plymouths and Chevrolets averaged 3,100 pound. In 10 year they gained about 400 pound. They were 195 inches from bumper to bumper and they grew about 14 inches. They were 75 inches wide and now are 78. They were 65 inches high and now they run about 56½.

One wholly new car line—the Edsel—was introduced during the 50s. The lineup for the opening year of the 60s already shows four new ones — the Chevrolet Corvair, the Ford Falcon, the Chrysler Valiant and the Dodge Dart.

Ford has another small car in the works for about 1961 and Buick - Oldsmobile - Pontiac will offer another compact car, or possibly three separate cars, around the same time.

The late 50s brought the word "compact" into Detroit auto circles, chiefly through the herculean efforts of George Romney. Romney converted the shaky American Motors merger of Hudson and Nash into one of the hottest properties in the business by convincing the public the Rambler and its smaller brother, the American, were far preferable to what he called the gas hungry dinosaurs of the big three companies.

Studebaker - Packard switched to the smaller size with its 1959 models and almost immediately converted mountainous losses into tidy profits.

The 60s being the new compact cars of the big three and most observers feel Detroit never again will put into quantity production a "bigger" car. New body shells of the major lines will shrink gradually.

But luxury will not disappear, because to the automakers smaller size is not synonymous with economy or bare utility. The Cadillac may shrink an inch or two in length and width but it will still be a luxury car.

Chevrolet's Corvair will be North America's first rear-engine car and the engine will be made of aluminum. Nobody knows now whether other makes will switch the engine location during the 10 years to come, but the switch to aluminum engines is almost positive.

The Buick - Olds - Pontiac smaller car is trying a radically new and smaller V-8 engine of aluminum. Chrysler may have a new aluminum power plant ready by this time next year and Ford, too, is well along with pilot designs.

INNOVATIONS

The 50s brought power steering, power brakes, power windows, power seats, air conditioning, 14-inch wheels, automatic headlight dimmers, wrap-asound windshields, dual headlights, swivel seats, fuel injection and air suspension among many other developments. In the 10 years the U.S. industry built almost 58,000,000 cars.

The 60s will bring electric cars for city and suburban driving, 13-inch wheels, radically new truck designs and a host of improvements on existing features.

MOUNTAIN CLIMBERS

MILAN (AP) — An Italian expedition today reported it had topped 25,817 - foot Kanjut Sar peak in the Himalayas. In a telegram from Gilgit, in northern Pakistan, it told the Milan newspaper Corriere Della Sera one man, Camillo Pellissier, reached the summit July 19.

QUEEN IS EXPECTING HER THIRD CHILD

Fire, Explosion Wrecks Big Area Of Oregon City

At Least Eight Killed, More Than 30 Injured

ROSEBURG, Ore. (AP)—Fire and explosion wracked a wide area at the centre of this Oregon city of 12,200 early today and at least eight persons were known to have been killed.

The city's two hospitals said they had at least 30 injured and more were coming in. Some were badly hurt.

A dynamite truck, parked three blocks from the centre of the business district, exploded at 1:20 a.m., spreading damage over a 12-block area of small stores, warehouses, residences and small apartments.

The Umpqua Hotel, a six-storey brick structure, was evacuated. It had held 65 guests and employees.

Dick Smith, the hotel manager, said the blast blew out windows in his own house more than two miles from the scene. Downtown streets were a mass of rubble and broken glass.

DRIVE AWAY

The blast from the truck came moments after the fire siren had sounded an alarm for a blaze at the Gerretsen Building supply company building. The truck was parked just outside it while the driver, George Rutherford, was at the Umpqua Hotel, three blocks away, for coffee.

He said from a hospital bed that he was walking back when the great blast came. It knocked him flat.

First of the dead to be identified was the assistant fire chief, Roy McFarland.

Mrs. Bill Unrath, wife of a volunteer fireman, said she saw her husband walk into the burning Gerretson Building just before the explosion. The force of the blast knocked her down.

At the Unrath home, a block away, their daughter, Mary Elise, and two guests were unable to get down shattered stairs and escaped by a second-storey window. They were admitted to hospital with undetermined injuries.

OTHER BLASTS OCCUR

There were numerous blasts from widely separated points as flames reached small stores of explosive material.

Roseburg, 185 miles south of Portland, is at the heart of the Douglas fir lumber industry. Lumber and building supplies occupied several buildings in the stricken area.

The National Guard was called out to prevent looting.

FOUR STATELESS SLAVS SEEKING CANADIAN HOMES

Ordered to Leave But Enter Appeal

MONTREAL (CP)—Ask them questions and the four stowaways answer as if they were filling out a form.

They answer tersely and routinely like people long used to questions, forms, papers and the many complexities of having nothing.

Officially they come from nowhere. Once they were from Yugoslavia. They are afraid they may be sent back there.

"Akrap, Mate," the husky man with the short-cropped hair and the clipped mustache introduces himself. "I am 29 years old. I crossed the border to Italy June 12, 1957."

"Stanic, Mileva," says the thick set pregnant woman with green eyes that are never far from tears. "I am 29 years old. I crossed the border to Italy Oct. 20, 1958."

And this is how it goes also with Pujic, Ivo, 22, Aug. 30, 1956 and Svraka, Slavko, 31, July 10, 1958.

HAVE NO PAPERS

They cite statistics as if precision of memory proves something as well as would the papers which they do not have.

The four arrived in Canada Tuesday on the Danish freighter Olav Bjark, which tried for five months to land them in countries that did not want them.

They have been ordered to leave Canada Saturday when the Olav Bnark sails for Rotterdam.

A special inquiry Thursday turned down their application for admission to Canada, but they have appealed and an appeals board is considering the case. The inquiry was bound to consider only the law, and it found five reasons for deporting the stowaways.

Appeals can go all the way to Immigration Minister Ellen Fairclough and ultimately to Parliament.

HID AWAY IN PAIRS

Pujic and Miss Stanic stowed away together at Le Havre, France. So did Akrap and Svraka. At the time, neither pair knew the other was abard.

"We are not adventurers, we are not drifters," Akrap pleaded. "We want work. Svraka and I, we are trained mechanics."

The immigration departmenot said there is no record of what the stowaways did in Yugoslavia, or why they fled, or what kind of citizens they were.

"We know nothing about them," an official said.

"We know nobody". Slavko Svraka said. "Who knows us? Who wants us?"

MARITAL GROUP

LONDON (AP) — Divorcees Anonymous, an organization to aid victims of broken marriages, was unveiled here today. A Church of England publication, The Church Times, said the group was set up within the church to offer solace to marriage partners involved in divorce actions. The full name of the new group is The Company of Compassion.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Showers and thunderstorms occurring over Northern Ontario and Michigan this morning will spread across southern regions today. A high pressure area will bring clearing to the northern regions by Saturday morning.

Accidentally Shot

PORT DOVER (CP) — Elmer Linton, 18, is in "fair" condition after accidentally shooting himself in the stomach with a .22-calibre rifle early Thursday while hunting.

The youth managed to walk a half-mile to his home.

Hawaiian Island Twister Piles Roads With Debris, Unroofs Homes

HONOLULU (AP) — Hurricane Dot struck the island of Kauai Thursday night with destructive fury.

Winds of 75 miles an hour swept north across the Hawaiian chain's northernmost island and unroofed homes, uprooted trees, knocked down power and telephone lines.

The storm piled roadways with debris and blocked many of them. Huge waves pounded the shoreline. Torrential rains swelled rivers and streams.

Civil defence officials said the storm raked the entire island, fourth largest in the Hawaiian archipelago.

Kauai, with its 28,000 rtsidents, was the only island to feel the main force of hurricane Dot, which in the last two days had dealt only glancing blows at the rest of the chain.

Officials feared a water shortage might develop in Lihue, the island's principal town with a population of some 5,000.

Radio station KPOH at Lihue was knocked off the air and officials asked Honolulu stations to broadcast emergency information on the storm situation to Kauai's population.

The weather bureau said visibility was zero. It reported that 4.12 inches of rain fell in the six hours just before the storm hit Kauai and that heavy downpours followed.

Damage on the island of Oahu, site of Honolulu, was scattered but moderate.

Some 700 persons on Kauai were evacuated inland. Five hundred were moved from homes along the coast and 200 from the Coco Palms Hotel on the beach.

No casualties were reported on Kauai but at least half a dozen small communities along the eastern and southeastern coasts took a bad beating. They were without power and telephone service, threatened by water shortage and with many homes damaged.

New Rocket Blazes Aloft At Canaveral

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) A Thor-Able rocket blazed aloft today carrying a 142-pound "paddlewheel" satellite that could open a new era of more advanced space research vehicles.

The satellite, to be called Explorer VI if it orbits the earth, contained a flying laboratory to investigate many mysteries of space.

The three - stage rocket was aimed at a highly elliptical orbit that would take it as far as 23,000 miles into space and as close as 160 miles to the earth.

Because of this eccentric course, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said it would be four or five hours before it could be determined whether the satellite achieved orbit.

Fifteen major experiments were crammed into the spheroid-shaped satellite which is 26 inches in diameter and 29 inches long. Its main mission was to study the radiation belts that surround the earth. Knowledge of this potentially deadly radiation is a key to manned space travel.

Will Probe Toronto Fire

TORONTO (CP) — A fire which caused $15,000 damage in a central Toronto rooming house early today is being investigated by the arson squad.

District Fire Chief Howard Willett described the blaze in the three-storey house as "the worst dwelling house fire I've seen in years." He said its 10 occupants "were lucky to escape with their lives."

Searchers Name Lake for Boy Who Survived 4 Days in Bush

WAWA (CP)—A seven-year-old boy came home alive and well Thursday after four days alone in the wilderness and a lake in the No Name Lake area got a name.

Searchers have dubbed the place, 120 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie, where they found Michael Vanreek 96 hours after he had wandered away from his mother's nearby summer cottage, Vanreek Lake.

Nearly 400 volunteers searched, guided by such clues as a toy cap pistol and cowboy boot marks.

A group led by Leslie Vicken and Garry Turcotte heard a "squeaky" sound Thursday behind a ridge in the heavy bush country 13 miles from here. They investigated and found the lightly-clad, fly-bitten boy clutching a cap pistol and minus one shoe.

The boy was flown out by a lands and forests department helicopter, taken to hospital for a check-up, and returned to his widowed mother.

Propped up in bed and drinking sugar and water, Michael Thursday night told his grandmother, Mrs. Kate Smith:

"You know nanny, I hope you won't be mad. For three nights I didn't say my prayers. But last night I prayed and asked God to keep me safe during the night."

"It was a miracle," said Mrs. Smith. "I never stopped praying both for Michael and for my daughter, who lost her husband earlier this spring."

Michael had disappeared Sunday wearing two cowboy cap pistols. He said he wanted to go for a walk and couldn't find his way back.

He told provincial constable Grant Hill:

"Every time I felt afraid I shot my gun and I felt better."

During the five days the boy lost one of his guns and one of his boots. Searchers found the gun early Thursday and it led them toward the lake.

"Michael said he had nothing to eat," said Mrs. Smith. "There were no berries in the bush where he was lost. One night he slept in an old cabin and for three nights he slept outdoors."

"One night he said he clung to a tree and fell asleep clinging to it.

"It seems he spent most of the days just throwing sticks into the water and watching them float away. He didn't see any bears or moose but he said there were lots of birds and chipmunks," Mrs. Smith said.

News of Coming Royal Baby Sweeps Over Scottish Glens

BALMORAL, Scotland (Reuters)—News of Britain's expected new royal baby swept the Scottish glens like a heather fire.

The announcement came this afternoon shortly after the Queen arrived to spend a vacation in her big turreted castle at this tiny mountain village.

The news was announced over the radio a few hours after the Queen, Prince Philip and the two royal children arrived by train from London.

Scottish housewives rushed from door to door through the village to spread the word. News also quickly reached the many vacationers crowding into the little hamlets along the River Dee and its mountain streams.

Though they had no hint then of the bigger celebrations to come more than 2,000 people turned out at the railroad station at nearby Balleter to greet the Royal Family when they arrived after travelling overnight from London.

RAISE A CHEER

The crowd raised a cheer as the royal couple appeared. The pipe band of a highland regiment paraded for them.

The Queen formally welcomed on the station platform at Balater by Sir Ian Forbes-Leith, lord lieutenant of Aberdeenshire, said she was looking forward to her vacation.

She then inspected the guard of honor drawn up in the square outside, watched by the Duke and the two royal children.

Ten - year - old Prince Charles wore a kilt.

August holidays at Balmoral have been a tradition of many years standing in the Royal Family. The family generally lives quietly in the big grey stone castle nestling in a mountain valley.

They customarily picnic on the heather-clad hills aroud the estate and often do a little shooting and fishing. Horseback riding has also been a prominent feature of royal holidays here.

Local residents, accustomed over the years to the presence of the Royal Family in their midst, generally preserve their privacy.

But on Sundays, when the visitors often attend services at a tiny stone church just across the highway from the castle, the cottages flock in for a look.

Drowned Trying To Recover Fishing Lures

PORT SEVERN (CP) — John Alexander Woodside, 31, of Toronto was drowned Thursday in Six Mile Lake, seven miles north of here, while skin diving in an attempt to recover some lost fishing lures. His empty boat was found about 30 miles after he left his father's cottage to go to the lake.

MOM WHYTE ENDS CAMPING VIGIL, RETURNS HOME

Hearing to Open In Port Hope Wed.

TORONTO (CP)—Mom Whyte packed up her camping equipment early today, ended her vigil in front of a children's home and headed back to Whytehaven Mission in Bowmanville.

Mom—Mrs. Bertha Whyte, 43—called a halt to her protest watch at Sacred Heart Children's Village around 12:30 a.m.

She had been there three days in a bid to reclaim six-year-old Bruce Wilkins, one of 117 waifs taken from Whytehaven by the Ontario department of health and welfare. The department said the children were not receiving proper care.

Mrs. Whyte was not immediately available for comment.

FATHER'S PROMISE

However, her husband, Bert, said in Bowmanville that Mom went home after Bruce's father promised to take legal action to have the child declared the woman's ward.

Meanwhile, it appeared likely that a hearing into complaints of neglect of 99 of the children from Whytehaven will open Wednesday in Port Hope, 55 miles east of here.

The attorney-general's department Thursday said Judge W. R. Philp of Peterborough, who is to preside, would probably confirm the date today.

Mrs. Whyte moved out with no fanfare. She started her watch in the same manner—suddenly driving up to the village, in suburban Scarborough and dropping a blanket and a few provisions on the ground beside the roadway.

She never did get to see Bruce, a lad she says has been dear to her heart since he was put in her care by the father five years ago after suffering severe burns. Mrs. Whyte wants to adopt the boy.

CAMPAIGN PLANNED

About 50 supporters of Mrs. Whyte attended a meeting Thursday night. Mrs. Whyte told them she will campaign to have Whyehaven reopen and fulfil all government requirements.

Complaints that the mission was overcrowded and lacked proper sanitary equipment prompted the removal of 117 children by the health and welfare department a week ago.

George Tonks, Oshawa architect designing a proposed new mission for Mrs. Whyte, said there is little wrong with Whytehaven's physical plan now. He said it is less of a firetrap than Villa Marie, a Toronto shelter in which some of the youngsters

Hockey Player Killed in Crash

SARNIA (CP)—Joe McCaffrey, 18, of nearby Point Edward, died Thursday from multiple body injuries suffered in a train-car collision at Point Edward earlier in the day.

McCaffrey last year played Junior A hockey with St. Catharines TeePees in the Ontario Hockey Association.

Knew Condition While In Canada But Kept Secret

'Her Majesty, Prince Very Happy About It'

LONDON (CP)—The Queen is expecting her third child early next year, Buckingham Palace announced today.

The announcement, heralding the arrival of the first child of a reigning queen in the last century, was made in the traditional form:

"The Queen will undertake no further public engagements."

Prince Charles, who will be 11 in November, and Princess Anne, 9, were born before the Queen ascended the throne in 1952. No child has been born to a reigning Queen since the reign of Queen Victoria.

Buckingham Palace officials said today that the Queen and Prince Philip "have always been anxious to have more children and are very happy about it."

TOLD DIEFENBAKER

The Queen had informed Prime Minister Diefenbaker privately early in her Canadian tour that it might be necessary to curtail her activities, but insisted on keeping the news secret until her return.

Cmdr. Richard Colville, the palace spokesman, explained that her pregnancy remained "only a probability" until she underwent a complete examination by her doctors this week.

The spokesman said the Queen's doctors reported after her examination this week that the Queen "is in good health" and that she suffered no ill effects from the tour. They were satisfied that her stomach upset in Whitehorse, Y.T., June 19 had nothing to do with her pregnancy.

At that time, a French news agency carried a report that the Queen was pregnant, which was officially denied.

WASN'T TOLD

The palace spokesman said Esmond Butler, the Queen's Canadian assistant press secretary who issued the denial, was at that time "deliberately not informed of the true facts." Butler's statement was issued after consultation with Capt. Derek Steele-Perkins, the Queen's doctor during the tour, who was also deliberately kept in ignorance.

It was explained that the Queen withheld the news because she was determined to complete the tour if at all possible and did not wish to be subjected to pressure to return home early.

The palace spokesman said the Queen will continue to perform her normal duties, apart from public functions.

He said a council of state will probably be set up to deputize for the Queen in a few months, when her confinement nears.

The Queen left Thursday with Prince Philip and her children to take her annual vacation at Balmoral Castle in Scotland and arrived there today.

She was smiling as she boarded the train Thursday and looked far from exhausted despite the rigors of her recent 45-day Canadian tour.

The Queen, and Philip will be unable to make a scheduled tour of Ghana and West Africa in November. Premier Kwame Nkru-

R.C. Archbishop Calls Khrushchev 'Dangerous Man'

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (CP)—The founder of the Communist party in Peru says Soviet Premier Khrushchev's forthcoming visit to the United States "will open the door to complete Communist penetration of Latin America."

Eudocio Ravines, one - time chief delegate to the Comintern from Latin America, told the summer summit meeting of Moral Re-Armament Thursday:

"The day he (Khrushchev) leaves Washington he will be ready to accept an invitation from Fidel Castro to go to Havana. Then suppose the Venezuelan government decides to invite him to Caracas.

"Washington could do nothing about this . . . .

"Khrushchev has no intention or desire to terminate the cold war. If he did he would be out of a job the next day."

Ravines, former professor at the Leninist Institute of Moscow, said he learned that for any real change in the world to be effective it must be based on change in the home and change in the individual.

BOSTON (AP) — Inviting Soviet Premier Khrushchev to the United States "is like opening our frontiers to the enemy in a military war," Richard Cardinal Cushing said Thursday night.

The Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, in a statement in the archdiocesan newspaper The Pilot, called Khrushchev a dangerous man "dedicated to a godless ideology, leading to slavery."

"Whoever thinks that we can influence Khrushchev merely by showing him how our democracy functions and how well off we are has n inceptin f the passionate, hate-filled contempt for our way of living which possesses Khrushchev and company."

Whyte Hearing Is Closed To Public

PETERBOROUGH (CP — Juvenile court Judge W. R. Philp today was to open a preliminary hearing in Port Hope into complaints of neglect of 99 children taken from Whytehaven Mission near Bowmanville.

Judge Philp said in an interview before leaving for Port Hope the hearing will be closed to the public and is only expected to last "a couple of hours."

Aged Kentuckian Tramps 333 Miles To Old-Time Fiddlers Competition

SHELBURNE (CP) — Fiddlers and fans were arriving here by every type of conveyance for tonight's opening of the annual Canadian open old-time fiddlers' contest. But Howard Hardaway planned to be different — he's walking.

The 61-year-old Louisville, Ky., naturalist and writer was scheduled to start out at 7 a.m. this morning to walk 33 miles from Snelgrove to this community 35 miles north of Guelph.

A hiker for many years, Mr. Hardaway got in shape for what he has dubbed the "Queen's Walk" by walking 300 miles north from New Orleans.

He explained his last lap by saying, "I'm hiking 33 miles in honor of your gracious Queen Elizabeth's age."

Mr. Hardaway figures he will arrive soon after the first strains of country music fill the air.

This is his third trip here—the last two years he has walked from Toronto, about 55 miles as the crow flies—and he will again see his Louisville friend and neighbor Sleepy Marlin defend the Canadian novelty fiddling title he has held for six straight years.

Members of Shelburne Kinsmen Club will take turns walking and riding in a car to keep him company.

Hopes are high that last year's record attendance of 7,000 for the two-night fiddling fest at the arena in this village of 1,300 also will be broken.

All entrants are charged a $2 entry which is given to the Ontario Society for Crippled Children. The remainder of the proceeds go to the Rotary Club for charitable purposes.

The winners share $1,925 in prize money and three trophies.

Road Patching In Full Swing Around City

The public works department has been making road and sidewalk alterations and repairs at the Upper Bridge intersection and at Green and Howard streets as a result of the serious flooding which occurred in these areas during the recent heavy rainstorms. This condition is expected to be much improved and the road drainage problem cured by these repairs, states City Engineer Malcolm Turnbull.

Road patching work has been continuing to prepare roads for the street oiling program which is now underway. The latter is almost one-third complete and is expected to be finished by the end of next week.

The sewers crew have been quite busy investigating sewers in the newly-annexed area north of College Street. Apparently some difficulties have been experienced in quite a few house connections.

The first complete cleaning of the Farley Avenue septic tank was completed over the past week. The 30,000 gallon unit services the area east of Herchimer. Ditching work around Farley Avenue and Victoria Avenue will be finished shortly and it is expected that the ditching program involving Sidney Street will be commencing next Monday.

Other normal maintenance work such as street cleaning and painting continues at its normal pace.

ARTHUR BERTRUM LIDDLE

Following a lengthy illness, Arthur Bertrum Liddle, 145 Pinnacle Street, died in Belleville General Hospital on Thursday. He was in his 71st year.

Born at Shannonville, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henry Liddle and had lived in the city for the past 40 years. He was a tailor by trade, having learned the trade with an uncle, S. A. Sine, of Parry Harbor. At one time he operated a tailor shop in Trenton and also in Deseronto before coming to Belleville.

A member of St. Thomas' Church he also belonged to the Loyal Order of Foresters.

He is survived by his wife, the former Marie Gunyon; two sons, Robert Albert of this city, and WO1 Henry Bertrum with the RCAF at Beaverbank, in Nova Scotia, and two daughters, Mrs. Maurice (Dorothy) Sword of Shannonville, and Mrs. Ray (Helen) Worrell of Midland.

Also surviving are two brothers: Everett Liddle of this city, and Archie, Port Huron, Michigan, and one sister, Mrs. Ina Wescott of Shannonville. There are eight grandchildren.

Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

ALBERT V. EMPEY

MADOC — The funeral of Albert V. Empey was held on Wednesday from the MacKenzie Funeral Home, Madoc, to Trinity United Church, where funeral service was conducted by Rev. J. F. Lane, assisted by Mr. J. McMurray.

The profusion of beautiful floral tributes and the church being filled to capacity by the many relatives and friends in attendance testified to the very high esteem in which the deceased was held in the community.

L.O.L. graveside services were under the direction of Lodge No. 517, Eldorado, with service conducted by Thomas Lloyd, master of the lodge, and Percy Blakely as chaplain. Members of the lodge formed a guard of honor at the funeral home, church and cemetery.

Interment took place in Eldorado cemetery.

Bearers were: Bert Hagerman, Albert Nickle, Clifford Blakely, George Palmer, Fred Pack, Lorne Donly.

NICK BAKYTA
(Belleville-Hamilton)

Former resident of this city where he lived for about eight years, Nick Bakyta, died today in St. Joseph's Hospital in Hamilton. He was 68.

A finisher of fine furniture, Mr. Bakyta worked at his trade in Belleville before moving to Hamilton. He is survived by three sons Emil of the U.S.A., and William and Albert, both of Hamilton.

The funeral is being held Saturday morning from the Dwyer Funeral Home at Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Carey Hitch-Hiked Across Europe For Eight Months on $300

Peter Carey, 24, of Belleville, hitch-hiked alone in every country in Europe in eight months on $300. Mrs. Carey, 22, speaks six languages, five of them fluently.

"I wanted to see the countries," he said, "so I saw them. If you really want to do something, you can do it.

"Norway is the easiest country to hitch-hike in. It's 1,300 miles long and in some places only 30 miles wide. One main road goes right down the middle and it is easy to hitch-hike. Tourists never pick you up; always businessmen or trucks. I ran out of money in Norway, so I took a job for a while. I'm an electronic engineer.

Mrs. Carey, a slim blue-eyed blonde, comes from Malmo, Sweden. She speaks English, French, Swedish, Norwegian, and Danish fluently, and some German.

"English, Swedish and German are taught in Swedish elementary schools," she said, "and in secondary school you have a choice and learn more, perhaps French and Spanish.

"But I learned mine chiefly by going to other countries and working there, if you're ambitious enough to learn them. Lots of Swedish girls do this. It's only about an hour by boat to Denmark. I often went there on weekends.

"Many Danes come to Sweden to buy things and many Swedes go to Denmark to drink. The Danes go to Sweden to buy coffee, sugar, silverware and glassware, because they can get them cheaper. There is no duty and no passports required between the Scandinavian countries — Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Finland — because they are small and want to encourage international trade.

BROADER LIQUOR LAWS

Why do the Swedes go to Denmark to drink?

"For the same reason that Ontario people go to Quebec. The liquor laws are broader. The Swedes are heavy drinkers. The farmers use potatoes, hay and berries to distill drinks called snaps and brannin, which are 90 per cent concentrated spirits, like vodka. They got drunk very often, too often.

'Then along came King Gustav Wasa V, who enforced laws forbidding home-made liquor; in special stores, and other re- and that it could only be bought gulations, This was about 1500. Ever since then, although laws have meanwhile become less strict, Swedes have gone to Denmark to drink.

young people generally, Mrs.

Concerning Swedish girls and Carey comments, "they use less make-up; they are much more natural and healthy than Canadians and Americans. They play more games, more gymnastics, more track and field sports, every day after school, than the young people do here in Canada. They don't have cars or movies or stand around on corners. They get together and play games. My grandfather, who is 75, can still dance strenuous Russian dances.

While working in England, Mrs. (Elizabeth) Carey met Mr. Carey. They were married and toured a good deal of Europe together before coming to Belleville.

Why come to Canada? "England is small," said Mr. Carey, "and Sweden is quite near. We wanted to get away from all connections and establish ourselves — I as an engineer and Elizabeth as a wife. We might have gone to Australia, but Canada was not so far.

"And we thought it would be more cultured," Mrs. Carey interjected.

Between them they have designed and built a new three-bedroom house at 20 Northwood Crescent, and are moving in this week.

Authority Will Raise Value of Pond Grants

The Moira River Conservation Authority has decided to raise the value of its farm pond grants. Now, by building his pond to the specifications of the Authority, a farmer may receive 50 per cent of the cost of labor and materials put into the pond, the maximum amount of grant varying with the size of the pond.

A spring fed pond or a stream fed pond with a maximum capacity of 75,000 gallons (75 feet by 60 feet and six feet deep in the deepest part) may receive a grant of 50 per cent of the cost up to a maximum of $100.

At the other end of the scale a pond with a minimum capacity of 750,000 gallons (170 by 200 feet and six feet in the deepest part) may apply for a grant of 50 per cent of the cost of construction to a maximum of $300. Previously the maximum grant was $50.

FREE ADVICE GIVEN

The Authority will also provide free engineering advice and will help any prospective pond-builder to decide the best location and layout of the pond.

The Soil and Water Advisory Board under the chairmanship of B. J. Hunt passed the revisions to the farm pond grant system on July 27th. This Advisory Board, realizing that ponds are a definite value in a community, wishes to encourage pond construction within the Moira watershed.

The greatest value of a pond is realized by the owner. A pond will serve as a source of water for livestock, irrigation or fire protection. It will be an area of recreation (swimming, fishing, skating) and may become the beauty spot of the farm. A number of ponds in one area tends to stabilize the ground water level, to improve the stream flow and to reduce the peak flows.

In conjunction with the new grant system the Authority is constructing a demonstration farm pond in the Colonel Vanderwater Conservation Area. This area, two miles east of Thomasburg, will be open to the public next year if sufficient funds for its development are allocated by the Authority in the 1960 budget.

Making farm pond assistance available is only one way in which the Moira River Conservation Authority is attempting to help improve the Moira watershed and make it a better, more prosperous, more healthful place in which to live.

Trenton Council Briefs

TRENTON — Welfare Administrator of Hospitalization in the Town of Trenton was the new title bestowed on Welfare Officer Gordon Davis at last night's Trenton Council meeting. In his report, Mr. Davis said that there were at present 16 families and two single people for whom the town was paying hospitalization benefits as indigents. Two of those persons, a man and a woman were chronically ill in Kingston hospital, and the present cost to taxpayers for those two persons was $225 monthly.

Not that the town has paid $71.40 for the 18 persons for the month of July, this means that from October, these two persons who are chronically ill will also be covered under the government scheme, which will be a great saving. Mayor Burtt thanked Mr. Davis for his report.

In a discussion on housing last night Trenton Councillors decided to contact James Day on the vexed question of whether or not Mrs. Pelkie on Crown St. can or cannot build on her property.

In response to an application from Mrs. Leona Lonigan of Byron Street for permission to build a six-apartment building on her property there, Town Engineer Aldersey said that a double duplex was allowed in that zone. Although there was room for the type of building that Mrs. Lonigan wished to erect, it was doubtful if the zoning regulations would allow this, although Council members agreed that it would certainly benefit the district. Mr. Aldersey said that perhaps the Planning Board might look at the whole picture. Tax payers on Byron Street are getting a built-up road it was announced.

Council members decided to have a letter written to the Minister of Defence in connection with the Armoury site on Sidney Street. The Mayor thought the town should now have the other half, as much use does not seem to be made of the site.

AWARD CONTRACT

It was announced at last night's meeting of Trenton Council that the contract for putting sewers in McGill Street, had been awarded to Albert Defosse Contractor. The sidewalk contract was also awarded to Mr. Defosse. Councillor Vagn Lange enquired why the sidewalk contracts were always let out so late in the year. He said it would be easier to plan work if the contracts were let out say in May or June, instead of in August.

During Councillor Graham's protection to persons and property report the Fire Chief Cecil Ellis's monthly report for the month of July was held. Permission was granted to the Fire Chief to attend the Fire Chief's convention at Windsor, August 15-20, as all Fire Chiefs were expected to attend.

Sanitary sewers are to be installed on Elizabeth Street, it was announced.

MEMBER THANKED

Matter discussed at last night's Trenton Council meeting included a discussion on what should be done with the new disused booth formerly used by the Chamber of Commerce as a tourist information centre. On hearing that it had been offered to council by the Chamber Mayor Burtt said the booth could be brought over and placed on Council property on Myers Street, and be made ready for the next season.

H. M. Smith, who is leaving Trenton, wrote a letter tendering his resignation from the Parks Board, and saying how much he had enjoyed working with the Board. Town Clerk Larry was asked to write a letter back to Mr. Smith thanking him for his services on the Board.

Council members were reminded that the dedication ceremony at the Evergreen Cemetery is to be held on Sunday at 2.30.

It was decided to continue to advertise reminding taxpayers that there were still two more instalments to be paid on taxes for the year.

NOW REGISTERED

Commissioner of Works Eric Aldersey announced at last night's Trenton council meeting that he has now passed the necessary examinations, and is a registered professional engineer and now would like the title "Town Engineer." Council members passed an unanimous resolution that this should be the case and congratulated Mr. Aldersey of his achievement and new title.

TO BUY DEBENTURES

A resolution to purchase the $65,000 of debentures which will be Trenton's share towards paying for the new court house for Hastings county. Town clerk Larry explained that this sum would repay the cost to Trenton over the next ten years.

It was decided to allow Mark Tripp's store in Trenton the use of the municipal coin counter and sorter, providing that a member of the Tripp staff would be sent over to work the machine. $2.00 per hour was the figure for renting the machine. Councillor C. Graham said that this could be tried for a while, to see how it could be worked out.

QUESTION ASKED

The question of the insurance of impounded vehicles was brought up at last night's session of Trenton town council Mayor Burtt wanted to know if they were protected while on town property. It was decided to contact Mickey Walt and find out how the council stood in the matter. After this discussion Town Clerk O. W. Larry read a resolution from the city of Barrie, asking that other municipalities join with them in presenting a petition to the government that all vehicles over four tons should be equipped with brakes capable of two separate means of application. Councillors were of the opinion that if this could be done, that manufacturers would already be doing it.

Street Signs Main Topic At Council

TRENTON — Street signs were much in evidence at last night's Trenton Town Council meeting. A letter from Central Bridge Company asking that suitable signs be erected showing the way to the industrial part of the town, was considered with great interest by council members. Councillor Vagn Lange said that there were six industries located in the East Trenton area. It was suggested that a sign be placed at the top of Gilmour Hill with the names of the industries on it, but Councillor Weese thought that this would make the hill dangerous, as motorists would be so busy looking at the sign that they would not see the traffic.

Mayor Ross Burtt suggested putting a sign "Industrial Area" at the top of the hill, and another sign at the junction of Marmora and West Streets, designating the industries to be found in that area individually, such as Hinde and Dauch, Central Bridge, and so on.

An urgent letter from Doug Whitley asked if "blood must be shed" at the corner of Sidney and Francis Streets before a "Stop" sign was erected there. Town Engineer Eric Aldersey said that the sign had been prepared, and as soon as possible, it would be erected. Mr. Whitley also wanted to know why there were no life preservers at the town dock to prevent the drowning of children or adults who might fall into the water. Mayor Burtt directed Mr. Aldersey to have those preservers which were in use last year to be placed there again. Mr. Whitley also thought that the present guard rail on the sides of the town bridge caused an unnecessary blocking of the view for motorists, and thought it could be replaced by a two - inch pipe. Councillor Weese thought that motorists crossing the bridge shouldn't be able to see anything but the road anyway, and the mayor agreed with him.

A letter from the county engineer of Hastings County said that the proposed Sidney Street subway would not be built before the spring of 1960. He did not know if the railway concerned would be willing to put other rails for traffic, while the traffic passing the Sidney Street crossing was diverted, as the way would have to be closed while construction of the subway was being carried out.

It was agreed that signs should be erected stating "Trenton Via No. 33 Highway", and "Trenton Via Glen Miller Road". Several councillors wanted "Glen Miller Road" changed to read "Sidney Street", but the Mayor pointed out that the road in question was outside the jurisdiction of the council, and that the name Glen Miller Road would have to serve. "Accommodation" and "Fuel" signs will also be erected on the Glen Miller Road.

A note of humor entered the proceedings when the lights in the council chamber began to dim and flicker. The Mayor, thinking that the air conditioner was the cause, asked for it to be unplugged. Someone said that perhaps it would be a good idea to borrow one of the new air conditioners which are being installed by the Board of Education at their boardroom. A member of the Board of Education who was present as a visitor quipped humorously, "We'll exchange our air-conditioner for your salaries", which caused much laughter on all sides. It was later discovered that the flickering of the lights was caused by a panel truck running into a hydro pole on West Street.

Truck Hits Hydro Pole; Power Cut

TRENTON — Power was cut off on Trenton's east side for more than two hours last night, after a pick-up truck, driven by Italo Leone, 145 Marmora St., knocked over a hydro pole on West Street.

Residents of the area described a "blinding blue flash" as the electrical wires were severed by the collision, and lay across the street in all directions.

Hydro linemen and Trenton PUC men were forced to cut off power while the dangerous wires were being replaced.

It is estimated that $300 damage was caused to the truck, which is owned by Mrs. Elisabetta Leone, 145 Marmora Street, when it left the road and hit the pole. No one was hurt in the acicdent.

Cars Damaged In Collision

TRENTON — A car owned and operated by Horace Morin, 46 Dundas St. West, which stopped at the intersection of Harriet and Trenton streets yesterday, when another car, owned and operated by Edward Arsenault made a right hand turn into Harriet Street, causing damage to both cars valued at $59.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market inched ahead today but the moderate morning trading pace was not nearly as brisk as yesterday's.

Buffadison again was the feature as it slipped 10½ cents at 26 cents, on a turnover of 300,000 shares. Thursday it added 23½ cents following reports of a favorable gold showing on its property.

The 11 a.m. volume was 797,000 shares, compared with Thursday's 1,250,000 at the same hour.

Most industrial changes were in small fractions.

Noranda was the strong point in base metals, up ¾ at 55. Steep Rock added ¼ at 13¼. International Nickel was off at 100⅝.

In golds, Kerr-Addison was off ¼ at 20¾ while Dome was down ⅛ at 18⅛. McIntyre added ¼ at 89¼.

Speculative mines gave the exchange a heavy session Thursday. The final volume was 4,126,000 shares, almost double Wednesday's 2,382,000. Buffadison featured the penny mines, rising 23½ cents at 36½ cents following reports of a favorable gold showing on its property. Buffadison traded 1,563,848 shares, the first issue to trade more than 1,500,000 shares in a single session this year.

Among industrials Goodyear Tire dipped 5 points at 195 while Ford A was off 4 at 175. Steel Company of Canada was down ¾ at 86.

Minnesota and Ontario Paper led winners, up 1½ at 34 while Dominion Stores gained 1 at 70.

Noranda, ahead ¾ at 54¼ and Hudson Bay and Quemont, each up ⅜, were strong in base metals.

In western oils Home B slipped ½ at 14½.

Index changes: Industrials off .36 to 551.33; golds up .23 to 89.84; base metals up .73 to 178.28 western oils off .53 to 117.94.

Police Blotter

That it pays for pet owners to renew dog licences when they are due, was learned in city magistrate's court this morning by several owners who were assessed $2. fine and $3.50 costs each.

In addition the owners will be required to go to the city hall and acquire their 1959 dog licences at the cost of a further $2.

A New Brunswick youth, 18-year-old Richard Etherington, was remanded for a week on a housebreaking charge, while a Belleville district woman had a charge of shoplifting dismissed.

A county man, charged with the theft of a pair of boots from a local shoe store, was remanded for two weeks.

And a careless driving charge against Keith Cooney, 12 Moira Street, West, was dismissed by Magistrate T. Y. Wills. Mr. Cooney was charged following an accident at the corner of Victoria and Bleecker on July 5th.

Bowling Notes

The Belleville Lawn Bowling Club will be well represented at the Molly Galt Memorial trophy tournament to be held in Kingston on Saturday. Mrs. Galt, a well beloved bowler of the Kingston Club for many years died some years ago and her husband, Morley Galt, and family sponsored a trophy in her memory. This tournament is always filled and it is understood there is a big waiting list. The local club will send ten mixed doubles rinks to compete for the beautiful prizes that have been donated and secured for this tourney. Those who are making the trip are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Edwards, Ken Bulford and partner, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Watkin, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wright, George McKee and Miss Margaret Fairbairn, Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Smith, Claude D. Tice and Mrs. Grace Clapp, William Lancaster and Miss Winnie Smith. The bowlers are looking for nice weather and are sure that the hospitality will be there before them. This is a tournament eagerly looked forward to by the district rinks. There will be rinks from Ottawa, Perth, Brockville, Cornwall, Peterborough, Kingston, Belleville, Madoc, Havelock, Trenton, Stirling and the Rideau Club of Kingston.

Wally Lavergne and Mrs. Grace Clapp travelled to Madoc on Wednesday and came home with the one-game high score for the day in a mixed doubles tournament. Mr. W. Connor and Mrs. Percy Locke of the host club won the tourney, while Archie Myers and Mrs. Vincent Breman of the Campbellford Club won the two-game high score.

Mark Heitshu, assistant city engineer, may be seen examining the tipping bucket mechanism of the new rain gauge which has been installed at the city works barns. He is holding the funnel attachment which is placed overtop of the measuring device.

The other half of the rain gauge is housed within the building. Here Mr. Heitshu examines the recording device which is activated by the rain gauge. A new chart is placed on the revolving drum every 24 hours and the results are tabulated monthly for the Department of Transport.

Rain and Snow Gauge Acquired By P.W. Dept.

Belleville's Department of Public Works has acquired the latest type of scientific rain and snow gauge and it is now in operation at the Public Works barns on Church Street. The gauge, known as a tipping bucket rain gauge, MSC Type B, is especially made to the specifications of the federal Department of Transport and is capable of measuring rain or snow fall to the one hundredth part of an inch.

The device, which is electrically-operated, consists of two units — an outside measuring unit and an inside recording unit. The exterior unit basically consists of a funnel underneath which there is a two-way tipping platform. Carefully balanced this platform, which is divideded at its centre will tip either way once a quantity of water equal to one-one hundredth of rainfall has been collected. As the platform tips an electronic switch is activated by a swinging magnet, which is attached to the platform, and an electrical impulse is relayed to the interior recording unit, so that the gauge will con- the funnel and tipping device's compartment are electrically heated.

The interior recording device consists of a battery operated unit, so that the guage will continue to operate throughout power stoppages, which contains a chart on a drum and a needle device which fluctuates each time an impulse is received from the measuring unit outside. The drum, which rotates by means of a clockwork mechanism, revolves once every 24 hours and the chart, which will show the amount and time of rainfall is changed every day.

At the end of a month the results are tabulated and forwarded to the Department of Transport in Ottawa. The gauge's initial cost and its upkeep are underwritten by the department which supplies them to areas which the department feels requires them. Mr. Mark Heitshu, assistant city engineer, states that this is the most accurate rain gauge in the area.

MOM WHYTE ENDS

from Whytehaven are staying.

He said Villa Marie is overcrowded with 30 or 40 children, some sleeping two to a cot. Two fire exits are badly marked and locked while there are only two stairways to the upper floors and no outside fire escape, he said.

CHARGE DENIED

W. H. Bury, Ontario director of child welfare, denied Mr. Tonks' statements. He said there are no more than 20 children at Villa Marie, with babies on the second floor and older children on the third.

The building has four street-level exits and is equipped with a fire escape chute for upper floors and an automatic sprinkler system he said.

Judge Philp spent Thursday holding informal court sittings in Port Hope, Oshawa, Brampton and the Toronto institutions at which the Whytehaven youngsters are being cared for.

The hearings were held to identify them as those taken from the mission, making it unnecessary for them to appear at the formal hearings.

A separate hearing is to be held later for four youths taken into custody at Oshawa after they fled the home when health department officials seized the children last Friday night.

Unknown to Mrs. Whyte, Judge Philp and his party slipped in and out of the Sacred Heart village through a side entrance. Mrs. Whyte was camped in front of the building.

REPLIES TO REPORTS

Mrs. Whyte denied reports from welfare department officials that some of the parents of Whytehaven children might never be found.

"The welfare people can't blame me for their troubles," she said. "I told them when they were going up there going through my records that I would take them to each child and go through their case histories with them—but they told me to go peddle my papers."

Mr. Bury said Mrs. Whyte had given the department 100 names and addresses of parents. Of 60 checked, 20 were incorrect.

However, the majority of parents would be located eventually, he said.

Service Station Operators Generally Favor Early Closing

Gasoline service station operators are generally in favor of the early closing by-law which was passed by council last spring.

This is indicated as result of a survey of the 52 service stations in the city which was recently conducted by Mayor Gerald Hyde following reports that a number of operators disapproved of the by-law.

As result of the 52 letters sent out to operators requesting opinions on the early closing by-law, exactly one half, or 26 operators, took the trouble to reply and of these 16 voiced themselves as favoring the by-law.

Ten of the operators replying said they were not in favor of the by-law.

Generally speaking those favoring the by-law said controlled selling hours gave them more free time and employees were much better satisfied with the shorter hours.

On the other hand those opposing the by-law said early closing had greatly reduced their sales volume and at the same time they favored a system under which operators would be able to choose their own hours for remaining open.

On the basis of the replies received as result of the survey, Mayor Hyde said he did not feel there was sufficient interest to recommend any change in the by-law although he noted that the suggestion of one operator for one service station remaining open 24 hours for a week on a rotation basis might have some merit.

QUEEN EXPECTING

mah of Ghana was one of the first persons outside the Royal Family to be notified of the expected baby.

The Queen and Philip were wed on Nov. 20, 1947. Prince Charles the Prince of Wales, was born on Nov. 14, 1948. Princess Anne was born on Aug. 15, 1950.

Rumors that the sovereign was expecting her third child circulated after she was taken ill during her Canadian tour. Members of her entourage denied the rumors on July 22. It was understood they had no knowledge at the time that the Queen was pregnant.

This was confirmed only upon her return to London Sunday.

If a second son is born to Elizabeth, he would be second in line to the throne after Prince Charles, taking precedence over Anne.

PALACE ANNOUNCEMENT

The palace statement said:

"The Queen will undertake no further public engagements.

"Her Majesty deeply regrets the disappointment which her inability to carry out her projected tour in West Africa as arranged this autumn may bring to many of her people in Ghana, Sierra Leone and the Gambia.

"Her Majesty also much regrets that she and the Duke of Edinburgh will be unable to visit Shetland Orkney next week.

"The Queen, who has been seen by her medical advisers since returning from Canada, is stated to be in good health."

The royal birth will be the first to a reigning British sovereign for more than 102 years.

The last was Princess Beatrice, youngest child of Queen Victoria, born in 1857.

WILL STAY AT CASTLE

The Queen plans to stay at Balmoral until mid-September. Nkrumah has been invited to Balmoral next week to discuss postponement of the Royal Tour.

Another statesman who kept the news to himself was Prime Minister Diefenbaker. He was told toward the end of the Queen's Canadian tour about the expected baby.

Diefenbaker suggested revising the gruelling schedule but Elizabeth insisted on going ahead with it.

When the Queen told Diefenbaker of the possible situation, he offered immediately to alter or cut short the tour.

"The Queen, however, insisted that she alone was in a position to decide," said Colville.

"And so Mr. Diefenbaker reiterated that at any moment arrangements could be made for the Queen to return to the United Kingdom."

QUEEN INSISTED

It was learned that Elizabeth herself insisted during her Canadian tour that her condition should not become publicly known until her return to Britain.

One major reason was that physicians were not 100-per-cent sure she was pregnant unless they conducted a complete medical examination.

The sovereign asked that the examination be deferred until her return home.

Her London doctors — Lord Evans, Sir John Weir and John H. Peel — all have stated the Queen is in good health.

It is not yet known where the birth will take place. But the Royal Family plans to spend the Christmas season as usual at Sandringham, their Norfolk home 150 miles northeast of London, and February and March at Buckingham Palace.

Colville told reporters at Buckingham Palace:

"The Queen was determined to avoid the cancellation of the Canadian tour which would have caused disappointment to millions."

He said the Queen was emphatic in insisting while on tour that her condition not be known. "She issued personal instructions to those few people including, of course, the doctor attending her on the tour, Surgeon-Captain Derek Steele - Perkins, that she did not wish her condition to become known."

GAVE REASONS

Colville went on:

"The Queen's reasons for this were because it could not be stated at that time that it was a certainty that the Queen would be having a child, and therefore the doctor could not publicly commit his patient without a proper medical examination, which Her Majesty did not want carried out before her return to the United Kingdom and then by her own doctors in London."

Charles and Anne already have been told the news about "mummy."

Although the Queen has not had a child for nine years, she has kept the cradle and baby carriage used for her two children. They are the same as those the Queen and Princess Margaret used themselves.

Both the Queen's children were born before her accession to the throne in February, 1952, upon the death of King George VI.

Sir William Gilliatt, the royal gynaecologist who delivered both Charles and Anne, died in 1956 at the age of 71.

An advocate of painless childbirth, he was assisted at Anne's birth by Peel, who is expected to be the gynaecologist for the new royal birth.

Weir, who is 79, also was present at Anne's birth.

FOR REJOICING

The birth of Prince Charles was an occasion for rejoicing throughout the Commonwealth. He was born on a rainy Sunday evening in November.

Despite the inclement weather, thousands gathered outside the black-and-gilt iron gates of Buckingham Palace until well after midnight—three hours after the birth—until police asked them to leave.

The first official hint that a new royal birth was pending came earlier in the day from Lord Evans, the Queen's physician, who is an obstetrician.

Before leaving on a European vacation, he said that "the Queen is in good health—I can say no more than that."

The physician said he would be away for five weeks and "then I must get back to a lot of hard work."

SEEK 26,000 JOBS

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—The government started planning jobs Thursday for 26,000 unemployed after scrapping a costly emergency works program it described as a virtual dole. President Romulo Betancourt said an executive commission will be named to find jobs for laborers left idle by ending the emergency program.

The World by The Handlebars

Wearing a "stovepipe" hat, a "handlebar" moustache, sideburns and high collar, Earl C. Thompson of Colborne rode a penny-farthing bicycle, five feet high, in the Brighton centennial parade. This remarkable sight evokes a bygone era and something more important.

The odd fact is that the modern bicycle, a slick engineering job which conveys with very little effort and expense, is bought here in Belleville - - apart from youngsters - - chiefly by transplanted Europeans, and the greatest sales of bicycles to adults are made in Ottawa, also to European-born Canadians.

Cost has little to do with it. While the cost of almost everything else has doubled or trebled, the cost of a bicycle has dropped from $57.50 in 1920 to $39.95 today for some models.

The reason is that Britons and Europeans use their legs. In Britain nearly four million cyclists swarm the roads, the workman to work, the housewife to shop, the college student to classes. At Oxford and Cambridge bicycles are parked five and six deep against lecture-hall walls. On weekends young married couples go for a spin on a tandem, often carrying a sidecar for the baby, sometimes a double one for two babies. Thousands of youths pedal 80 to 120 miles a Sunday, the year round, rain or shine, and consider it merely a "gude dye's ruhn." Cycling clubs rove the country in groups of 20, 30 and 40, all in line, two abreast, and sometimes singing, homeward bound. These people have the world by the handlebars, and they are a boom to the health of the nation.

Hence it is that now, in Edinburgh, the joint Canadian and British Medical Association suggests that wives give their husbands bicycles. It may be a sound suggestion but hardly likely to take root in Canada. In contrast to Oxford, the student of, say, Queen's University does not use a bicycle, although the terrain is ideal. "What!" he would say. "Do you think I'm a child? I drive a car and calculate on a sliderule. I study Poe and advanced economics. I take a girl to the movies, my dear fellow, but not on a bicycle. Emphatically, no." At Varsity and McGill and among Canadian adults generally, the answer would probably be similar.

There are exceptions. Maj.-Gen. Basil Price, a distinguished Canadian soldier of both World Wars, for many years rode to work on a bicycle in Montreal, seven miles a day, and even now, in retirement, says he still uses it "all the time." A couple of men here at The Ontario Intelligencer, Joachim Reimann and Eric Brockhurst, cycle to work every day. But they are definitely exceptions.

Perhaps the most eminent cyclist this side of the Atlantic is Dr. Paul Dudley White, the heart specialist who attends President Eisenhower. He contends that "people do not get enough regular exercise and that cycling may quite possibly help to prevent heart troubles." Dr. White rides a bicycle himself and helped the mayor of Chicago inaugurate safe bicycle paths in 36 parks. This is encouraging.

For perhaps the reluctance to use our legs in much of Canada and the United States is a chief reason why the Don Mills children - - typical of the rest of the country - - made such a poor showing in physical fitness tests; 85 per cent failed the maximum; 55 per cent failed the minimum, against nine per cent failures in the same tests by European children.

The children cannot be blamed. As Stephen Leacock said, "Children are natural mimics and take after their parents in spite of their every effort to teach them good habits."

BRAZILIAN TRADE

A measure of the drive behind Brazil's trade expansion efforts can be seen in the fact that Brazilian wine has broken into the German market. More remarkable still is the expectation that Brazilian footwear (proclaimed to be elegant) can be sold there, too. But for psychological reasons, all adults having once been children and subject to certain internal conditions requiring certain standard remedies, Brazil would do well to stop boasting that it is the world's greatest producer of castor oil. JUST FOLKS

THE LITTLE MIND

By EDGAR A. GUEST

The man who wearies me the most
Is not the one inclined to boast,
Nor is it he of manner loud
Who seeks attention from the crowd;
But it's the man, who, when he reads
Or sees another's kindly deeds,
Says with a sneer and face all smirking,
That for the money he is working.

This fellow has so small a mind
He can't conceive an action kind;
And when a friendly deed is done
Or someone helps another one,

He wonders (It's his form of wit)
Just what he's getting out of it.
The only deeds he understands
Are done by cold and selfish hands.

Some day I'm going to tell this chap
That I don't care a single rap
What motive prompts my neighbor here
To scatter happiness and cheer;
That if he's getting rich on deeds
That serve his fellows' daily needs
I wish him luck, and wish each day
More of us sought our cash that way.

Strictly Personal

Country Life Not All Green

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

By the time these lines appear in print, the Harris menage will be in the country, throwing rocks at the racoons who keep trying to get into the garbage pails.

We will also be waging persistent (and futile) warfare against the rabbits, the badgers, the foxes, the crows, and a hundred assorted insect species who are determined to make life as miserable as possible for homo-not-so-sapiens.

Not that we don't enjoy it, but it's about time somebody destroyed the myth that the country breeds a "reverence for life," while the city is cold and pitiless.

Going to the zoo every week, Michael and Barbara have become intensely pro-animal. They love to pat the donkey and feed the ducks and watch the polar bear splash in his pool. Animals to them are friendly and affectionate creatures, just as they are depicted in story books.

When we get to the country, however, the scales of sentimentalism rapidly drop from their eyes. They learn there are only two kinds of animals: those who can be enslaved to help man, and those who must be routed from our sacred grove.

They find that even the lovely deer must be killed, or else they would multiply too rapidily and create havoc before they withered away from starvation. They must be taught that those cunning furry bears are really the most ferocious marauders in the forest; and that horses, despite some noble qualities, are rather stupid and often treacherous creatures.

"Nature" has always been most celebrated by urban idealists; the country folk live too close to it not to feel the full force of its hostility or indifference. They know they are at the mercy of the soil, the weather, the river level, the blights that attack trees and crops, the viruses that may suddenly devastate a herd of cattle or a flock of sheep.

Man was sent out of Eden and condemned to till the earth by the sweat of his brow. The country dweller knows this hard truth; the urban idealist is still looking for a lost Eden when he makes his annual pilgrimage to the country. This is why he so often cuts a ridiculous figure when he gushes about the pleasant, easy and "natural" life of countryfolk.

The most pleasant part of the rustics' summer is removing wealth from the pockets of the tourists and laughing at their gaucheries behind their well-fed backs.

Cornwall Canal Bathing Halted

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

Because of pollution, health authorities have banned swimming in Cornwall Canal. Scores of swimmers, both young and old, will be affected by the ban which goes into effect immediately. Health officials plan an early meeting with police to arrange for strict enforcement of the ban along the length of the waterway.

The question of how to accommodate those who normally swim in the canal is something authorities should consider at once. In many cases, there are children who cannot go to nearby beaches or other supervised swimming places because of the lack of transportation. Recreation department officials have urged those who have been accustomed to swimming at Silver Bridge to go to St. Lawrence Park, Horovitz Park swimming pool or the various wading pools where small children are able to swim.

This, of course, is easier said than done because of many factors. Small children in particular cannot go far from their homes and many of them were accommodated —at Silver Bridge where a special wading area was marked off for them. Older children, too, undoubtedly would find it quite inconvenient to swim elsewhere than in the canal. But if some sort of transportation system for these displaced swimmers and bathers could be arranged, all would be well.

MULTITUDES OF FINE FOLKS

You have often seen the picture entitled "The Sower." The sky is overcast. In the distance stand a house and a few farm buildings. This man, as if anxious to get his grain in before the rain comes, traverses the field in broad strides casting the seed as he goes.

One reason why this picture has become so popular is because we are all sowers whether we know it or not, whether we like it or not. We go through life sowing something. Some people (God have mercy on them) go through life sowing hatred. They stir up class against class, friend against friend, brother against brother. Nothing seems to please them so much as to be able to create dissention and then enlarge upon it.

But the world is a fit place to live in because the overwhelming majority of its inhabitants prefer to sow love. They want to be at peace with their neighbors. They prefer to praise men rather than to curse them. That person is a rarity indeed who will not go out of his way to do a kind thing for his neighbor. The next time you get discouraged about life in general just remember this irrefutable fact that most of the people in the world sow seeds of good will and like to do it.

The hate mongers are demonic and few in number. The spiteful, the criminally minded are so few that we need only be alert to avoid danger. Trust the wholesome and the well-disposed — multitudes, for they are just that.

Youths Plan To Cross Canada

Industry

Two Montreal youths, after many months of saving, recently set out on a commendable venture — a seven-week, cross country trip. Their aim: to see Canada at first-hand and get to know it better.

They are not the first to do this and they will not be the last, but it is good to know that there are young Canadians with a keen interest in investigating the attractions of their own country before those of any other.

How well do most of us know Canada? Not very well, we fear. In all but a few cases, personal knowledge of Canada is likely to be limited to the province in which we live.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

MEET YOURSELF!

Sometime today I want you to get alone — perhaps with your looking glass. There, let yourself meet yourself — face to face. There ask yourself questions. Time likes to have you look over his work, now and then. No greater artist than Time ever lived. His touches are in essentials wholly.

I once read somewhere that it was a sort of Eternity for a man to have time all to himself. For few of us really ever do live to ourselves alone.

Most of our years are spent in other people's time.

You will decide this is true if you stop to think about it. I have looked into the faces of aging men and women and have said to myself, there is youth, a life but a few years old — the sixty-odd or more years have all been spent in other people's time.

But what is living anyway — otherwise?

To give, to work, to love, to serve — in other people's time! So mind not the oncoming years. Be glad of the single, silent hour, maybe, alone today, and remember at sixty-odd, the accumulated hours of self happiness — one today — one tomorrow and so on, are sure to find you then in youth again — for having lived throughout the sixty-plus. In other people's time!

Rabbit Now Aussie Luxury

By R. L. Curthers writing from Melbourne in the Ottawa Journal

Rabbit flesh, which Australians once called the poor man's meat, is now almost a luxury. Before the war rabbits could be bought from door-to-door hawkers for five or six cents each or in the shops for 20 cents; now they cost nearly 70 cents.

The reason is the effectiveness of the virus disease myxomatosis, first used to eradicate rabbits in Australia at the end of 1951. By the middle of 1953 it was estimated to have destroyed four-fifths of the rabbits in Eastern Australia and by 1955 to have killed 700,000,000 rabbits. Rabbit wholesalers who had once handled tens of thousands of pairs a week were dealing only in hundreds of pairs. The cost of delivering a pair of rabbits in Sydney rose from 11 cents to $1.12 and smaller dealers had to go out of business.

Those who survived moved their freezing plants to remote areas where rabbits were out of range of "myxo". The disease is transmitted by the mosquito and on waterless inland plains rabbits still thrive, though in one such region suddenly invaded by "myx" a rabbit colony which had flourished for seven years was exterminated in two weeks.

• • •

Finding rabbits has thus become almost as costly a part of the rabbit meat business as trapping and marketing. Rabbit movements are now traced by aeroplane and fast automobile.

Big Sydney and Melbourne processors have established headquarters at points along the Darling river in Western New South Wales, whence they operate as far west as Alice Springs, in Central Australia, and on the nullarbor Plain, which separates Western Australia from the Eastern States. Traversing these vast distances has added immensely to the cost of rabbit meat.

Once professional rabbit trappers made a good living by trapping an average of 100 pairs a night. Now they get an average of only 30 pairs a night and many have abandoned rabbit trapping for easier and better paid work. Today the trapper gets about 45 cents a pair.

• • •

Most of the frozen carcasses and skins auctioned in Sydney and Melbourne are exported — the meat mainly to the United Kingdom and the skins mainly to America. The English farmer, as determined as the Australian to make an end of the rabbit pest, has asked the U.K. government to close the market to rabbit meat lest anyone should be tempted to breed rabbits for meat and sell it as Australian.

If this happened, Australia would lose a market for rabbit meat which in 1958 was worth over $5,000,000, not to mention $225,000 earned by skins marketed come from carcasses exported.

Since there is a flourishing re-export market in rabbit skins to hat manufacturers in West Germany and rabbit meat is an important part of the English dietary, legislation forbidding the marketing of rabbit skins and carcasses could encounter strong opposition — a prospect very comforting to those whose concern it is to sustain Australia's export income. But weer such a ban imposed, many Austalian rabbit exporters would go out of business and rabbit meat might ban imposed, many Australian market; if it did not, it would certainly be a lot dearer.

Bullet Strikes Woman in Leg

Sudbury Star

In Milwaukee a woman was walking her dog near her home. Two miles away a man accidentally discharged a .35 calibre rifle. The bullet struck the woman in her right leg and went through a muscle below the knee.

This little story on ballistics might be remembered by hunters (and would-be hunters) handling high-powered rifles.

Too many people entrusted with the privilege of carrying a rifle have no knowledge of the deadly effect of a bullet after it leaves the muzzle and travels over a long distance.

To Your Good Health

PRO AND CON ON SMOKING AND CANCER OF THE LUNGS

"Dear Dr. Molner: In a recent magazine article the following paragraph appears: 'Yet no one has ever shown that cigarets cause lung cancer at all.'

"What do you think of this statement? — C. H."

"Dear Dr. Molner: All the studies of harmful effects of smoking are in terms of cigarets. What are the effects on the non-inhaling pipe and cigar smoker? — R."

The following remarks are a private conversation between me and a few million readers. I'm not trying to set myself up as an expert on this subject. I have observed — but I haven't studied the problem. I'm just talking as a doctor to some friends who are puzzled over the conflicting statements.

In plain language, here's the way I interpret it all.

First, as readers we jump to the conclusion that the articles we read that cigarets do — or don't — "cause cancer".

Take that statement quoted by C. H. It doesn't say that cigarettes don't cause cancer. It just says nobody has proved that they do. Sometimes you've got to read very carefully to figure out what a sentence really means.

Here's another thing you have to remember. There's a big difference in the meaning of "proved" and "presumed". Sometimes it's a big difference, sometimes a little one.

Now let's review what we've all been told. First, one faction says figures show that, if you question a lot of people with lung cancer, the majority say they smoked. Most say they were heavy smokers (two packs a day is generally regarded as heavy smoking) for a long time. Some, but fewer, were "light smokers". Still fewer didn't smoke at all.

ANOTHER PRESUMPTION

As the surveys are repeated, the figures come up much the same way. So there's a presumption — note the word —that there's some connection. It does not say smoking is the cause of lung cancer. It says there appears to be some connection.

After all, there are millions who have smoked all their lives, yet didn't get lung cancer, or any other kind. And some who never smoked but developed lung cancer.

To look at it another way, you can't say that "speed is the cause of traffic deaths". But you can analyze fatal accidents and find that fast-driving was present in a share of them.

I would question whether it is posible to "prove" that cigarets "cause lung cancer". The only way you could "prove" it would be to have two groups of people, exactly alike, live under identical conditions for half a century or more, and have half of them smoke and half not smoke. If all the smokers got cancer, and none of the others did, you could say you had proved it.

But how can you ever do that?

I don't think anybody on either side — so far as I can see — has said anything that isn't true. But oh, the fine distinctions of words!

As to pipes and cigars — well, since smokers of them don't inhale (much), they don't seem to enter into the lung cancer picture to such an extent. But the pipe-smokers seem to develop a lot more cancer of the mouth, presumably (there's that word again-) because of the irritation of hot smoke and the irritation of the pipe stem in the same spot for years and years.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is it normal for a husband 49 years old not to have anything to do with his wife for a year? — Mrs. L. S."

No, unless he's mad at her. And a year is a long time to stay mad.

Note to Mrs. H. G.: Thank you for your letter. Your case is unusual, but it still illustrates a basic fact: That emotional upsets do, it apepars, have an effect in touching off asthma or allergy attacks.

For How Long Shall We Live?

(Ottawa Journal)

There is, a Montreal medical scientist says, no theoretical limit to human life expectancy. Since the turn of the century, the average life-span in this country has been extended from 50 to 70 years. With further advances in medical research, it is considered possible that people may live not only to be 100 years old but perhaps even two or three times that.

Physicians and philosophers used to compare the human body to a machine and say that — apart from disease or accident — life came to end when the machine wore out or broke down. The comparison is not accurate because healthy body tissue, unlike metals or alloys, has the capacity to renew itself and is "technically immortal."

What a world it would be — peopled with a race of Methuselahs! Countries having old age pension systems would not only inevitably but speedily go bankrupt. Insurance companies, with death benefits constantly deferred, would become the fat cats of the business world. Dictators would mold their realms in accordance with their ideas, certain that they would see the end result of their long-range planning, provided they could escape assassination. Men and women would celebrate their 100th wedding anniversaries. The Civil Service retirement age would be boosted from 65 to 100 at least. The world would become overcrowded and the aged might be shipped by guided missile to some of the friendly planets.

The picture as hinted at by the Montreal scientist, surpasses the imagination. But how many of us would want to live to be 200 or even 150?

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

On the summer hotel verandah, an educationalist of some note was holding forth to an audience of middle-aged parents, one of whom had been foolish enough to ask the gentleman which college she should send her son to this fall. This brought on a most learned lecture in which the educationalist enumerated all the different virtues of the various universities, Canadian and American. When his wife called him away to a bridge game at the other end of the verandah, he left a very confused audience.

Among them was an elderly man who had made a great success of running two grocery stores and a butcher shop, parlaying his profits by astute investments in the stock market until he was now the type of prominent citizen who had been invited to Government House to meet the Queen. And he had quit school on successfully passing his entrance.

"That," he said, not caring if the intellectual at the other end of the verandah could hear him or not, "was a lot of tripe. That gentleman is full of nothing but quotes. All he has ever done is learn. He does not think. He just quotes what he has picked up.

"Now, I'll tell you what kind of university to send your kids to, if you can find one. Send them to a university that will graduate them, at the end of four years, with minds of their own."

"Which one is that?" asked one of us.

"It isn't," said the old buccaneer.

CARRYING COLES TO NEWCASTLE

And Away They Go — Shown at the wheel of his 1916 Chevrolet touring car is Bill Campbell of Kingston, as he and his companion, Terry Coles of Kingston, prepare to leave Belleville on their way to Newcastle. The intrepid tourists passed through this city yesterday morning and completed their 120-mile trip by mid-afternoon. Coles was cooled by the highly effective ventilation system common to vehicles of the 1916 era.

Ancient Car Model Draws Crowd in Tour of City

Pausing only briefly in Belleville yesterday, two youths drove a 1916 Chevrolet from Kingston to Newcastle, 120 miles in six hours and 37 minutes.

Bill Campbell, 25, an insurance salesman, and Terry Coles, 22, a disc jockey, both of Kingston, provoked crowds in the city, Trenton and Port Hope, en route. The car has a top speed of 45 m.p.h. They average about 25 m.p.h.

Mr. Campbell owns five such "teen-ager" cars: a 1914 Ford, a 1916 Chevrolet (this one); a 1917 Chevrolet; a 1918 Pierce Arrow; a 1919 Moon.

"I have them as a hobby and as an investment," he says, "and I get a lot of fun out of them. They may be very valuable some day. In fact, they're quite valuable now. I keep three of them stored up at Sharbot Lake and two of them in Kingston."

Trouble to operate?

"No, once they are restored in good running order, they need only oil and gas, the same as any car. I have a new car for business; but when I feel like it, sometimes, I use an old one for pleasure. My wife doesn't mind. She likes it."

Eisenhower Wants to Stamp Out Union Wrong-Doing By Effective Reform Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower called Thursday night for a new law strong enough to end racketeering in labor-management relations.

He said recent disclosures of union wrong-doing are a "national disgrace" and said both he and the country "want that sort of thing stopped."

Eisenhower spoke out in a radio-television address as Congress headed toward a bitter battle over labor legislation. In effect he invited letters to congressmen, expressing hope that they "will be fully responsive to an overwhelming national demand."

Reaction was prompt from those involved in the battle. Union leaders said Eisenhower had taken an anti-union stand. Some Democrats demanded air time to reply.

Sponsors of the bill Eisenhower supported said they think his aid may swing next week's vote in their favor. Some of its opponents said passage of that bill would kill all hope of labor legislation this session.

But Eisenhower said an effective bill is needed, and added:

"I am talking about a reform law—a law to protect the American people from the gangsters, racketeers and other corrupt elements that have invaded the labor-management field."

A bill the Senate passed last April "is not effective," Eisenhower said, adding that a revised bill prepared by the House of Representatives labor committee is even less so.

He put himself behind a substitute sponsored by representatives Phil M. Landrum (Dem-Ga.) and Robert P. Griffin (Rep. Mich.) and said that bill offers "a good start toward a real labor-reform law."

A few hours later, AFL-CIO President George Meany said in a radio broadcast that the bill Eisenhower is backing is a "blunderbuss that would inflict grievious harm on all unions," whether they are corrupt or clean.

Most labor unions are opposing even the bills Eisenhower described as ineffective and are backing still another bill which Meany said is aimed at "getting rid of crooks, instead of getting rid of unions." It is sponsored by Democratic Representative John F. Shelley of California.

Eisenhower said the legislation he asks has nothing to do with wages or strikes or a new approach to collective bargaining.

A cleanup of crookedness and corruption is not a partisan or political issue, he added.

MUSICIAN RELEASED

ROME (AP) — President Giovanni Gronchi has ordered the release from prison of pianist-composer Arnaldo Graziosi whose trial for his wife's murder was a senation in Italy just after the war. Graziosi has served 14 years of a 24-year sentence. He was among an unspecified number of convicts given pardons by Gronchi in advance of the Italian Ferragosta mid-August Holiday.

Guard Clouts Eight-Year-Old, No Discipline

WINDSOR, England (AP) — Another tourist got too close to a guardsman and collected a clout.

But this time there'll be no penalty for the sentry, unlike the Buckingham Palace guardsman who got 10 days in the barracks for kicking an American woman.

The latest guard-tourist incident occurred Wednesday at the Henry VIII gate to Windsor Castle, the Queen's Thames-side country residence.

The guardsman came to the end of his beat, stamped into a smart about - turn and smacked his rifle butt on the ear of Willie Dakin, an eight-year-old vacationer from Birmingham.

Little Willie began to howl. Scores of sightseers looked on sympathetically. The guardsman went right on guarding, as he's trained to do. Willie's father hurried to the nearest policeman and said:

"It was not the guardsman's fault. Willie shouldn't have been so near."

A doctor at the Windsor hospital checked Willie and found the angry lump on his head wasn't serious.

Said the adjutant of the Irish guard detachment at the castle, Maj. J. G. F. Head:

"Discipline? Certainly not. It was an accident, unfortunate but unavoidable."

Male Reporter Only Man at Fashion Show

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The male reporter, his clammy fingers clutching a fashion show invitation, stood outside the studio doorway, blushing with embarrassment.

Inside were 150 fashion-conscious women. There wasn't another man in sight.

"Do come in," boomed the blonde receptionist who sneaked silently over the thick grey carpet. "Absolutely delighted to see you—what's your name?"

The flustered reporter leaned against the rich oak door and stammered out the information, adding that he was actually an outdoors type, he never saw a fashion show before, he wasn't there by choice, and he'd probably never be there again.

"Do tell," she said.

Like an undertaker, she guided her guest through the wide doorway and stood him inside the small, but elegant, panelled room.

IN THE SPOTLIGHT

Three-hundred eyes focused on him.

The women sat, clustered around a rectangular platform, on three rows of spindly - leg, gilded chairs. They were dressed to kill—huge hats and the like—and most of them maintained a steady beat with Chinese fans.

It was stiflingly hot.

From the corner of the room blazed a series of spotlights. Overhead hung giant crystal chandeliers. Mirrors were everywhere.

"There's your seat," said the blonde, pointing across the room. It couldn't have been farther from the door.

The reporter took one step and his foot crunched on a dainty pink toe.

The yelp caused dozens of women to remove sunglasses and stare with disdain.

"Sorry about your toe," said the perspiring reporter, with sincerity.

"You're still on it," she replied stiffly.

RESCUED

The blonde, running to the rescue, took the reporter in hand again and steered him on a shortcut across the platform.

He squeezed into his seat—after spilling an ashtray—just in time to see the first model come prancing out in an outfit that looked, to him, like those of the roaring '20s.

Heads nodded with approval, a few shook with disapproval, and a couple of front-row occupants discussed the outfit. They puffed on long, black cigaret holders between chats.

The air was thick with perfume and smoke as the four models, well supplied with make-up, paraded for an hour, displaying 80-odd creations. Apart from the few front - row talkers the room was silent—just like a British train compartment.

EXCITING SHOW

During it all, the male reporter sat slouched in his gilded chair, hardly daring to look up. He read every word on the program a dozen times. A soft golden tassel which hung from the heavy blue drapes tickled his neck.

Finally, the soft-voiced hostess who announced the names of each creation, called a halt.

"Ladies"—she didn't mention anyone else—"that's all there is."

There was a round of light applause and one by one the women filed out.

The next day, London newspapers described it as an exciting show.

WAS THEATRICAL LEADER

NEW YORK (AP) — Clarence Derwent, 74, a veteran actor, died Thursday. At his death he was president of the American National Theatre Academy. Previously he had been president of Actors Equity Association.

Phyllis Jean Cronkright, 4, Queen of Playgrounds

Choosing of Miss Penny Carnival from an entry of nineteen hopeful young misses representing each of the city's playgrounds, was the focal point of interest for the over 2,000 youngsters and parents who jammed the East Hill Playgrounds last night for the Annual Penny Carnvial.

The carnival wound up the program for Playground Week which has been observed this week at all playgrounds where Queens for each area were chosen to compete in last night's finals.

Miss Penny Carnival, 1959, is lovely Phyllis Jean Cronkright, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Cronkright, of Sidney Street. Phyllis copped honors earlier in the week on being chosen Miss Parkdale and carried her home playground laurels to the top last night at the East Hill Playground competition.

Runners-up in the Miss Penny Carnival contest were: Kathy Lynch, as Miss Pine St., and Susan Foster as Miss Prince of Wales.

Judges for the competition were Public Schools Administrator Lawrence A. Kells; Alderman Effie McCabe, and Constable John Fullerton, of the O.P.P.

GET MONEY'S WORTH

In a day of ever increasing inflation, city youngsters got their money's worth at last night's carnival with a penny being the price tag for all amusements and refreshments. The many amusement booths, manned by playground supervisors did a land office business.

Preliminary to the Miss Penny Carnvial competition were a number of cake draws sponsored by various playgrounds Following the choosing of Miss Penny Carnival, the youngsters enjoyed a round of square dancing under the direction of James Ketcheson, supervisor for the Quinte Young Timers Teen Age Dancing.

The night's program was under the direction of Recreational Commission chairman, William T. VanTassel, and Lloyd Doran, recreational director for the city. Jack Devine handled the microphone as master of ceremonies.

Heavy Traffic No Problem to Guelph Family

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — Heavy traffic wasn't a problem when the Coady family decided to make a 9,000 - mile trip during their two-week vacation.

Reg and Ruth Coady and their 15-year-old son travelled in their own four-passenger light aircraft.

They spent four days at the Calgary Stampede before going to British Columbia, California, Texas, Arizona and other states.

Flying time was 64 hours. Only once did weather interfere with their plans. While flying north from Fort Wayne, Ind., they had travelled more than half of the 1,100 miles to their home when they were forced back because of storms.

Mrs. Coady says flying is a common hobby among American families. Although the cost of an airplane is greater than a car, there is little depreciation on the aircraft, she says.

Mr. and Mrs. Coady first became interested in flying when they visited an airport while out for a stroll. One week later, Mr. Coady bought a two - passenger plane, but he couldn't fly until he received his licence. Although Mrs. Coady can fly too, she prefers her husband to act as pilot.

Their son is more anxious to receive his flying licence than a permit to drive a car.

Wedding

BALYX — SMITH

A quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized in Christ Church, Belleville, on Tuesday, August 4, at ten a.m. when Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan, rector, united in marriage Mrs. Edna Olive Smith, of Belleville, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. De Vault, to John Balyx, of Belleville, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Balyx of Holland.

The bride was attired in a navy blue duster ensemble with white accessories, matching hat, and corsage of pink and white carnations.

She was attended by Mrs. Robert Waldron, of Trenton, eldest daughter of the bridegroom, who wore a black and white nylon gown, with matching hat, white accessories and corsage of deep pink and white carnations.

The bridegroom was attended by his son-in-law, Mr. Robert Waldron of Trenton.

Following the ceremony, the wedding supper was held at the bridegroom's home with the immediate family present.

The bride's table was appointed with the traditional white damask, and centred by an all-white, four-tier wedding cake topped by white Sweetheart roses.

Previous to her marriage the bride was entertained at a presentation by the staff of the Bell Shirt Company, of which she was an employee, when she was the recipient of an electric fry pan, and a cup and saucer. Several other beautiful gifts were also presented to her from the family and close friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Balyx will reside at 72 Great St. James Street, Belleville.

FRENCH HAMLET SAVED

MARSEILLE France (Reuters) Troops, police and firemen from seven towns saved the hamlet of Ler Michel near here Thursday as a violent forest fire swept toward it. They mastered the blaze when it was 400 yards from the hamlet.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wallace Snell are pictured cutting the wedding cake following their marriage in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Aileen Pearl Gill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gill of Belleville, and the bridegroom is the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace W. Snell, also of Belleville. (Photo by William E. Riley, Belleville.)

SNELL — GILL

Tall, white standards of pastel-tinted gladioli adorned the altar, and white satin bows designated the guest pews in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, on Saturday, July 18, at 1.00 p.m. for a lovely double-ring wedding, when Aileen Pearl Gill, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Gill, became the bride of Warren Wallace Snell, of Belleville, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace W. Snell, also of Belleville. The Reverend Harry M. Davis, pastor of the church, officiated.

Mr. S. Alec Gordon, church organist, provided the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Muriel Johnson, who sang before the ceremony "The Wedding Prayer," and during the signing of the register, "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiantly lovely in her bridal gown of lily-white organzine, featuring an empire bodice with scalloped portrait neckline, accented by French lace with butterfly sleeves. The floor-length, bouffant skirt was spaced with lace motifs in petal design. Both bodice and skirt motifs were embroidered with tiny seed pearls and sequins. She wore a nylon net headdress in coronet style encrusted with seed pearls and iridescent sequins, and finger-tip veil of embroidered tulle illusion. Elbow-length mitts of matching organzine with lace appliques, lily-pointed over the wrists and a single strand of pearls completed the bridal costume. Her flowers were a cascade bouquet of deep pink Delight roses entwined with English ivy and white tulle with matching bow.

Mrs. William Williams, of Belleville, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, was attractively attired in a waltz-length gown of mint-green Swiss eyelet embroidered organza with harem skirt and classic neckline, three-quarter length sleeves and matching taffeta flat bow headdress, with white gloves and shoes, completing the ensemble.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Barbara Davis, sister of the bridegroom and Miss Colleen Lowe, both of Belleville, wore gowns of lilac-tone Swiss eyelet embroidered organza, fashioned on lines similar to that of the matron of honor, with matching flat bow headdresses, white accessories. All attendants wore single strands of pearls with matching button earrings (gifts of the bride), and carried nosegays of white carnations and yellow button 'mums mingled with white tulle and streamers of matching satin ribbon.

Mr. Cameron Snell, of Brockville, attended his brother as groomsman; while Messrs. William Williams, George Hacklir, both of Belleville, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the church parlors where the bride's table, appointed with white damask, was centred by a three-tier, pillared, white and silver wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, and misted about the base with white tulle. Lighted candles in silver holders and the bridal bouquets added a delightful nuptial accent to the setting.

The guests were received by the bride's mother who wore a clover-pink afternoon gown of Alencon lace and pure silk crepe, matching hat, white gloves and shoes and corsage of white, Sweetheart roses.

She was assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's mother, gowned in beige lin in sheath style, with matching embroidered duster, pink hat and gloves, beige shoes and pink Sweetheart roses corsage.

For travelling by motor to Quebec City and other eastern points, the bride wore a pure silk aqua-colored sheath with matching jacket, black accessories, white hat and gloves and corsage of white gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Snell are residing at 241-B George St., Belleville.

Guests were present from Brockville, Odessa, Halloway, Plainfield, Trenton, Belleville and surrounding districts.

The bride was entertained, previous to her marriage, at miscellaneous showers given by Miss Colleen Lowe, of Belleville; by Mrs. Vernon Rose and Miss Phyllis Alexander, as co-hostesses; at a presentation by the staff of Mead Johnson an Company, of Belleville, of combination sandwich toaster and waffler.

The bridegroom was presented with a set of steak knives by his co-workers.

Bronc-Buster's Wife Really Sees World

CALGARY (CP)—The life of a rodeo bronc - buster's wife consists of plenty of travel over a circuit that ranges from Bosto to Mexico City to Edmonton.

"I first met Marty two years ago at a rodeo in New York's Madison Square Garden," said Mrs. Jean Wood. "We've been travelling ever since and I just love it."

Jean married the Canadian-born world bronc - riding champion June 10. She doesn't let her husband's wild and woolly job worry her.

"All the wives are a little anxious, I guess," said the green-eyed brunette from Springfield, Mo. "After a while, I realized that worrying doesn't do any good."

The Woods are undecided about their future but like most of the rodeo cowboys, Marty hopes eventually to buy a ranch and a string of horses and settle down.

Girl Seeks Extra Thrills By Delaying Pull on Cord

TORONTO (CP)—Parachuting seems a little dull to Ilona Berger, a 21-year-old Toronto insurance clerk, so she seeks extra thrills by delaying the tug of her ripcord.

While plunging through the air, she spreads her arms and twists her body through various aerial figures. The speed of her sky dive could hit 120 miles an hour.

"Then at 2,000 feet you open your parachute," she said in an interview, "and the fun is all over."

Miss Berger, five-foot-five and 105 pounds, already has 130 jumps to her credit—more than any other woman member of Toronto's Parachute and Sky Diving Club.

She learned parachuting in her native Hungary, where she was women's sky diving champion.

COUNTS SECONDS

When making a short 10-second jump, she said, she concentrates on counting the seconds. On a longer jump, she uses a stop watch fixed to her reserve parachute bag.

"You can make a mistake in timing," she said. If the parachute opening was a second too late, the jumper would hurtle into the ground.

But sky diving isn't too dangerous, Miss Berger said. There was little traffic in the sky. It was more hazardous driving on a highway.

Miss Berger is looking for a partner her own weight, with whom to do a jumping stunt. The two divers would jump together, glide toward each other, exchange a baton, glide apart, then come back together for another baton switch. Then they would pull their ripcords for a safe descent.

Ilona was only 15 when she made her first jump. She said parachutists first learn to fall in gradual stages until they are ready to drop from a mock parachute harness at about eight feet.

On their first jump, the pilot of the plane makes sure they drop in the right place and their ripcord is pulled automatically.

DIVES IN SKY — Ilona Berger, 21-year-old Toronto insurance clerk, prepares for a jump at the Parachute Sky Diving Club in Toronto. For one minute after she leaves the plane she spreads her arms and twists her body to perform aerial figures then opens the parachute for the final 2,000 feet. Ilona, who started sky diving in her native Hungary at 15, has 130 jumps to her credit, more than any other woman in the club. Her main parachute is on her back, the reserve chute is in front. Sky diving requires concentration but she doesn't think it's dangerous. (CP Photo).

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Lorraine G. — I want to stay in the business.

Bert G. — She belongs home with the kids.

• • •

Lorraine G. — Three years ago, when our youngest child reached school age, my husband asked me to get a housekeeper and to help him out in his business. I was glad to do this because I had a lot of business experience before marriage.

After having worked five days a week, seven hours a day in this business for the past three years, I find that my husband not only doesn't appreciate what I've done, but makes all kinds of ridiculous accusations and insinuations.

Now Bert wants me to quit the business. I feel that I've built up valuable good will and contacts that will help increase our income. For the children's sake I think I should stay here. I want to put my entire salary in a fund for their education.

• • •

Bert G. — For the children's sake! That's a laugh! It's for her own sake that Lorraine likes to hang around here.

She's built up good will, sure, if that's what you want to call it. As soon as she came to work here she dyed her hair blonde and got a lot of sexy looking clothing. Now when the male customers come in they refuse to let me wait on them. They'll wait indefinitely for her. It's the same with the salesman. They ignore me. You'd think she pays the bills.

As a result of the way she carries on, I've gotten the reputation of being a grouch and a louse. A house divided against itself cannot stand is what I always say. In the long run this is going to be harmful to the business and to our home. She belongs home with the kids.

• • •

The Council: As we get the picture, Lorraine is being fired because she has handled her job too well.

Bert doesn't accuse her of unfaithfulness, nor does he suggest that he seriously worries about any personal involvement of hers with customers or salesmen. He is merely jealous of her power as a businesswoman. He accuses her of using sex appeal to bolster this power.

Well, we doubt whether this is Lorraine's only appeal. An attractive woman may draw customers, but it takes more than that to makes sales and create a steady following. Lorraine's blonde curls are merely frills on some more vital characteristics.

Bert would be a wise man if he could recognize these things — and accept without jealousy the fact that his wife is a valuable asset to this business. He will not get the reputation of being a grouch and a louse unless he acts like one. He can be excellent foil to his wife's attractions by playing the serious, highly dependable role. It could be an unbeatable combination.

If Bert cannot come to terms with himself in this issue, we think it might be best for Lorraine to step out of the business. It is certainly not wise to undermine this man's morale for the sake of a few extra dollars. The children will be better off with less money and a happier father.

Woman Learns Barber's Trade In Finland

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Kady Huhtala prefers clipping a man's hair to fussing over a woman's coiffure.

She's one of Toronto's few women barbers. Although she had trouble getting a job, all went well once she was employed.

"Canadian men were at first very nervous about having me cut their hair or shave them with a cutthroat razor," Mrs. Huhtala says. "But now I have my own customers who always ask for me."

She prefers it when the men give instructions because she says it makes the work more interesting.

Mrs. Huhtala says cutting men's curly hair is more difficult than cutting women's curls. "They have so much less hair that one can't cover up mistakes as one can with a women's coiffure."

Beards and mustaches must be trimmed to balance perfectly.

Mrs. Huhtala learned the trade in Finland. She came to Canada with her husband in 1951.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY HINT: HOSPITAL-VISITING

Your manners while hospital-visiting. (1) Be considerate. (2) Be pleasant. (3) Be brief. These are the three graces that should guide you if you would like to be a welcome hospital visitor.

GIRL SHOULD BUY OWN HOPE CHEST

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiance has just entered the Navy. He gave me an engagement ring, but he did not mention giving me a hope chest. I'd certainly like to have one so that I could begin to collect linens and other equipment for our future home. But I have been told by several friends that it is bad luck for an engaged girl to buy her own hope chest. What is your advice? — Engaged girl

It would certainly be a most exceptional young man who would think about such an article as a hope chest when he must have been mighty busy making his "military plans." There is no reason whatever why you should not buy your own hope chest, if you wish to have one. As a matter of fact, most brides buy their own, if they want one, or their parents may buy a chest for them.

Today, when there are so many good-looking and practical designs, it's really best, most practical, for the girl to choose the one she finds most convenient: of the color and kind of wood she likes best, of the design she prefers, and of the size she will find most adaptable. As the old poem says: "What will look prettiest in her song."

IT'S THE WOMAN WHO PAYS THE TAXI FARE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm a woman, and I'm just starting a position in a real estate firm. I'm wondering if, when I take a man client in a taxicab to look at an office or apartment for him to consider, I am supposed to pay the fare or should I leave this to him? — M.

There should be no uncertainty about this . . . you should pay the fare. Have the money ready as you near the destination, and hand it to the driver as unobtrusively as possible. No fuss about it.

Readers' Friday Column

As conducted by Mary Moore

NOTE FROM MARY:

I have to alibi. My luggage was overweight when I was "scaled" at Dusseldorf Airport. A quick decision had to be made. What could be mailed? What must I have with me? I tried to remember in a hurry which cases contained my work papers, but found on opening them here at home that I have guessed wrongly. So readers to whom I wrote direct promising replies on my return will have to wait until about mid-August for their requests are coming back to Canada by surface mail. Please forgive me.

QUESTION:

This is the first time I have written . . . but have exhausted my relatives and cookbooks and from past experience I know your information is reliable. 1) How do you can hot peppers — the long skinny ones, so they stay crisp and how add other veg., cauliflower, onions, etc.? 2) We purchased a freezer last winter. I have a pantry full of bottling jars. May I successfully use these to freeze in? 3) Have you a good recipe for Butterscotch Pie. Mine "runs" and soaks the pastry. 4) My grandmother made a wonderful jam from vegetable marrow and candied ginger but the recipe was never written down. 5) Frozen popsicles for the children please — we have four. 6) A good all round relish for hot dogs and hamburgs please in large quantity. 7) My English cookbook gives recipe for Tomato Ketchup but says the bottles must be sterilized after filling. Must they? . . . my grateful thanks . . . Pamela A

ANSWER:

PICKLED PEPPERS:

Method 1) Cut the peppers lengthwise and arrange them in clean sealers Peppers must be fresh. More go into the jar if cut. Boil together 2 parts vinegar to one part water. Add 1 tablespoon salt to each jar, and a piece of alum size of hickory nut. Bring the brine to a boil, cool, pour over peppers. Seal. About 2 or 3 days later open jars and place a small green tomato on top to fit under the neck to keep peppers submerged, or they will soften. Tomato may be eaten. Method 2) Place whole or cut peppers in crock, same solution as above. Put plate on top with weight. Leave 1 week. They may be kept in crock in cool place or transferred to jars. Method 3) Wash small or cut up large red or green pepper in halves or quarters, discarding seeds and fill quart jars. Bring to boiling point 2 cups water, 2 cups brown sugar, 4 cups white vinegar, pour hot over peppers and seal.

Yes, you may use glass jars for freezing but be sure to leave 1 1-4 inches headspace.

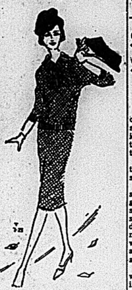
Novelty Knits



By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Wool knits, better than ever, are being stacked by stores everywhere and at very sensible price tags. Here is a young, blithe middy and skirt in novelty textured wool. The top has a softly rolled rib-knit collar. The dress comes in various tones, both light and dark, and is treated for crease resistance. It should prove itself an accommodating traveler and would be a good choice for the school wardrobe.

The Experts Say

Secretary Should Never Take Self, Position Too Seriously

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — A secretary can make or break a business says Hilda Wilson, vice-president of the Toronto chapter of the National Secretaries Association.

Mrs. Wilson, summing up all the things a secretary must be, says:

"If the secretary is going to succeed in her job, and if she is going to be an asset to her boss, she must be a bit of a diplomat, spelling champion, travel agent, detective, accountant, grammarian, lawyer, psychiatrist, wailing wall and mind reader—all rolled into one well-dressed and charming person."

Mrs. Wilson also warns that while the secretarial position is important, the secretary should never take herself or her position too seriously.

"It's important to be on time and not use the excuse that 'I don't get away on time' from the office," she says. That rationalization is not in good taste."

Mrs. Wilson adds that personal calls are fine as long as they are not so numerous they overstep the good nature of the boss. Lunch hour and coffee breaks are a good time to make outgoing calls, but it's not always possible to control incoming calls.

"Coffee breaks can be overdone too," she says.

The international education committee recently completed a study of the dignity of the secretarial profession. It said: "Dignity lies in the willingness of the secretary to be of service to her employer."

The secretary's job is usually not one that requires policy making or important decisions, but rather one made up of many details. It is the carrying out of these everyday details in an accurate and willing manner that will reflect favorably upon a secretary's employer, and in turn, upon herself.

The study said answering the telephone graciously and meeting visitors are opportunities for service rather than unwelcomed interruptions. The secretary's attitude towards her company was also shown through contacts with people away from the office. An important secretary is one who, by her own example, has helped another person to be a better employee.

BEAT READING — Young members of Montreal's beat generation often meet in flats or expresso coffee shops along Bohemian Stanley Street to read poetry or examine each other's sketches and paintings. There are several categories of the beat generation but all dislike the word "beatnik." These four gathered in a beat "pad" on Stanley Street are (left to right): Melsie Feingold, Bob Levy, Lise Levasseur and Alan Familiant. (CP Photo)

Montreal Beatniks' Language Bears No Resemblance to Publicized Hepcat Gibberish

By WILLIAM DEVERELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — "Wow, man. I mean, like wow!"

If you think that's how they talk in Montreal's beat hideaways, you're way out. The dialogue goes more like this:

"Life is a continuous reasoning process, a reaching toward something. There is always an unattainable goal . . . "

All of which is probably as difficult to decipher as the "wow, man" bit. But such is the language of the sophisticated Montreal beatnik, who says "hepcat gibberish" attributed to him is just the widely-publicized result of someone's imagination.

TWO BEAT CLASSES

The beat generation seems to be all things to all men who like to see themselves as different. But in Montreal there is a self-proclaimed inner circle of beats—the "over - beats" as they call themselves.

They say the other beats are merely "cheatniks," who are giving the movement a bad name.

The over-beats say the cheatniks are hangers-on, typing themselves after the current beat-generation craze and cashing in by growing unkempt beards, wearing sloppily-buttoned shirts and talking through their hats about Kierkegaard.

The over-beats say they don't talk in monosyllables — "like wow, man"—but neither do they talk through their hats about modern philosophy.

Beards are becoming things of the past in the inner circle. One over-beat, free-lance writer Don Bell, shaved off his thick whiskers because "beards are becoming too conventional."

He says there are about 200 true beats in Montreal's "colony." Hundreds of others imitate the true beats, acting "like hoodlums and behaving like naughty children. They rebel but they rebel against."

DUTY TO REBEL

It is the true beat's duty to rebel "against the world of stuffy conformity," Bell says. "True beatness is a tranquil withdrawal from society into a tight shell insulated against the influence of squares."

Ted Ferguson, a newspaper man who describes himself as a beatnik spokesman, says the majority of the city's beats are soft-spoken, dress conventionally, are hard workers and create.

"That is the thing that sets them off completely from all the phoneys in their odd uniforms of beards, blue jeans and sandals," he says.

Painter Ralph Niccio hasn't worked for two years. He lives in an abandoned garage decorated with his paintings.

"The important thing is to produce," he says. "Nothing else matters. I believe in everything I do. I feel like an artist."

Niccio has been living off unemployment insurance and donations from relatives.

SELLS BOOKS TO EAT

George Holmes, a poet, has been without steady work for two years. University educated and soft-spoken, Holmes says he refuses to take on work which would "shackle" him with "grey mediocrity." He subsists with odd, day - to - day jobs, and recently has been selling books from his large library to buy food.

Jacques Jodoin, a bushy-haired and bearded painter who is supported by his sister, a stenographer, recently returned from Italy where he said he couldn't work "because there are too many tourists."

One of Montreal's French-speaking beats, he says French-Canadian beats are no different from the others. "Maybe we go a little further: maybe we are more unconventional in our attitudes and appearances."

The new generation of young men and women—all classes of beats—talk about their philosophies in Stanley Street espresso bars during the day. When the sun goes down they head for their favorite night spots.

One popular hangout is a Clarke Street club where old gentlemen play chess, curly - haired youths write poetry and painters sketch each others' portraits. More vigorous types prefer a Sherbrooke Street jazz - and - dance night club.

Although the style now is tending toward clean chins and flannel suits, the conservative-minded beat fashion plate still wears old blue denims, a scruffy beard and a white shirt with its shirt-tails often tied about his waist. His girl friend lets her stringy hair fall down over her shoulders and walks about in sandals and peddle-pushers.

Montreal's inner circle is a tightly-knit group. Three members plan to put out a small magazine reflecting Stanley Street views and giving the street's young writers an opportunity to see their work in print.

One thing all the beats, cheats and various unclassified Bohemmians agree upon is a mutual dislike of the word "beatnik." But says Bell, the word — its suffix was stolen from the Russian word Sputnik—"has, unhappily, caught on. We're resigned to it."

'When a Feller Needs a Friend'

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The stiff sentry outside Buckingham Palace turned smartly Wednesday and ripped the seat out of his pants.

Like all good Coldstream Guardsmen, Charles Foot had been drilled into snapping up his knees when he turned. This time the snap snapped his seat.

Sweating under his heavy bearskin despite the additional ventilation, the 19 - year - old Guardsman turned his rear toward the sentry box where, he hoped, hundreds of tourists would fail to notice the exposure.

But, alas, an inquisitive child nipped around and spotted the damage. " 'Ere, Ma," he yelled " 'is backside's showing."

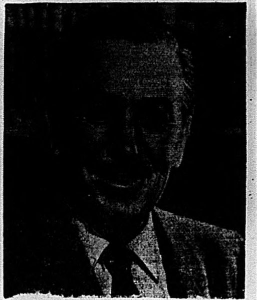
That did it. The blushing Guardsman was soon surrounded by a pack of laughing, giggling tourists, all pointing at that spot just below his red tunic.

Every few minutes Foot had to snap to attention, turn sharply, and make another patrol along the palace fence. Every time he turned the hole in his pants grew bigger.

But in the best tradition of British Guardsman he carried out his duty without batting an eye.

No one knows where that monumental rip might have ended if it hadn't caught the eye of the Guards commander. He promptly marched Foot to the guard room, where a dispatch rider was sent off for a new pair of blues. After his normal four-hour break the refurbished Foot reappeared to pound the pavement for another four hours.

Just for the record: The excessively unconfined Guardsman Foot is not to be confused with his colleague, Victor Footer, now doing 10 days' CB following a complaint by a young woman who watched him patrol the palace beat last Sunday. She said he kicked her in the process.



AT THE BELLE — Walt Disney offering "Sleeping Beauty", as the crowning achievement of his organization, the producer brings the fine art of animation to its peak of perfection. The $6,000,000 cartoon romance "Sleeping Beauty", in Technirama and Technicolor, is playing today and Saturday at the Belle Theatre. A funny Three Stooges comedy, and Academy Award winner "Grand Canyon", in Color, are added attractions.

Republican Senator's Wife In Hollywood for Movie

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Why does a senator's wife leave a busy life to do a walk-on in a movie?

This is the riddle posed by Marion Javits, bright - eyed wife of Republican Senator Jacob Javits of New York. She is here for a role in Who Was That Lady I Saw You With? She has three brief scenes as secretary to the New York FBI chief, performing with Tony Curtis, Dean Martin, James Whitmore and John McIntire.

The whole thing started, said the pretty brunette, when she had lunch one day in Lindy's in New York City. Her lunch mate was a friend of George Sidney, who was eating there, too. Mrs. Javits told the director she had always wanted to act.

"You've got a job!" he replied.

But her yen goes deeper than just the desire to act. It has to do with the life of a senator's wife.

"It can be a lonely life," she said. "The campaigning is exciting and fun, but there is little that a wife can share with him.

"Some women can live with loneliness. I think it's easier for the older wives to adjust to it. But for the younger ones—and there are only about a dozen of us — it can be very difficult."

NEW YORK HOME

Mrs. Javits has chosen to keep her home in New York City. She goes to Washington for social occasions and her husband flies home three and four times a week — "Congressmen in the east are expected to be at home as much as they are in Washington."

She does no entertaining in Washington but the Javitses maintain a strenuous social scheduled at home from September to January, or during the congressional recess. Besides her duties as a senator's wife, she has three young children to look after and campaigns for mental health and national art fund her husband is sponsoring.

Then why does she need to act?

"Because I always wanted to", she said. "I studied dramatics at the New School of Social Research in New York and with Gertrude Lawrence at Columbia. I even made the rounds of the producers in my early days; I never got one job. But I did work as a production assistant."

She hopes to do radio and TV, but as herself and not in acting roles.

BISONS SELL HURLER

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Buffalo Bisons sold pitcher Bob Conley back to Miami Marlins in the International Baseball League, Thursday. Conley, hampered by a shoulder ailment most of the season, has been on the disabled list. His record this year was 1-4 with an earned-run average of 6.15.

Swede Ready for Return Bout With Patterson in New York

PARIS (AP) — World heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson said today he is ready and willing to meet Floyd Patterson in their return title fight in New York Sept. 22.

The champion said in an airport interview he came to Paris Thursday to discuss the muddled heavyweight situation with Bill Rosensohn, promoter of the June heavyweight bout in which the Swede dethroned Patterson with a third-round knockout.

Asked if he would meet Patterson in a rematch Sept. 22 at Yankee Stadium, Johansson replied: "Yes, that's the way it looks now."

EVADES REPORTERS

When Johansson arrived here he went into seclusion. Reporters were unable to locate him, and where he met with Rosensohn remained a secret.

The champion said in answer to a question about a possible tuneup fight before taking on Patterson: "No. I have a contract and I will fulfil it."

He said he is returning to Sweden to wait and see what develops.

Before he left Sweden, Johansson had been quoted in a Stockholm newspaper as saying "as things are now, I refuse to fight Sept. 22."

Although the arrival here Thursday of British promoter Jack Solomons led to speculation that the champion might be dickering for a pre Patterson fight in London, Johansson said he had not talked with Solomons.

Rosensohn also was among the missing.

There was speculation that Johansson may have been laying down his own terms to Rosensohn—and anybody else interested—on the rematch with Patterson.

In New York, the district attorney's office continued its investigation of the promotion of last June's fight by questioning Charley Black, pal of Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager.

Edwin Ahlquist, Johansson's adviser, previously announced he and Ingemar would fly to New York "some day next week" to discuss fight plans and find out what the squabble is about.

Truman Gibson of New York, former head of the defunct International Boxing Club also was in Paris. Earlier, he said he had turned down an offer to purchase Rosensohn's one-third interest in Rosensohn Enterprises Incorporated, which holds Johansson's contract for the rematch.

"We came over to see our daughter who is going to school here," Gibson said.

Rosensohn appeared at the New York district attorney's office Wednesday for questioning and left accompanied by a bodyguard. The next day he turned up in Paris.

City Commercial Softball League

Meads Sportsmen turned back the Bobcats Juveniles by an 8-6 score last night, a five-run outburst in the fifth tucking the victory away.

They trailed by 3-1 before the big outbreak and added two more in the fifth. Juveniles scored their fourth run in the fifth and rallied for a pair in the final frame.

Don McCurdy and Bunk Young did mound duty for the winners, McCurdy whiffing 10 in four innings and Young five in three. they divided five walks.

Fitzpatrick with Holway in the sixth hurled for the Juveniles whiffing a pair.

Muirhead hit a homer for Meads with Moynes and McCurdy getting two singles. Young hit a double and Thomas a single.

Dick Clapp hit two singles for the Juveniles while Moreau, McLaren, Keller Robitaille and Dugan also hit safely.

Junior Tennis Moves Into Late Stages

By ART WILKES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The closed section of the Canadian junior tennis championships moves into the late stages today and matches start between Canadians in the open division.

Two upsets and two near-upsets featured Thursday's second day of the 10-day championships. Unranked Brian Flood of London, Ont., Mike Belkin of Montreal and Torontonians Dellene Raymond and Brenda Nunns turned in big performances for underdogs.

Belkin downed sixth - ranked Louis Leprohon of Montreal in junior men's singles play before losing in the next round to Claude Savaria, also of Montreal.

Flood beat fifth-seeded David Woodworth of Halifax.

JUDY BORLAND ADVANCES

In junior women's singles play, top - seeded Judy Borland squeaked past Miss Raymond 5-7, 6-3 in a second-round match and then clobbered Therese Lamy of Ottawa.

Miss Nunns fought two hours with second-ranked Louise Jobin of Quebec City before losing 6-4, 3-6, 8-6. Miss Jobin then defeated Judy Shakespeare of Halifax.

Harry Fauquier of Toronto, 1959 Ontario and Quebec champion and top seeded in the Canadian championships, led the way in junior men's play with a 6-0, 6-0 whitewashing of Roch Landriault of Ottawa.

Aces Appeal For Entry in American League

QUEBEC (CP) — President Ovila Cote of Quebec Aces Thursday appealed in a 1,500-word telegram to president Richard Canning and the board of directors of the American Hockey League to accept Cote's application for a franchise in the circuit.

The appeal set forth specific financial guarantees. Cote said the matter is urgent and suggested telephone acceptance. He said a certified cheque for $10,000 has been mailed to the AHL in accordance with AHL regulations.

The AHL a few weeks ago turned down applications by the Aces and Montreal Royals for entry in the 1959-60 season. Both the Aces and Royals were members of the Quebec League which decided last month to suspend operations.

Under Cote's present proposal the Aces would guarantee the AHL:

1. Fifteen cents on each ticket sold — a minimum of $750 and maximum of $1,000 for each game to help defray clubs' travelling expenses;

2. "$25,000 this year, $15,000 next year and $100,000 the following year;

3. Deposit of a $50,000 bond to show good faith;

4. Payment of all costs of revising the 1959-60 AHL schedule.

AHL directors will discuss Cote's application at a meeting probably about mid-August, Jim Ellery, league secretary - treasurer, said in New York Thursday night.

"We'd hoped to have a meeting next week but because some of the directors are on vacation, it probably won't be until the following week," Ellery said.

RIDERS CUT TRIO

REGINA (CP)—Coach George Terlep cut three players from his Saskatchewan Roughrider squad Wednesday night. Dropped by the Western Interprovincial Football Union team were halfback Jerry Melhman from St. Benedict's College in Kansas and two young Canadians, quarterback Mal Laughton from Hamilton and halfback John Smart from Montreal.

Cards Dealt Argos Heavy Injury Hand

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts were still counting the cost Thursday after absorbing a 35-26 drubbing by Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League.

The U.S. club, doormats of the league last season, met the last-place team in the Big Four Football Union in an exhibition game Wednesday night.

Thursday, Argos learned through X-rays that Boyd Carter, one of their most reliable pass-catchers, had suffered a broken right wrist. It was also disclosed that Ross Coyle, University of Oklahoma rookie halfback, had his nose fractured during the game.

The injuries were in addition to the big one of the night—offensive centre Norm Stoneburgh, one of coach Hamp Pool's few Canadian first - stringers who snapped his left leg during the encounter.

Linebacker Don Caraway also suffered a leg injury but may be back within a month.

Carter will be out of action for two weeks and then will be available only for defensive duties because of the cast he will be wearing.

Ortega Fights Paret Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Gaspar Ortega, fifth - ranking welterweight title challenger from Mexicali, Mexico, takes on Benny (Kid) Paret of Santa Clara, Cuba in the 10-round main event at Madison Square Garden tonight, and it isn't an easy assignment.

Paret is a substitute. Ortega originally was scheduled to meet Florentino Fernandez, unbeaten Cuban, but Fernandez came down with a virus.

Charley Scott of Philadelphia then was booked to meet Ortega, but he decided he would not be ready on such short notice, so the 22-year-old Paret was moved up from a supporting 10-rounder to the main event.

Paret, a jolting left - hooker, twice has beaten Victor Zalazar, Argentine middleweight. His record is 27 victories in 33 fights, including eight knockouts. He has lost five and fought one draw.

Ortega's record is 49 victories, 15 defeats and two draws. He has scored 21 knockouts.

Soccer Tourists Whip Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Vienna's touring Rapid soccer team waltzed through 90 minutes of exciting play Thursday night to beat Toronto Italia of the National Soccer League 3-1.

The visitors' top scoring forward, Rudolf Floegel, fractured his arm in a collision with an Italia player.

Grid Fever Hits Vancouver, Lions' Coach Responsible

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Football fever has hit a high here and the man responsible is Wayne Robinson, 28, head coach of British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Robinson, the youngest head coach in Canadian professional football, came to the Lions from the Grey Cup champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers where he served two years as line coach under Bud Grant.

A rugged taskmaster, Robinson took over a club that had just suffered its worst year since joining the WIFU in 1954, losing their first 10 starts—a league record—and finishing with only three wins against 13 losses.

Robinson signed Dave Skrien, 29, as backfield coach and Lum Snyder, 28, as line coach. Skrien, who played for the Bombers in 1953, was assistant coach at Minnesota last season and Snyder won the outstanding player award with Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League in 1958.

RECORD TICKET SALE

Robinson soothed the disappointments and frustrations of five losing seasons and sparked a record season ticket sale of 18,500 with a successful winter scouting and signing tour of the United States.

A prize catch was all-American quarterback Randy Duncan of Iowa for a reported $17,000 a season. To get the 22-year-old pass sensation, Robinson had to overcome paternal objections to a Canadian football career and outbid a desperate Green Bay Packer club of the NFL.

In quick succession followed the signing of guard Hugh Drake, 22, halfback Willie Fleming, 20, and second - string quarterback Mitch Ogiego, 24, from Iowa's 1958 Rose Bowl champions.

Robinson's training tactics at the Kelowna, B.C., camp resulted in a fast, hard - hitting squad. The most sensational camp news was the switching of import veteran Paul Cameron from halfback to left end.

SHOCKED B.C. FANS

"Cameron hasn't the breakway speed needed for our system," said Robinson. He further shocked Lions followers by saying Cameron, voted the most popular B.C. player by fans last year, "has to win a spot on the club at end and he has a long way to go."

New imports include end Bill Jessep, 29, of San Francisco 49ers; tackle Charley Diamond, 23, of Miami; guard Bob Rasmussen, 22, of Minnesota; centre Ed Sullivan, 23, of Notre Dame; halfback Freddie Ford, 21, of California Poly-Tech and fullback Nub Beamer, 23, of Oregon.

SCOUTS CARRY TORCH

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The blazing torch which boy scouts are carrying to Chicago to start the Pan-American Games was carried through San Antonio Thursday. Mexican boy scouts carried the torch from Mexico City to the international border at Laredo and Texas scouts are carrying it across this state.

Leafs Purchase Pitcher Presko

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League Thursday night announced purchase of righthander Joe Presko from Charleston of the American Association.

The 30-year-old pitcher has a 3-5 record and an earned runs average of 4.72.

Toronto pitcher George Susce was returned to Charleston from where he was optioned to Toronto earlier this year. Susce won three and lost seven here with an E.R.A. of 5.50.

Meanwhile, Leafs also announced that second baseman Joe Amalfitano will be lost to the team for at least three weeks and possibly the rest of the season because of a foot injury.

Amalfitano, hitting .308 and fielding smoothly, suffered torn ligaments in his right foot in a collision at the plate during Wednesday night's game against Richmond.

Sugar Ray Fights Pender

NEW YORK (AP)—Sugary Ray Robinson has signed for a 15-round fight against Paul Pender in Boston Dec. 5, promoter Sam Silverman said Thursday night.

The National Boxing Association has withdrawn recognition of Robinson as the middleweight king but Silverman said he has an assurance from Massachusetts Boxing Commission chairman Herman Greenberg that the state will consider it for the world crown.

Pender, a fireman from Brookline, Mass., has won eight straight fights in a comeback, including an impressive 10-round decision over Ralph (Tiger) Jones.

Silverman said Robinson has signed for a 42½-per-cent guarantee of the live gate. Sugar Ray also will get 75 per cent of auxiliary money, including television rights.

Willie Saw First Game A Week Ago

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Lee McCovey, a long-legged kid with a ready grin and a whiplash swing, saw his first National League baseball game just a week ago.

He stepped into the uniform of San Francisco Giants and promptly belted two triples and two singles.

Since then the 21-year-old Negro clubbed three home runs, two doubles and three more singles as the Giants won five of six games during McCovey's first week.

"I figure that if I hit 'em, they're going to take care of themselves," first baseman Willie drawls. "And I figure I'm strong enough to hit 'em."

Willie played football and basketball in high school at Mobile, Ala., but quit as a 17-year-old to try his hand at baseball.

In 1955 he was signed to the Class D Sandersville, Ga., club. He moved up to Dansville, Va., in the Carolina League the following year, to Dallas in the Texas League in 1957 and to Phoenix of the Triple A Pacific League in 1958.

Ferrier Cooper Lead Tourney

CLEVELAND (AP) — Nifty putting gave two veteran campaigners one-stroke leads in the opening round of the $25,000 Cleveland open golf tournament Thursday.

Jim Ferrier, the Australian from North Hollywood, Calif., and Pete Cooper of Lakeland, Fla., both 44, gave the youngsters a lesson as they manufactured identical 33-34—67 scores over the Seneca Golf Club's 6,855 - yard, par 35-36—71 course.

A stroke off the pace with 68s were Mason Rudolph, Doug Ford and Don January.

Among the 152 starters was one Canadian, Jerry Magee of Toronto. He found trouble on the back nine and took 35—41—76.

Willies Do It Again; Give Giants Full Game Lead

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Dick Turpin, Cobourg softball star, who was the toast of the lakeshore town Wednesday night could be classed by Bob Temple's Bobcats as a modern prototype of his British Victorian era highwayman namesake.

The British Turpin was a swaggering, debonair road agent of those swashbuckling days when the stage coaches rolled between Ole Lunnon, the coast, and points north.

Turpin was no Robin Hood. He stole the purses of the bewigged gentry, and kisses from their pompadoured powdered ladies. He bussed many a comely wench in the inns that spotted the broad highways and oftimes poked a hammer-locked pistol into the ribs of mine host for a flazon of wine, or a beaker of ale.

One time-worn last copy of the "Boys' Own Annual" says Turpin was gibbeted after being caught, then hanged at Ludgate Hill where he swung in the foggy London breeze for all potential highwaymen to see—and be warned. He danced a windy jig at the end of the rope for several days before friends cut him down.

Somewhat like the British "Stand-and-Deliver" purloiner of purses, Cobourg's Turpin struck suddenly—and hard. Conversely he "stood and delivered" a mighty blow in a "robber" role, that netted his mates of the Merchants a valuable 1-0 victory in their quest for semi-final honors.

Bobby Hull and Jim "Sleepy" Dawe had duelled more or less sensationally for eight innings. The "lonesomest" players on the field were the respective third basemen. Nary a soul had wandered their way. Then it happened—and it practically came out of a blue sky.

Both teams knew the break had to come [illegible] neither knew which way the [illegible] things of sport would turn a smiling [illegible] the eighth inning to cast the die.

Hull was confident as he strode to the mound. He had hurled no-hit, no-run softball for six innings before giving up a measly single. This was another inning. He whipped a blazing fast ball over the plate, then another and another to retire the first batter. He may have eased up. Then it happened. The next batter lined out a single, the second Cobourg hit of the night. A mate followed him and he, too, connected with a Hull shoot.

Then came Mr. Turpin. He swung at a low fast ball and pulled it sharply. It rocketed away from his bat at ground level scarcely an inch inside the third base foul line. It nicked the bag, veered slightly into fair territory and ripped its way along the line hugging the ground until it rolled beyond retrievable reach. Turpin galloped around the bases in the wake of wildly charging mates while the faithful rose in a body and howled their hearts [illegible]

That was the ball game, one which will be [illegible] cracker barrel gossip for some time.

Tonight at the CNRA Park, the Cats and Cobourg renew their semi-finals feud in the third game of the best-of-seven series. The Merchants will likely throw their workhorse, now well-rested, Roly Campbell at the Cats, holding their ace Dawe for the fourth straight scheduled for Cobourg tomorrow night.

We do not know what the Temple strategy is. He might throw Bobby Hull right back at the now confident foemen, saving Bobby Green for tomorrow's tussle. Or it might be vice versa. However this one is a must for the Tabbies, and they are fully confident they can [illegible] a game edge. If they drop it they could very well be on the well-known spot since Sleepy Dawe is a tough [illegible] to beat in the home-town setting. In any event, tonight's game should be a thriller. It gets under way at 8:15. Better take it in.

McCovey, Mays Nip Braves As Bucs Swamp Cards 18-2; Sox, Birds Stage Marathon

By JACK HAND

The Chicago White Sox and Baltimore Orioles can put in for overtime pay after struggling through 18 innings—the longest major league game of the season—with nothing to show for their work except a 1-1 tie.

Baltimore has a special curfew that permits no inning to start after 11:59 p.m. They just were nicely getting into No. 18 at that time Thursday night.

Hoyt Wilhelm, relieving Billy O'Dell in the ninth, pitched 8 2-3 hitless innings and wound up allowing only two singles in a 10-inning workout.

Billy Pierce, Chicago's [illegible] left-hander, had the longest tour of duty of any major league pitcher this season when he worked the first 16 innings. Turk Lown finished it.

PREVIOUS MARATHONS

The same two clubs had played two 17-inning games earlier in the season. Chicago won both of them, 6-5 on June 4 and 3-2 on July 25. They also played a pair of 10-inning games.

The tie game cut Chicago's American League lead to 1½ games because Cleveland beat Washington 5-2 on [illegible]

Soon they'll be calling Billy Rigney a push-button manager. The fellow who pushed the recall button that brought Willie McCovey back from Phoenix may have won the pennant for San Francisco Giants.

The Willie firm—McCovey and Mays—did it again Thursday. As a result Giants are riding high with a full game lead on Los Angeles and a two-game edge on Milwaukee after taking two out of three from the Braves.

Sad Sam Jones went all the way with an eight-hitter for his 13th victory and shortstop Eddie Bressoud weighed in with a three-run homer in a 5-1 romp over the Braves.

It was McCovey who started the Giants off by driving in the first run. McCovey wound up with two of Giants' 10 hits. After his first eight days in the majors he is hitting .467 with 14 hits in 30 at bats. He has hit safely in all seven games since he came up.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Dick Turpin, Cobourg softball star, who was the toast of the lakeshore town Wednesday night could be classed by Bob Temple's Bobcats as a modern prototype of his British Victorian era highwayman namesake.

The British Turpin was a swaggering, debonair road agent of those swashbuckling days when the stage coaches rolled between Ole Lunnon, the coast, and points north.

Turpin was no Robin Hood. He stole the purses of the bewigged gentry, and kisses from their pompadoured powdered ladies. He bussed many a comely wench in the inns that spotted the broad highways and oftimes poked a hammer-locked pistol into the ribs of mine host for a flagon of wine, or a beaker of ale.

Our time-worn last copy of the "Boys' Own Annual" says Turpin was gibbeted after being caught, then hanged at Ludgate Hill where he swung in the foggy London breezes for all potential highwaymen to see—and be warned. He danced a windy jig at the end of the rope for several days before friends cut him down.

Somewhat like the British "Stand-and-Deliver" purloiner of purses, Cobourg's Turpin struck suddenly—and hard. Conversely he "stood and delivered" a mighty blow in a "robber" role, that netted his mates of the Merchants a valuable 3-0 victory in their quest for semi-final honors.

Bobby Hull and Jim "Sleepy" Dawe had duelled more or less sensationally for eight innings. The "lonesomest" players on the field were the respective third basemen. Nary a soul had wandered their way. Then it happened—and it practically came out of a blue sky.

Both teams knew the break bad to come some time, but neither knew which way the goddess of these intangible things of sport would turn a smiling countenance. She picked the eighth inning to cast the die.

Hull was confident as he strode to the mound. He had hurled no-hit, no-run softball for six innings before giving up a measly single. This was another inning. He whipped a sizzling fast ball over the plate, then another and another to retire the first batter. He may have eased up. Then it happened. The next batter lined out a single, the second Cobourg hit of the night. A mate followed him and he, too, connected with a Hull shoot.

Then came Mr. Turpin. He swung at a low fast ball and pulled it sharply. It rocketed away from his bat at ground level scarcely an inch inside the third base foul line. It nicked the bag, veered slightly into fair territory and ripped its way along the line hugging the ground until it rolled beyond retrievable reach. Turpin galloped around the bases in the wake of wildly charging mates while the faithful rose in a body and howled itself hoarse.

That was the ball game, one which will be softball cracker barrel gossip for some time.

Tonight at the CNRA Park, the Cats and Cobourg renew their semi-finals feud in the third game of the best-of-seven series. The Merchants will likely throw their workhorse, now well-rested, Roly Campbell at the Cats holding their ace Dawe for the fourth struggle scheduled for Cobourg tomorrow night.

We do not know what the Temple strategy is. He might throw Bobby Hull right back at the now confident foemen, saving Bobby Green for tomorrow's tussle. Or it might be vice versa. However, this one is a must for the Tabbies, and they are fully confident they can grab a game edge. If they drop it they could very well be on the well-known spot since Sleepy Dawe is a tough maverick to beat in the home-town coral. In any event tonight's game should be a thriller. It gets under way at 6.45. Better take it in.

Trenton Garrets clung to slim hopes last night after winning a weird, wacky game from the Ox Pointers. The series now stands at three gimes to one for the Ox Pointers.

High jinks, fireworks and heave-ho's featured the hassle. Dougie Hull and John Batchelor were tossed out of the game after altercations with officials. Hull didn't like a Mike Whalen call and promptly charged the official. Out he went. Batchelor didn't agree with a Don Thomas edict and promptly hurled his bat at "Duckie", who ducked, then tossed the player out on his ear.

Lots of fun, little good softball, and a loss of Point Anne votes should the umpires run for council next year.

* * *

As an after-game chaser tonight, there's the beef-trust brawl at Memorial Arena where Gene Kiniski, the Terror of the Foothills, mingles muscles with the Alaskan giant Yukon Eric. This battle of the brawn should produce plenty of fireworks since there's no love lost between this pair of bone-crushers. McCovey, Mays Nip Braves As Bucs Swamp Cards 18-2; Sox, Birds Stage Marathon

The Chicago White Sox and Baltimore Orioles can put in for overtime pay after struggling through 18 innings—the longest major league game of the season—with nothing to show for their work except a 1-1 tie.

Baltimore has a special curfew that permits no inning to start after 11:59 p.m. They just were nicely getting into No. 18 at that time Thursday night.

Billy Pierce, Chicago's stylish left-hander, had the longest tour of duty of any major league pitcher this season when he worked the first 16 innings. Turk Lown finished it.

PREVIOUS MARATHONS

The same two clubs had played two 17-inning games earlier in the season. Chicago won both of them, 6-5 on June 4 and 3-2 on July 25. They also played a pair of 10-inning games.

The tie game cut Chicago's American League lead to 1½ games because Cleveland beat Washington 5-2 on Rocky Colavito's two-run homer in the seventh. It was No. 32 for the Rock, breaking a 2-2 tie and assuring Gary Bell of his 12th victory. Bell's double had given the Indians their first two runs off loser Russ Kemmerer.

Paul Foytack pitched his first shutout of the year, a three-hit 4-0 job against New York as Detroit clinched the season series between the two clubs. The Tigers have beaten the Yanks 12 times in 17 games. Incidentally, it was the 11th time the Yanks had been blanked. Art Ditmar gave up both Detroit homers by Red Wilson and Eddie Yost.

MAKE HITS COUNT

Boston had only four hits of Kansas City pitching but made them count for a 4-3 victory. Leo Kiely pitched his way out of a bases loaded jam in the ninth to save Jerry Casale's eighth triumph. Dick Williams and Bill Tuttle of the Athletics hit home runs.

When Kiely took over there were two on and two out. He walked pinch hitter Hal Smith before Wayne Terwilliger grounded into a force out.

The long game at Baltimore saw Chicago score in the third inning on a walk and John Romano's triple. Tasby singled home the Baltimore run in the eighth as manager Paul Richards used three pinch hitters and two pinch runners.

Soon they'll be calling Billy Rigney a push button manager. The fellow who pushed the recall button that brought Willie McCovey back from Phoenix may have won the pennant for San Francisco Giants.

The Willie firm—McCovey and Mays—did it again Thursday. As a result Giants are riding high with a full game lead on Los Angeles and a two-game edge on Milwaukee after taking two out of three from the Braves.

THREE HITS FOR MAYS

Mays smashed his 18th homer in the seventh and also chipped in with two singles and scored twice. Lew Burdette wound up with his 11th defeat against 15 wins.

Los Angeles was idle and has another off day today. Cincinnati also had an open date.

Pittsburgh went on the biggest hit binge of the major league season, collecting 23 off St. Louis pitching in an 18-2 romp. Pirates scored 10 in the ninth inning, the most by any National League club this year.

Harvey Haddix breezed along to his eighth victory while Smoky Burgess drove in six runs with five hits including a three-run homer and two doubles. Fifteen Pirates went to bat in the ninth and 10 hit safely.

Chicago snapped its seven-game losing streak with a two-run rally in the eighth that beat the Phillies 4-2. Humberto Robinson was the loser in relief. Don Elston, called in when Art Ceccarelli was chased in the eighth, won his sixth in relief.

Ottawa Riders Crush Lions, Tiger-Cats Shade Bombers

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders return home today knowing they have a gold mine in Canadian talent for the 1959 Big Four football season.

Their Canadians stood side-by-side with United States imports in the glory here Thursday night as Riders scored a 35-14 victory over British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Canadian ends Ted Smale and Bob Simpson took forward passes for touchdowns and rookie halfback Ron Stewart scampered around end for five yards to another as Riders rolled up a 35-0 lead in the first three quarters.

Russ Jackson, Canadian quarterback who coach Frank Clair says will be No. 1 man for Riders in two years, played defensively most of the night, intercepting one pass. When he got a chance on offence late in the game he moved the club as well as did his U.S. counterparts.

FIND BIG GAPS

Frank Tripucka and Don Allard handled most of the quarterbacking for Riders. They picked big holes in the Lion pass defence.

Allard threw touchdown passes to Smale and Ohio State halfback Don Clark and Tripucka threw one to Simpson. Tripucka's passing also set up Clark's second touchdown on a seven-yard run around right end.

End Mack Yoho kicked all five converts for Riders.

Lions' touchdown came from veteran halfback Ed Vereb on a two-yard plunge and Iowa sensation Willie Fleming, who burst through a hole in the left side of the line, then made a 79-yard run to score. Ted Hunt kicked both converts.

It was Ottawa's second victory in three exhibition games with western teams. Riders beat Lions 24-22 earlier in Ottawa but were defeated 20-7 last Monday by Edmonton Eskimos.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats ground out an 8-5 victory over Winnipeg Blue Bombers Thursday night in an exhibition football game that had little resemblance to their last meeting—the 1958 Grey Cup.

In contrast to razzle - dazzle performances in last November's Cup classic, won by Bombers 35-28, the exhibition clash featured rugged play along the lines, with the defensive units stealing the limelight.

Ticat halfback Ron Howell scored the game's only touchdown midway through the third quarter, making a fine catch of quarterback Bernie Faloney's 25-yard pass in the Winnipeg end zone.

Punt specialist Cam Fraser counted Hamilton's other two points, as he made up for a disappointing performance in the Grey Cup final by kicking for a 51-yard average on 12 punts.

Bombers' points came on a 25-yard field goal by Carver Shannon, formerly of Southern Illinois, and two singles by fullback Charlie Shepard.

Bombers, in the Western Interprovincial Football Union, held an edge in most statistical departments but their attacks sputtered out when they go into position to go for a touchdown.

The 18,025 fans didn't see much of the individual star of the Grey Cup game, Bomber quarterback Jim Van Pelt, who scored a record 22 points in the fall classic. He left in the second quarter after spraining his left wrist in a defensive role. Bombers' signal-calling was handled capably by Kenny Ploen.

Faloney and former Toronto Argonaut Tom Dublinski, who shared the Hamilton quarterbacking job, completed 13 of 24 passes for 169 yards.

Bombers outrushed the Big Four club—rolling up 206 yards for 23 first downs, compared with Hamilton's 125 yards on the ground and 15 first downs.

Trenton Wins First Over Ox Point, Two Loftmen Tossed Out of Game

TRENTON (Staff) — Two explosions aggregating nine runs backgrounded by player-umpire hassles marked the Trenton Garretts' first victory over Point Anne in the district league semi-finals here last night. The score was 10-8. The series now stands at 3-1 for the Pointers.

The Ox-Pointers lost the services of two players when they failed to see eye-to-eye with official decisions.

Johnny Batchelor allegedly caught off second base was called out by Umpire Mike Whalen. The player charged at the umps and was promptly evicted. On another occasion Doug Hull didn't agree with a Don Thomas call and hurled his bat at the official. That was all for the Pointer shortstop.

The Trenton bats erupted for five hits and as many runs in the second innings and again in the fourth they banged out a quintet of clouts good for four runs. They added a single in the seventh.

Al. Carkner started for the Pointers and was charged with the nine runs, eleven hits and the loss. He was relieved in the fifth by Bobby Hunter who held the locals hitless over the route but was charged with a run due to an error, a stolen base and a wild pitch.

Carkner walked one and struck out a pair while Hunter whiffed four and issued no walks.

Gord Maroney was yanked from the Trenton mound after two and two thirds innings. He gave up but one run and one hit but was in trouble in the third frame. With one out he issued two walks and gave up a triple to Doug Hull. He was promptly pulled and Ron Wannamaker took over. He was touched for seven hits and six runs over the rest of the route.

The Pointers scored single runs in the first and third and broke out into a four-run rash in the sixth when they took advantage of one hit and three Trenton errors. They added a couple in the seventh.

Three home runs featured the clouting. Alexander and D. Cole connecting for four-baggers in the second-inning 5-run outburst while Peter Green lashed out a circuit blast with a mate aboard in the seventh.

Davy Jones' two doubles powered the Pointers with Claude Carr donating 2 singles. Green's homer, Hull's triple, Elliott Jr's double and Kingston's single rounded out the losers' attack.

D. Coles homer and single paced Trenton with Drake and Wannamaker kicking in with two singles each. Alexander's four-bagger Burns' double and singles by Ron Wannamaker —and Mitts completed the offensive.

The teams:

Point Anne — Carr, Jones, Hull, Batchelor, Green, Elliott Jr. Goyer, Soule, Carkner, Loft, Kingston, Hunter.

Trenton — Alexander, Drake, Mitts, L. Wannamaker, D. Cole, Smith, Burns, R. Wannamaker, Maroney, DeFosse, H. Cole.

The score:

Point Anne	101 004 200—	8	8	4
Trenton	050 040 10x—	10	11	6

Carkner, Hunter (5) and Green; Maroney, Wannamaker (3) and Burns.

Aussies Meet Italy Today In Cup Play

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Australia Thursday named its two lefthanders, Rod Laver and Neale Fraser, to face Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola in today's opening singles matches of the Davis Cup interzone tennis series. But Australian captain Harry Hopman admitted he was worried.

"Pietrangeli and Sirola are experienced international players with several Davis Cup matches behind them," Hopman said. "They are big hurdles."

The first match will send Pietrangeli, rated the best player in Europe, against the 20-year-old Laver. In the second match the towering six-foot-six Sirola takes on Fraser, whom he carried to five sets this year at Wimbledon.

CANADIAN LEADS

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) Barney Hartman of Ottawa, took the lead in the high over-all division of the 1959 world skeet shooting championships Thursday when he shattered 100 straight in the final 250-target all - gauge competition.

Hartmen, with 360x400, leads Miner Cliett of Childersburg, Ala., Edward Brown of Birmingham, Mich., and Ed Calhoun of Salisbury, Md., by one target in the race for the all-around championship.

Dave Yaeger of Anoka, Minn., broke 99x100 to keep the lead in the professional high over - all division by two targets.

Fontana Carries Canada's Hopes On Courts

By TOM MITCHELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — Canada's hopes for the singles title in the Canadian tennis championships today ride solely with Don Fontana.

The lanky Toronto player, seeded second among the Canadians, was the only homebred left in the running Thursday after foreign entries ousted four Canadians in men's and women's quarter-finals singles play.

He is to meet Cuba's Orlando Garrido in a quarter-final today.

Orlando's brother Reynaldo—the other half of the Cuban Davis Cup team—pulled the upset of the tournament Thursday downing Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., 1-6, 8-6, 6-3, 7-5.

The gallery saw more brilliant forecourt play when Witney Reed of Alamedo, Calif., hammered out an 8-6, 6-1, 10-8 win over Montreal veteran Henri Rochon, fourth-seeded Canadian.

CANADIANS WIN

The other highlight of the day was a three-hour battle in the men's doubles quarter-finals. Bedard and Fontana had to come from behind to down Australians Don Russell and John Sharpe 5-7, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2, 7-5.

In the only other doubles quarter - final played, Mexico's Antonio Palafox and Reynaldo Garrido paired for a straight-set win over Montrealers Roland Godin and Val Harit 6-2, 6-1, 6-4.

Montrealers Eleanor Dodge and Mariette Laframboise, seeded one and two, were eliminated as women's singles play went through the quarter-finals. Miss Dodge, the defending champion, lost 6-2, 6-1 to Marilyn Montgomery of San Antonio, Tex., and Mexico's Martha Hernandez defeated Miss Laframboise 6-2, 6-3.

In a mixed doubles, first-round match Fred Rheaume of Chatham and Barbara Hughes of Halifax defeated Don Platt and Louise Brown, both of Toronto, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4.

Ole Archie Tub-Thumping For Fight With Durelle

MONTREAL (CP) — Out of the Archie Moore camp Thursday came a full fledged byliner.

The champ is mad. He's mad at Yvon Durelle on several counts. And he's mad at himself for getting mad.

The typed statement, which twice mentioned that Aug. 12 is the fight date, carried heading and all. It said:

"Temper, Temper

"By Archie Moore, world light - heavyweight champion."

One thing in particular irks old Archie. When he made his acceptance speech at a boxing writers' dinner on receiving an award as fighter of the year, Durelle dozed off in the middle of the speech.

With pointed reference to his Aug. 12 date with the challenger, Archie said: "I'm very sure he'll soon get another opportunity to catch up on his rest."

Archie warmed up to his "luxury of a good 'mad'" along these lines:

Durelle claimed Moore hit him intentionally after the bell during their fight here last December. Moore eventually won by a knockout.

Durelle claimed he was the victim of discrimination by the referee.

Durelle talked about claiming the title when the fight was postponed because Moore flew to the bedside of his wife in San Diego.

At the same time Archie came up with some cheering news. He said his wife "through some miraculous surgery" has recovered to the point where she will be able to fly to Montreal for the fight along with her physician.

Mrs. Moore underwent an operation for a non-malignant mastoid growth.

With that worry over, Archie said he now is worried that "an emotional factor has entered this fight."

He has found it doesn't pay, and has "scrupulously avoided" getting mad at an opponent. Once, in a re-match with a fighter named Len Morrow, "I let my emotions get the better of me."

"Poor Len wound up in the hospital with a concussion of the brain. I've never been so badly frightened in my life.

"I'm very concerned about this fight because I'll be fighting two people — Durelle and me. Durelle doesn't both me, but my temper is something else."

Lacrosse

WELLAND (CP) — Welland-Crowland Switsons, behind some hot netminding by Justin Howe, scored a 12-8 Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior victory here Thursday night over Brampton Excelsiors.

The Switsons fired in six goals in the first half of the last period before allowing the excels to register the last three markers of the game.

Ron Roy led the way for the winners with four goals with Mike Damico tallying three. Gary Hind added two more while Morley Cook, Jack Timlock and Frank Benedict, who also registered five assists, all notched singles.

Bill Wanless and Bert Russell each scored three goals for the losers with John Ford and Jack Mudgett accounting for other two.

Leafs Drop Into Cellar; Royals Lose

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If Richmond Vees hope to win second place in the International League from the Havana Sugar Kings they must count on the strong arms of Bill Short and Bob Wiesler.

The duo have 24 of Richmond's 59 victories with Wiesler picking up victory No. 11 Thursday night, a 6-2 victory over Toronto. The defeat dropped the Maple Leafs into the cellar.

League - leading Buffalo stretched its margin to nine games over Havana with a 5-1 victory over Miami while Rochester got out of the cellar with a 3-1 victory over the Cubans. Columbus defeated Montreal 1-0.

Wiesler gave 10 hits but struck out eight in gaining his fourth victory over Toronto. The Vees scored five runs in the fifth inning to nail the loss on Al Pehanick (4-4) and move within a game of Havana. Wiesler is now 11-9.

12th FOR CHRIS SHORT

Lefty Chris Short won his 12th for the Bisons and drove in three runs with a double. Leo Burke got Miami's run with his 18th homer in the fifth inning. Short is 12-4 and loser Herb Moford 4-4.

Dick Ricketts (3-6) scattered six hits for Rochester. Billy Harrell hit a two-run homer off loser Walt Craddock (9-7).

Al Jackson joined the pitching parade with a masterful two-hitter over Montreal while his mates got only six off loser Rene Valdes (7-6). Tom Burgess drove in the only run when his fielder's choice grounder scored Julian Javier in the fourth inning. Jim Koranda's double and Clyde Parris' scratch single were the only Montreal hits as Jackson raised his record to 9-3.

VERSATILE STAR

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Ilsa Konrads, who has a hatful of world records as a swimmer, held a record in another spot Thursday. Ilsa won the javelin throw Wednesday at a track and field meet with a throw of 81 feet 10 inches. Since the javelin event was included in the program for the first time, Ilsa's effort became a record.

UNSEASONAL WEATHER — The United States weather bureau predicts that southern Canada from Newfoundland to central British Columbia will have unseasonal warmth during August. This map, based on the bureau's long-range outlook for August 1-31, shows that readings in northern Canada will be below seasonal normals.

Precipitation is expected to be heavy in Newfoundland, a belt around Hudson Bay and in northern Alberta and British Columbia. Rainfall in the Prairie Provinces is expected to range from light to moderate.

15-Nation Political Council Bosses 9 Major Commands Of NATO, All Have Veto Vote

NATO, the united effort of 15 nations to defend themselves from possible Russian aggression, now is in its second decade. After 10 years, how smooth are its administrative channels? Here's a report, last in a series of four articles.

By BEM PRICE

PARIS (AP) — The military command structure of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization consists of nine major commands divided into 44 sub-commands.

All are bossed by a 15-nation political council in which each member has an absolute veto.

Tiny Iceland, for example, can veto a decision by the 14 other member nations, including the United States, the United Kingdom and France.

The only way the NATO nations can get around such a veto is by agreements outside the NATO structure.

CAN COMPLAIN

If the senior officer complains vigorously enough about lack of co-operation, the junior probably will be transferred. It has happened.

NATO exercises no direct command over any troops or any air forces in peacetime. While troops and aircraft are assigned to NATO operations, direct control is retained by the various nations. In time of war, each nation has to decide for itself whether to release forces to NATO operation control.

While NATO is hailed as a great co-operative enterprise, it sometimes falls short of its goal.

For example, NATO is dependent upon the separate intelligence services of the 15 participating nations for information on what the Russians are doing. NATO has no organic, operating intelligence service of its own.

The NATO Supreme Commander, U.S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, relies chiefly on U.S. military sources for intelligence information. He is briefed regularly by the U. S. European command intelligence officer who draws on the sources of the army, navy, air force, central intelligence agency and embassy military attaches.

HAS TWO HATS

Norstad wears two hats. He is Allied supreme commander and commander of the U. S. forces. If the supreme commander were a non-American, he would have to rely on his own nation's intelligence.

Under the NATO command structure, over-all authority is invested in the 15-nation political council which has an elaborate headquarters in Paris. All decisions by the council must be unanimous.

Once the council makes a decision, orders are passed through a secretariat to the military committee, which has permanent headquarters in Washington, 3,000 miles away.

This committee has a sort of executive subcommittee which then passes the orders along to Supreme Headquarters, Allied Forces, Europe (SHAPE) which is located just outside Paris, about 20 miles from where the original decision was made.

CAN'T ORDER THINGS

Implementation of the council's decisions by SHAPE involves a plea for co-operation. SHAPE cannot just go out and order things done.

In theory, NATO is founded upon the principle that an attack upon one is an attack upon all. Still, each nation retains the right to say whether an attack upon one really is an attack upon all.

For example, there is no guarantee that an attack by the East Germans upon the West Germans would be considered an attack upon NATO. Some might consider it just a nasty family affair.

Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, once Britain's leading representative to NATO, has characterized the NATO command structure as "cumbersome and grossly over-staffed."

The field marshal has said that if the West went to war under the present command structure "we would have some pretty good disasters."

SUGGESTS CHANGE

He has suggested the central European powers be made responsible for defence of the area entirely and that the command structure be composed of the French, British and Americans.

Montgomery also suggested that only token British and American forces be left in Europe to indicate a determination to help defend against Soviet attack.

In addition, Montgomery noted that there were more than 100 NATO subcommittees with a tendency to long debate before reaching decisions.

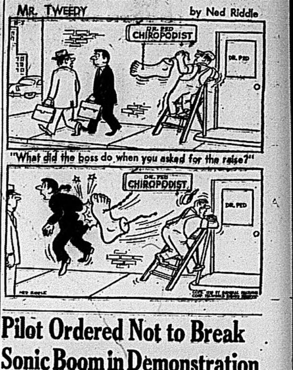
For a time it appeared that Montgomery's criticisms might force NATO into some sort of reorganization. So far nothing has happened. NATO has made no public rebuttal to Montgomery's assertions.

MAIN OFFENDER

There is scant doubt, by the way, that the bulk of Europe's present defences are provided by the United States. If Montgomery's suggestion that central Europe be defended by central Europeans were adopted, France would have to return a large number of the 650,000 troops she now has in Algeria to the homeland and Germany would have to embark on a swift buildup to 12 divisions—five more than she now has.

The United States currently has 330,000 soldiers in western Europe, 150,000 of whom are classified as combat troops. The rest are involved in staff work, logistics and communications.

The U.S. air force has some 115,000 men in Europe along with around 1,100 aircraft, according to an educated guess. Actual aircraft figures are classified.



Pilot Ordered Not to Break Sonic Boom in Demonstration

OTTAWA (CP) — A United States Air Force Starfighter jet didn't break the sound barrier Thursday in a demonstration for the cabinet and the press.

Capt. G. L. Schulstad, U.S. Air Force pilot, was under orders not to repeat the sonic boom which caused $50,000 or more damage Wednesday to the new Ottawa air terminal.

Scores of plate glass windows in the new $6,000,000 terminal were shattered when the Lockheed F-104A broke through the sonic barrier during a low-level pass.

A transport department spokesman said the plane, an early model of the Lockheed Starfighter which is being purchased for overseas squadrons of the RCAF, apparently slipped through the sound barrier without Capt. Schulstad being aware of it. The plane is capable of 1,500 miles an hour and the sound barrier is in the region of 760 m.p.h.

TO DELAY OPENING

The scheduled September opening of the air terminal, constructed with an exterior largely of glass, will have to be postponed said the department.

The air force originally placed damage at a maximum of $5,000. But architect James Strutt said that in estimating the damage $50,000 "would be a good place to start."

A source in the department of transport said the damage bill could go as high as $100,000. The transport department will make a claim against the defence department when the repair cost has been established three or four weeks from now.

Specially tinted, 18-by-eight foot sheets of glass which take up to six months to obtain were among those shattered. Weather stripping and exterior tile was twisted and will require complete relaying.

Transport Minister Hees, whose department is responsible for construction of the new $6,000,000 terminal, said to Capt. Schulstad before he took off Thursday: "Now don't break any more of my windows."

Khrushchev Not Interested in Military Bases

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Russian ambassador doesn't include military bases in the list of "many pleasant and interesting places" Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is likely to see in touring the United States.

Defence Secretary Neil McElroy said Thursday at a press conference it would be constructive for Khrushchev to see some of the bases during his visit here next month.

McElroy said he knew the Soviet leader had said he had no wish to see American bases. But McElroy added he thought it was possible Khrushchev might want to change his mind.

Russian Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov had a prompt reply—that Khrushchev "doesn't usually change his mind."

TO INFORM RUSSIAN

McElroy, in response to a question, said the purpose of having Khrushchev visit bases would be more to inform than impress. He said some American officials, himself among them, have been concerned that a Soviet miscalculation of U.S. military power might result in Soviet military action.

The defence secretary said he would be willing to show Khrushchev installations such as the strategic air command base at Omaha and the Cape Canaveral, Fla., missile test site.

STARTS SEPT. 15

A Sept. 15 starting date for Khrushchev's visit was made definite Thursday.

The ambassador said scheduling of the cross-country tour is difficult because "there are so many pleasant and interesting places" to visit. Invitations have been stacking up, Menshikov added.

Khrushchev's tour is expected to last about 10 days.

UNSEASONAL WEATHER — The United States weather bureau predicts that southern Canada from Newfoundland to central British Columbia will have unseasonal warmth during August. This map, based on the bureau's long-range outlook for August 1-31, shows that readings in northern Canada will be below seasonal normals.

Precipitation is expected to be heavy in Newfoundland, a belt around Hudson Bay and in northern Alberta and British Columbia. Rainfall in the Prairie Provinces is expected to range from light to moderate.

15-Nation Political Council Bosses 9 Major Commands Of NATO, All Have Veto Vote

NATO, the united effort of 15 nations to defend themselves from possible Russian aggression, now is in its second decade. After 10 years, how smooth are its administrative channels? Here's a report, last in a series of four articles.

By BEM PRICE

PARIS (AP) — The military command structure of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization consists of nine major commands divided into 44 sub-commands.

All are bossed by a 15-nation political council in which each member has an absolute veto.

Tiny Iceland, for example, can veto a decision by the 14 other member nations, including the United States, the United Kingdom and France.

The only way the NATO nations can get around such a veto is by agreements outside the NATO structure.

CAN COMPLAIN

If the senior officer complains vigorously enough about lack of co-operation, the junior probably will be transferred. It has happened.

NATO exercises no direct command over any troops or any air forces in peacetime. While troops and aircraft are assigned to NATO operations, direct control is retained by the various nations. In time of war, each nation has to decide for itself whether to release forces to NATO operation control.

While NATO is hailed as a great co-operative enterprise, it sometimes falls short of its goal.

For example, NATO is dependent upon the separate intelligence services of the 15 participating nations for information on what the Russians are doing. NATO has no organic, operating intelligence service of its own.

The NATO Supreme Commander, U.S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, relies chiefly on U.S. military sources for intelligence information. He is briefed regularly by the U. S. European command intelligence officer who draws on the sources of the army, navy, air force, central intelligence agency and embassy military attaches.

HAS TWO HATS

Norstad wears two hats. He is Allied supreme commander and commander of the U. S. forces. If the supreme commander were a non-American, he would have to rely on his own nation's intelligence.

Under the NATO command structure, over-all authority is invested in the 15-nation political council which has an elaborate headquarters in Paris. All decisions by the council must be unanimous.

Once the council makes a decision, orders are passed through a secretariat to the military committee, which has permanent headquarters in Washington, 3,000 miles away.

This committee has a sort of executive subcommittee which then passes the orders along to Supreme Headquarters, Allied Forces, Europe (SHAPE) which is located just outside Paris, about 20 miles from where the original decision was made.

CAN'T ORDER THINGS

Implementation of the council's decisions by SHAPE involves a plea for co-operation. SHAPE cannot just go out and order things done.

In theory, NATO is founded upon the principle that an attack upon one is an attack upon all. Still, each nation retains the right to say whether an attack upon one really is an attack upon all.

For example, there is no guarantee that an attack by the East Germans upon the West Germans would be considered an attack upon NATO. Some might consider it just a nasty family affair.

Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, once Britain's leading representative to NATO, has characterized the NATO command structure as "cumbersome and grossly over-staffed."

The field marshal has said that if the West went to war under the present command structure "we would have some pretty good disasters."

SUGGESTS CHANGE

He has suggested the central European powers be made responsible for defence of the area entirely and that the command structure be composed of the French, British and Americans.

Montgomery also suggested that only token British and American forces be left in Europe to indicate a determination to help defend against Soviet attack.

In addition, Montgomery noted that there were more than 100 NATO subcommittees with a tendency to long debate before reaching decisions.

For a time it appeared that Montgomery's criticisms might force NATO into some sort of reorganization. So far nothing has happened. NATO has made no public rebuttal to Montgomery's assertions.

MAIN OFFENDER

There is scant doubt, by the way, that the bulk of Europe's present defences are provided by the United States. If Montgomery's suggestion that central Europe be defended by central Europeans were adopted, France would have to return a large number of the 650,000 troops she now has in Algeria to the homeland and Germany would have to embark on a swift buildup to 12 divisions—five more than she now has.

The United States currently has 330,000 soldiers in western Europe, 150,000 of whom are classified as combat troops. The rest are involved in staff work, logistics and communications.

The U.S. air force has some 115,000 men in Europe along with around 1,100 aircraft, according to an educated guess. Actual aircraft figures are classified.

Pilot Ordered Not to Break Sonic Boom in Demonstration

OTTAWA (CP) — A United States Air Force Starfighter jet didn't break the sound barrier Thursday in a demonstration for the cabinet and the press.

Capt. G. L. Schulstad, U.S. Air Force pilot, was under orders not to repeat the sonic boom which caused $50,000 or more damage Wednesday to the new Ottawa air terminal.

Scores of plate glass windows in the new $6,000,000 terminal were shattered when the Lockheed F-104A broke through the sonic barrier during a low-level pass.

A transport department spokesman said the plane, an early model of the Lockheed Starfighter which is being purchased for overseas squadrons of the RCAF, apparently slipped through the sound barrier without Capt. Schulstad being aware of it. The plane is capable of 1,500 miles an hour and the sound barrier is in the region of 760 m.p.h.

TO DELAY OPENING

The scheduled September opening of the air terminal, constructed with an exterior largely of glass, will have to be postponed said the department.

The air force originally placed damage at a maximum of $5,000. But architect James Strutt said that in estimating the damage $50,000 "would be a good place to start."

A source in the department of transport said the damage bill could go as high as $100,000. The transport department will make a claim against the defence department when the repair cost has been established three or four weeks from now.

Specially tinted, 18-by-eight foot sheets of glass which take up to six months to obtain were among those shattered. Weather stripping and exterior tile was twisted and will require complete relaying.

Transport Minister Hees, whose department is responsible for construction of the new $8,000,000 terminal, said to Capt. Schulstad before he took off Thursday: "Now don't break any more of my windows."

Khrushchev Not Interested in Military Bases

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Russian ambassador doesn't include military bases in the list of "many pleasant and interesting places" Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is likely to see in touring the United States.

Defence Secretary Neil McElroy said Thursday at a press conference it would be constructive for Khrushchev to see some of the bases during his visit here next month.

McElroy said he knew the Soviet leader had said he had no wish to see American bases. But McElroy added he thought it was possible Khrushchev might want to change his mind.

Russian Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov had a prompt reply—that Khrushchev "doesn't usually change his mind."

TO INFORM RUSSIAN

McElroy, in response to a question, said the purpose of having Khrushchev visit bases would be more to inform than impress. He said some American officials, himself among them, have been concerned that a Soviet miscalculation of U.S. military power might result in Soviet military action.

The defence secretary said he would be willing to show Khrushchev installations such as the strategic air command base at Omaha and the Cape Canaveral, Fla., missile test site.

STARTS SEPT. 15

A Sept. 15 starting date for Khrushchev's visit was made definite Thursday.

The ambassador said scheduling of the cross-country tour is difficult because "there are so many pleasant and interesting places" to visit. Invitations have been stacking up, Menshikov added.

Khrushchev's tour is expected to last about 10 days.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Hewton will soon be moving in their new home.

New Governor-General Had Close Escape From Germans

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — For seven hours the inconspicuous little sardine boat had rolled in the swells of the choppy Bay of Biscay. Then the warship was sighted.

"To my surprise and joy, it turned out to be a Canadian destroyer," said Maj.-Gen. George Vanier, one of the boat's distinguished and uncomfortable passengers.

In an interview today, Canada's governor-general designate recalled his hurried departure from France in June, 1940, as Adolf Hitler's Wehrmacht mopped up what was left of the French Army.

The general, Canadian minister to Paris, together with the British ambassador, the South African minister and a British naval attache, he had slipped away in the little vessel from the small fishing village of Arcachon.

Originally, the party was to be picked up by the British cruiser Galatea 15 miles offshore. But the naval attache's radio receiver brought them word that the cruiser couldn't keep the rendezvous because of German submarines in the area.

NO GREAT DANGER

"We were sick but not in any great danger," Gen. Vanier said. "The submarines were interested in cruisers, not sardine boats."

The destroyer, HMCS Fraser, whisked the diplomatic party off to Saint-Jean-de - Luz, near the Spanish border, where Galatea was waiting for them.

The incident ended Gen. Vanier's first tour of duty in Paris, which had begun with his appointment in January, 1939.

One of the last foreign diplomats to leave France, the general was the first to return, transferring his headquarters from Algiers to Paris on Sept. 8, 1944, the day after the capital was liberated. His retirement as ambassador nine years later was described by the Paris correspondent of The Times as "almost equivalent to the removal of a Paris landmark."

REVISIT FRANCE

The general and Mrs. Vanier leave Friday on a 10-day trip to renew their French ties. Four or five days will be spent in Paris, where their son, Jean, 31, is studying philosophy.

At the Burgundian village of Vezveay, the Vaniers will be joined by another son, Bernard, 32, an artist who lives at Aix-en-Provence, near Marseille.

The Vaniers' youngest son, Michel, 18, is travelling with his parents and will return with them to Canada to take a philosophy course at Laval University, Quebec. He has been at school in Frobourg, Switzerland.

A fourth son, George, 34, is a monk at the Trappist monastery in Oka, Que. Their daughter, Therese, is a pediatrician in London.

The silver - haired general, whose appointment as governor-general takes effect Sept. 15, said his French visit will be "purely private."

Eldorado

ELDORADO—Mrs. John Post is a patient in Belleville General Hospital, all hope she will soon be around again.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Saturday, August 8

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — It behooves you to relax a while today with the person with whom you enjoy most happy comradeship, your mate or closest associate. You can come to a real meeting of minds at golf, tennis or other recreation.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Many chances are open to you now to make your surroundings cheerful or find greater fellowship with loved ones. Impress partners with your true devotion. Good day to get clothing, appearance in finest condition, also.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — A day for having a ball. Dress in the height of fashion, then be off to some delightful pastime with good pals. P. M. delight other friends with a bit of entertainment at home—inexpensive. Have fun.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — There is quite a good deal to be done in the way of repairs at home now, but don't think only of utilities. Add that dash of color or bit of charming art work that brightens dark corners, too. Express own personality.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Fine day for marketing, shopping for those articles of charm, necessities that should not be put off. Latter part of day should then be spent at sports or creative recreation that relaxes you best. Be your own dynamic self.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Inspect furnishings, walls, etc., of own abode and see what you can do in the way of adding beauty thereto. Clean, paint, rearrange furniture, have fun putting things as best suits own artistic taste. Raise sales value thusly, too.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Fine day to have the sort of Saturday you like best. But be sure you first visit the barber or beautician to get appearance at its nicest. P. M. have a fine sociable evening. Smile.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Since you love to investigate that which puzzles, this is the day to do so successfully to your heart's desire. However, be sure you are loyal to those who are your true friends. And don't jump to quick conclusions.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Certainly your day to enjoy good fellowship with those who are vital to your career and cement better relations so that you have greater rapport in the future. P. M. go about socially and meet interesting new people.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Get into all those duties that are impossible during busy work week. Slant your thoughts careerwise and make plans about next week's work so that you extract the most from labor hours. Think and grow rich.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Make it your business to meet interesting and influential persons today who can help you to further your career. Be well informed by reading your paper thoroughly, invest in other periodicals that give fine leads.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Since you are by nature a very methodical person, this is the day to put all insurance, property and government papers in order. Set up an excellent budget for yourself, too, that has some elasticity for emergencies. P. M. time for romance.

If your child is born today ... The wonderful little child born today will mature into a beloved personality who is full of love as well as have a great deal of ability in whatever career is chosen. However, be sure you or others do not early spoil your progeny by too much attention. Also, give duties to perform early so that work habit is formed, and then the chart becomes a most satisfying and talented

BIG HORSES KILLED

HEDRICK, Iowa (AP) — Two Belgian horses, billed by their owner, L. J. Smith, as the world's largest, were killed Wednesday when lightning set fire to a barn. One of the horses, Jumbo was eight years old and weighed 2,900 pounds. The team has been widely exhibited at fairs and Smith was preparing to leave for Pennsylvania to show the horses.

JAIL TERMS

MADRID (Reuters) — Seven Spanish students, charged before a military court martial with distributing propaganda urging a general strike, were sentenced Monday to prison terms of from six months to three years. Two others, including a woman' student, were acquitted.

World's Best Tranquilizer

By ROY L. SMITH

The great pharmaceutical houses are giving much attention to the question of tranquilizers—those strange drugs that have the effect of providing us with relaxation in the presence of anxiety and fear.

So great is the market for these drugs that at least one authority has reported that more than forty million prescriptions are written by the doctors every year. In the case of some of the drugs the costs are excessive, in terms of physical after effects. In the case of others, the results are almost negligible. But in the case of all of them, the public goes on consuming them.

"Do right and fear no man", is the way an old proverb puts the matter, but there are hundreds of thousands among us who have done the right thing, and yet have good reason to fear. The reason is simple. Evil men, who love evil, are quite ready to visit their wrath upon other men who do the right.

That person who trusts to his right-doing and expects it to deliver him out of the hands of the frightful, is doomed to disappointment. No one is able to escape all the anxieties and terrors of life by the simple expedient of doing right. We need something more.

I HAVE DONE MY BEST

A godly man who had found himself involved in a messy situation, quite against his will and without being in any way responsible, said "I have the satisfaction of knowing that I have done my best. I am very sure, too, that God has done his best. That means that God's best is added to my best and I know that means the best possible."

But the best possible oftentimes involves discomfort, disappointments, and even defeat. But it will save us endless worry if we will remember that nothing is to be gained by adding worry to disappointment.

HOPING FOR BEST

The author of Ecclesiastes was the kind of man who was determined to do his best. He made no real profession of knowing the mind of God. He had arrived at a "reasonable" interpretation of life, and was content to let the matter rest there.

But it is one of the confidences of the Christian that he may expect to be provided with divine guidance. Such help comes in a variety of forms, and it is sometimes difficult to be sure that we are listening to the voice of God, for it sounds so much like the voice of a friend, or even the voice of the preacher.

> The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for August 9: "Life—Vanity or Victory?" Book of Ecclesiastes.

He who hopes for the best owes it to himself to understand the mind of God sufficiently well that he will recognize the best when he see it. Many a man has hoped for the best and missed it because he did not recognize it.

SEARCH FOR VALUES

Life holds no more exciting experiences than this — the search for true values.

Jesus told the story of the merchant who sold all he had to get the money with which to pay for the pearl of great price. It was an illustration of the fact that all values are not the same, and all prizes are not worth the same.

The author of Ecclesiastes has found some things very much worth while, but other things he has found have no more than passing values. This means, of course that a man is justified in making any sacrifice that may be necessary in order to achieve the lasting values, and that much energy and strength are wasted on the achievement of the temporary values of life. Blessed is the man who knows the difference.

INSIDE ENVIRONMENTS

A wise and discerning Negro woman, who had worked much about the wards of a great hospital, said to a friend one day, "I've discovered that it makes all the difference in the world what kind of environments a person's got inside of them."

In this there is much of the secret of successful living. The man of faith has within him a confidence in the eternals — eternal truth, eternal justice, eternal right and eternal godliness. And having that confidence he has some part of the character of God himself.

To live by faith is to achieve serenity, and there is no better tranquilizer known than the peace that rests down upon faith.

American Navy Developing New Radar Device

Will Give Quick Report On Missile Launchings

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new radar device to spy across oceans and give a quick report on ballistic missile launchings is being developed, the U.S. Navy says.

The radar also could be used as one means of uncovering sneak tests of nuclear weapons in violation of any international agreement.

Dr. William J. Thaler, father of the new radar setup called Project Tepee, said Friday night: "I would hope you could double the warning time."

This would mean that the United States would have almost 30 minutes instead of 15 minutes —possible under the U.S. system now being built — in which to launch counter-weapons. Military men figure it would take about 30 minutes for a missile fired in Russia to reach the United States.

TALKS TO REPORTERS

Thaler, 33, talked to reporters about the office of naval research project. Asked whether the navy had tested the device against Russian ICBM testing launchings, he replied "No."

Trials with the device, still is in the early "breadboard" developmental stage, have worked at what amount to intercontinental ranges—5,500 miles, he said.

Thaler said the device is located at an undisclosed place in continental United States and picked up the ballistic missile-nuclear explosive tests made last summer in Project Argus in the South Atlantic and the Johnston Island tests in the Pacific.

However, the New York Times said today that several stations now are in operation, adding: "Soviet missile and satellite firings have been monitored for the last several months from locations within the boundaries of the continental United States."

CAN GET LOCATION

The newspaper also said:

"The system can also determine the location of missile-launching sites and can evaluate the performance of a rocket thousands of miles away. Such information has already yielded important guide lines on the state of the Soviet missile program."

If the detection equipment will spot a missile within seconds or brief minutes from the firing time at a range of more than 5,000 miles, it would appear to be better than the U.S. Air Force's Ballistic Missile Early Warning System (BMEWS) now being built in the far north. That conventional although long range radar system is designed to detect missiles at distances of about 2,000 or 3,000 miles—after they are well on the way toward target.

The new device carries the name of "high frequency ionospheric back scatter radar."

WORKS ON GAS

It detects ionized gas, those particles of electrons which appear in temperatures of thousands or millions of degrees after a nuclear explosion or in the exhaust trail of rocket motors on ballistic missiles.

Ordinary radar works on a straight, line-of-sight pattern. The beam won't bend around the curve of the earth, so anything below the curve is hidden to the radar's eyes.

But Thaler figured out that with high-frequency radar, which behaves somewhat like a radio wave but has the characteristic of returning, he could do this:

Mom Whyte May Attend Hearing At Hampton

BOWMANVILLE (CP) — Back in almost-deserted Whytehaven Mission today, Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte is trying to decide whether to attend a court hearing which will determine the custody of about 100 children taken from the home by government officials.

For four nights she slept outside a wire fence surrounding the Sacred Heart Children's Village in Toronto, waiting to see one of her favorite wards, six-year-old Bruce Wilkins.

Friday, when officials at the Children's Village still refused to let her see the boy who was put in her care five years ago after being severely burned, she finally packed up and drove away.

She said, "I couldn't say right now" when asked whether she would attend the court hearing. However, she was definite when she said she had applied to register her home under the provincial Charitable Institutions Act. She said she would need $10,000 to enlarge her home and bring it up to standards specified in the act.

The children were taken from the mission by Ontario health and welfare department officials a week ago Friday, following complaints that the mission was overcrowded and dangerous to health.

The court hearing has been set for next Wednesday at Hampton, five miles north of Bowmanville. Crown Attorney Harry Deyman of Cobourg said notices are being sent to parents of 45 of the children and to the 16 municipalities now supporting them. Mrs. Whyte will also receive a notice, he said.

Country Women Call for End Of Nuclear Tests

EDINBURGH (Reuters) — A world convention of country women called here this week for an end to nuclear weapons tests.

The ninth triennial conference of the Associated Countrywomen of the World passed a resolution Wednesday urging the suspension of all nuclear tests "destructive to humanity" for the sake of "safeguarding the human race from extinction and in the names of innocent women and children."

The conference, grouping about 1,000 delegates from rural women's clubs in 34 countries opened Tuesday and continues until August 15.

The association grew out of a union of women's rural associations set up to improve the standard of living of countryfolk. In the vanguard of the movement was the Canadian Women's Institute, founded in Stoney Creek, Ont., in 1897, by Mrs. Adelaide Hunter Hoodless.

The ACWW, now representing some 6,000,000 women in more than 100 different organizations, was granted consultative status by the United Nations in 1947.

The resolution on banning nuclear tests was introduced by the All-Pakistan Women's Association.

RED TROOPS MASS ALONG VIETNAM LAOTIAN BORDER

Believe Preparing Heavy Offensive

VIENTIANE, Laos (Reuters)— The Laotian army today reported a "massive concentration of Communist North Vietnamese troops along the mountainous Laos-North Viet Nam border.

Jungle war broke out a week ago between Laotian troops and pro-Communist guerrillas in the northern provinces of this Indochinese kingdom.

A statement issued by army headquarters said the report of massive concentration was received from a Laotian commander in the troubled northern province of Sam Neua.

The statement added that the Communists were believed preparing a big offensive to regain control of the province, formerly controlled by the pro-Communist Laotian Patriotic party.

It added that the purpose of the Communist move was to force the return of the international truce commission established under the Indochina cease-fire agreement signed in Geneva in 1954.

The Vientiane newspaper Independent—directed politically by Premier Phouy Sananikone—warned North Viet Nam that the war in Laos could easily spread to "become a Southeast Asian war."

"Let the leaders in North Viet Nam be convinced that Laos is not alone in the face of aggression", it said, warning that the military situation in the country could become more serious following attacks from Laotian rebels who, it claimed, had crossed from North Viet Nam.

Worker Killed

ARNPRIOR (CP)—Willis Hamilton, 65 - year - old construction worker believed to be from Nova Scotia, was killed Friday when a crane used in pouring cement for a new hospital wing here buckled, dumping its bucket of cement on him.

Pilot Bails Out Nine Miles Above Earth, Takes 40 Minutes to Reach It

BEAUFORT, S.C. (AP) —The pilot baled out of his crippled jet nine miles above the earth at 500 miles an hour. He did not reach the earth in his parachute for 40 minutes, and received a buffeting from a raging thunderstorm that made him feel as if "I was playing the whole Notre Dame football team."

Lt.Col. William H. Rankin, 39, recounted his story Friday to The Associated Press. He is recovering in hospital while doctors study his reactions to what may have been the highest-altitude parachute jump ever made.

On the night of July 26 Rankin was on a high-altitude navigation flight. His F-8U Crusader fighter's engine suddenly stopped, for unknown reasons, while he was in a gentle climb at 47,000 feet.

Rankin pulled the ejection curtain over his face and triggered the capsule that hurtled him from the plane.

"I felt a violent decompression, my whole body expanded. It was freezing cold. It had been 75 degrees in the cockpit, outside it was below zero. I couldn't keep my eyes open and my nose was bleeding freely. My hands got numb and one wrist and ankle got frostbitten.

"The chute is set by barometric pressure to open at 10,000 feet. After a fall of about two minutes I felt a sharp jerk. I was in the overcast and couldn't see my parachute, but I tested the riders and knew I was in good shape now."

Then he entered the thunderstorm.

B.C. Net Fishermen Return To Work, Strike Is Settled

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's 5,000 salmon net fishermen were returning to the fishing grounds today after a two-week strike. Four thousand other workers in the industry will return to work as soon as they are called.

The United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (Ind.) announced the return to work Friday night, only a few weeks before the fishing season is due to pass its peak.

Union members and the native Brotherhood of B.C., representing Indian fishermen, voted overwhelmingly in favor of accepting a final wage-price offer by the Fisheries Association of B.C.

Homer Stevens, secretary of the UFAWU, said the fishermen voted 84.9 per cent in favor of the settlement, based on a two-year contract which gives them minimum prices slightly higher than those paid last year.

The walkout began with the fishermen July 25.

The fishing industry is British Columbia's second largest. The largest industry — lumber — has been tied up for five weeks by a strike of 27,000 coast woodworkers who walked out in support of demands for a 20-cent increase in the hourly wage of $1.72.

Also on strike are 550 ironworkers seeking the hourly rate of $2.62.

Shetland Isles Were Ready But Love's Labor All in Vain

LERWICK, Shetland Islands (AP) — Tom Johnston says the least the Queen could have done is tell him she's expecting a baby.

"One would have thought that those of wisdom who guide the Queen could have forseen this possibility and avoided all this trouble," said Johnston, town clerk of Lerwick.

The Queen was to have visited the islands next week and now has cancelled the trip after all arrangements have been made and invitations sent out.

"It seems impossible we should have been allowed to make all these preparations, then on the eve be told that it is all off," Johnston said.

"Personally, after this another visit will be a matter of indifference as there could never be the same anticipation as on this occasion."

Johnston declared the Shetlands have waited a long time for a royal visit — 800 years in fact. It has been that long since a reigning monarch set foot on these barren, rock-strewn islands off Britain's north coast.

In the main island towns of Kirkwall, Stromness and Lerwick, the red, white and blue bunting, the Union Jacks and the standards of Scotland came down.

Many islanders spent hours in recent weeks brightening their homes with coats of whitewash just in case the Queen should happen to drop in.

Internal problems have now beset the islands' fathers.

Who will pay for all the preparations?

What will they do with all the food and drink ordered?

Property Damage Could Run up To $12,000,000

ROSEBURG, Ore. (AP)—Eight blocks of the business district of this Southern Oregon city—seared and shattered when a truckload of explosives blew up like a bomb —were sealed off by the National Guard today while searchers sought more victims.

At least 11 persons were killed early Friday when the 6½ tons of dynamite and other explosives detonated after fire spread to the parked truck from a nearby building blaze.

Coroner C. H. Babbitt said he was certain there were other deaths. He said ashes, believed to be the remains of humans, were found in a charred rooming house near the blast scene. The ashes are being sent to a laboratory for testing.

Some 100 persons were injured by the blast, 52 of them requiring hospital treatment.

WIDESPREAD DAMAGE

Buildings in some 22 blocks around the blast scene were damaged. Firemen said they had reports of windows being broken as far away as seven miles.

Arlo Jacklin, mayor of this city of 12,200, said property damage probably will total $10,000,000 to $12,000,000.

The truck, loaded with two tons of stick dynamite and 4½ tons of the explosive mixture of ammonium nitrate and oil, had been parked near the Gerretsen Building Supply Company building for the night by its driver, George Rutherford, 47, of Cehalis, Wash.

It is believed a fire started in trash cans and then spread to the Gerretsen structure. Firemen were fighting the fire — which spread quickly — when at 1:15 a.m., the truck blew up with a deafening roar.

GODFREY TO RETURN

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur Godfrey, recovering from a lung cancer operation, will return to active duty on television Sept. 16 as the star of a special variety show over the CBS network. Godfrey is now in Hawaii taping part of the program.

NATO Flight Cadet Killed in Crash

CENTRALIA (CP) — A NATO flight cadet was killed and another was severey injured Friday night in a two-car highway crash near here.

Officials at this RCAF base about 30 miles north of London said six flight cadets were pushing their stalled car when the accident happened.

The dead man, believed to have been from Norway, was about 20.

NEW SATELLITE MAY EASE MAN'S WAY INTO SPACE

Will Gather Special Scientific Data

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) Paddle-wheeled Explorer VI, the most advanced U.S. satellite, orbited in a wide sweep around the earth today and collected scientific data that may ease man's way into space.

The spheroid, sporting four paddle vanes trying to catch energy from the sun, was launched Friday at the missile test centre here. A Thor-Able rocket, 90 feet long and in three stages, sent it aloft.

Soaring 25,950 miles from earth at its highest point and coming 152 miles above earth at its lowest, the satellite had the longest orbit of the six artificial moons now in space. It also takes six times as long as any other satellite to make a trip around the earth—12½ hours.

Packed in the 142-pound satellite was the most comprehensive scientific package ever orbited by the United States, enough instruments to perform 15 experiments.

The National Astronautics and Space Administration in Washington, getting reports on signals transmitted by the satellite on 108.06 and 108.09 megacycles and on an undisclosed high frequency, reported that every instrument tested was working perfectly.

In summary, the instruments would:

1. Measure the intensity and length of the deadly radiation in the Van Allen belts that hover around the earth.

2. Demonstrate whether the four paddle vanes can convert enough of the sun's rays into electrical energy so that a future space ship could send radio messages from 20,000,000 to 50,000,000 miles in space.

3. Scan the earth's cloud cover and transmit radio signals that might be converted into pictures that could help weather forecasting.

4. Measure the density of micrometeorites or cosmic dust to see how a space ship would hold up under their bombardment.

5. Chart the earth's magnetic field.

6. Study the behavior of radio waves to learn more about communications far out in space.

Power Break Kills Workman

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Jean Paul Belanger, 25, of Frontenac County, Que., was electrocuted Friday in a power line accident in the bush 18 miles north of here. Two companions suffered burns in a rescue attempt.

Leon Champagne, 33, of Montreal was released from hospital after treatment. George Lafrance, 35, of Sault Ste. Marie, the foreman, did not require hospital care.

Police said Belanger was holding up a power pole when it toppled, pinning him against a guy wire and dragging down a high-tension wire on top of him.

The men were working for the Great Lakes Power Company.

HIT BY TRUCK

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)— Michael Orr, 8, was killed Friday when hit by a truck near his home. He was the first person to die in a traffic accident here in 949 days—more than 2½ years.

Wailing, Stomping, Hand-Clapping Mark Old-Time Fiddlers Contest

SHELBURNE (CP)—The little village of Shelburne, nestled in the heart of Dufferin County, went a bit daffy Friday night over the fiddle.

About 3,000 folks, more than twice Shelburne's population, sat through nine hours of high-pitched wailing as the annual Canadian old-time fiddling competition hit its stride.

It was some show. The sound of stomping feet and clapping hands rang loud in the community arena as fiddlers reached the semi-finals of the Canadian open championship.

They were selected from among 104 fiddlers who toiled with the bow until 4:15 a.m.

To compete for top prize of $800 and the Shelburne Cup are: Ken Cameron, 39, of Fort River, Man., Al Cherny, 26, of Wingham, Mrs. June Eikhard, 26, of Sackville, N.B., Edward Gyurki, 21, of Woodstock, Ned Landry, 37, of Saint John, N. B., Wayne (Sleepy) Marlin, 43, of Louisville, Ky., Victor Pasowsty, 29, of Toronto and Stan Cardinal, 31, of Monroe City, Ind.

The contest was started nine years ago to settle an argument between two area fiddlers as to whether youngsters or old-timers were the best fiddlers.

Gyurki is the defending champion. He is expected to get tough competition from Marlin, who has won the novelty title for six straight years.

Marlin and two others, Cherny and Harold Brodhagan, 51, of Haliburton, entered the final of the novelty division, which carries the Shelburne Rotary Club Cup.

Also to be decided is the Canadian champion. Gyurki won it last year and is bidding to retain it this year along with the Globe and Mail Trophy.

The competition is sponsored by the CBC and the Rotary Club in this village 35 miles north of Guelph. The finals will be broadcast over the CBC's Dominion network for an hour tonight starting at 9:30 p.m. EDT.

'Name The Baby' London's Latest Guessing Game

Could Be Prince James Or Princess Mary

BALMORAL, Scotland (CP) —The Queen, expecting her third child, vacationed with her family today at Balmoral Castle.

Behind the grey walls of the castle built by Queen Victoria in 1854, the Queen was effectively screened from the excitement let loose by the impending royal birth. With her release from public engagements she now is free to enjoy the seclusion of her Scottish home until late October.

Messages of congratulations began flooding the tiny village post office near Balmoral and the British press went into a happy tizzy over the coming event.

INFORMAL HEADLINES

"Well!" exclaimed The Daily Sketch. "What lovely news."

"Feeling fine!" declared The Daily Express.

"A February Baby?" mused The News Chronicle.

"Delighted ma'am," said The Daily Mail.

Inevitably, the big guessing game started on the likely name of the new baby. Pick of the papers was George, Albert, James or Andrew for a boy and Mary, Elizabeth, Victoria or Charlotte for a girl.

The Daily Express put forward the names Victoria or Albert and said the Queen, "a fervent admirer of her great-great grandmother," is known to have a strong personal liking for both names.

EXPERT TAKES GUESS

The Daily Mail quoted Peter Townend, assistant editor of Burke's Landed Gentry and an expert on such matters, as saying: "My guess is that if it's a boy he will be called Prince James;i f a girl, Princess Mary."

The News Chronicle suggested that if the child is a boy he will be called Andrew, after his paternal grandparent, Prince Andrew of Greece, and if a girl Mary—after her great grandmother—or Charlotte.

This newspaper also said: "If the new baby is a boy he is likely to be given a Commonwealth title when he reaches 21, as a demonstration of the Royal Family's belief in the 'Commonwealth family.'

"Canada, as senior Commonwealth nation, would presumably be chosen to give the geographical source—the place-name—of the title.

"It might, for example, be 'Duke of Ottawa'."

CHANCE TO RELAX

Balmoral is one of the Royal Family's private residences and the summer holiday here is a fixture in the royal annual round.

There are rich catches of salmon to be had from the tumbling streams and the Queen is a keen fisherwoman. An August 12 grouse shooting begins.

There will be family picnics amid the peaceful Scottish hills and Sunday morning services at the lovely village church at Craithie.

The arrival of a bady—even if only second or third in line of succession to the throne—can greatly influence the affairs of state. Political observes now take it that Prime Minister Macmillan has been given a wider choice of dates on which to call a general election.

CAN WAIT UNTIL MAY

Macmillan can wait until next May, but the pundits had settled on October 22 or October 29 this year as the most likely dates.

This was partly influenced by the statutory need for the Queen to formally open the new Parliament before leaving November 12 on a trip to Ghana.

Now that the Ghana visit has been called off and the Queen won't be opening Parliament in person in any event, Macmillan is freed from the restriction.

Murder Charge Laid After Man Badly Battered

TORONTO (CP) — Anthony Alexander, 45, was charged with murder Friday night in connection with the death of his girl friend's father, Charles Alma Watons, 65.

Mr. Waton's body, the face and skull battered and chest caved in from a severe kicking, was found by his daughter, Mrs. Joyce Lambert, in the kitchen at the rear of their flat.

Alexander was arrested after police were called to the flat by neighbors to investigate "something terrible in there." Mrs. Lambert is being held as a material witness.

Police said numerous wine bottles were found at the scene. Mrs. Lambert told police when she last saw her father there had been "considerable drinking and arguing over money" among herself, the father and Alexander.

Neighbors said Alexander had lived with Mrs. Lambert and her father in the first-floor flat for about a year. All three were heavy drinkers, they said.

WAS BEATEN

Mrs. Lambert required hospital treatment several weeks ago after she had been beaten, but police said she refused to lay charges.

Alexander went into hospital three months ago after he had been beaten with a light hatchet, but he also refused to lay charges.

"You'd never believe it," said one neighbor, "but all three of them were nice, cheerful people and they spent most of their time peaceable.

"Every one was a good head."

Queen Put on Smiling, Glamorous Show on Tour Despite Secret

Charge Is Laid After Car Plows Into Colonial Bus

Carl Thomas Mowers of Belleville has been charged with careless driving following an early morning accident in which his car plowed into the rear of a Colonial Coach Lines bus which had stopped for the C.P.R. corssing at the outskirts of the city on Dundas Street, East.

Police said that Mowers suffered lacerations to his right forearm and shock. His car, a 1940 model was a complete wreck, while damage to the bus was estimated at $500.

The highway bus driven by John Thomas Stone, 31, of Ottawa, was westbound and had stopped for the railway crossing when the following auto driven by Mowers plowed into the rear. Police said there were no skid marks on the highway where the accident occurred.

The mishap occurred at 2:30 this morning.

In another early morning mishap Francis Thompson of Moira rolled his car over on the Shannonville Gravel near the 8th concession of Tyendinaga township. Thompson was uninjured in the mishap.

Editor's note: Frances Lewine, an American reporter, accompanied Queen Elizabeth on part of her recent Canadian trip. Here is her story of how a royal secret — the coming of the Queen's third child—was kept.

By FRANCES LEWINE

LONDON (AP) — Rumors that Queen Elizabeth was pregnant followd her throughout her recent Canadian tour, but she put on a royal show that scotched them.

From the start when she stepped off an airliner at St. Johns, Nfld., June 18, there were many who thought the Queen appeared tired. Her smile was often slow in coming in the first few days.

Her press secretary, Esmod Butler, vehemently denied the rumors. He admitted that the Queen was having a hard time adjusting to the rigid tour schedule but contended she was fine thereafter.

And she was. Except for moments when her face looked tired in repose and the lines showed around her eyes, she managed a gruelling pace, often before the public for 13 hours a day.

Watching her day after day, shaking hands with thousands, riding in an open car in torrid sun, even being drenched in dowpours of rain, it just didn't seem likely that she was pregnant.

STOOD FOR HOURS

The Queen reviewed troops standing up in a jeep, stood stiffly to receive 21-gun salutes and rode for hours through the streets. She sat stiffly for hours at formal dinners in her honor, not eating or drinking much of the fare.

In all the 45 days of her tour only about four or five were set aside for the Queen to relax without official duties. She covered 15,000 miles across and up and down Canada by plane, train and yacht.

In Chicago she lost a filling in a tooth and had a session with a dentist jammed into her schedule. Later, in Whitehorse, Y. T., she suffered a stomach upset which put her out of action from July 19 to 21. Then she resumed her duties.

Toward the end of the trip some sources reported her feeling ill.

When she decided to fly home last Saturday night instead of taking the slow trip across the Atlantic in the Britannia as scheduled, it raised the rumors again.

But the Queen had put on a smiling, glamorous royal show.

EXPECT LONG WAR

MONROVIA, Liberia (Reuters) —A minister in the Algerian provisional government said Friday he has little hope of a political solution of the revolt in Algeria and he anticipates a long war with France. Mohammed Yazid, information minister in the rebel nationalist government said: "We want France to realize that the coming days will mean war and war on a greater scale until she is forced to a military solution or agree to negotiations."

8th Belleville Scout Troop Enjoys Camp

By CHRIS LEGGAT

The Scouts of the 8th Belleville have just completed a very successful week under canvas on subcamp Cayuga at Camp Sagonaski, the Belleville Local Association Camp on the Col. Roscoe Vanderwater Area near Thomasburg. This area belongs to the Moira River Conservation Authority.

Between the hours of 9 and 10 a.m. Wednesday, July 29, Mr. William Sargeant picked up the Eagle Patrol consisting of Patrol Leader Bill Goodman, second Dan Stirling and Scouts Eddie Bovay, Richard May, Ron Post, Dyson Sargeant, Wayne Twiddy and Richard Woodley and took them to the camp site. Mr. D. Stirling did likewise with the beaver control consisting of Patrol Leader Jim Middleton, Second Roy Pigden and scouts Stephen Flindall, Michael Kostich, Wayne Turner, Wayne Valleau, Max Valyear. The only member of the troop not at camp was Michael Reddick.

The daily routine at camp was generally as follows: 7.30 a.m. rise and shine, second class exercises followed by a wash and swim in the river; 8.30 a.m. breakfast; 9.30 a.m. personal and campsite inspection (in uniform) followed by flag break and morning devotions; 10.00 a.m. to 12.00 morning activities; 12.00 to 2.00 p.m. lunch and rest period 2.00 p.m. to 5.00 p.m. afternoon activities; 5.00 p.m. to 7.30 p.m. supper 7.30 to 9.30 evening activities; 9.30 to 10.30 p.m. campfire; 11.00 lights out.

One of the most successful afternoon activities was the swimming instruction given by Mr. Jack Sisson, head of the Physical Education Department at Quinte Secondary School. Mr. Sisson came out for five, one and a half hour periods on Wed., Thurs., Fri., Mon., and Tues. afternoons from 3.30 to 5.00.

EARNED SWIM BADGES

Instruction was given in the Rescuers and Swimmers Proficiency Badges. The following scouts earned both badges, Bill Goodman, Dan Stirling, Dyson Sargeant, Richard Woodley, Eddie Bovay, Ron Post, Stephen Flindall, Max Valyear, Wayne Valleau, Wayne Turner earned his swimmers, Jim Middleton and Roy Pigden their rescuers. Scouts Michael Kostich and Wayne Twiddy learned to swim.

Mr. Jack Hodgson, secretary of the Local Association, came out on Thursday morning to take the Scouts on a tree identification hike. As a result nine Scouts passed their Second Class Tree Idenfication.

A representative of the Department of Lands and Forests, Mr. Dennis Tieman, came out on Monday morning to discuss some aspects of forest conservation, etc. As a result, with a little more effort most of the Scouts could earn a number of Conservation Badges.

Two pioneering projects created considerable interest. The Scouts built a raft with 12 five-gallon drums. This they christened the "Queen Mary." They also constructed an aerial runway and spent several happy hours riding on it. This project also interested the Sunday visitors.

SLEPT UNDER STARS

On Friday, between 11.00 and 3.00 the camp went on a map using hike. They carried their lunch along and had it out of camp.

On Saturday and Monday evening the whole camp took bedding and fishing rods and spent the evening fishing and with a camp fire and the night sleeping under the stars at the Rapids, about a mile from camp. On the Monday expedition breakfast was carried so that Tuesday's breakfast was eaten out of camp.

A number of wide games were held, the most enjoyed being on Saturday afternoon in the form of a sham battle.

On Sunday morning a smartly uniformed troop of Scouts attended either the Roman Catholic or United Churches in Tweed. In the early afternoon the Scouts got everything in ship-shape for visitors' day. Between 3.00 and 4.00 p.m. about seven families arrived at camp to be greeeted by a troop of smartly uniformed Scouts. From 4.00 to 6.00 p.m. the Scouts and some of the families enjoyed a swim and water activities consisting of surf board riding and canoeing. The activities were conducted by Scoutmaster Ted (Duck) Webber and Sam Green.

The Scouts did considerable fishing with better than average success. Both patrols had fish once and one patrol had it a second time.

Another good turn for the camp site, the Scouts improved the gateway into the Cayuga camp site and did considerable work improving the waterfront area.

DONE ON PATROL BASIS

Each patrol set up completely separate campsites. All cooking was done on the patrol basis by the Scouts themselves with little supervision. The cooking included cooking eggs in six different ways, cooking Irish stew, fried chicken, pork chops, steaks, sausage, hamburgers, wieners, etc. One patrol tried their hand at baking, making biscuits, three small pies and a cake. The latter was a birthday cake with 13 candles for Dyson Sargeant. One of the leaders, Mr. Boyle, celebrated his birthday at the same time. Another cooking activity worthy of mention was the Indian Dinner cooked by Mr. Jairath, one of the leaders.

A highlight of each evening was the camp fire during which the whole camp sat around a fire to sing, to play games, to do stunts and to listen to stories capably told by Mr. Jairath. Following the camp fire, soft drinks and cookies were enjoyed by all. On the two evenings spent out of camp the Scouts had a marshmallow roast.

All Scouts kept a camp log of their activities during the camp.

At the camp approximately 20 Proficiency badges and 50 Tenderfoot, Second Class and First Class tests were passed. At them orning flag break on August 4th, Bill Goodman was presented with his Second Class bade and on August 5th Dyson Sargeant was invested as a Scout into the World-Wide Brotherhood of Scouting.

The Troop broke camp on Wednesday afternoon with closing exercises in uniform being conducted at 4 30 p.m. Wednesday, August 5th after which the Scouts were taken home by Mr. Wm. Sargeant, Mr. Arthur Valleau and Mr. Cecil May.

The camp chief was T Leslie Boyle formerly Head of Science Department at Quinte Secondary School and active Scoutmaster of the Troop. Mr. Boyle is going to Madoc as Principal of the High School this fall. The full-time assistant was Harry Jairath a teacher from Madoc H.S. and a man who has been out from India less than a year. Scoutmatser Ted Webber was out Wednesday and Thursday evenings and from Saturday noon until Monday evening. Sam Green was out from Saturday noon until Sunday night. District Commissioner Phil Allcorn paid a visit to the camp on Wednesday morning, August 5th.

Cockneys, Lords Raise Glasses In Delighted Toasts to Queen

LONDON (Reuters)—Cockneys kicked up their heels and noble lords raised glasses of sherry in dignified but delighted toasts Friday at the news of an expected royal baby.

The announcement that the Queen is expecting her third child swept other stories off front pages and, underscoring the importance of the blessed event-to-be, the BBC television service cricket fans waiting for this afternoon's scores while it bulletined the royal story.

A typical reaction from one London housewife was: "I'm delighted. It's a very good thing for the Queen. The more the merrier."

Cloth-capped Cockneys downed foaming toasts of beer in hundreds of humble pubs as press, radio, TV and word - of - mouth spread the news. In smart west end restaurants and elite clubs, toasts of champagne and vintage wines were sipped with genteel joy.

SOME DISAPPOINTMENT

As the story zipped out across the world, happy smiles greeted it. But in the West African Commonwealth country of Ghana, the reaction was both of pleasure and disappointment.

The Queen's pregnancy forced her to cancel an eagerly awaited visit to the newly independent state in November.

Premier Kwame Nkrumah noted the disappointment in a radio broadcast but added: "Our consolation rests in the knowledge that the reason for the postponement of the visit is the best one of all—the prospect of another child."

Nkrumah said "The Queen has been kind enough to ask me to visit her as soon as possible and I am making arrangements to leave Accra Sunday evening."

In Paris the news came as no surprise; on July 22 newspapers there played up a report by Agence France-Presse from Canada, where the Queen was then on tour, that a child was expected.

District Garden Produce Offered In Quantity

District market gardeners came into their own on the local farmers' produce market this morning with a wide range of garden produce offered for sale.

Tomatoes were plentifully offered at $1 the six quart basket; potatoes were 60c per basket and $2.50 per hamper, while bunched vegetables were plentiful at a dime per bunch. Cauliflower sold up at 35c each; peppers five to 10c and green beans 20c per box.

Direction Signs For Parking Lots Now in Place

Parking lot direction signs directing motorists to the two city municipal parking lots have been erected in the downtown area this week.

In all six of the official type parking lot directions signs have been erected, three each at strategic points on Front and Pinnacle Streets.

The signs are a metal disc type three feet in diameter and painted with fluorescent paint to make them standout at night. The signs are fixed to metal posts nine feet above the sidewalk.

Decision on the type of directional signs was made by Alderman Frank Grandame and his parking committee. They are patterned after the type used in Toronto and were made locally by Greenleaf's with Wardhaugh Signs doing the painting.

Directional signs are placed at the four corners on Front Street, and at the Upper Bridge, and also at the intersection of Bridge and Pinnacle Streets and at Front and Pinnacle.

In addition signs are placed at McIntosh's directing traffic into the Front Street municipal parking lot, and opposite the Courthouse lawn directing cars into the Pinnacle Street lot.

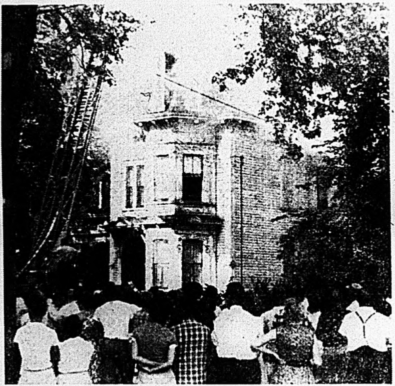
The use of an aerial truck was instrumental in local firefighters being able to contain the fire in the Little residence to the upper storey during yesterday's all-out alarm fire at 223 Charles Street.



Many people were attracted to the scene of the fire to watch the fire department in action. At the peak of the conflagration approximately 200 persons were present.

Firemen Given Hard Battle In Attic Fire on Charles St.

A three-alarm fire at 223 Charles Street Friday afternoon called out all available on-duty fire department personnel and six pieces of equipment. The fire, whose cause is as yet unknown, started in the upper floor of the three-storey frame structure, which was once the Holton home and is now owned by a Mr. Joseph Little, who is employed with the Carter Construction firm, presently building some new structures at the Trenton RCAF base.

Mr. Little and his wife live in this home with a daughter, Mrs. Elaine Scott, her three children, and a grandson, Garry Orr. None was present at the time the fire started; Mr. Little, Mrs. Scott and Mr. Orr were at work, whilst Mrs. Little was at the family's cottage near Rednersville with one of the grandchildren. The other grandchildren were attending a local theatre. They arrived home to find firemen battling the stubborn fire and managed to save a few possessions from the house. Mr. Little stated that the house was "partially covered" by insurance.

The design of the old Victorian-era residence proved to be a hindrance to the fire-fighters. The various nooks and crannies, the many eaves, and the slate roof prevented the firemen from getting their hoses directly on the flames. The fire, which was confined to the attic, took about two hours to extinguish. At one point the roof collapsed just about thirty seconds after six firemen had been fighting the flames underneath it.

Several off-duty firemen showed up to help in the battle and George Ellerby and Bert Wood of the Salvation Army were present with refreshments for the men. Six lines of hose were used in fighting the flames with two aerial trucks, two pumpers and the emergency truck. During the early part of the fire those in the building had to use air-packs due to extremely heavy smoke.

The fire provided quite a spectacle for many people and a crowd of several hundred was present at the height of the fire. Some difficulty was experienced by spectators getting in the way of the drain-cock valve on the hose for the aerial truck but they soon cleared out of the way when it was released, a few of them as thoroughly drenched as the firemen in the front line. City police, however, kept the curious back far enough to allow ample working room for the firemen during the rest of the time.

The entire top floor of the building was gutted by the flames and the cost of rebuilding was estimated in the neighborhood of $20,000. Meanwhile the Little family will reside at their cottage near Rednersville.

Entomological Laboratory Undergoes Change in Status

The former Entomology Laboratory, on Dundas Street, is now a National Research Institute, known as the Entomology Research Institute for Biological Control. This resulted from a recent re-organization of the Canada Department of Agriculture that included recognition of the importance of basic research. Ten laboratories, seven of them in Ottawa, became National Research Institutes, each with its primary function basic research on a particular aspect of agriculture or forestry.

The staff of the Belleville Institute is engaged in basic research to find ways of reducing insect pests and weeds by increasing and encouraging the insects and diseases that attack and kill these pests. The results of this research are published as reports in scientific journals at a rate of over fifty a year.

In addition to research, the Institute imports from abroad all beneficial insects required in Canada for use in attempts to control the pest species they attack. In 1958 over a quarter of a million beneficial insects were imported through Belleville from ten countries of Europe, Asia, Central America, and Australia, and were liberated in seven provinces of Canada and parts of the United States, and beneficial insects were exported through Belleville to six foreign countries.

The Belleville Institute is the largest of its kind in the world. It has a permanent staff of 80, of whom 35 are professional research scientists, and a temporary summer staff, of college and high school students, of about 35. The Institute is visited by an average of about 40 scientists from foreign countries every year, and some of these remain for long periods for special training or research. In 1958 there were visitors from eleven foreign countries, and from all provinces of Canada, and 13 of the Belleville staff visited research institutes in other countries.

Civic Work Bogs Down in Maze Of Red Tape

TORONTO (CP) — Work began late Friday on levelling piled-up earth on the downtown site of Toronto's new city hall.

But it took an inter-departmental meeting and considerable red-tape slashing to get it under way.

The property department couldn't act without an order from Planning Commissioner M. B. Lawson who is on holiday.

The parks department had authority to dump fill on the square but no authority to level it.

The planning department had the funds and was responsible for co-ordinating the work on the square but had no authority to do any physical work.

The property department agreed to do the work but lacked the equipment.

City Treasurer William Campbell was called when the planning department was not sure if it could pay [illegible] the money.

Mr. Campbell gave the work the go-ahead.

Said Controller Donald Summerville:

Blames Golf Club For Drying up Water in Pond

ANCASTER (CP) — Howard Cope's century-old flour mill has run out of water power and he blames a golf club for drying up his pond.

For some time the tributary of Spencer Creek which feeds the mill has been petering out. Two months ago it was down to a trickle and the ancient stones ground to a halt.

For the last two years the mill has been turning out the only stone-ground flour in the country.

Mr. Cope, 44-year-old descendant of United Empire Loyalists who founded the nearby village of Copetown, says his stream has been dired up by green-watering at the Hamilton Golf and Country Club, half a mile away.

THREATEN COURT ACTION

He said Friday night his lawyer would ask the golf club to reduce its watering to the point where the mill can operate. Otherwise he will go to court.

Mr. Cope's devotion to the mill is more than historical. He says it retains the food elements of whole grain which steel roller mills took away when they came into use for white flour production 75 years ago.

He has waiting lists of customers for his stone-ground pure flour in New York City, Buffalo, Quebec and Northern Ontario in addition to his regular purchasers in Southern Ontario.

Meanwhile, golf club president Reg. H. Young said the club has not been taking any more water this year than before.

Hotelmen Given Runaround by Liquor Board

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Hotel Association has charged that the liquor control board of Ontario covered up a 19-per-cent price increase to licence holders and higher licensing fees when it announced new retail beer prices.

In a statement Friday the association said hotels are faced with a price increase of $2.50 a half barrel.

Licensing fee increases ranging from .02 cents to .06 cents a gallon meant the fees to hotels had gone up 25 to 30 per cent, the statement said.

Managing Director Clint Melville said:

"Our present estimates and calculations . . . indicate that the increased revenue for our industry will be considerably less than the amount stated in the release from the government."

The greatest shock to all licence holders was the increase in price of $2.50 a half-barrel (19-per-cent increase) that was approved by the LCBO but not included in the typed release to the press he said.

The statement added that hotelmen were disappointed to learn their industry was not getting the "relief" requested of the government for two years.

Got Clobbered For Second Time

TORONTO (CP) — Philip Currie testified Friday he was beaten up by two men at a drinking party, taken to hospital for repairs, invited back so they could apologize and then got clobbered again.

He went back to the hospital the second time as well.

When police arrived to break up the second scrap, one of Currie's assailants locked himself in the bathroom and jumped through a window. Police arrested him where he landed.

John Devoe and Frank Piercey were fined $50 each or 10 days for assault causing bodily harm.

FARM TRACTORS

Two - thirds of all Canadian farms had a tractor in 1956, making a total of 388,816 tractors.

Paralytic Polio Cases Greater Than Last Year

OTTAWA (CP)—Recent polio outbreaks in Newfoundland and Quebec pushed the number of paralytic polio cases in the first seven months of this year to almost three times the number in the corresponding period last year.

The health department's epidemiology division Friday reported that to Aug. 1 paralytic polio cases reported by the provinces totalled 137 against 46 in the corresponding period last year.

Newfoundland reported 34 cases against three a year earlier while Quebec's total climbed to 61 from 12. Ontario had 14 against five a year earlier.

The Royal Canadian Sea Cadets of the RCSCC "Quinte" performed the Sunset ceremonies at the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club yesterday evening as a part of the activities for the Power Squadron Regatta being held today and Sunday. Midshipman R. Davis gives the salute as the "Quinte's" guard presents arms.

Many attractive power craft of varying shapes and sizes were tied up at the yacht club dock yesterday as competitors and spectators arrived for the "rendezvous." Home ports noted included Watkins Glen, Rochester, Buffalo and Syracuse in New York State. Canadian craft came from Toronto, Hamilton and Kingston.

Lightning Kills U.S. Tourist

KENORA (CP) — An American woman was killed by lightning early Thursday when a bolt struck a tree near which she, her husband and two sons were camping. The others were unharmed.

Dead is Mrs. Lois Lavone Orindgreff, 31, of Witchita, Kan. The accident occurred about 40 miles southeast of Ear Falls while the family was sleeping in a tent near the tree. Lightning struck the trunk and travelled down to a root over which Mrs. Orindgreff was sleeping.

Couple Died Of Asphyxia Not Poisoning

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Bowden died not of carbon monoxide poisoning but of asphyxia due to lack of oxygen, Crown Attorney C. C. Savage said Friday.

Marvin, 22, and Audrey Bowden, 19, were found dead in their basement apartment in central London last Tuesday. Their 18-month - old son, Gregory, was found in the same room, in a coma. The parents had been dead 24 hours when found but the child survived.

Had death been due to monoxide poisoning, Mr. Savage said, the child would likely have died too, and this was one of the major contradictions confronting the pathologists.

He said that a small amount of carbon monoxide coming from two gas jets, while relatively harmless in itself, was dangerous when combined with a virtually airtight room.

NOT MUCH SYMPTHY

ELLIOT LAKE, Ont. (CP)—Bystanders in a shopping centre parking lot cheered loudly when two of the lot attendants collided in their late-model cars. As the crowd clapped, one member sang Who's Sorry Now?

Quinte Power Squadron Host For Rendezvous

The Quinte Power Squadron is host to some 22 competitors in their power boat rendezvous to be held today and Sunday. There are five events, including two ladies events. The big event is for the Van Valkenburg Trophy which is limited to one entry from each power squadron and, of course, is quite keenly contested. The other events include the Corby's Trophy, the Labatt's Trophy, The Ronald Keel Trophy and the Buffalo-Niagara-Rochester Trophy, the latter two being the women's events.

The events are designed to test the navigational skill of the crews who must follow and complete a required course without the aid of charts. Compass and navigational instruments are the only items which a crew may use. Entrants come from the various yacht clubs around Lake Ontario with good representation from such cities as Rochester, Buffalo, Toronto and Hamilton.

The events started this morning at 8.00 a.m. and will continue through to 8.00 p.m. this evening. Provision is also being made for the running of events between the same times on Sunday, if required. The awards will be presented on Sunday evening.

Farmer Injured When Thrown From Tractor

TRENTON — In Trenton Memorial Hospital with multiple injuries is Sidney Andrews, R.R. 3, Brighton, who was run over by the self-propelled combine on which he was riding Thursday evening. Mr. Andrews was coming down a rough lane near his home when the combine tipped over throwing him off. Before the man could get to his feet, the combine ran over him, causing extensive laceration and injury to his right side.

The injured man was taken to the hospital, where he is under the care of Dr. Duncan Campbell, Trenton.

MAYOR WILL ATTEND

Sunday., Mayor Ross Burtt, M.M., will accompany other civic officials to Mount Evergreen Cemetery, when the dignified, beautiful memorial placed there by the IOOF Trenton Lodge No. 113 and Quinte Rebekah Lodge No. 135 will be dedicated.

The memorial makes this particular cemetery one of the most beautiful in this part of Ontario.

FINDS OLD NEWSPAPER

A Trenton lady who was cleaning an old cupboard she bought at an auction sale found part of a newspaper the "Sphere" dated 1893. In the portion marked "Belleville Items" she came across the following.

September 9, 1893. Mr. Frank Dumoulin, of Toronto, is supplying the pulpit of St. John's Church, in the absence of the rector, the Rev. D. F. Bogert. The cigarmakers defeated the printers yesterday at baseball, 24-14. On Thursday of last week the typographers beat the leaf-rollers 36-16. Thomas Welsh, of Tyendinaga had his leg broken by the kick from a horse at Napanee.

Struck by Tree

TEESWATER (CP) — Daniel Bestard, 50, of RR 4, Elmwood, was killed Friday when he was struck by the branch of a tree he and his brother Alex, were felling near this village 26 miles northeast of Goderich.

Bankier Crashes Top Magazine

"The Wrong Impression" is a story by William Bankier, formerly of Belleville, in the current issue of The Saturday Evening Post. It is a tersely written story, bristling with snippety terms, about cocktail-drinking apartment dwellers in the advertising business, living in a big city. An interest in recorded jazz pervades the story throughout.

Mr. Bankier deserves hearty congratulations for having crashed this top magazine. Not long ago he was doing radio work in Belleville. Now, at 31, he is copy-department chief in a Young and Rubican advertising office in Montreal, and plays the clarinet as a hobby.

No doubt Mr. Bankier's interest in music stems from his father, James Bankier, a noted singer in Bridge Street United Church choir. In any case, he can well be proud of his son.

'I Do Not Understand It!'

The Father Marquette Club of Belleville, organized four years ago by a score of transplanted French-Canadians from Quebec, has now increased to 80 members.

Their difficulties are understandable. Often the wife of a man moved here to work, could not speak any English, nor could their children.

The wife had to shop; she could not buy because she could not ask, and for a time her husband would have to accompany her as an interpreter.

The children had to go to school and being thus continually exposed to English, picked it up, but only after a year or so, well enough to be taught other subjects properly.

But the mother could not go to school, and where could she turn for company beyond her family? With whom could she converse? This dilemma prompted Mr. and Mrs. Germain Pilot to organize the Father Marquette Club, which provides the group, particularly newcomers, with some social life and general helpfulness in Belleville. Mr. Pilot is vice-president; Mrs. Pilot is secretary. The president is Andre Mercier.

One member, Mr. Ludger Briand, is a descendant of the late Aristide Briand, 11 times premier of France, 16 times foreign minister, thrice minister of justice, four times minister of interior and twice minister of education. He died in 1932.

French-speaking Canadians make much more effort and headway towards learning English than we do towards learning French. English contains many absurdities and is extremely difficult to learn. For instance, one and won are pronounced the same. It is nothing to us but to the student it is confusing. Do, did, don't, done: our verbs are quite as tricky as theirs.

Perhaps the height of absurdity is reached in the word "fast." One member of the Father Marquette Club explains that if he drives to church in ten minutes, he travels fast; if he ties his boat to the wharf, then the boat is fast to the wharf; if he eats very little, he is on a fast; and if he goes to Kingston and has a good time, his English friends tell him he is very fast, indeed.

"I can speak English," he says, "but I do not understand it!"

Invitation To You

The Ontario Intelligencer welcomes letters from readers. Letters are probably read more than editorials, although most editors would be loath to confess the fact.

A pen-name will be used in the paper, if requested, but the real name and address of the letter writer must be enclosed as indication of good faith.

If someone has something to say that is worth saying, let us have it, please.

Letters are appreciated--and read.

HE'S MADE CHANGES

By EDGAR A. GUEST

This body is my house — it is not I;
Herein I sojourn till in some far sky
I lease a fairer dwelling built to last
Till all the carpentry of time is past.
What shall I care where these poor timbers are
When from my high place viewing this lone star?
What though the crumbling walls turn dust and loam,
I shall have left them for a larger home.
This body is my house, but since I came
Herein to dwell, I've changed the same.
Once an appendix throbbed my being stout;
I liked it not; the doctors cut it out.
The surgeons with their skillful carpentry
Have changed my dwelling place, as all may see.
This eye—the left—is not the contact one;
Ah, no, 'tis glass, but wonderfully done.
And here, where skull bone shingled once my pate,
Behold improvement in a silver plate.
My teeth—Ah, they were purchased at a store;
Those that came with the house would serve no more.
This body is my house, but since 'twas made,
For all those 'extras" I, myself, have paid.
This body is my house, and I would state:
It keeps me poor to keep it up-to-date.

Deseronto Days 1919-1932

Written expressly for The Ontario Intelligencer
by HARRY M. MOORE

ARTICLE 23

We have been telling you about Deseronto's desperate bid for industries to take the place of the Rathbun Company, the match factories, the glass factory. We have told you that in its desperation the Chamber of Commerce gave a cash grant to a Toronto promoter, who was never to be heard from again. We have told you all this, but that was not all. There was a man in town who had something new to offer: why not a "juniper" oil plant, since there were lots of berries to be had for the picking in the woods along the Bay of Quinte. Juniper oil, as you may not know, finds ready sale to the drug companies but don't press us for the answer, for to tell the truth we know little about it.

While we had tried at all times to keep in touch with what was going on industrially if at all possible, this was something that grew right under our nose.

That certain Sunday afternoon brought a man with horse and buggy to our door, to ask if we would accompany him to an "important" meeting at the Arlington Hotel. The reason for that meeting: a new industry, a sure-fire industry, something to make the folks forget all the former industries which for some reason or other had ceased to be.

Outside of the man who drove us to that meeting, there was not one face with which we were familiar. We will say, however, that these men, and there was quite a number of them, were highly enthused. They were to all appearances completely 'sold' on what they were about to do.

Pretty soon we were to be made aware why were invited to that meeting. There was a great need of prospectuses and they must be printed and ready for pick-up the following Monday evening at six.

STUCK TO PRICE

We did some rapid figuring, guessing would be more like it, and set a price whnch we were to doubt the meeting would accept. Of course there were some loud complaints about the cost of the prospectuses — the meeting was most unanimous about that. But we stuck to our price. "Take it or leave it" was our attitude and we meant to make it stick. Finally the promoter was on his feet to say that without prospectuses where were the shareholders to get the necessary money to put such a highly promising industry on its way. He insisted that our price for printing the prospectuses was a fair price, a reasonable price, and he was to have his way. Thus we were ordered to print one thousand prospectuses for delivery by six o'clock of the following afternoon. And we were to be paid for them in cash because that was what we insisted on for after all a cheque might bounce."

Of course no such industry was ever started in Deseronto. It was said that a few machines of doubtful origin and for doubtful purposes, arrived in the town and lacking a building were stored out of sight, and presumably soon out of mind. As a matter of fact we doubt if anyone in Deseronto, other than the promoter and the printer, ever saw a copy of that prospectus.

We recall now one boast of the promoters, as set forth in the prospectus, a guarantee of no more or no less than 500 per cent on the money invested within two years.

That fall we left for the north to do a spot of deer hunting and in our baggage were a few juniper oil prospectuses. We were hunting at that time with a number of railway employees, men of high pay, men who above other men are always willing and ready to take a chance for "a fast buck."

One evening we tossed several juniper oil prospectuses on the table as a sort of "conversation piece," and with alarming results. The railroaders fairly ate up that prospectus. We were plied with questions.

READY TO GAMBLE

"Five hundred per cent on your money!" cried one. "Who wouldn't take a chance on that?" said another. We looked from face to face and what we saw there, we didn't like.

And so we picked up those prospectuses and threw them on the fire.

"You chaps bite on this and next year there will be another hunter who will be 'accidentally' shot in mistake for a deer," we said. "And," we went on, "we don't want to be that hunter."

And that was the story of the juniper oil plant, an industry which never got past the planning stage in Deseronto or anywhere else for that matter.

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

THE BRIGHTON CENTENNIAL

It is always a joyous occasion when a community celebrates its centennial.

Accordingly "Historic Belleville" extends heartiest congratulations to the neighboring village of Brighton on the occasion of its hundredth birthday.

The Northumberland County municipality celebrated its birthday in fine fashion at the beginning of the week. Two features of the celebration are of particular significance.

First, there was the attractive museum arranged in the Masonic Temple at the west end of the village. This museum contained hundreds of interesting historic articles loaned by Brighton and district residents for the occasion. It is to be hoped that some of this material will eventually come into the possession of the Northumberland County Historical Society which operates the Barnum House Museum at Grafton.

The second feature was the centennial booklet.

This is an admirable undertaking, and Brighton residents of future years are fortunate to have so much of their interesting history gathered into a single reasonably priced volume (one dollar).

According to this booklet, Brighton's first settlers were Obediah Simpson and his wife, Mary Taylor. The memory of this pioneer Loyalist family is preserved in a cairn erected at the entrance to Presqu'ile Provincial Park.

From such beginnings in 1796, Brighton's first settlers were a village of 2,250 inhabitants.

The village of Brighton and the Centennial Committee under Reeve Frank E. Goodrich are to be congratulated on the success of the past week.

P.S.

In last week's column, we suggested a few hints for buyers at auction sales.

It now appears that the writer should practise what he preaches. At a recent sale, the writer purchased a rocking chair without first examining it very carefully. The result? The day after the last column was written, the chair collapsed.

For the price of $5.50 we've had the use of an old rocking chair for less than a week. And there's no money back guarantee at auction sales, either.

So remember: Before you bid on any article, inspect it carefully. That's what this writer will be doing in future.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FAILURE'S PASSWORD

Learn to hurdle "What If?" and I can predict your immortal success is sure.

"What If?" is failure's pass word.

What if, after all your work, time and effort, you should find nothing but failure to greet you? I'll tell you. You will have something you didn't have to start out with — experience!

Failure is as necessary an ingredient of success as alloy is to gold. It keeps success from wearing away. What if all your plans come to naught? You will then have a chance to start over again. And what a powerful, enduring figure in the world you will be with such an asset!

Unfurl a new flag today, you who ask "What If?." Stamp across it, in letters of red, a new couplet, something like this — "Why Not?"

Why not be a personage of moment in the world? Why not do what as yet has not been done? Why not win what you have up to now failed to win? Why not?

As I have said, hurdle the "What Ifs?" On the other side, seize the Why Nots and pass on to what you have determined to do. You will then do it!

What if my business should fail today? I would start a new business tomorrow.

Canadian PLACE NAMES

ONTARIO (PROVINCE OF)

One of the original members of Confederation in 1867, Ontario takes its name from Lake Ontario, on which it borders. The title of both lake and province was conferred by the Iroquois Indians, the name meaning "Standing High In The Water," presumably in allusion to the rugged face of the Niagara Escarpment.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

SPELLED OUT FOR US

The New Testament speaks a great deal about witnesses, and the Greek word for witness is "martus" from which we get the English word "martyr." Usually we think of a martyr as a person who suffers, and because of the indisposition of human beings to accept the truth, martyrs frequently have had to suffer. But a martyr is really a witness. He tells what he has seen or heard.

Christian believers are expected above all else to be witnesses. The Church got its start by the witnessing of simple, courageous men and women. In the beginning there was not the great church organization we know today. A little group of men and women simply went about telling persistently and in excited tones certain experiences they had had through their contacts with this remarkable man Jesus. Most of them had known Him personally. If they had not known Him personally, they had known the disciples who had been close to Him throughout His ministry.

The message in the beginning was simple. This Jesus of Nazareth is God's Anointed One, they declared. He is the promised Messiah. He is God Himself come into the walks of human life to redeem man from sin and to train him in the ways of righteousness.

The Christian church did not start out with great fanfare. It was first just a little group of witnesses — men and women telling the things they knew about the Lord Jesus.

The legacy of Christ to us is, "Ye shall be my witnesses." There is the divine directive spelled out with utter plainness.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

EGGS DON'T CONTRIBUTE TO HARDENING OF THE ARTERIES

"Dear Dr. Molner: Will eating eggs every day give a person hardening of the arteries?

I have been eating two boiled ones every day for breakfast for years. About three people have told me that's bad —o.k. for children but not for adults.—M.K."

This notion about eggs is a result of all the speculation about cholesterol, and there have been a few highly - publicized remarks critical of eggs. But I don't think that even the slightest worry is warranted.

I won't bore you with some of the highly technical conversations I've had on the same topic. It comes down to this: So far as I can interpret studies of the matter, the people who think eggs are dangerous have jumped to that conclusion without examining all the facts.

I have, for example, a close friend — a physician — who has been keeping a careful record of his own cholesterol level for two or three years now. He eats eggs regularly for breakfast, and his cholesterol is lower now than it was when he started.

A research man from Denver remarked casually that he sometimes eats five eggs for breakfast. He's a big and tall man, and extremely energetic, and I dare say he burns up the energy in those eggs, although it's more than most of us could eat without getting our diets out of whack. But the point is that he isn't worried about the "attack on eggs."

I could go on to quite some length, citing people who have eaten a couple of eggs for breakfast every morning for 50 years, yet still have healthy arteries.

CHOLESTEROL IN OTHER FOODS

It may be that cholesterol, accumulating in the arteries, is a factor in "hardening of the arteries." It is true too that eggs do, indeed, contain some cholesterol — but so do other foods. And it is equally true that the body manufactures cholesterol out of foods which do not, in the eating form, contain any. Other fats in the diet are a bigger factor in cholesterol formation.

We need to know a lot more about the intricate chemical processes of the body, but I think we are entirely justified in saying that there is no reason why eggs in any reasonable quantity should hurt us, young or old. I for one certainly intend to keep on eating them.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can one get aluminum poisoning from constant use of aluminum pans in cooking? A friend of mine says an illness of her husband was found, through medical tests, to come from this. — B. A. S."

At least once a week somebody asks me about this, in one way or another, and about three times a year I figure it's time to give the scientific answer, which is "Nonsense!" Aluminum cooking utensils are just as safe as iron, tin, copper, glass, earthenware or any other kind.

"Dear Dr. Molner: How can you tell when a cyst should be removed? What are the symptoms? I have several on my body but my doctor tells me not to worry. I am afraid they will become cancer.—J.W."

If cysts become painful, or infected, or large enough to be a nuisance, that is time enough to remove them. While some internal cysts may become cancerous, those on skin don't. What I'm saying to you is to quit worrying about things that don't matter. Save your worry for things that deserve it — and I hope you never have any!

Note to A. W.: No, glaucoma is not related to cancer.

Jazz Sends Folk to Sleep

BBC London Letter

"Some strange ideas have come out of Oxford University down the years", said Australian broadcaster Wilfrid Thomas in a BBC broadcast, "and one of the latest is the claim of Dr. Ian Oswald, a psychologist doing research work there, that people are sent to sleep by jazz music. He asked a group of young men to beat time to the strong rhythm of an undergraduate band and a professional one. The first played so badly that the volunteers got all stirred up and angry, but the good band sent them all to sleep in a few minutes."

To the layman the volunteers might have appeared to be awake for they went on beating time in a trance-like manner, but heartbeat tests and electrical brain tests showed every symptom of genuine sleep. It seemed, said Thomas, that people tended to breathe deeply in the rhythm of the music they were listening to. Another complication was that they could breathe too fast or too hard, thus reducing the blood flow to the brain and helping to induce a trance-like state, as he himself had seen at voodoo ceremonies in Brazil — and also at a rock 'n roll concert in Berlin when the audience had behaved like "zombies" as if they were half asleep.

"Some people", said Thomas, "keep dozing off because their lungs are not big enough for their bodies, like the Fat Boy in Charles Dicken's 'Pickwick Papers' — a condition known as pickwickian syndrome". He had found an ideal occupation for such sufferers — they should be employed as extras in all television serials set in hospitals. "I got this helpful idea when I visited the set of one of them. It was a ward scene. In one of the beds an extra, who had no lines to speak and nothing to do but occupy a bed, had been sleeping all through rehearsals for three days. And getting paid for it! Every morning he would report at the required time, get made up, change into pyjamas, clamber into bed, and sleep. Once during transmission he woke up, looked wonderingly at the camera lens, yawned, turned over, and dropped off again."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Maybe you think there is something comic in the sight of a middle-aged gentleman, who makes his living out of poring through law books, crawling through the underbrush with a pair of field glasses in pursuit of the joys of bird watching. Perhaps you feel an impulse to emit cries of maniacal laughter when you find yourself in the cool silent echoing halls of a museum and see not only a hundred glass cases full of glass-eyed stuffed birds, but see the thousand drawers lining the walls of high corridors all stuffed with ten thousand skins of birds, all lying stiff and stark on their backs, their feet tucked up, their beaks extended.

My dear, you don't know the half of it. I have just got my July copy of The Auk, the quarterly publication of the American Ornithologists' Union, of which I am a member. Its table of contents reads: "The Status of Avian Systematics and Its Unsolved Problems"; "Life History of the Groove-billed Ani"; Hybridization in the Rufous-sided Towhees of the Great Plains", "Head Scratching Movements in Birds", "Differential Responses of Male Ovenbirds to Recorded Songs of Neighboring and More Distant Individuals"; "Additional Invertebrate Nest Associates of the Prairie Warbler", and general notes consisting of fourteen items such as "The Wing Molt and Systematic Position of the Genus Gampsonyx."

It's a queer world, eh? Not at all. The American Ornithologists' Union has thousands of members, all of whom get the AUK, and what is more, they can be seen reading it.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

FATHER, WHATE'ER OF EARTHLY BLISS

Father, whate'er of earthly bliss
Thy sov'reign will denies,
Accepted at Thy throne of grace,
Let this petition rise.

Give me a calm, a thankful heart,
From ev'ry murmur free;
The blessings of Thy grace impart,
And make me live to Thee.

Let the sweet hope that thou art mine
My life and death attend;
Thy presence thro' my journey shine,
And crown my journey's end.

Here is a prayer-hymn which has become very precious to Christians of every land. It was written nearly two centuries ago by Miss Anna Steele, a young Englishwoman who found in her own carefilled life the inspiration for songs of courage, hope and trust to help others in tribulation.

The young hymnist's life, from girlhood to death, was filled with shadows. An accident which she suffered in childhood left her permanently crippled. A few years later, the young man she was to marry was drowned on the very day of the intended wedding, and not long afterward her father's death brought her new sorrow.

But in all of her misfortunes Anna Steele never once lost her religious moorings. How often she must have prayed the prayer expressed in the opening lines of the second stanza of her hymn:

"Give me a calm, a thankful heart,
From every murmur free".

And when death came at last, one November day in 1778 it found her happy and serene, and eager to glimpse the glories that lay beyong her "journey's end".

Women's Institute

MELROSE W.I.

In spite of the humid weather a goodly number of members and visitors gathered at the home of Mrs. E. Embury for the July meeting of Melrose W.I.

Mrs. K. McMechan, president, welcomed all and thanked the hostess for opening her home. The sec.-treasurer, Mrs. E. Pascoe, read the correspondence consisting of thank-you notes from ladies who had received get well or sympathy cards.

It was decided to exhibit a display at Shannonville Fair. This consists of ten kitchen items suitable for a bazaar and members having suitable articles are to bring them to the August meeting.

The report of a June wedding at which the W.I. catered showed a profit of $50.

Mrs. T. Howard expressed thanks for the "First-Aid Kit" donated to the Cubs and Scouts and exhibited the contents.

The "Queen Elizabeth" souvenir spoons were on display and many availed themseves of the privilege of obtaining one.

Mrs. C. Weese had been requested by Mr. S. McDonald, agricultural representative to explain in detail the "Farm Accident Survey" which is to be conducted throughout the county. She brought to attention the great need for it. Mrs. M. Lazier and Mrs. K. McMechan were appointed to look after same in this community.

Mrs. Roy McLaren, convener of home economics took charge at this stage and enlarged on the motto "Economics We Can All Practise and Enjoy". It has been said the three main rules of economy are: eat it up; wear it out; make it do. A well-planned budget and planning meals saves time and labor. Remodelling clothing is most praise-worthy and what pleasure is derived from producing attractive garments from discarded material. She also gave several methods of brightening up the home and suggested Women's magazines for ideas. Never forget the lack of system is a foe to economy. She closed with a most suitable poem by Edgar Guest, "His Bank Account".

Mrs. S. Geneja gave an amusing reading on "Tenting" which described many humorous incidents involved while camping in Algonquin Park and some resolutions made as to their return.

Mrs. C. Weese followed with a humorous reading, "Long Distance", which described a conversation on the telephone between a small boy and his mother, who was ill in the hospital.

Mrs. E. Badgley conducted a "Word" contest with Mrs. R. Clarke as winner.

A social hour followed.

A Lift For Living

Easy to Start Revival

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

The late Glenn Frank once said that if we were to talk about our religious interests in the same normal matter-of-fact manner that we speak of our business affairs, we could start a revival of religion in America in a few weeks. When we grasp the truth that all our business is a part of our Heavenly Father's business, we no longer rate some occupations as secular and others as sacred; we no longer treat our work as a hand-to-mouth existence, but we raise it to man-to-God nobility.

It is pathetic, isn't it, how petty our business can become when divorced from any divine relationship? Just a little daily round of money grubbing and money grabbing, keeping our eyes on the grindstone while we sharpen the tools for making a living, of which we eventually begin to tire, and then we feel infirmity coming on. Is it much wonder that Mark Twain in a fit of melancholy once burst forth in a bitter indictment of life's drab tragedy?

Some people look upon their work as a drudgery which they have to endure to make enough money to live after hours. Such persons work as few hours as possible, and then all too often find their leisure just about as unsatisfying as their labor.

Others of us may enjoy our work, get all wrapped up in it, and then become miserable when age forces us to retire. A refined woman went across to her neighbor and apologized for her husband's behavior. She was aware that his gruff coarse language was being heard next door. She said: "You must understand that my husband is not quite himself these days. He has just been retired and he doesn't know what to do with himself. He has become very hard to live with."

If we are to avoid the twin evils of taking our work as drudgery or taking our retirement as imprisonment, we must see our work in its larger setting. We must see our business as part of God's business. As Maltbie Babcock wrote: "The circle of business activity is not tangent to the circle of God's service, but concentric, a little circle in a great one." This we can feel only if we practise William James' principle that "the great use of life is to spend it for something that will outlast it."

Having seen that our business can be a part of God's business, we must go on to see secondly that we must specifically concern ourselves to mind God's business. When we say that everything is God's business, there is danger that we may lapse into the attitude of a certain layman I once knew. When he was asked to give part of his income to the Lord, he replied, "Why, everything I have belongs to the Lord." But so far as I could learn he never made any entries in the Lord's account.

His attitude toward God was like that of a certain husband toward his wife. He would say sentimentally, "Everything belongs to both of us." But so far as I could discover the poor wife had to take his word on faith, that is "as the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen."

Granted that everything belongs to God and our business is a part of God's business, nevertheless we have to do specific things to remind ourselves of God's part in our program. To be sure, you can be about God's business in your office as well as in church, but if you keep ever in the atmosphere of your office without ever going to church, you are likely to forget God's partnership.

It was on a Christmas Eve, according to Dickens' "Christmas Carol" that hard-fisted Scrooge beheld the ghost of his dead business partner, the equally uncharitable Jacob Marley. The ghost was in great agony. It had come back to warn Scrooge against making Marley's mistake of wasting opportunities for goodness and kindness. To comfort the wailing ghost, Scrooge said consolingly: "But you were always a good man of business, Jacob."

"Business," cried the ghost, wringing its hands again, "Mankind was my business. The common welfare was my business; charity, mercy, forbearance and benevolence were all my business. The dealings of my trade were but a drop of water in the comprehensive ocean of my business!"

Yes, God's business is our business. And we had better learn it before it is too late.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

PLUMAGE CHANGES

Would you recognize a bobolink or a rose-breasted grosbeak if you met one wearing winter clothes? Probably not. At all times thoughtful for her children, Mother Nature arranges for birds' needs. Consequently, for very good reasons, there is a change of costume taking place right now.

As might be expected, after a hard working summer, feathers have become worn and ragged, requiring renewal. This is an essential for migrants, because wings and tails must be in perfect condition for flight. Tails of parents that have passed back and forth through narrow openings to feed their nestlings are in particularly bad shape. House wrens and woodpeckers come into this group.

But a moult, or its substitute, is sometimes necessary in order to change colouring, either for the purpose of looking very fine to make a good impression on the opposite sex, or to become inconspicuous. This may be accomplished either by two complete moults each year or by one complete and one partial moult.

Some birds manage by making the entire moult in autumn and allowing the edges of their feathers to fray away during the winter, leaving them with quite different coloring by spring. Snow buntings breed in the Arctic, so are dressed in white with black trim in summer to correspond with their surroundings. The autumn moult gives them costumes with considerable rusty showing, making them better camouflaged for their stay in civilization. While here, during the winter, the rusty borders wear off.

A few kinds of birds actually appear in three different dresses. The ptarmigan, a year round resident of the Arctic, makes continual changes, to suit the seasons. In winter it is practically pure white, and in summer has rather a pepper and salt, mottled plumage. In between times, its coat shows a mixture of the two, making the costume very hard to describe and the bird difficult to detect.

The handsome male mallard is a good example of certain water birds that moult all their flight feathers at once, thus becoming grounded. In order to hide them from their enemies at this period Mother Nature gives them an intermediate, drab costume, known as "eclipse" plumage.

But our bobolink and rose-breasted grosbeak belong to the group of birds forming the great majority. In spring the males are delightful to look at so as to make a hit with the females; but in autumn they lose their beauty when they acquire their modest, inconspicuous travelling costumes.

Queen Knitting And Sewing Baby Clothes

LONDON (AP) — The Queen waits for the birth of a baby the way most women have always done.

She is knitting and sewing baby clothes and discussing nursery furniture with Prince Philip.

Appearances of state, the making of speeches and the shaking of endless rows of hands are laid aside until after the birth early next year.

This temporary release from official duty will be something the 33-year-old Queen has not experienced since she ascended the throne Feb. 6, 1952.

Queen Elizabeth and the prince ignore one tradition followed by most families. Clothes are not made and the nursery is not decorated on a blue for a boy or pink for a girl basis.

The color scheme in the nursery is buttercup yellow.

Before Prince Charles was born she confided to her former governess that she believed it was more tactful that way. She is reported to have said then:

"Why fancy a little girl turning up and finding the wrong colored cot waiting for her? Think of her feelings. Besides, this way, no one can guess what we really are hoping for ourselves."

Women's Institute

MOIRA W.I.

The Moira W.I. held its meeting at the home of Mrs. Jean Thompson with an attendance of ten members and three visitors and several children.

The president opened the meeting in the usual way.

The souvenir spoons had been received and were on display, and many were disposed of. Money was received from three birthdays.

Mrs. Dorothy Thompson had charge of the program in the absence of the convener, Mrs. Ross Ketcheson, who was unable to be there. The program was as follows: readings by Mrs. Milton Vandewater and Mrs. Jean Thompson, "Babies;" by Mrs. Earl Thompson, "Safety;" by Mrs. McInroy, "Children's Noises;" and "Music" by Mrs. Alice Mumby.

The topic was given by Mrs. Raymond Chambers, "Mother Is the Crown Jewel in the Home," which proved most interesting. Music was provided by Mrs. Alice Mumby.

After the meeting closed, a delicious lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Runnalls are shown following their recent marriage in Cloyne United Church, Cloyne, Ontario. RUNNALLS — SNIDER

At two o'clock on Saturday, July 18, a lovely, double-ring wedding was solemnized in Cloyne United Church by the Reverend W. K. Pace, assisted by Mr. Bruce Eaton, when Beatrice Louise Snider of Belleville, only daughter of Mrs. Charles Snider and the late Mr. Snider, became the bride of Donald A. Runnalls, of Deseronto, elder son of Mr. Garfield Runnalls and the late Mrs. Runnalls.

White satin bows designated the guest pews, while baskets of blue delphiniums, snapdragons, white gladioli and large ferns banked the altar.

Mrs. Clarence Bishop, church pianist, rendered the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. R. A. Sager, Queensboro, who sang, before the ceremony, "O Perfect Love," during the ceremony "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Love You Truly" while the register was being signed.

Given in marriage by her only brother, the bride was radiantly charming in her floor-length bridal gown of nylon net featuring a Chantilly lace bodice with Sabrina neckline coming to a "V" in the back and long sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists. The bouffant skirt of nylon net featured a back panel of rows of ruffled net. Her waist-length veil was held by a tiara of seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and ivy.

The bride's attendants were her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ted Snider of Toronto, as matron of honor, and Miss Barbara Sager, of Queensboro, as bridesmaid. They were attractively attired in street-length dresses of blue taffeta with overlay of white nylon with white and blue embossed flowers and a pleated, blue cummberbund tied in large butterfly bow in the back. Large, white picture hats, white shoes and gloves completed their ensembles. They carried nosegays of white and blue 'mums and pink roses mingled with white tulle and streamers of matching satin ribbon.

The little flower girl, Miss Lorraine Lloyd, of Toronto, a cousin of the bride, was sweet in her short frock of blue taffeta with overlay of white organza embossed with blue flowers. Her dress featured a blue cummerbund similar to those of the matron of honor and the bridesmaid. She wore short white gloves and white shoes and carried a nosegay of white and blue 'mums, and pink roses mingled with white tulle and streamers of satin ribbon and wore a matching floral headband.

Mr. Kenneth Runnalls, of Peterborough, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man, while Mr. Lorne Cooke, cousin of the bridegroom, and Mr. Roger Snider, cousin of the bride, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the Flinton community hall with the Flinton Community Club catering to approximately 75 guests. The tables were centred with bowls of snapdragons. The three-tier, pillared wedding cake, decorated with blue flowers and tiny white doves, was topped by a tiny vase of pink roses and baby's breath. White tulle misted the base and the bridal bouquets added a delightful nuptial accent.

The guests were received by the bride's mother, dressed in blue lace with white accessories and corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. William French, who was attired in navy silk with navy and white accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

For travelling, the bride wore a white linen sheath with embroidered cocoa brown design and matching cocoa brown duster. White accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses completed her ensemble.

The happy couple left amid showers of confetti for a honeymoon at Niagara Falls and other western points.

They will reside in Newmarket.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was guest of honor at four miscellaneous showers; one given by the office staff of the International Hardware Company; one at the home of Mrs. Ivan Clare, with Mrs. James Ray as hostess; one at the home of Mrs. R. A. Sager, with Miss Barbara Sager as hostess, and a community shower in the Cloyne town hall with Mrs. William McDonald and Mrs. James Perry as hostesses.

The Grace of Gratitude

By Alma Mason

(FIRST OF A SERIES)

A famous authority on etiquette tells us that it is not now a "must" in good manners to acknowledge certain privileges and kindness extended to us by friends. The little note expressing appreciation need not be sent; the telephone call expressing thanks for a pleasant evening need not be made.

A wise mother used to tell her children that the most important ingredient stirred into the recipe for developing a perfect lady or gentleman was consideration for others. She believed that a keen desire to be thoughtful and kindly put into practice daily by a girl or boy would eventually produce a gracious, well bred man or woman.

A little girl of half past two years of age was leaving a home she had visited with her parents. She suddenly turned from the door, went up to her elderly hostess and lisped her thanks for a nice dinner and a good time. The parents had planted the early seeds of kindness and courtesy in the baby mind knowing that consideration for others would eventually flower all over her budding garden of life.

Ingratitude is a sinful monster. It is gigantic in the proportion of harm it can inflict on individuals. It links arms with diabolic selfishness.

Gratitude and the spoken and tangible expression of it lights a candle in Heaven. It is not a minor virtue but one which is essential to the strength and development of every other virtue. It is the sturdy main stem from which all other virtues branch and put forth green shoots.

Do you love to receive pretty cards at holiday times? I am especially thrilled with those I receive from individuals, from blind folk, from elderly lonely folk. How wonderful that such people can rise above affliction and remember others who have so much more to be thankful for.

The cards with a written message of love are deeply treasured. Someone took a precious minute out of a busy day to waft a bit of the perfume of cheer to the needy heart of another human.

AUNT FORGOTTEN

I heard a woman complain bitterly about the lack of gratitude shown her by two nieces she had been very kind to through their growing up years. She had always been a devoted and considerate aunt. She was treated with complete indifference and was not even remembered at the Christmas season with a card. A friend reminded her that the mother of the nieces had never taught them to express appreciation. "Such training should start in the cradle," she said.

What a sad and beautiful story we read in Luke 17: 11. Jesus cleansed ten lepers but only one returned thanks and glorify God. Where were the nine? Were they downright ungrateful or were they too busy rejoicing with their families and friends to return and let the Master know of their gratitude? Jesus had many such experiences. Are we often like one of the nine lepers?

When we bestow sincere gratitude and a portion of our love on another human being we are cultivating and experiencing the most foremost grace of our Christian faith. We are also forging a chain of beauty that will endure in many hearts for many ages.

Perhaps we write a note thus — "How wonderful of you to be so kind! You have brought me cheer to last today and for many days to follow. God bless you for your thoughtfulness." When such a sincere note is received the one who performed the kindness is inspired to confer a kindness on another needy heart. Such expressed gratitude makes the world brighter and fills each day with the sunshine of peace and Godly satisfaction.

Let us not walk with the nine lepers. Let us take time to rush back and glorify God and give thanks.

• •

'Twas such a little thing I did!
'Twas small and almost out of sight,
But when you thanked me for it dear,
It lit a candle in the night.

Then you came to my open door
And blessed me with a loving deed;
I was too busy to say "thanks"—
I was wrapped up in thoughtless greed.

And so our love languished and died;
No echoes spread so you might know
The thanks locked in my grieving heart
Were blurred with time and could not show.

Oh! That I might have been like he
Who blessed his Lord for faith and cure;
Who knew the power of gratitude
Would cleanse his heart and make it pure.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

T and T happened to be talking this week with a couple of metropolitan people who have had many years experience in Canada in newspaper, magazine, radio and television work. One was a man and the second was a woman. The Mom Whyte incident came up for discussion. The man was convinced that officialdom was in the wrong when it wielded the big stick. The woman was not convinced. The man was of the opinion that Mom Whyte is a good, kind and big-hearted woman. From all the newspaper accounts we have seen, and from all the letters to the editors, the interested bystander may be forgiven if his objectivity is given slight freedom of choice.

Since the problem is basically one of humanity, of children, of unfortunate children and worried parents, there is every reason in the world why people should be interested and forgiven, too, if they take sides. Leaving out of the battle of words, that which can or cannot be proven, there remains that factor about which every Canadian is entitled to speculate, about which every Canadian has a duty and a responsibility to be reflective about, and maybe, in the nature of things, women are more disturbed about than most men.

Mom Whyte seems to have a propensity for headlines, but what does the public really know about this incident which could become, if it is not already so, a bitter debate whose objectivity is lost in bigotry and prejudice. We are told and have every reason to believe that an epidemic of considerable proportions broke out recently in Mom Whyte's home for unfortunate children. We are told that there has been serious overcrowding. We are told that sanitation was not of the best. We are told that standards required for health purposes were not lived up to.

We are led to believe that the parents of the children under Mom Whyte's care are satisfied with their guardian and her home. We are told that these children who are the victims of Providence are largely unwanted.

We the public have a right to accept both these premises. If they are right, and this is all we have on which to base our judgment, then we are justified in wondering why the last court of appeal, which is indeed a court of law, wasn't resorted to in the first place. The victims in the final analysis are these unfortunate children. And for a woman, children have a tug that cannot be rendered.

If the standards were as low as they are claimed to be, and if the parents of these children are happy with Mom Whyte's guardianship, it appears to the impartial citizen, if you can be impartial, that rather ruthless cure has been inflicted and after the accomplished fact, it will be made to look justified. Surely this isn't a case that can be made to look like routine as, for instance, the closing of a restaurant where vermin runs riot in the kitchen. In the meantime, children are uprooted suddenly, parents are aroused, Mom Whyte whether rightly or wrongly, raises a banner of crusade. Religious bigotry and ancient prejudices stir while a befuddled citizenry wonders what it is all about.

It appears as though someone fumbled the ball and in the scrimmage going on now, the children will come out the losers no matter what the referee's decision is, no matter who had possession of the ball last, no matter whether there was running interference or not. For the sake of children whose misfortune is an act of Providence, T and T hopes that adults grow up quickly to bring this unpleasant fracas to an immediate conclusion, a happy one for kiddies who must look in wonder and puzzlement at the antics of us elder citizens.

In our concern for these Canadian children, we hope no one can point the finger of sectarianism, prejudice or bigotry at such a prayer. Let whatever is right be done speedily, efficiently and humanely so that a world that has already laid a heavy burden on children will shine once more a little happier and brighter.

Our weekend thought is a mundane one. T and T is going on a three-week holiday. We hope to return to our accustomed place on your woman's page September 2nd. Our biweekly chat has become a part of us after nearly five years, and although sorry to part, we are glad it is a transient 'so long. We will be happy to be back. In the interim, all the best.

WEDDINGS

THOMPSON—RUTHERFORD

CAMPBELLFORD—Pink and white gladioli graced St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Campbellford, for the wedding of Marilyn Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward John Rutherford, to David James Thompson, son of Mrs. Frank White and the late James Oddie Thompson, all of Campbellford. The Rev. A. E. Toombs officiated.

Before the ceremony, Mr. Ronald Pierce sang "The Lord's Prayer," and "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register. Mr. Albert Hazell was organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of silk tulle with a Chantilly lace Sabrina neckline showered with sequins. The tiny lace sleeves were complemented with matching gauntlets. Her bouffant skirt was accented with three tiny tiers of lace and she carried a white Bible with pink Sweetheart roses and streamers of pink rosebuds. Her finger-tip veil of silk illusion was caught to a sequined circular crown.

Miss Carol Locke was maid of honor, wearing white peau de soie accented with a blue cummerbund and butterfly bow with hem-length streamers. She wore a matching blue picture hat and carried a nosegay of silver dusted blue 'mums.

Miss Elaine Rutherford and Mrs. Tom Bonnema, bridesmaids, were similary dressed in white peau de soie with pink cummerbunds and carrying nosegays of pink 'mums dusted with silver.

Master Bobby Hoard, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer. The groomsman was Mr. Jim Baker, while Mr. Alex McCallum and Mr. Gordon Rutherford were ushers.

At the reception in the church parlors, the bride's mother received wearing a gown of blue printed silk with navy and white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother chose a champagne lace dress with lime accessories and a corsage of peach roses.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will make their home at 58 Park Street North, Belleville, Ontario.

MITCHELL — MASSEY

CAMPBELLFORD — A pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, August 1st, in Morganston United Church, when Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Massey of Morganston, Ont., became the bride of Howard Robert Mitchell, son of the late Gordon R. Mitchell, of Warkworth. The Rev. Lloyd Lovering officiated.

Soloist, Mr. David Turney, sang the "Lord's Prayer" and "I'll Walk Beside You," accompanied by Miss Myrtle Hardy.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace over satin with a Sabrina neckline trimmed with tiny seed pearls and bracelet-length sleeves. Many tiers of lace ruffles formed a chapel train. Her fingertip veil was caught to a leaf crown of net and seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of red Sweetheart roses.

Miss Isabelle Massey was maid of honor wearing a gown of white embroidered nylon over pale green taffeta. Miss Evelyn Massey, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and Miss Verlie Massey, the bride's cousin, was Junior bridesmaid. They wore white embroidered nylon over pink and blue taffeta with matching feather headdresses, white accessories, and carried bouquets of pink gladioli and white 'mums.

The groomsman was Mr. Allan Birney of Tweed, while Messrs. Clare Knight of Stirling, and George Massey, brother of the bride, were ushers.

A reception was held in the church parlors, where the bride's mother received in a dress of navy blue lace over taffeta with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's aunt also received in a gown of gold and silver Italian silk brocade. She wore a corsage of white carnations.

For a wedding trip to United States, the bride wore a dress of black and white nylon over taffeta with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. On their return, the couple will live at Warkworth.

Attractions of Disneyland Fascinate All Visitors

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

In the hothouse atmosphere of southern California where blondes, tropical foliage, super markets and ideas all seem to emerge full-blown and larger than life, few concepts ring as true as Walt Disney's Disneyland.

One of the few authentic geniuses in the world of entertainment, Disney has crossed every barrier of taste and interest and is still exploring new ones. His magic kingdom has turned the town of Anaheim into a Mecca for children from all over the world and given the metropolis of Los Angeles the biggest tourist shot in the arm it has had since Cecil B. DeMille decided Hollywood would be a good place to make movies.

Since this world's fair of amusement opened four years ago it has more than doubled in size and has been visited by the equivalent of one out of every 11 Americans.

Now complete with its own plush hotel where the men's room is marked "Little Gentlemen" and the menu includes baby foods, Disneyland is planned with an elaborate attention to detail and an all-consuming sense of engrossment that takes the kinks out of the most jaded imagination.

Rides are the soul of any amusement park, but Disneyland's rides are the stuff of dreams to any child who has ever watched television, gone to the movies or read a story.

For the price of a 10- to 50-cent ticket, he may retrace the steps of Tom Sawyer's and Huck Finn's adventures on a specially built island; explore a complete Indian village populated by real Indians; cruise up a body of water that may be the Little Big Horn if he's helping paddle an Indian war canoe, the Amazon if he's on the Jungle Queen, the Mississippi if he's on the authentic replica of a sternwheeler, the Mark Twain, or the Spanish Main if he's aboard the three-masted pirate schooner Columbia.

He may blast off to the moon in an earth-bound rocket made so realistic by light and sound effects that it had our 5-year-old thoroughly convinced we had made the trip (we're not so sure we didn't), or try his hand at such grown-up thrills as driving a sports car or speed boat.

This year's new attractions are the most fantastic yet. Through a 14-storey high replica of the Matterhorn — which Disney's southern California-type publicists cannot resist describing as the "tallest structure in Orange County" — a hectic bobsled ride roars through caverns and precarious ridges that are not for the faint-hearted.

The country's first complete monorail transportation system glides around the park in a preview of the way this year's youngsters may travel to and from work in some Tomorrowland.

The prize of them all, however, and worth the entire trip, is the 10-minute ride in a scale model submarine through the exotic world beneath the ocean. Passengers peer through portholes only a few inches below the surface — the boat never submerges — but the effects are so ingeniously planned that it is difficult to believe that you are not 20,000 leagues under the sea.

Leaving the dock, the recorded voice of the captain gives the command to dive. Bubbles shoot upward in front of the wind and there is the unmistakable sensation of going down.

Suddenly the sea is filled with incredible sights. Coral reefs float past, and the water swarms with sharks, weird manta rays and eels, giant squid and octopi. Into dark undersea caverns where fish glow with their own gorgeous colors, under the polar ice cap where dim blue daylight glimmers through, and into an ever-more fantastic world you slip.

A giant oyster shell with pearls slides by, then deep sea divers struggling with a treasure chest from a sunken galleon come into view. Next come great casks spilling over with jewels and coins, lavender-haired mermaids swimming by and finally a view of the sunken civilization of Atlantis where the fiery red volcanoes that toppled the magnificent statues and buildings may still be seen.

It's going to be difficult for Disney to top that one, but he probably will.

The attention to detail we mentioned manifests itself in fascinating ways that make it unnecessary to spend more than the price of admission to be amused. A day may be spent listening to the band concerts, exploring the turn-of-the-century shops on Main Street, watching the alpinists climb the Matterhorn or the U. S. Marshal gun down a bank robber in Frontierland.

Disneyland's biggest problem is crowding. Daily crowds run from 25,000 to 40,000 persons and the most popular attractions require long waits in line. But consolation lies in the fact that most of them are well worth it.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Muriel S. — She is hurting herself with this affair.

Naomi T. — This is my [illegible] and last fling.

• • •

Muriel S. — I am a married woman with grown children and I am trying to help a very nice woman with whom I have become friendly in my place of business.

Naomi is an attractive woman in her early 40's. She has never been married, but recently she has become involved with one of the married men in our office. Everyone has been talking about this affair and I decided to take the bull by the horns and let her know.

Fortunately, Naomi didn't slap me for my interference but was ready to cry on my shoulder. She says she is in love with this man and she doesn't care about anything else. I can understand her feelings, but I think she is doing herself so much damage. She has ruined her reputation and probably her career already.

• • •

Naomi T. — This affair has been my first fling at happiness and in all probability it is my last. I don't care what comes of it and I won't let anything stand in my way.

I led a terribly sheltered girlhood and was dominated by my mother and older sister. They ruined my life by making me feel that I was an ugly duckling. They were both extremely attractive. After my sister married I took care of my invalid mother until her death. I waited on her hand and foot and had no time for myself. I never went out socially until after her death.

• • •

The Council: We are entirely in favor of Naomi's having happiness. But why only a fling? Why not lasting happiness instead of a last fling?

The "happiness" Naomi claims she now enjoys with this man is more than likely one-tenth fleeting pleasure and nine-tenths illusion. If she is honest with herself and tries to explore her own feelings seriously, she'll find that behind her bravado is a hurt and frightened woman. She cannot possibly be sure of the sincerity of the man's feelings and she must have serious worries about her future.

A woman like Naomi, who has felt slighted and left out of things all her life, may for a moment enjoy the attention she is getting. She'd rather be talked about in an unpleasant way than be ignored. But the talk will die down, just leaving an unpleasant aftertaste — together with the tatters of a phony romance.

If Naomi would recognize that she, herself, is somewhat to blame for her past unhappiness she might set herself on the road toward true happiness. The cases of really wicked older sisters and mothers are rare. It is very unlikely that this mother and sister wanted Naomi to lead a sad, lonely existence and probably they didn't think she was quite so ugly as she believed she was. But even if things were as bad as she claims, Naomi was not held prisoner. If she had made an effort to reach for a larger life she undoubtedly would have gotten it.

Naomi ought to throw out her self-pity with her illusions and pull herself out of her present ugly plight. She can fill her life with real friendship and love if she looks for exactly that — and not compensation for inadequacy or past unhappiness.

Second Glance

"Only out of our own experience can we understand the meaning of history."—Carlos Barker.

As the Jones' Falls locks built under John Redpath's supervision receded from view and we continued our cruise of the Rideau Canal, a conversation once held with his granddaughter came to mind, which took place at the large grey stone house on Sherbrooke Street in Montreal.

Tea was served in a hidden, spacious square of lawn, terraced into three levels which were enhanced in turn, by a row of tall maple trees, a rose garden and a vegetable garden. Each level was claimed to have a different degree of temperature cool, moderate and warm, "where I sit accordingly," said the hostess, tall, middle-aged, looking extremely well in a navy blue crepe gown with a [illegible] jacket slung loosely over slim shoulders. A pair of lovely china blue eyes gazed from beneath a wide brimmed matching straw hat that all but concealed thick wavy grey hair. As she poured tea, she related some of the family history.

"Grandfather Redpath, who founded the family fortune when he used certain type stone for Rideau canal contract, that enabled him to offer a cheaper tender than others, had two sons: John and Peter. My father was John, who retired from business at the age of thirty-one, due to poor health, she commented.

"My mother, whose ancestors came over to America in 1631 was very proud of being an American, but loved Canada greatly, and was very fond of England and the continent. In fact, though I was born in Canada, [illegible] was christened in England.

"I lived a great deal of my life in England, where Uncle Peter (after he retired from business) had such a lovely house known as "Chistlehurst" and there I was married in the manor house chapel. How good he was to us, for, having no children of his own, he made much of my brother and myself. member on my birthdays at the He used to hold dinners. I re-Inner Temple Court, where he studied law, at the age of sixty!

MET INTERESTING PEOPE

"I've had really very little so-called 'formal' education, though there were always tutors. But, as children we seemed to meet interesting people constantly and were with older people a great deal, and thus we seemed to learn quite a bit, just the same. Now although my mother attended Vassar, (her cousin was the first woman president) and completed her education abroad, my view is that women as a rule do not need all the formal education which the girls receive now-a-days. It molds them in a monotonous pattern, like rubber stamps. A woman, so it seems to me, is very individual. Her primary role is a home maker and a mother; this is a great art and it should be approached as such.

"Of course, if a woman shows a definite preference in some special field of endeavor, then, certainly, she should submit to the education necessary. But, there you can see for yourself, I'm very old-fashioned!"

A maid interrupted just at that moment. A caller waited in the drawing room.

There, standing by the massive square piano, was a young Iroquois Indian from the nearby village of Caughnawaga. His face was a wreath of smiles as his hostess greeted him warmly, introduced us and asked, "How are all my friends—all my dear subjects? Come, I would like to show you both a painting." She led us to a room quite filled with Indian pieces of art. On one wall hung a large painting which revealed Lady Roddick standing before two Indian Chiefs, most colorful in their tribal regalia. One chief had a bowl of corn soup in his hand which she had just made. To the left, a lively fire burns. "I'm supposed to have laid and lighted the fire and prepared the soup", she said.

"Yes," the young Indian said, "because that is the ceremony when you were made a princess of our tribe."

MADE MEMBER OF TRIBE

"Being one, makes me very proud, indeed", she answered as she pointed to a framed birch-bark document signed by Indian chiefs which proclaimed her a member of their tribe. "Yes, it is all in writing."

Then back in the opulent, pink-and-white Victorian drawing room with its ornate marble, flowered brocades and oriental rugs. The Iroquois lad drew forth a white parcel from his coat pocket and presented it to this princess now of his tribe. It was a wondrously - beaded pair of snow white leather moccasins.

As he said, "I came from Caughnawaga today to give these to you. I made them for you." The hand shake at his leave-taking was a dramatic one; the meeting of two distinct cultures, yet both Canadian.

How did this granddaughter of John Redpath's become interested in Caughnawaga village, in the first place? This seemed important. We were later told:

"One day, she happened to drive through Caughnawaga and decided to have more than a passing interest in it when she saw a broken window pane hung with a sugar sack to keep out the cold. On it was printed in large black letters: "Let Redpath Sweeten It."

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: COURTESY TO THOSE WHO SERVE

A woman who is a gentlewoman and a man who is a gentleman invariably treat with courtesy and consideration all those who serve, serve in any capacity. his courtesy is a distinguishing characteristic of a well-bred person.

GROOM'S PARENTS MUST BE GIVEN LIST-INFORMATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our son's engagement has been announced, and the wedding plans are being made. It is to be a large, formal church wedding, with larger reception following. Our son has told us that we must begin at once to make our lists of relatives and friends we want to have invited, and he'd add his list of friends to our list. We have a host of relatives and friends. How in the world are we to know how many we may invite? Shouldn't we ask our son to get this information for us?
— Groom's Mother

Since you are the one who will be assembling this list, you yourself should get this information directly from the bride's mother, the hostess of the wedding, or from the bride-to-be.

You should be told (1) the number of guests you may have on your list for invitations to the church and to the reception; or, if not all guests are to be invited to both church and reception, then how many you may invite to each; and (2) if announcements are to be sent, how many are to be assigned to your list. When you have this definite information, you and your husband and son can begin work immediately on these lists.

MAILING WEDDING ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are having just the members of our families, four close relatives and five or six very close friends at our wedding in my home on a Saturday afternoon in September. We will not, of course, send out invitations. However, we are planning to send engraved announcements. We thought we could use these announcements to inform our other relatives and friends, mainly those who live at a distance, that the wedding is to take place on that day. We are having some serious discussions about this, and there is a difference of opinion. Don't you think it would be correct, under the circumstances I have mentioned, to mail the announcements several days before the date of the wedding?
— Bride-to-be

No! Under no circumstances is it correct to send marriage announcements before the marriage ceremony has taken place. These announcements announce that the marriage ceremony has taken place, and it would be ridiculous to have a person receive, say, on September 10th, an announcement that the marriage ceremony has been performed on September 20th!

THIS GIRL KNOWS WHAT SHE WANTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm engaged, and Jimmy and I have been talking about "the rings." I have very definite ideas of what I want, both for the engagement ring and for the wedding ring. Since they're not at all "expensive" ideas, I don't feel hesitant about telling Jimmy what they are. I'm not at all interested in having the two rings a "set," and I'm not particularly interested in having them complement each other, except in general harmony.

In these circumstances, please tell me if it would be entirely proper for me to consult about and perhaps definitely choose the wedding ring when we go together to consult about the engagement ring. — Kathleen

Yes, this will be proper, and practical also. For although you don't want the rings to be a set, you should, I suggest, try them on together to see that they have the "general harmony" you of course want them to have, to be sure that they are becoming to each other.

BETTER SERVE BOTH TEA AND COFFEE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it really incorrect, as I have been told, to serve coffee instead of tea at an afternoon "Tea"? I like coffee so much better than I like tea! — Dot

As a general rule it would not be correct for the hostess to offer only coffee when she invites guests to a "Tea." But it is entirely correct, and has become quite customary, to serve coffee as well as tea in the late-afternoon. If you are absolutely positive that all the guests you are inviting, as well as you yourself, prefer coffee, then you will probably be safe in serving only coffee. However, in the spirit of true hospitality, you must not serve just what you prefer, but, in so far as possible, you must provide a choice for your guests. And many people, remember, still prefer to drink tea at teatime!

Readers' Saturday Column

As conducted by Mary Moore

ANSWER:

(To Pamela A. cont'd from yesterday, August 7th:-.

BUTTERSCOTCH PIE:

6 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 cup hot water, 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour, 1 2-3 cups milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup dark brown sugar, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 3 slightly beaten egg yolks.

Have one 9-inch pie shell baked and cooled.

In a frying pan over low heat melt butter or margarine until just golden in color. Add brown sugar and boil until foamy. Stir constantly. Takes about 2 to 3 minutes. Add the hot water and remove from heat. In a saucepan over direct heat mix the cornstarch, flour and salt and add the milk and mix until smooth, then add the butter-sugar mixture. Cook over low heat until boiling stirring all the time. Boil for 1 minute. Add a little of the hot mixture to the beaten egg yolks and then add to remaining hot mixture. Remove from heat immediately, after boiling for 1 minute stirring. Add vanilla. Cool, covered, stirring occasionally. Pour into baked pie shell and chill in refrigerator. When ready to serve sweetened whipped cream sprinkled with chopped nuts may be spread on top if desired.

VEGETABLE MARROW JAM:

6 cups washed, pared, seeded, diced vegetable marrow, 2 cups water, 7 1-2 cups sugar, 1 lemon thinly sliced, 1-2 oz. broken up ginger root.

Cover prepared marrow with water and bring to boiling point and drain. Reserve liquid. Sprinkle sugar over parboiled marrow and let stand covered overnight. Pour reserved liquid over; add remaining ingredients and cook 1 hour stirring very frequently, until marrow is transparent. Seal hot in sterilized jars.

POPSICLES:

Use fresh frozen juice concentrate such as orange, pineapple, grape, etc. Dilute with only 2 cans water instead of 3. Pour into ice cube freezing trays with ice cube dividers in place and freeze to mush. Insert wooden popsicle sticks (or baby tongue depressors) in upright position, transfer tray to large freezing compartment to allow room for upright sticks; freeze hard. Remove, wrap individually in squares of wax or parchment paper; store folded side down in freezing compartment.

HOT DOG RELISH:

Wash well and then put through food grinder 7 1-2 pounds each green tomatoes and cucumbers. Add 1 cup salt and let stand overnight. Finely chop 1 medium head of cabbage, 6 each red sweet peppers and 6 medium-sized onions. Drain cucumbers and tomatoes, add onions, peppers and cabbage. Combine 6 cups vinegar with 8 cups sugar and add 2 tablespoons mixed pickling spices that have been tied in a cheesecloth bag and add to vegetables. Simmer for 30 minutes and pack hot into hot sterilized jars.

If you habitually work with sterile equipment and seal with care, you do not need to sterilize sealed bottles of ketchup.

Summer Heat Plagues Your Engine, Too

By EUGENE MILMOE

At this time of year, more than 50 per cent of the car problems submitted by leaders directly or indirectly concern engine overheating.

In many cases, the motorist will evidence his perplexity by emphasizing that the entire cooling system was checked and given a clean bill of health. Assuming this is true, perhaps we can help by listing some other likely causes of high engine temperatures.

Poor ignition timing or a lean carburetor mixture, for example, is sometimes the principal, yet unsuspected reason. Insufficient crankcase oil, too low-octane gasoline, underinflated tires, brake drag, clutch slippage or a binding manifold heat control valve are also conditions to be considered.

When troubleshooting, keep in mind that clogged, kinked or collapsed spots in the exhaust system will hamper engine cooling.

• • •

From D. R.: "If the inside of a radiator hose is worn and beginning to rot, will water pump vacuum pressure cause it to collapse?"

(A) Not always. Some hose is reinforced with spiral wire to prevent its collapse.

• • •

N. P. writes: "I put in a new oil filter less than 700 miles ago. A station attendant tells me now that my car is smoky and burning oil because of poor crankcase ventilation . . . and he believes a clogged filter is the reason. How can the filter get so bad so quickly?"

(A) The mechanic was referring to a clogged crankcase air filter — not the engine oil filter.

• • •

E. S. asks: "My carburetor isn't getting enough gas. The fuel pump and filter bowl are both O.K., and I think the gas line is, too."

(A) It might be worthwhile to check the flexible hose connecting the rigid gas line and the pump. After long service, this connector can crack causing leakage or deteriorate enough to restrict fuel flow.

• • •

From B. W.: "Several times this summer, while driving in traffic, a buzzing sound occurred under the hood. Once I hit the open road, however, the noise ceased. The car runs well as far as I can see."

(A) Engine heat building up when you're caught in heavy traffic can cause the radiator pressure cap valve to vibrate when it's allowing excess pressure to be released. This vibration results in a buzzing noise.

Must Eliminate Corrupt Books Says Cardinal

TORONTO (CP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York urged Thursday that "pictures and books which corrupt and destroy the moral fibre and ideals of youth . . . be eliminated if we are to discharge our sacred duties to our children."

The word freedom is perverted, he said, "when hypocrites apply this sacred term to contemptible schemes in order to prey on the weaknesses of unformed characters under the banner of 'freedom of speech,' or 'freedom of press.' "

He addressed the international convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles here, at which he was presented with the order's Ten Commandments award.

The time had passed for passing more censorship laws, he said. The only solution was for adults to "live God's Ten Commandments conscientiously and constantly" and teach them to children.

Comedian Jerry Lewis waved a $50,000 cheque at his fellow Eagles and said of the young muscular dystrophy victims it would aid:

"When some day we have these children walking instead of riding, I promise every one of them will wear an eagle."

Lewis was presented with the Sullivan-Considine award in recognition of his fund-raising activities for muscular dystrophy relief.

Canal Officials Not Worried Over Seaway

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state barge canal is losing a major cargo to the St. Lawrence Seaway and the railroads. Yet the overseers of the canal express no alarm.

Local deliveries along the waterway are keeping business this year slightly ahead of last year's. But movement of wheat, a big product exported in the past through Oswego, Albany and New York, has almost ceased.

Much of the U.S. surplus grain is going abroad directly through the new seaway.

What the seaway cannot handle, the railroads move to eastern and gulf ports. The Interstate Commerce Commission granted them rate benefits in June to enable them to remain competitive with the seaway.

"You lose one thing and pick up another," says Edward Hudowalksi, assistant superintendent of operation and maintenance in "The traffic pattern is changing". "The traffic patern is changing."

The canal's future, in another respect, depends in part on New York citizens.

On Nov. 3 New York citizens will vote on an amendment to the state constitution that would authorize the legislature to transfer or lease the canal to the federal government. The idea is to save the state the cost of maintenance.

Tom Tully of 'The Lineup' Turns in Badge for $50,000

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Tom Tully has turned in his San Francisco police badge and cashed out for $50,000.

The gruff, able actor no longer will be ferreting out hoods on The Lineup, the CBS crime series.

"I didn't like the new setup," he said. "They wanted to put me and Warner Anderson in supporting roles. After five years as stars of the show, I didn't think this was right. I had no objection to using new people—if it was handled intelligently. But they were killing the whole idea of the show."

The Lineup ran into trouble last season from the fast-moving 77 Sunset Strip, an hour - long whodunit that opposed the Tully-Anderson sleuthing in many time zones. CBS decided to fight fire with fire and expanded Lineup to an hour for the fall.

SUGGESTED NEW LOCALES

"I didn't want to goon an hour show unless it was done in big style," Tully added. "I suggested moving the locale to different parts of the country. One story could show Anderson in Washington, D.C., working with the FBI while I was pursuing the same case at the home base, San Francisco. Or I'd be in Boston and he'd be in San Francisco.

"They seemed to like my idea and the authorities in the other cities offered their support. But then the network feel for some poll taken in the east. The poll said that we couldn't compete with 77 Sunset Strip unless we got some juvenile leads.

'After five years as star, I wasn't going to be carrying papers in the background. I told them 'no, thanks; I'll quit while I'm ahead.'"

So he settled his contract for $50,000. He still retains 25 per cent of the 183 half-hour shows that he made.

Zsa Zsa Goes Ga-Ga Over Maid Problem

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Burglars and the servant problem are driving Zsa Zsa Gabor out of Hollywood, the Hungarian actress says.

She said on her return from Naples, Italy, Thursday that she is going to sell her home and move into a New York apartment.

"Now I am going to move forever," she said. "Nowhere in ze world is ze servant problem so bad as it is here. This time when I go abroad I feenish wiz ze servants and what happens? Burglars came and took all those lovely diamonds rubies (Dominican playboy Profirio Rubirosa) gave me.

"Servants are probably bad there (New York) but in a small apartment one can get by with a few."

CBC Requests 'Critics' for Radio, TV

WINNIPEG (CP)—Cities and municipalities are being asked by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation to name volunteer committees whose members will be asked to report on what they see and hear on the television and radio programs of the publicly owned corporation.

A letter signed by Kate Aitken, chairman of the CBC Board of Directors sub-committee on programs and finance, has been received by mayors of cities and municipalities in the Winnipeg area.

Mayor Catherine Seppala of Fort William also reported she had received the letter.

T-V TIPS

by JOHN WETTLAUFER

On every good TV antenna installation the insulating hardware or "stand-offs" play an important role. You can easily check them yourself to see that they hold the lead-in wire more or less in a straight line and away from the, antenna mast. Also, the lead-in itself should not flap loosely or be wound around the mast, water pipes or other objects.

Should you discover any of these faults with your TV aerial, the chances are that you aren't getting the best possible reception. Several minor faults—each one relatively unimportant—can add up to a poor picture on your TV screen.

CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 364 Coleman St., specialize in curing antenna troubles. Their experience and modern test equipment enable them to get the best performance possible from TV aerials. Phone WO 8-6791 (in Trenton EX 2-7669).

Elegant Gent Doubled as Bus Conductor

TORQUAY, England (Reuters)—Everything went well for the elegantly dressed guest at an expensive hotel in this southwest England resort—until a bellhop saw the guest working as a bus conductor.

The bellhop told the manager, and the well - tailored gentleman, who had his wife and three children with him, was presented a bill for £110. He could not pay, and the family, minus luggage, was moved out.

The bus conductor moved into the expensive hotel after he was evicted from his home.

Every day for 10 days he wished a brisk good morning to the hotel staff and then stepped across the street to a public toilet where he changed into his conductor's uniform. At night he would put on his snappy suit before entering the hotel.

The manager of the hotel said the man lost his job a few hours after he was thrown out. He added that the man was making "a genuine effort to pay"—but his luggage would be held until he did.

HERBIE HENN NIGHT!

Tomorrow night is Herbie Henn Night!

Tomorrow night his many friends, both inside and beyond the perimeter of his favorite sport, will pay tangible and other tribute to a fine sportsman.

If his health permits, it is expected the "Ole Clucker" will be present in an unfamiliar softball capacity, a spectator in the stands.

Unfamiliar, because those of us who know the Clucker better, are more accustomed to seeing him pull off dazzling plays around second base, or by his spirit and desire to win, fire his team from a coaching line.

For the past two decades the name of Herbie Henn has been a household one in softball circles. When ill-health forced him to retire from active participation, Herbie maintained his keen interest in the sport in managerial and coaching capacities.

He is a graduate of the old school of softball that was spawned and raised in the rugged atmosphere of the old Coleman Flats.

Herbie belonged to that roisterous hard-hitting clan of softballing who thought that only sissies wore mitts, and spikes were something used by railroaders to nail down ties.

And while the Ole Clucker never condoned rough or unorthodox play nevertheless he was part and parcel of that oft-times hot-tempered clan who were not averse to filling an umpire's eye with fist without benefit of too much argument.

In fact, as Peever puts it, "the umps of those days always regained 20-20 vision after losing two or three teeth."

But with the passing of the famous Coleman Flats and its cinder-filled atmosphere, softball went on to better things and better times. New parks sprang into existence, the CNRA for existence. Organization was improved and district leagues formed.

And somewhere, somehow, in all the clutter and bustle of the new order of things the name of Herbie Henn always cropped up. He never lost his love for the game — and he never let it down.

Softball will show at least some slight token of appreciation of a grand guy at the CNRA Park tomorrow night. The Belleville Bobcats will meet the Point Anne Cementmen in an exhibition tilt to honor and aid a fine sportsman, who has been stricken by a cruel blow of fate.

The Belleville Umpires' Association, headed by president Al Kelleher, who with Shud Ethier, fathered the idea of a Herbie Henn Night, has done a marvellous job in carrying out the idea to what is hoped to be a tremendously successful conclusion.

Harold Bawden also did a tremendous job in supervising the sale of tickets. He received fine co-operation from everyone contacted and it is understood a large number of books have been sold. The Cobourg Merchants Softball team handed in monies returned from the sale of ticket books at the Bobcats' game last night.

Several sports-minded merchants donated prizes for draws which will take place during the game tomorrow night. These gestures are greatly appreciated by the committee in charge and the merchants will receive due recognition of their generosity.

Six umpires, under the jurisdiction of association president Kelleher will handle the game. These gentlemen of the mask and pad have not only donated their services for the game itself but have contributed cash donations to the Herbie Henn Fund.

If the Clucker is on hand tomorrow night, and it is expected he will be, he will be presented with a cheque covering funds contributed to date. Other accruing monies will be presented to him later. The presentation will take place about midway through the game.

A highlight of the game will be the "Parade of the Umpires." The sextet of officials will be duly inspected in the CNRA club house prior to the game, and headed by their president will march in single file to the playing field.

Other donors to the Herbie Henn Fund are: Bobby Hull $5.00; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hull $2.00; Robert Temple $25.00; Harry Rollins $5.00; Paul Zakos $5.00; Bill Hurst $3.00 and Ted Hurst $3.00.

The game is scheduled to start at 6.30 and an overflow crowd is expected to see the game and pay tribute to a gallant sportsman, a fine citizen and a grand guy.

ODGE PODGE

Bill Olds was all smiles at last night's ball game. He should be. He had just become the pop of a fine bouncing eight-pound plus baby boy . . . Jack Devine, too, is a new papa, a new young fellow joining the family a few days ago . . . The Bobcats go to Cobourg tonight and play the fifth game of the series here on Tuesday night . . . Point Anne and Trenton hook up in their fifth game at the Point on Wednesday night . . . Cuffer Noakes' Lloyd Cleanersr baseball juniors will practice tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the CNRA Park . . . All hands are required on the practice deck . . . They play an exhibition game with the juvenile baseballers tonight at the CNRA Park starting at 6.30. Old Peeve has written a screamingly funny story of the good old days at Coleman Flats. It will be published in this column very shortly. Don't miss it! . . . Al Kelleher says if rain causes cancellation of Herbie Henn Night tomorrow, it will be played next Sunday, same time, same place.

Johnny Antonelli Hikes Giant Lead Over "Bums"

Whips Redlegs for 16th Win With Sparkling Four-Hitter; Tribe, Chisox Maintain Pace

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

San Francisco fans have waited nearly two years but they are finally seeing the real Johnny Antonelli, the one who pitched the Giants to their last pennant—in New York.

Now 29, the former bonus baby is en route to matching and perhaps topping his best year. Antonelli was the best southpaw in baseball when he won 21 games, lost only seven and posted a league - leading 2.29 earned run average for the pennant-winning Giants in 1954.

Friday night Johnny pitched the Giants to a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati Reds that increased their first-place lead over the idle Los Angeles Dodgers to 1½ games.

16TH VICTORY

The four-hit victory was Antonelli's 16th, which makes him the top winning pitcher in the major leagues. He has lost only six.

Chicago Cubs snapped a fourth-place tie with Pittsburgh, shutting out the Pirates 4-0, and St. Louis Cardinals moved into sixth place, one percentage point above Cincinnati, defeating Philadelphia Phillies, 3 - 1. Milwaukee Braves joined Los Angeles on the sidelines.

The giants blew an early 2-0 lead and had to stage a ninth-inning rally to win. The winning run was scored by Willie Mays, who collected three of the Giants' seven hits off Lefty O'Toole and Brooks Lawrence.

Mays also came up with a fielding gem, robbing Johnny Temple of an extra-base hit in the fourth with a leaping catch. Willie crashed into the barrier and was shaken up, but he held the ball.

With a crowd of 22,794 watching, rookie sensation Willie McCovey went hitless for the first time in his eight major league games.

Antonelli ran into trouble in the fifth when the Reds collected three of their four singles, but with two on and none out, Big John fanned O'Toole, Johnny Temple and Vada Pinson. He had nine strikeouts.

Stan Musial crashed a two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth to snap a 1-1 tie for the Cardinals' victory over the Phillies. Lindy McDaniel, who replaced starter Wilmer Mizell in the ninth, was credited with the victory. Homers by the Card' Ken Boyer (No. 20) and Wally Post of the Phillies (No. 13) accounted for the earlier runs.

The Pirates were shut out by Moe Drabowsky, who handcuffed them with five hits.

The Cubs got five hits off loser Ronnie Kline, two of them home runs by Ernie Banks and Art Schult. It was homer No 31 for Banks, giving him the league lead. It was Schult's first.

Herb Score must return to his old 20 - game winning form if Cleveland Indians are to contend for the American League flag. Isn't that what they said last spring?

Well, here it is with more than two thirds of the season gone and Score still struggling to get half those 20 victories. And the Indians? They're not doing too badly . . . only a game and a half out of the league lead.

As has been the case in recent weeks, Score failed again Friday night, but the Indians won. They defeated Baltimore Orioles 8-5 to stay on the heels of Chicago White Sox who whipped Washington Senators 4-1.

New York Yankees wrested fourth place from Kansas City by defeating the Athletics 3-0 and Boston nipped Detroit 4-3 to drop the Tigers into sixth place.

Score failed for the seventh straight time to notch his 10th triumph although his Indian mates staked him to an early 7-3 lead. After giving up three runs in the first inning, he was knocked out in the fourth and the victory went to his successor, Al Cicotte.

Billy Goodman supported Buck Shaw's eight-hit pitching with three run-producing singles in the White Sox' victory over Washington. Goodman scored the fourth run to participate in all Chicago's runs. Shaw won his 11th game in 14 decisions, his fifth in a row.

Whitey Ford, recovered from a sore elbow, pitched his first victory since July 19 although he needed help from Ryne Duren.

Duren halted the Athletics' threat and fanned the side in the ninth to preserve Ford's 11th triumph against six defeats. Bud Daley was the loser.

Gary Geiger raced home with Boston's winning run on a wild pitch by Detroit's Ray Narleski in the eighth. Geiger earlier had driven in two Red Sox runs with a double. Bill Monbouquette won his fourth game.

Swede Enters Verbal Battle Threatens to Cancel Fight

He threw them Friday from his home in Goteborg, Sweden. He threatened, among other things, to pull out of his rematch world title fight with Floyd Patterson, tentatively set for Sept. 22 at Yankee Stadium here.

He wanted, he scowled, a complete accounting by Sunday of what happened to the money he earned when he won the crown from Patterson June 26.

"If it doesn't come," the champ said, "the return fight will have to be postponed until a later time."

"I don't know what he's talking about," said Patterson's attorney, Edwin Schweig. "We seem to be dealing in a vacuum and the situation is getting silly.

"There is over $400,000 in a bank here, the receipts from the fight, and not one cent of it has been touched except for expenses. Johansson can come examine it any time he wants.

"His lawyer made two dates with me to come look the books over but broke them. . . . An accounting had to be made to the New York State Tax Commission and the New York State Athletic Commission, so how could there be any irregularities?"

Irving B. Kahn, president of the TelePrompTer Corporation, which handled the radio, television and motion picture rights, also said he was mystified at Johansson's demands. He also said Ingemar could have an accounting for the asking.

Kahn took a potshot at Bill Rosensohn, who promoted the Johansson - Patterson fight and who since has been deposed. Kahn thinks Ingemar's confusion stems from the fact that his contract with Rosensohn gives him 20 per cent of the promoter's share of the television receipts.

"But," said Kahn, "Rosensohn failed to inform Johansson that the promoter, in fact, would not share the television receipts."

Louis J. Lefkowitz, New York State attorney - general, said "preliminary discussion and inquiry indicate that alleged tieing of the promoter of the (June 26) fight with other individuals and firms concerned with broadcasting and the actual staging of championship fights may be in violation of the anti-trust laws in this state." He did not elaborate.

Cooper Leads Cleveland Golf

CLEVELAND (AP) — Veteran Pete Cooper shot his second straight four-under-par 67 for a 134 and one-stroke lead Friday at the halfway mark in the $25,000 Cleveland open golf tournament.

On the heels of the 44-year-old sharpshooter with 135s were three of the tour's top-rate contestants — Paul Harney, Gene Littler and Mike Souchak.

Harney shot an eight-under-par 63, duplicating a similar score he fired a year ago today in winning the Milwaukee Open. He had eight birdies on putts ranging from three to 35 feet and was never over par. Littler also had eight birdies in his 64 but skidded over on the third hole when his second shot missed the green. Souchak, playing like a machine, had six birdies and never exceeded par with his 65.

Cooper had seven birdies but was over par on three holes. He had nine one-putt greens and used only 27 putts, duplicating his opening performance.

Toronto's Jerry Magee closed with three birdies on the last three holes. His 35-33—68 was three under par for the course and, with his opening - day 76 when he ran into trouble on the back nine, gave him a halfway score of 144. Magee was 32nd in the field of 152.

WILL RETIRE

WOLVERHAMPTON, England (Reuters)— Veteran Billy Wright captain of England's National Soccer Team, has announced his retirement. Wright, who has played in a record 105 international matches for England, will bow out in a Wolverhampton Wanderers' practice game today.

Leafs Take Pair From Jets; Royals Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gerry Thoms apparently has turned in his cap pistol for a cannon.

Batting in the .280s for Richmond Virginians of the International League, Thomas is not primarily known for his home run and runs batted in marks. Before Friday night's game, he had hit only five homers and driven in 32 runs in 70 games, an average of less than one every two games.

But in the Vees' 10-1 clobbering of Montreal Royals Friday night Thomas was the big gun, driving in seven runs—a team record—with a pair of homers.

Meanwhile, the league-leading Buffalo Bisons maintained their nine-game spread by splitting a doubleheader with Havana Sugar Kings. The Bisons won the opener 2-1 and the Sugar Kings took the nightcap 9-6.

Toronto Maple Leafs swept a twin bill from Columbus Jets 3-2 and 10-3 and Miami Marlins edged Rochester Red Wings 3-2.

Thomas, who had a 4-for-5 night in support of Bill Short's seven-hit pitching, hit a grand slammer in the fourth inning and a three-run homer in the ninth. Frank Leja had a solo four-bagger for Richmond, his 22nd as Short brought his record to 14-4.

Bill Taylor's home run in the last of the ninth gave Buffalo its first-game victory and snapped Ted Wieand's pitching string at eight victories. Bobby Del Greco homered in the first inning to give the Bisons a 1-0 lead, but Havana tied it in the fifth on Dan Morejon's solo smash.

The Sugar Kings broke the nightcap open in the sixth with six runs on four singles, Enrique Izquierdo's double, two walks, an error and a sacrifice fly. Frank Herrera hit his 32nd homer for the Bisons.

Trailing 2-1 in the last stanza of the seven-inning opener, Toronto broke a three-game losing streak as Dave Pope hit his 14th homer with one on to win the opener. Pat Scantlebury (9-2), used primarily in relief, hurled a four-hitter in a starting role.

The Leafs laced three Jet pitchers for 17 hits in the nightcap. Righthander Bob Chakales (13-9) won it, pitching five-hit ball before Frank Funk took over for 2 2-3 innings of scoreless relief.

The Marlins parlayed four doubleplays and two home runs for their victory over the Red Wings. Jim Archer allowed 10 hits, but double plays and homers by Woody Smith and Leo Burke, gave him ample support.

WINS YACHT CUP

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (CP)—Jim Crang of Toronto skippered his yacht Bibis to a 25-second win over Jerry Castle of Rochester, N.Y., in Stork Friday in the first of the three - race series for the George Cup. Tim Barber of Toronto was third in Buzzy II.

Hull Gives Cats 2-1 Series Lead With 6-2 Victory Over Cobourg

Bobby Hull turned the tables on his district league semi-finals mound rival "Sleepy" Dawe here last night, as the Bobcats took a 2-1 game lead with a decisive 6-2 victory over Cobourg.

The fourth game of the series will be played in Cobourg tonight with the fifth slated for the CNRA Park here next Tuesday.

Hull showed the same brilliant mound form he displayed in Cobourg the other night, restricting the foeman bats to six hits, three of them clustered in the eighth when the visitors scored their two runs. He struck out four and issued three walks.

He was backed by flawless fielding his mates playing errorless ball behind him. A highlight was Goegan's perfect peg to the plate from left field to nip a Cobourg runner at the plate.

What looked like another airtight hurling duel was broken up in the fourth when the Bobcat bats got to Dawe for four hits and three runs. Up to this point the Cobourg ace had held the Bobcat bats to a single bunt.

They added a run in the fourth and tacked on a pair for insurance in the seventh innings.

Dawe gave up nine hits, two of them doubles. He struck out ten, at that, and sent but two runner to first on free passes.

Denny Hayden's double started the Cats three-run splurge in the fourth inning. He raced home on Goegan's single who went to third on Cousins' clout. Lou Smrke sent both runners across the plate with the fourth hit of the inning.

A walk, a wild pitch and Faulkner's solid smash scored another Cat run in the fifth. A double by the same player, Hayden's single Hughes' bunt an da daring double steal scored two more in the seventh.

O'Brien's single, Turpin's double and McGahan's single accounted for the Cobourg pair of runs in the eighth. The Merchants fielded excellently their only error being a dropped third strike in the eighth when Hull beat the throw to first.

Hayden and Faulkner led the Cats at the plate with a double and single each with Hughes coming through with two bunt singles. Goegan, Cousins and Smrke accounted for the rest of the Bobcat hits.

Roly Campbell paced Cobourg with two singles with Turpin and Dawe coming through with doubles. McGahan and O'Brien also hit safely.

The teams: —

Cobourg: O'Brien, B. Hart, Turpin, Campbell, McGahan, Dawe, Clarey, McIvor, J. Hart.

Bobcats — Crawford, Brown, Faulkner, Hayden, Goegan, Hull, Cousins, Smrke, Hughes.

The score —

Cobourg 000 000 020—2-6-1
Bobcats 000 310 20x—6-9-0

Dawe and McIvor; Hull and Cousins.

Don Fontana Ousted From Senior Tennis

By TOM MITCHELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — Cuba was left with two chances and Mexico and the United States with one each today in the men's singles play at the Canadian tennis championships. The last Canadian has been knocked out.

Cuba's Orlando Garrido ended Canadian hopes Friday with a straight set victory over Toronto's Don Fontana. The Canadian lost 6-3, 6-1, 6-3.

Ranked second behind Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., Fontana was unable to match the accurate play of the Cuban, third among outside entries.

Cuba's other chance for a singles title rests with Orlando's brother Reynaldo who upset defending champion Bedard in quarter-final play Thursday.

MEXICAN WINNER

Mexico's standard bearer is Antonio Palafox — the top-rated foreign entry—who had to stage a come-from-behind battle Friday to beat Jack Frost of Monterey, Calif.

Palafox went down 3-6, 4-6 in the first two sets but came back with 6-4, 6-2, 7-5 victories to take the match, a contest that had the 300 specators at the clay courts of the Civil Employees Tennis Club on the edges of their seats.

In play for the men's doubles title, Fontana and Bedard were the only Canadians left in the running. Two other Canadian teams went down in Friday's play.

Francois Godbout of Waterloo, Que., and Toronto's John Bssett were handed a straight set loss by Frost and Reed 6-3, 10-8, 6-4.

Montreal's Henri Rochon and Fred Rheaume of Chatham staged a tougher struggle but bowed to Orlando Garrido and Eduardo Zuleta of Ecuador 6-3, 6-3, 2-6, 5-7, 6-3.

The upset of the day's play came in a semi-final match in the women's singles.

Mexico's Marthe Hernandez pulled it off playing an almost flawless game to defeat Panama's Dorothy Head Knode 6-1, 6-2.

Harness Racing

TORONTO (CP) — Except for one race in which she broke stride at the start, Bonny Tell has been as consistent a trotter as there is at Old Woodbine.

The chestnut mare demonstrated her consistency Friday night in a $2,000 handicap trot conceived by racing secretary Court Smith. She outraced a tough field of six with a driving finish and won in 2:06.1.

This was Bonny Tell's seventh outing at Old Woodbine Park and except for the race in which she broke, she has never been out of the money. Owned by C. R. Myers and G. Knight of Arcade, N.Y., Bonny Tell has never been worse than three lengths behind the winner in compiling two firsts, a second and three thirds.

In the co-feature eighth race, A. W. Chief, five-year-old mare owned and driven by Clarence Lockhart of Collingwood, scored her third victory in a row. She came quickly in the stretch to head off Norwill Girl, owned by Norman McIntyre of Charing Cross and driven by Dunc Campbell, to win by a good length in 2:07.4.

Montreal Fans Pick Als to Finish Last

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

With the football season looming over the bleachers, the fans in Montreal already are making predictions: Last place for the Alouettes.

The Big Four club's coach says this doesn't bother him.

"One thing I know," Doug (Peahead) Walker said Friday night. "I prefer to have a club picked to finish last than one to finish first. You writers all but ruined us in three straight Grey Cup games in 1953, 1954 and 1955. You made us superhuman and we never got over it."

Meanwhile, Winnipeg Blue Bombers reported that Keith Peirce has come out of brief retirement to play his 10th season. Bombers also reported that though an injury to quarter Jim Van Pelt had first appeared to be a broken wrist, it turned out to be a dislocation and he would be back in action sooner than expected. The injury was suffered in an 8-5 loss in an exhibition game against Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

B.C. Lions, a fellow Western Interprovincial Football Union club, reported that Marty Martinello, a second-year guard, will miss the first four to six weeks of the season.

The 23-year-old player dislocated an elbow in the club's 35-4 loss to Ottawa Rough Riders.

Mize Thinks He Has Spotted Mantle Flaw

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Mize, who earned the degree of master of hitting in his big league days with the Cardinals, Giants and Yankees, thinks he has spotted the flaw responsible for Mickey Mantle's .288 batting average. And Mickey, hitting well below his usual level, is inclined to agree.

Mize, who retired from baseball in 1953, is back for the old timers game at Yankee Stadium today. He hardly had reached the stadium and donned a borrowed uniform before he went to Mantle with the tip that Mickey was holding his bat too high.

"I noticed it watching the game on television," big John explained. "I saw how high you had the bat — way over your head."

Mickey, a switch hitter, tried a few practice swings from both sides. He took his regular stance with the bat held high, then he lowered the barrel to about ear height and extended it backward. Finally he stepped into the cage and drilled out a few solid hits.

"How did it feel?" Mize asked.

"Felt good, real good," Mantle replied.

Tail Setting

Harness Racing Bits

By Phil Stewart

Kingston's big Civic Holiday race meet produced some of the fastest times seen in the district this season, with the slowest mile being paced in 2.15. The only Belleville horses racing were "Lee Mac S" and "John De Kuyper," who both started in the "C Classified" race. Irvin Ness kept up his fine record with "Lee Mac S" as he drove him to two easy victories. "Lee" paced the mile in 2.15 to equal his record in an easy 7-length victory over "Sunday May Grattan," owned by B. C. Samons of Cobourg.

R. Brown's "Smithfield Lass" from Napanee was second in the ¾-mile dash but had a rough trip in the mile to finish 5th. Ken Weeks ran into some tough racing and could do no better than 6th in the mile race with "John De Kuyper."

Ken won a $5.00 prize, donated by Mrs. Bert Compton of the "Carey On Farm" for the youngest driver at the meet.

An old district favorite, "Don Mackay," owned and driven by Ken Kerr of Goderich, accounted for both heats of the "B Classified." "Don" just beat Vic Keyes' trotter "Tester" from Gananoque in the ¾ and paced a very quick mile in 2.11 to beat A. Watt's "Alpha Baldwin" from Kingston in the second. "Sharon Renown" was third and "Ben Majesty" fourth.

The big feature of the day was the $800 Hiram Walker trophy stake for 30 class horses, with ten starters listed. However, before the horses got to the post Garry LaRush of Wolfe Island ran into some tough luck with Jerry Murphy's "Francis Ann" who fell down, cracking a shaft and having to be drawn. After the recall, starter Evan Wills of Morton, managed to get the nine starters away in some sort of order, with the old converted trotter, "Vitan Frisco" pacing the mile in the good time of 2.11 2/5, to beat "Abbie Elkington," owned by Grants of Lombardy and driven by Jimmy Connors.

"Vitan Frisco," who started in the "Hambletonian" as a 3-year old trotter has been put on the pace this year, by owner-driver Martial LeBlanc of Smith's Falls. Charlie Gallogy was third with "Miss Triplewyn."

The second heat turned into 3-horse races with "Vitan Frisco" and "Abbie Elkinton" setting out to separate the men from the boys, right in the first turn. Jimmy Connors managed to keep "Abbie" on the head end for most of the mile and fight off quite a drive by "Vitan Frisco" at the wire to win in the very fast time of 2.09 flat. This is the fastest mile in the district this season and also a record for this stake. The previous record of 2.10 was held by the good pacing mare, "Josedale Minty Low." The quick time took its toll of the other colts who finished well back with "Miss Triplewyn" being the only other horse near the leaders as she came the last quarter very fast.

Brighton Fair races were held on Wednesday, August 5, this year in conjunction with the centennial. No Belleville horses made the short mid-week haul and the winners were "Patsy Grattan H" from Peterborough in the slow class; "L Attorney," owned and driven by Miss Retta Herrington of Brighton in the 25 class and "Mr. Griff" owned by Mrs. George Dolley in the free-for-all.

Ganonque's next meet today features the Thomas Adams' 30 class stake for $400 with ten starters listed.

The Quinte Driving and Riding Club's next meet will be Saturday evening, August 29, at 6.45 p.m. at the fair grounds. Every possible effort is being made to obtain a charter and betting privileges for this meet.

Entries are already being received and it is felt that another excellent fast class is in in show class; "Lu Attorney," entered to give the old favorites "Mr. Griff" and "Gus Scott" a go. Harness fans in the district shouldn't miss this meet.

Come along and bring your friends to introduce them to our sport, therby helping our club to promote bigger and better meets in the future.

Kiniski Loses Bout to Eric After Hardboiled Butts In

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Somebody should tell Gene Kiniski he is a big boy now and should be able to take care of himself.

Bunny Dunlop appeared to realize that this poor emaciated 290-pound ex-football star was nothing more than a lonesome waif in a wrestling ring against bruisers like Yukon Eric and decided to give him a helping hand.

This he did on several occasions last night, even to holding Eric by his tousled locks while Kiniski slugged him, to win the first fall.

But kindness kills some people. It killed Kiniski's chance of victory, for he turned on the hand that helped him, even to slugging the kisser that sometimes smiled upon him.

The Yuke lost the first bout in an effort to defeat Kiniski with Dunlopian backing. Big Eric got riled on occasions, and pulled Bunny into the act in a sandwich role against the ropes. Bunny threatened to send him back to the Alaskan walrus fisheries if he wasn't a good boy and left Pappa alone.

Then in the second fall, Kiniski gave Bunny a Rabbit punch with the ropes when he entered the ring. This fall was all Eric and he wrapped the Kiniski ribs about his umbilicus with his Kodiak Krunch to earn the nod

The big Alaskan was really "riled" in the third fall. So much so Kiniski was taking to the ropes and occasionally doing some roadwork outside the ring to escape those "What big arms you have, Unca Eric."

However he had to face them sometime so he decided to give the Yuke the works. But things worked in reverse. The Eric was in no trifling mood. He was like a big rock. Kiniski couldn't move him without dynamite so he tried a couple of vicious punches just above the Alaskan plimsoll mark.

Now this irked Eric no end. So he merely grabbed the Kiniski around the middle and hoisted him aloft in the dreaded Kodiak Krunch hold.

Then it happened.

Came a ringside commotion and Hardboiled Haggerty vaulted into the ring. He flew to the attack and lowered the Uke with vicious punches. Kiniski sensing what happened joined his mate in a two-way assault on his conqueror but Bunny rose nobly to the occasion.

He pried the trio apart and immediately awarded the fall and match to Yukon.

Previously by devious ways and means of skulduggery, Hardboiled had defeated the popular Honolulu wrestling sensation Sam Steamboat when he caught him coming off the ropes with a knee to the stomach.

Fighter Sues Boxing Brass For 2 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — George Araujo, former lightweight contender filed suit Friday in federal court for triple damages totalling $2,068,500 against the International Boxing Club of New York. The IBC of Illinois, the Madison Square Garden Corporation, and James D. Norris and Arthur M. Wirtz, boxing promoters.

The suit stated that in Jan. 1953 Araujo and Paddy de Marco were the leading contenders for Jimmy Carter's lightweight title and that an unnamed Boston promoter offered to match the two with a guarantee of $12,500 minimum for each or 27.5 per cent of the gate in lieu of the minimum.

The complaint said de Marco and Araujo were willing to accept the terms but that the defendants, before contracts were signed, "advised and threatened the plaintiff that if he engaged Paddy de Marco in a contest which was promoted by a person other than the defendants, the plaintiff would never be permitted to engage in a contest for the world lightweight championship."

On the Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP) — New Providence, winner of the 100th running of the Queen's Plate, will be ridden by Avelino Gomez in today's $15,000 Prince of Wales Stakes. The Prince of Wales is the second event in the "triple crown" races sponsored by the jockey club. It will be a run of 1⅜ miles over the grass course.

New Providence, owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor, already has earned $55,792 this season—a record for horses racing exclusively on Ontario tracks.

OCEANPORT, N.J. (AP) — Eleven two-year-old thoroughbreds will run about 70 seconds today for a purse that could gross $139,670. That comes to about $2,000 for each second of action.

The purse, largest ever offered at Monmouth Park, is up for grabs in the 14th running of the Sapling Stakes, $100,000 - added feature that highlights the season's final card at this seaside track.

Bally Ache, with five stakes victories to his credit and Sam Boulmetis in the saddle, is the likely favorite in the six-furlong dash.

CHICAGO (AP)—Round Table, working on his second million dollars as turfdom's greatest moneywinner, will run in today's $50,000 added Equipoise Mile if Arlington Park's strip dries out.

Fair weather is predicted, but the track sloppy Friday, a factor which lured a big field of 17 into the Equipoise for three-year-olds and up. Top challengers appear to be On-and-On and Better Bee.

Travis Kerr's superb five-year-old, with earnings of $1,452,369, won't run if the track is slippery. He will, however, if the track is even only slow.

Ortega Given Split Verdict Over Paret

NEW YORK (AP)—Fifth-ranking welterweight challenger Gaspar Ortega of Mexicalo, Mexico, won a split decision over Benny Paret of Santa Clara, Cuba, in a bruising 10-rounder at Madison Square Gardens Friday night.

Paret weighed 148, Ortega 148½.

Ortega ran up against a buzzsaw in the unranked Cuban, who was a substitute for a substitute card, and the verdict was greeted with a generous chorus of boos.

Referee Teddy Martin was the dissenter in the voting. He gave the fight to Paret, six rounds to four. Judge Mike Parisi had Ortega on top 6-4 and judge Tommy Dolan had Ortega in front 5-4 with one even.

Marlene Paces Ontario Ladies Golf Team

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Ban Marlene Stewart Streit from Ontario's senior interprovincial golf team and the other provinces may have a chance of winning this annual 36-hole jamboree.

This appeared to be the only solution today as Ontario's four-member team, anchored by the sweet-swinging Mrs. Streit, took an almost-unbeatable 15-stroke lead into the final 18 holes. The five-foot-four-inch tournament-tough veteran toured the suburban St. George's Club layout Friday in a three-under-par 73, the only sub-par round of any in the eight-province field.

Marlene's performance sent Ontario winging toward its 10th team title in 12 years and its fourth straight. It also established the 25-year-old veteran as the golfer to watch when the week-long match-play Canadian women's open championship starts Monday.

COUNTRY-WIDE PLAY

Most of the country's leading female shotsmiths had the 6,052-yard women's par-76 course almost to themselves as opening rounds of the senior and junior interprovincial and individual junior events were held. The big one was the senior but the junior team competition provided something of a surprise when British Columbia, Manitoba and Alberta placed one-two-three in that order after 18 holes of their 36-hole event. Ontario was fourth.

Sixteen-year-old Gail Harvey of Toronto Scarboro, the defending champion, paced the individual juniors with a one-over-par 77.

Competitors and officials outnumbered fans by about 10 to 1 and Mrs. Streit had a "gallery" of two or three persons in one of her finest rounds since the former caddy, a native of Cereal, Alta., won her first big title—the Canadian women's open—in 1951. She birdied five holes and went over par figures on two, which happened to be comparatively easy par-three holes.

In the two-team junior competition, Nancy Smith of Tecumseh and Suzanne Hilton of Goderich were third.

Decline in Duck Population Reduces Hunter Bag Limits

OTTAWA (CP) — A sharp decline in the prairie duck population has forced reduced bag limits for hunters in all provinces this year, it was announced today.

Wildlife biologists reported that duck flights from the breeding grounds of the western prairies are the smallest in 10 years as the result of a general drying-up of sloughs and potholes.

Fewer ducks nested successfully. Those that did manage a hatch lost many of their young.

Duck production in southern Manitoba and in the north, where the water supply remains good, was not enough to compensate for the prairie losses.

In revised migratory bird regulations announced today by the Canadian Wildlife Service, bag limits are left unchanged only for hunters in Labrador and for resident shooters in the Yukon and Northwest Territories. Some areas will have shorter seasons and restricted shooting regions.

The daily limit in Saskatchewan is cut to seven from 12, in Manitoba and Alberta to seven from 10, in British Columbia to eight from 10, and in all other provinces to six from eight. Possession limits, too, are generally reduced.

Limits on Canada geese are unchanged in most areas.

However, bad summer weather is expected to reduce the southward flights of the Arctic-breeding blue and snow geese, which provide the celebrated James Bay shooting.

As a result, hunters living more than 25 miles from James Bay in either Ontario or Quebec will be allowed only 15 geese in that area during the whole season. In Manitoba the seasonal bag will be 10 geese along a 25-mile-wide strip of the Hudson Bay coast eastward from the Owl River.

In Ontario and the three prairie provinces, a special daily bag limit of four and a possession limit of eight has been set for canvasbacks and redheads, affected more than other ducks by the dropping water levels.

Regulations in Ontario:

The daily bag limit for ducks is reduced to six from eight last year, the possession limit to 12 from 16. Remaining unchanged are bag and possession limits of five and 10 for geese; 25 for rails, coots and gallinules; eight and 16 for Wilson's snipe; and eight and 16 for woodcock.

In the central district, the seasons open a week earlier at Sept. 19 to Dec. 15; seasons are unchanged in the northern district at Sept. 15 to Dec. 15, and in the southern district at noon Oct. 3 to Dec. 15—except in Essex County which will have a special open season on geese from noon Oct. 3 to Dec. 31.

Canadians Win Both Main Pistol Matches

By ROY LaBERGE
Canadian Press Correspondent

CONNAUGHT RANGES (CP)—Canadian pistol shots started strongly at the national pistol and small-bore rifle championships at these ranges just west of Ottawa.

Friday's opening of the three-day shoot saw Canadians win both main pistol matches.

Defending open champion Gary McMahon of Dartmouth, N.S., fired 286 points of a possible 300 to win the metric slow-fire for .22-calibre pistols at 50 yards.

Ed B. Wilson of Ottawa scored 289 of a possible 300 to take the silhouette rapid-fire match for .22s at 25 yards, beating by two points a record he set here in 1957.

The win, coupled with his 261 runner-up score in the metric slow-fire, gave Wilson, a bureau of statistics employee, 550 points of a possible 600, highest score in the international aggregate

The three-day Ontario Rifle Association championships ended Friday with George Bulgin, 32, of Toronto winning the Lieutenant-Governor's Match, main event of the meet for .303-calibre service riflemen.

AC1 Russ Potter, 19, of RCAF station Clinton was runner-up, winning a tie-breaking second-place shoot-off by four riflemen with 73s in the match.

Sgt. Les White, a member of the Royal Canadian School of Infantry, Camp Borden, won the Bankers Match at 200 and 600 yards in a two-man shoot-off. He and Sgt. Russell S. Potter of Hamilton, AC1 Potter's father, had scored 99 of a possible 100 to force the tie-breaker.

Brian Bell, 16-year-old Ottawa army cadet in his first year of shooting, won the tough President's Match at 900 yards, shooting 10 consecutive bull's-eyes for a perfect 50 score.

Pilous Fires Harry Watson

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Rudy Pilous, president and general manager of St. Catharines TeePees of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, announced Friday that the contract of Harry Watson, who had coached the TeePees in 1958-59 season, would not be renewed.

"I am convinced that Harry was serious in his efforts to bring a championship to St. Catharines last year but I still feel that a change is needed," Pilous said.

"If Harry goes into the bowling business, as I understand he plans, I wish him nothing but the best," Watson is contemplating a partnership in a bowling alley in Markham.

Pilous said that six or seven men would be considered for the vacant position but that a replacement would not be announced until near the end of August.

Last season the TeePees finished in first place but were eliminated by Toronto St. Michael's in the provincial semi-finals.

BEWARE OF THE TOURIST — It's a sad state of affairs in Britain when a policeman has to protect Her Majesty's palace guards from the tourists. A London bobby kept the crowd at bay so the colorful, bearskin-topped guardsmen could man their traditional posts unimpeded at Buckingham Palace. The precaution followed last week's incident when an American tourist claimed that one of the guards kicked her when she interfered with his chin-up patrol. London newspapers and fellow guardsmen rose to his defence after he was censured and confined to barracks. The ramrod-stiff guardsmen are under orders to ignore civilians while on duty.

Northport

NORTHPORT — Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carter, Ameliasburg, spent Tuesday supper and overnight with their daughter, Mrs. David Barker and Mr. Barker.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowland Barker and Merle, Deseronto, were supper guests on a recent Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Barker and Mrs. D. Folkard.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Geddes and son, Byron, of Toronto, spent the weekend at their cottage here. Mrs. Geddes and Byron remained over for a week's holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Norton and daughter, Mrs. Walter Brown, Pembroke, were supper guests Tuesday of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Norton, Foxboro.

Mr. Leo P. Reedy returned to Syracuse, N. Y., on Monday after spending over two weeks at his summer home here.

Mr. C. Crawford and Mr. Eric Foster motored to Toronto one day last week. Mr. Foster visited his sister, Miss Marie Foster, who is convalescing in St. Michael's Hospital after undergoing eye surgery.

Miss Ruth Wallbridge, was a dinner guest on Sunday evening, of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Baldwin.

A number from this vicinity attended service at Frankford on Sunday, and enjoyed being in service again with their former pastor, the Rev. Charles Judd and Mrs. Judd. The Northport minister and his wife are away for the month of August on holidays.

This community was saddened to hear on Monday last of the tragedy at Norway Bay of Donald and Cyril Cutler, who were drowned in a boating accident. A number from here attended the funeral which was held at Shawville, Quebec, on Thursday. Their father, the Rev. Cutler, was minister on this circuit a number of years ago. Sympathy is expressed to the mother and young sister.

Mrs. Robert Greenwell spent last Wednesday in Peterborough, with the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Elmy, Stephen and David, Belleville, were supper guests on Monday of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith. Stephen remained over to spend the week with his grandparents.

Mr. Eric Foster and Martin Foster were dinner guests, recently, of Mr. Bernard Freeborn, Christian Street, West.

Miss Pam Robinson, of Aylmer, is spending holidays with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mallett and Elaine.

Miss Elizabeth Robinson, and friend, Miss Arlene Johnson, of Toronto, spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Ross Sprague, Big Island.

McElroy Will Visit Ottawa To Talk Defence

WASHINGTON (CP)—Defence Secretary Neil McElroy will fly to Ottawa Tuesday to discuss mutual defence matters with Canadian officials.

Announcing this at a press conference Thursday, McElroy said that among the subjects to be discussed with Canada's Defence Minister Pearkes is the deployment on the North American continent of U.S. milliles.

With McElroy will be his deputy secretary, Thomas S. Gates.

McElroy gave no details of what he and Pearkes will consider during their one-day meeting, but defence department sources indicated that Canada's Bomarc project might be discussed, especially the supply of nuclear warhead of the missiles.

Canada is to establish two squadrons of the anti - aircraft missiles — one near North Bay and the other near Mont Laurier, Que.

The talks will include a broad review of the reciprocal defence relationship between Canada and the U.S., McElroy said.

He described this relationship as one that is as close as possible in the time of peace.

Flavored Smokes Being Tried Out On Housewives

LOS ANGELES (AP)—If you like to play the gracious host, and your guests sometimes ask for cigarets, you may find yourself inquiring:

"Cinnamon or chocolate?"

Or maybe:

"How about trying a new-mown hay?"

The prospect of flavored cigarets was discussed at a press conference Thursday by George Weissman, vice-president and director of marketing for a major tobacco concern.

"The cigaret industry," he said, "is in the process of a revolution. There is a possibility that the cigarets we smoked a scant five years ago may become obsolete.

"The American public has let us know they will buy flavor.

"To that end, many cigaret companies are right now testing cinnamon flavor, chocolate —even new-mown hay."

Weissman didn't say when cinnamon cigarets may appear in stores, but he did report that flavored smokes are being tried out on some 40,000 housewives.

"The hottest fad to strike the industry in many years," he said, "has been the boom in menthol cigarets. They may account for 13 to 15 per cent of the market before the end of the year."

The occasion of the press conference, incidentally, was the announcement that Weissman's company is trying to get in on the menthol craze by offering its own mentholated brand.

AUSTRALIA WINS

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Lefthanders Rod Laver and Neale Fraser turned back a pair of fighting Italians in five hours of exhausting tennis Friday and sent Australia into a 2-0 lead in the Davis Cup inter-zone semifinals.

Laver, 20, crushed Nicola Pietrangeli, Italy's No. 1 star, 6-4 2-6, 6-3, 6-3. Fraser, senior member of his squad, outlasted the giant Orlando Sirola 19-17, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4 in a marathon battle that kept a small gallery w ll past supper time.

The Australian can clinch victory in the series by winning today's doubles—and there seems little question that they will make it quick and merciful.

Canada Outdoors

By JOHN YORSTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canada goose is a big fellow who really gets about. And despite the best efforts of hunters, it appears the birds are increasing in umber.

The big bird—it has a six-foot wing span, weighs seven to 14 pounds—can be found almost anywhere in Canada during summer. In winter it settles mainly around the Gulf of Mexico.

The United States Fish and Wildlife service estimates that some 327,000 Canada geese flew down the Atlantic flyway alone in 1957 compared with 266,000 in 1954. Many more thousands used other routes to the south.

Several reasons have been advanced for the apparent increase in the boldly-marked black, white and brownish grey birds.

WARY OF HUNTERS

So wise and wary are they, it takes an expert to call them within shot - gun range. Most of those bagged are incidental to duck hunting.

Another suggested reason for the population increase is the change in the Eskimos' way of life. The Canada goose is unable to fly during summer because wing and tail feathers moult. Eskimos once hunted the geese for food, catching them on the ground. Now they do not hunt them as often.

The Canada goose is far from the silly bird of fairy-tale fame. It is an expert at playing possum, even on water. Audubon said it could tell whether the sound of a cracking twig was made by man or deer.

Flying to new feeding grounds during fall and spring, a loosely-knit community springs up. Flight leaders are strong, trusted ganders who head the V-shaped formations as they fly at speeds up to 55 miles an hour over the countryside.

When feeding, guards are set out. Like periscopes, the black necks and heads of the guards rise over the bent backs of the feeding flock. The guards remain alert until relieved by others.

MATE FOR LIFE

Canada geese mate for life and show great concern for each other, although the gander is too dignified to squat on eggs. But he does keep constant watch and is a ferocious defender of his family.

The goose usually lays five or six eggs which hatch in about a month. The goslings immediately learn to swim. The gander leads, the youngsters paddling in line astern, with mother bringing up the rear.

The bird is man-shy, although it learns to tell friend from enemy. One example is the Jack Miner sanctuary at Kingsville in Western Ontario. Nine birds went there several years ago. They've been followed by thousands since.

A pair has settled in the Public Gardens at Halifax. Their offspring have returned each spring with them and all will eat peanuts or crackers offered by visitors. But they rarely condescend to compete for attention with the ducks, pigeons and sparrows that populate the park.

Hardboiled Eggs Not Yeggs The Reason

BOSTON (AP) — It was eggs—not yeggs—that Mrs. Gussie Simmons heard in her kitchen Thursday.

She called police and reported she believed there was a prowler in her kitchen.

"There's a loud, rattling noise," she reported.

Two patrolmen went to the house and found two hard boiled eggs rattling around in a waterless, red-hot pan.

Mrs. Simmons had put the eggs on to boil and forgot them.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Church service was held at White's Church on Sunday morning with the Rev. Roy Rickard, B.A. preaching on, "Every man shall bear his own burdens; Bear ye one another's burdens; Cast your burdens upon the Lord."

Church and Sunday School services are cancelled through August but will resume the first Sunday in September. Rally Day service will be observed on the third Sunday in September when promotion services will be held for a number of children

In the Sunday School service the junior choir sang "The Little Flowers" with Mrs. J. Palmer as pianist.

Mrs. Everett Nicolson spent last weekend with her sister, Mrs. Harford Twiddy, of Foxboro.

Miss Linda Pearson, of Trenton, spent a week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Curtis.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Lee Mallory on the birth of a son at Trenton Memorial Hospital, on Thursday, July 30th.

Mrs. Leonard Young was a Sunday visitor of the Brown family.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Wilkins, Thomas and Cathy of Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wilkins of Bobcaygeon, were Sunday visitors of Mrs. Everett Nicolson.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones, Mr. and Mrs. G. Bilham, Sylvia and Larry were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Hunter, of Belleville.

Miss Susan Halsey, of Belleville, was a last-week visitor of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Halsey.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Trice and family, of Belleville, were recent visitors of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Curtis.

Mr. and Mrs. Angus Mumby were Friday tea-guests of Mrs. George Mumby, Stirling.

Mrs. George Foster and Mrs. Blake Ketcheson had dinner on Sunday with Mrs. Will Shaw, Ivanhoe.

Mrs. Donald McInroy spent a couple days last week with her sister, Mrs. Allan Heintz and baby of Corbyville.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Metz and daughter, Cynthia, of Ottawa; Mrs. Victor Davis, of Philadelphia, were Tuesday afternoon callers of Mrs. Blake Ketcheson.

Mr. and Mrs. John Canning; Mrs. Jim Wood and Sandra of Belleville, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Emerson.

Mr. and Mrs. John Holden, Ida Beth and Leslie Hill attended camp meeting at Odessa on Sunday. day.

Harold F. Eaton New President Canadian Legion

KITCHENER (CP)—Harold F. Eaton, 52, of Newmarket was elected president of the Canadian Legion Ontario Command Thursday at the close of the organization's biennial convention.

Mr. Eaton succeeds Fred O'Brecht of Durham as president of the 76,200-member command. Clarence Wood, 45, of Paris, is the new first vice-president.

Bert Overholdt, 37, of Wheatley was acclaimed regional vice-president for districts A and C. Other area vice-presidents are A. L. Harris of Barrie, Ian Beresford of Gananoque and Joseph Mavrinac of Kirkland Lake.

George Laughlin of St. Catharines was acclaimed honorary treasurer as was Chester Merriam of Tara as chairman of the command.

Other officers include George Assaly of Cornwall, vice-chairman of the command; and Mr. Eaton, Ned Brunton of Sudbury and Henry Harvey of Ottawa, Dominion Command representatives.

The 1961 convention will be held in Timmins. Next year's dominion convention will be held in Windsor.

A penalty for persons not observing the Remembrance Day holiday was proposed. Delegates decided to ask Dominion Command to recommend federal legislation for a more rigid observance of the holiday.

The convention also recommended for the third time that the Red Ensign be adopted as Canada's national flag and approved motions that Nov. 11 be reaffirmed as Remembrance Day and retained as a statutory holi-

6th Tyendinaga

SIXTH TYENDINAGA — A large number of friends, neighbors and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne McKenzie on Saturday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Garry McKenzie, who were recently married and presented them with a miscellaneous shower. Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

SUNDAY, AUGUST 9

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — By showing interest in the goals and ambitions of others, you soon get their friendship and real co-operation in own interests. Then you can formulate a whole new system of operation with their able assistance. Be alert to opportunities.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Opportunity to convert mate or attachment to own high-principled way of doing things is open to you today. Seize it and then get life organized in such a way that the fuutre will be brighter and more successful. Be kind.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — A day for a truly good time. Be with colorful and charming people who afford verve to usual rather dull existence. However, be very discriminating and keeps emotions in check. Then off for a wonderful day's activities.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — A day to devote to charming and harmonious family life. Do whatever is necessary to put abode in artistic order, then get on the good side of all family ties and really have a ball. This can be a most blessed day, if you put your heart into it.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Drinking in the words of a truly wise person will be infinitely wise today, whether at church of own choice or in the privacy of own home. Then you find that you have a better understanding of closest ties or friends, associates.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — You can now realize excellent benefits from dwelling upon the fine principles under which you were raised. Then be sure to follow them in all future life so that all your affairs will trend toward greater success and happiness.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Great inspiration is yours today and it is well that you put ideas on paper for early future use, in all departments of your life. Later, be certain you are in the company of enlightened persons, too.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Your most serious problems can today be solved ideally through devout prayers and clear, logical thinking. Later in the day, get together with executives and map out your work for the coming busy week. Co-operate.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Through better understanding and by adopting a different attitude, you can reach your goals much faster in the early future. Make it your business to be with a scientific or spiritual expert who has the right ideas, true vision.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)— You have an enlightening intuitive hunch today that should be followed immediately. Contact the person who will help you put it across. Do not procrastinate, take advantage of this wonderful opportunity.—Act.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)— Here is the day to take that little trip that will put you in contact with one you admire very much. He, or she, can further your career appreciably, but has to be handled wisely, or you make a potential enemy. Talk quietly.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — If you learn to take advice now, that acurate hunch you have will work beautifully in handling others today who are vital to your well-being and future happiness and success. Remember — stoop to conquer.

If your child is born today . . . The intelligent child born today will take very easily to the most advanced New Age ideas and be very efficient in carrying them through, particularly in fields of government enterprises. However, it is imperative you let your child get among people early, for there is the natural tendency of the intellectual to be a recluse in this chart. Success here very great is the education is adequate.

MONDAY, AUGUST 10

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Take care you do not get into any arguments today that will take away from present security and inner hapipness. Think and act objectively and don't be envious of anyone. A smiling exterior will work wonders for you.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Be on guard for an overt act on the part of one who is simply expressing inner dissatisfaction and does not really mean to hurt you. Beat him or her to the punch kindly and you do not lose an otherwice valuable friend.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Slow down a bit now and labor with precision or you can have very serious little damages occur. Also, use caution with some fellow worker so that you avoid expensive accident. Strive for harmony through intelligent co-operation.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) There seems to be a force at work to keep you from enjoying yourself today. Dissolve this opposition with the warmth of a genuine smile. However, evening is then free from stress and strain and you can relax, even at social affairs.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Do not give vent to ire or get into arguments at home because things are not quite as you would like to have them. Just remember that they could be worse, so be grateful and retain or restore harmony quickly. Be gentle, wise.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You can avert accidents or expense by being very sure your automobile is running properly before you set out today. This applies to any other mechanical devices, too. Test for safety. Also treat others gently. P.M. have fun with pals.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A financial affair could trouble you if you permit. Use funds you have wisely and know that you can add to them appreciably by right action and firm application.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Keep a tight rein on your emotions now or you get into altercation with one who could harm you in some way. Think about such personal matters as health, wardrobe, appearance. Tend strictly to own affairs.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Secret worry really has you in a dither, but you must remember that stewing over what cannot be helped never helps at all. Put it behind you and dwell on most pressing affairs. This can still be a very productive day.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A most persuasive individual could really get you in hot water if you pay any attention to what is being said. Don't get off the right track. Keep working diligently toward finest goals and all will be fine.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you gamble in any way today, you might lose the support you so need from an influential individual. Tend to civic affairs most diligently and you gain the respect from others that you need for your best interests.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Any digression from important duties now would only cost you much loss and happiness. Be sure to follow through on what you have begun, though you lose out on some temporary pleasure — it is but a small disappointment.

If your child is born today . . The delightful child born today is the type who will get into little mischief after the other in early youth, simply through need for experimentation, since the mind is very active here. Early get your child indoctrinated in some field where real wisdom of handling other persons is required. Excellent chart for the religious leader, scientist or where deep research work has to be done.

Keeping Border Colorful in Fall

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Does your perennial border go into a slump after the lemon lillies, delphiniums and oriental poppies fade? There may be several reasons for this, bad location of plants, poor drainage, wrong choice of material, but the main cause is poor planning.

There are many good perennials which would be happy to carry on the parade of color through August and September, even into October. Unless the gardener has a fair knowledge of height, spread and time of flowering he is bound to make mistakes.

When planning a new border, or thoroughly remaking an old one, it is wise to consult a standard book on perennials. The Queen's Printer, Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa has a booklet "Perennials for Canadian Gardens" which you can buy for 25 cents. Or, you can study several garden catalogues. They list color height, soil requirements and whether the plant likes semi-shade or full sun.

GROUP PLAN

In plannning the border do remember to use the group plan, three, five or more plants of one variety planted in a triangle or circle to form a sizeable clump, rather than a stiff row of single plans of different varieties.

Exclude all really tall plants from the narrow border. Include plants up to but not over three feet high.

To make the group plan effective allow a foot or more of bare space around the base of each one. This sets it apart and gives it importance, allowing room for cultivation and better development.

Borders often have too many daisy like blooms, such as shast. daisy, coreopsis, chrysanthemums and gailardia. Make a point of including some plants that have spikes of bloom, umbels of racimes. Interesting foliage can add variety to the border also. Some plants have red leaves, yellow or grey. Perennial savory, artimisa and lavender make good accent plants. Include a number of leaf forms such as swordlike fernlike and dull and shiny leaved plants.

Here are some suggestions for Auugst bloom: Aconitum, or monk's hood. A. napellus has blue spikes from July to October, shady position. A. Wilsoni and A. Fischeri are both handsome blue spiker blooms for late summer. Alliums are bulbous plants that have fine rosy blooms. A. stellatum blooms August through September, height two feet. Plumbago has heads of lovely clear blue with a mass of clean foliage on wiry stems. This is a late starter in the spring, so mark the spot, be patient, its glory is in the late summer.

OTHER SUGGESTIONS

Other suggestions are perennial linaria with spikes of yellow snap-dragon bloom. Acanthus, spinosa has fine purple spikes and lacey foliage. A. lucitanicus is another valuable variety. Achillea the pearl is an interesting everlasting with button like tiny flowers in umbels. There is a yellow form and A. Cerelse queen has cherry red blooms. Lythrum Pink beauty, Hibiscus, stokesia, the cornflower aster and scabiosa.

There are hosts of other plants which flaunt their color in late summer. Look for them. Some of the best take a year or two to get into their stride but will reward you with years of satisfaction if they are suited to their soil and location.

One other word: it is better to have a dozen or so kinds of plants and repeat them in the border, this gives greater unity and a more pleasing effect than a hodge-podge collection of too many kinds and varieties of plants.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Housing After 65 Years? Some Thoughts on the Subject

By THOMAS COLLINS

A building contractor who has made his pile and is about ready to retire thinks he would like to experiment with some housing for retirement people.

It would be the final fling of his career, and while he doesn't want to lose any money he believes he may come up with a new idea.

He thinks a new idea is needed. He says there is actually no such thing as retirement housing, and that with the increasing number of older people, and their increasing income, such housing must be devised.

He came by this week asking what thoughts I had on the matter. I had a few. I pass them on to you for what use you can make of them.

1. Retirement homes, in the main, are institutions that care for people too old to fend for themselves. For this, they are wonderful. But they aren't for active people between age 65 and that point.

2. Good trailer parks, whatever you think about them, have some of the happiest aggregations of retired people you can find.

3. So steer clear of the retirement home idea, which most retirement housing doesn't, and capitalize on the factors that have made trailer parks popular. Build a project in which each resident has a "castle" of his own, with private rights to it, but one which gives close and easy companionship.

4. Visualize a football field. Build small homes down each sideline, maybe on 30-foot lots but with space betwen and with a little grass in front and a little plot in back for vegetables or flowers. Where one goal post would be, put an administration building, with washing machines and dryers, stamps, public telephone, etc., and a restaurant for residents who don't want to cook. Put in charge of it a registered nurse who would know when to call a doctor. Where the other goal post would be, put a club room with TV set and a library filled with books on travel, social security, insurance and investments.

5. The homes should be rental (most people on a pension don't want to buy real estate), and at most should contain a bedroom, living room and tiny kitchen. In the project, which would be better if it contained no more than 30 couples, should be two guest houses. These guest houses should have two bedrooms (one with in-a-door beds so it could be made into a living room) and a small kitchen. They would be for the children of the residents who came visiting, bringing the grandchildren.

6. The houses wouldn't have to be distinctive — by 65 most people don't want to impress anybody. Maybe a variation in the doors — "I live in the yellow-door house on the east side" — would do. The residents should not be bothered with utility bills. Include them in the rent.

7. Residents should be required to give some sort of guarantee, on signing a lease, that in case money runs out there is somewhere else to go. A landlord who kicked out a couple of 70 who couldn't pay the rent would not endure for long.

8. This housing project should be in a city . . . certainly not on a hill at the edge of town. An industrial city would be best because there would be more to look at and a better chance for jobs. It should be on a bus line. It should be in walking distance of a park if possible, should have no walls around it or any other trappings of seclusion, and should be in a neighborhood of people of all ages.

9. The project should, in effect, be the agent for its residents: have a car handy for emergencies, have access to doctors, dentists and hospitals at all hours; demand that the produce peddlers and meat markets give favored treatment to the residents; see that a nearby drug store will make deliveries; furnish free lamp bulbs, and see that they are strong ones to encourage residents to read in the evening; and be very nice to the mailman because he's the most important man who'll ever come calling.

I have no idea whether or not all these things can be provided for retired people on incomes of $175 to $225 a month. But I think retired people would buy such a package.

Formosa Stricken By Heavy Floods Following Rains

498 Dead, 541 Injured Hundreds Are Missing

By SPENCER MOOSA

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Formosa today counted 498 dead and 541 missing in floods that followed the heaviest rains on the island in 62 years.

Another 563 persons were injured and 134,679 were homeless in the national disaster.

The torrential rains fell on Central and South Formosa Friday as Typhoon Ellen bore down on Japan after bypassing Northern Formosa earlier in the week. But local weather forecasters said the rains on Formosa resulted from a storm in the South China Sea, not from Ellen.

The floods destroyed 9,782 houses and damaged 8,678 others but Taipei, the capital, suffered little.

The island's main north-south highway and railway were impassable for 70 or 80 miles.

STUDENTS MAROONED

The flood waters were receding in some areas but many communities still were cut off. More than 1,000 students and the faculty of the Christian Tunghai University, in the suburbs of Taichung, were marooned. Air drops of food were planned to them. Some 500 passengers were stranded on a train near Changhua.

Gen. Leander L. Doan, senior U.S. Army commander in Formosa, released two helicopters and a plane for relief operations. Two helicopters of the U.S. 7th Fleet also were helping.

Peiping radio meanwhile reported heavy rains around the Red Chinese capital. It said 20½ inches fell there in the last 37 days and that several million peasants were battling floods.

President Chiang Kai-shek told the army to give all possible help to Formosan flood victims and instructed the cabinet to get a relief program under way immediately.

Newspaper estimates of the damage ranged from $12,500,000 to $20,000,000. Damage to rice and sugar cane fields was extensive.

Prime Minister Admits Cabinet Changes Coming

SASKATOON (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Saturday there would be "changes and appointments" in his cabinet in the coming months.

But, he said, "the only one who knows of changes is always the prime minister and they generally are not announced in advance."

Mr. Diefenbaker was commenting on a Canadian Press report Thursday which speculated on a number of cabinet possibilities. He said he did not know what the source of the story could have been and best described it as a "masterpiece of imaginative writing."

Mr. Diefenbaker also said he hopes to make an announcement in early September concerning the government's plan for winter works projects assistance. However, any assistance to municipalities would depend on whether the present economic upsurge continues.

The prime minister also said he expects to name members of the national energy commission "in the next two or three days and possibly sooner."

At Prince Albert earlier, Mr. Diefenbaker said his government has given Canada a comprehensive and co-ordinated program of agricultural development since taking office in 1957.

Nkrumah Will Meet Queen At Balmoral

LONDON (Reuters) — Ghana Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah said today it would be "wonderful and interesting" to discuss with the Queen the possibility of giving her third child a Ghanaian name.

But Nkrumah said he would not raise the matter himself during his visit to the Queen at Balmoral Castle in Scotland.

Nkrumah said he will discuss with the Queen the question of the West African country becoming a republic within the Commonwealth.

Nkrumah will confer with Prime Minister Macmillan and Commonwealth officials and fly to Scotland Tuesday to see the Queen.

Saturday, a Ghana government newspaper said Ghana would be "extremely and justifiably proud" if the new royal baby is given a Ghanaian name. The newspaper suggested Amma Ghana if a girl and Kwame Ghana if a boy.

Nkrumah was one of the first persons to be informed privately of the expected royal birth, which forced postponement of the Queen's November visit to Ghana. He came to Britain at the monarch's invitation.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Moist unstable air still lies over the Great Lakes area, and a mixture of sunshine, cloud and widely isolated showers is forecast for most of Southern Ontario today. However, more sunshine is in prospect for Tuesday. Mainly sunny Tuesday. Little change in temperature. Winds westerly 10 to 15.

Queen Worships In Private Sunday at Castle

BALMORAL, Scotland (CP) — The Queen, expecting her third child early next year, worshipped in private Sunday in Balmoral Castle.

A huge crowd that had expected the Queen at Crathie Church, less than half a mile from the castle, was disappointed.

"She is on holiday," said a court official, "and you can't have much of a holiday with people pointing cameras at you all the time."

Instead of going outside the castle and its well-guarded grounds, the Queen asked the preacher to come to her. So Dr. John Lamb, Presbyterian pastor at Crathie, journeyed across the River Dee to Balmoral.

In the living room he conducted a 15-minute service for the Queen, Prince Philip, and their children, Prince Charles, 10, and Princess Anne, 8.

"Her Majesty looks splendid," the pastor reported.

Indian Defies Aged Superstition After Brave Killed by Lightning

INDIAN WELLS, Ariz. (AP)—The postmaster of this tiny Navajo reservation community will be honored Friday by the post office department for defying a superstition as old as man himself.

The postmaster is Herbert S. Hukriede, 50. The story behind his award started last July 15 when Harry Joe, a 17-year-old Navajo, was struck and killed by lightning.

Joe's elderly parents believed he had been struck dead by the evil spirit of lightning, and an ancient Navajo superstition came back to haunt them. They refused to go near their son's body.

Hukriede recalled Sunday how he took the body to a mission.

On July 17, burial services were conducted at an Indian burial ground beside the mission. Hukriede dropped young Joe's saddle, his lariat, a few pieces of cheap jewelry an an empty suitcase into the grave.

From a hillside a quarter of a mile away the dead boy's family watched the ceremony. Superstition prevented them from going any closer.

"They think they'll go blind or something if they touch anything that has been hit by lightning," Hukriede explained. "They won't even touch a stone or stick that's been struck."

Hukriede's award — for public service above and beyond the call of duty—will be presented by Assistant Postmaster General Eugene Lyons in a ceremony at Indian Wells.

"I don't feel so deserving," Hukriede said. "I've been on the reservation 12 years and I've seen this sort of thing happen to a lot of white men. Maybe someday we'll dispel the superstition."

43 FATALITIES ACROSS CANADA DURING WEEKEND

Six Traffic Deaths, 3 Drownings in Ont.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Sunday shows Ontario leading the toll with 12 deaths, including six traffic and three drownings.

In addition, Ontario listed one man who died in a fire, a boy was struck by lightning and a man who ran into the side of a moving train.

British Columbia had four traffic fatalities, two drownings and one suffocation. Nova Scotia had four traffic deaths and one drowning.

EIGHT IN QUEBEC

Quebec counted seven traffic fatalities and one man was killed when he struck a pier while water skiing. Alberta had two traffic fatalities and two drownings.

Saskatchewan had two traffic deaths. Prince Edward Island reported one miscellaneous death. Manitoba and New Brunswick each listed one traffic fatality.

Explore Possibility Shifting Missile Defences in Talks

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada's views on accepting American NIKE and Bomarc missile installations well north of the border will be explored in Ottawa Tuesday.

The suggested shift northward of planned anti-aircraft bases will be a prime topic during the one-day Ottawa talks between Defence Minister Pearkes and Neil McElroy, U.S. secretary of defence.

American sources said that the switching of some of the planned air defence sites from U.S. border areas to the heartland of Canada is under serious consideration and might cancel the idea.

Thought is being given here to shifting some of the missile sites northward, perhaps to where the present mid-Canada radar network is located along the 55th parallel. Congressional sources say it is a matter of balancing military advantages against possible financial and political drawbacks.

Canada is planning Bomarc sites at North Bay and Mont Laurier, Que., but the missile matter under discussion involves a partial relocation of the 50 batteries of the NIKE-Hercules and 16 Bomarc stations which under present plans would be located mostly around border metropolitan areas.

Both missiles are ground-to-air weapons. The NIKE-Hercules has a range of some 80 miles and the new Bomarc-B can be effective up to 400 miles. Both are capable of using conventional or nuclear warheads.

The cost of building missile bases in Canada would run considerably higher than in the U.S. because of a need for new roads and other support facilities.

Democratic Representative Robert Sikes of Florida, a member of the House appropriations subcommittee, said that during subcommitttee hearings state department officials reported Canadian border cities and towns expressed apprehension that nearby location of Bomarc and NIKE-Hercules missiles on the U.S. side of the border might bring the danger of fallout in the event of nuclear war.

He said, in an interview, that Canadians seem to be more unconcerned about fallout than Americans.

In Newfoundland

Record Number Candidates Running for 36 House Seats

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — A few last-minute entries today were expected to swell to nearly 100 the number of candidates seeking legislature seats in Newfoundland's Aug. 20 general election. Nominations close at 2 p.m. today.

By Sunday night a record 89 candidates were in the running for the 36 House seats, dominated in the last legislature by Premier Smallwood's 31 Liberals.

Thirty-three Liberal candidates had been named, all the premier plans to run. The Conservatives, who held two seats at dissolution, plan to contest every riding. They had 32 nominees Sunday night. The labor-backed Newfoundland Democratic party has 16 candidates and the United Newfoundland party, formed by two former Conservative members of the legislature, had seven men in the running.

There was one Independent.

The election was called July 28 by Premier Smallwood after he failed to win over two PC opposition members to a resolution condemning Ottawa's handling of special Confederation grants to Newfoundland. The two other PC members voted with the Liberals and formed the UNP. So far the premier has met with little success in keeping federal assistance the top campaign issue.

The Democratic party, headed by newspaperman Ed Finn Jr., is fighting a campaign based on a promise to repeal controversial labor legislation passed unanimously by the legislature during a loggers' strike. The Progressive Conservatives also favor its repeal although House members voted to enact it. The UNP and Liberal parties have promised to review the statutes.

The labor laws decertified two International Woodworkers of American (CLC) locals, one of which struck a central Newfoundland paper company Dec. 31. Another bill empowered the cabinet to dissolve any union where it appeared a substantial number of international officers had been convicted of heinous crimes.

St. John's West is the focal point of campaigning. Premier Smallwood, vowing to wipe out the PCs as a Newfoundland political party, is challenging Conservative Leader Malcolm Hollett in the St. John's riding. Mr. Smallwood had for 10 years represented Bonavista North.

EISENHOWER WILL GO TO GERMANY TO SEE ADENAUER

Leaves Day Earlier Than Scheduled

By KARL R. BAUMAN

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower has shifted his European schedule to make Bonn his first call.

One possible purpose is to allay West German fears of being left in the lurch by Eisenhower's forthcoming talks with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, although Eisenhower is reported to feel that the Western allies need no such assurance.

Announcement here and in Bonn Sunday that Eisenhower will confer with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in Bonn Aug. 27 came as a surprise in diplomatic circles.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, came here to Eisenhower's vacation headquarters Sunday to tell reporters that Eisenhower has accepted Adenauer's invitation.

TO LEAVE EARLIER

Inclusion of Bonn on his schedule moved up Eisenhower's departure for Europe by one day—to Aug. 26 from Aug. 27.

Travelling by jet plane — the first time a U.S. president has done so—Eisenhower will arrive in Bonn Aug. 27 and travel to London that evening for a five-day stay. During this period, he will confer with Prime Minister Macmillan and probably will make a side visit to Balmoral Castle in Scotland for a formal call on the Queen.

Eisenhower goes to Paris Sept. 2 for meetings with French President Charles de Gaulle and Italian Premier Antonio Segni. Hagerty said Eisenhower will remain in Paris for several days but added that no exact date has been set for his return to the U.S. Khrushchev is due in Washington Sept. 15.

Eisenhower is known to have set no date for his return visit to Russia. Instead, he is keeping his schedule flexible through next January to attend any East-West summit meeting that might be arranged.

Eisenhower is thinking in terms of a five-or-six-day visit to the Soviet Union, with possible visits to Stalingrad and to Kuibyshev, the temporary Russian wartime capital.

Castro Expected To Clear Rumors Armed Invasion

Will Report to People By Radio, Television

HAVANA (AP)—Cubans looked today to Fidel Castro to clear up the welter of rumors of armed invasion and domestic conspiracy that attended sweeping arrests during the weekend.

While a government blackout obscured many details, Havana newspapers said the premier will report to the people by radio and TV at an opportune moment. They didn't say when that might be.

An official source said Sunday up to 200 men—civilians and regular army men—had been arrested to smash a military plot against Castro's revolutionary regime.

Today the newspaper Revolution, which frequently speaks for that regime, says that possibly more than 1,000 persons were detained in connection with "the counter-revolutionary conspiracy." It reported they included several large land owners. These were not named.

Both Revolution and El Crisol denied without attribution reports of abortive sea and air strikes at the Isle of Pines, off Cuba's southwest coast.

Camp Libertad just outside Havana, where a number of those arrested were reported being questioned, was closed off to civilians. By midnight even telephone calls went unanswered.

One official source reported earlier that 200 or more men were arrested on suspicion of plotting against Castro. Officials at the presidential palace had denied, however, that the number detained had reached 1,000.

ACT AT ARMY CAMPS

An anti-government plot was nipped at an army camp near Managua, about eight miles south of Havana. This brought about mass arrests there and at Camp Libertad of military personnel held over from deposed dictator Fulgencio Batista's army.

Small armed bands from the Dominican Republic landed by sea and transport plane late Friday and early Saturday in a futile effort to free prisoners on the Isle of Pines. Castro forces broke up both attempts and captured a number of the raiders.

Twenty-eight mechanics of the rebel air force are being held at Camaguey after the crash of a bomber that killed the pilot and injured two others. Rebel troops there have been restricted to quarters.

TWO KILLED

Two conspirators were killed and 15 others captured in a battle with rebel troops at Cienfuegos, about 130 miles east of Cuba.

Although Raul Castro, Fidel's brother and commander-in-chief of the armed forces, denied invasion attempts had been made, reliable sources insisted that counter-revolutionaries made the attempts on the Isle of Pines.

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—The foreign ministers of the 21 American republics began arriving here today for a conference on the problems of the troubled Caribbean. Cuba will attend.

Many believe that unless the conference of the Organization of American States opening here Wednesday takes positive measures to ensure harmony, the security of the western hemisphere is endangered.

The conference was called as a result of three abortive invasions in the Caribbean within the last few months.

The revolutionary leader's government has been charged with involvement in the unsuccessful invasions of the Dominican Republic, Panama and Nicaragua in recent months.

REPORTS SEEK RECRUITS

Meanwhile, the New York Times said a revolutionary group is recruiting Americans of Puerto Rican descent in New York as mercenary fighters against dictator Rafael Trujillo of the Dominican Republic.

The recruiting drive is taking place in the city's upper west-side slums, the story said.

"Lured by promises of money and power, the recruits sign a contract and are given airplane tickets to Havana. In Cuba they are escorted to a training camp where they join a motley group of Cubans, Venezuelans and Dominican refugees in a three-month course in guerrilla tactics."

HAS OWN TROUBLES

Cuba was having a few troubles of its own.

The rebel government Sunday pressed a roundup of conspiracy suspects. One official source said up to 200 men—military and civilian—had been detained for questioning.

While the dragnet reached into various parts of Cuba, sources at the presidential palace described as absurd a rumor that the arrests reached a figure near 1,000.

Castro's regime denied there had been hostile landings anywhere on Cuban territory.

Domestic trouble, however, was obvious.

Official sources said Castro forces under Maj. Eloy Gutierrez battled with an armed band of undetermined size near a sugar mill at Cienfuegos, 130 miles east of Havana, killing two and arresting 15. Army casualties, if any, were not revealed.

Gunmen fired several shots from a speeding car Saturday night at Castro's villa in Cojimar, Havana suburb and escped despite police roadblocks. Castro was reported away at the time.

Laotian Troops Capture Posts

SAM NEUA, Northern Lais (Reuters)—Loyal Laotian forces have recaptured all but one of five army posts they lost in recent fighting with pro-Communist rebels near here, the military commander of Sam Neua province said today.

Speaking in this remote centre of Southeast Asia's "little war," the commander, Lt.-Col. Khong Vongnarath, said his army lost 100 men—30 dead and the rest wounded or missing — during the rebel offensive.

Old Romance May Be Reviving In Gay Life of Princess Margaret

LONDON (AP) — An old romance may be reviving in the gay life of Princess Margaret who will be 29 Aug. 21. At least rumors of it are reviving.

The young man involved in the fresh whispers is Billy Wallace a commoner.

Some people think that the coming of another baby to Queen Elizabeth, Margaret's sister, will make it easier for Margaret to marry a commoner.

The birth of the new baby, coming after Prince Charles and Princess Anne, automatically will drop Margaret to fourth place in the line of succession to the throne where she now stands third.

Bachelor Billy Wallace is the charming six-foot, four-inch son of Mrs. Herbert Agar. His father was the late Capt. Euan Wallace, a millionaire. Mrs. Agar's husband and Billy's stepfather is the distinguished American publisher and author, Herbert Agar, who makes his home in Britain.

The grandfather of the 33-year-old Billy was the late Sir Edwin Lutyens, president of the Royal Academy and holder of Britain's highly coveted Order of Merit. His grandmother is Lady Emily Lutyens, author and daughter of the first earl of Lytton.

Billy's mother is a brilliant and beautiful woman.

The pretty princess is extremely fond of Billy. They have known one another almost since early childhood.

At one time—in their teens—they were in love.

"Perhaps they knew one another too well," said a friend. "The romance just wore off."

Margaret's circle of young men friends widened, but Wallace was always included.

More than a dozen young men's names were romantically coupled with Margaret's. They married someone else, or faded away, but not Billy.

When the princess broke off her romance with Group Capt. Peter Townsend nearly four years ago, Billy was still around.

Two years ago a London newspaper gave its front page to a story that they were engaged.

Margaret and Billy were laughing about the story over the telephone, it is reported.

"Who's that?" asked the Queen who was in the room.

"It's Billy," said the princess. "He says some newspaper's got us engaged."

"Welcome him to the family," called out the Queen from across a breakfast cup of coffee.

Some think the remark could have been prophetic.

Viet Nam Warns Foreign Army Will Be Threat

TOKYO (AP) — Communist North Viet Nam warned today that it would consider intervention by a foreign army in neighboring Laos an act directly threatening North Viet Nam's security.

"In such a dangerous situation, the Viet Nam Democratic Republic government will not stand idly by," said Peiping radio in a broadcast quoting Deputy Defence Minister Ta Quang Bun.

The warning apparently was aimed at the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO), which has put Laos under its protection although the little Indochina kingdom is not a member of that anti-Communist alliance.

There has been no indication of any Laotian appeal for SEATO aid against rebel tribes and Laotian Communists operating against government forces in northern Laos. The Laotian government claims they are being armed and trained by the Vietnamese Communists.

French, British and U.S. military attaches flew to northern Laos Sunday to study the situation. Their reports may prompt the three powers to ask the United Nations to send observers to Laos.

YOUTH INJURED, RIDES BICYCLE INTO SIDE OF CAR

Nine-year-old Donald McWilliam, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. McWilliam, 22 Maple Drive, in the parkdale district, suffered abrasions to his arms and a bump on the head Sunday when he rode his bicycle into the side of a passing car near the Parkdale playground.

The boy was taken to Belleville General Hospital by Bush's Ambulance where he was admitted for observation.

City police said the lad was riding south on Sidney Street and was about to turn into the Parkdale playground when he rode his bicycle into the side of a car driven by Ronald G. Sine of Frankford.

Elderly Man Burned to Death At Fort Stewart

BANCROFT — George Wellington Wilson, aged 73, of Fort Stewart, 15 miles northeast of here, was burned to death early Sunday morning when his small frame house was destroyed by fire.

Bancroft provincial police who investigated the accident said that Mr. Wilson lived alone in a house owned by his nephew, Orland Wilson, who reported the fire at 8:30 a.m. Sunday.

It is believed that Mr. Wilson had attempted to light a fire with oil when an explosion set fire to the house and trapped the elderly man inside.

JOHN LEWIS DONOHOE

River Valley

Stricken with a heart attack at his home, R.R. 1 Stirling (River Valley), on Saturday, John Lewis Donohoe, well-known and highly respected farmer of that community, died suddenly. He was in his 72nd year.

Mr. Donohoe was born in Sidney township, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Donohoe and had lived at River Valley for the past 18 years. In early life he followed the occupation of cheesemaker and had made cheese for thirty years in many parts of Hastings County before settling down to farming. He was secretary of the Shamrock Cheese Company for many years and held that position at the time of his death.

He was a member of St. James the Minor Church at Stirling and was identified with the Holy Name Society. Surviving are his wife, the former Catherine Ingram and two sons, John R. Donohoe of Stirling, and Thomas F. Donohoe of this city. Also surviving are six grandchildren. He was the last of his family.

Resting at his late residence, River Valley, near Stirling. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

HARRY J. H. THOMPSON

R.R. 1, West Huntingdon

Stricken with a heart attack at his home at West Huntingdon, Harry J. H. Thompson, well known and lifelong resident of that community, died suddenly on Sunday. He was born in the township in which he spent his entire life, 67 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson.

He was a successful farmer in the district and took an active interest in the affairs of the community, especially in the work of the Presbyterian Church at West Huntingdon in which church he served as an elder for many years. He enjoyed a wide circle of friends from every walk of life and he will be sadly missed.

Surviving are his wife, the former Eliza McInroy; two sons, Carl Thompson of Corbyville; Harold Thompson of West Huntingdon; two daughters, Mrs. George (Jean) Bound of Brighton township; Mrs. Max (Muriel) Sharpe of Rawdon township; one sister, Mrs. Thos. Elliott of West Huntingdon; one brother, Stanley Thompson of Lafargville, N.Y. Also surviving are ten grandchildren.

Mounties Ride Spotlights Many Fine Fair Attractions; Entries List May Be Record

The time-worn cliche of any county fair board of directors is, "This is the best exhibition we ever have presented to the public".

Sometimes the cliche is correct. More often it is not.

In the case of the Belleville Exhibition of 1959 it is correct. Bob Phillips, treasurer of the fair says so and has the proof to substantiate his statement.

He has the printed evidence in the prize list to show the public jury that entries in all classes are the largest in the 100-year plus history of the exhibition.

"The Belleville Fair has gained the reputation of being the best horse show exhibition in its class in Ontario" Bob says. "This year we have the largest entry ever exhibited here. We have had to add three extra classes to the ponies exhibit alone.

Livestock, especially cattle, and general exhibits are as good or exceed those of 1958, he said. "Even the mothers of the city and district are becoming more fair-conscious. Entries in the baby show are the largest we ever have had."

Stage and other grandstand entertainment long the headache of the directorate, takes on a new ease of life this year.

The Conklin Shows, a household word in midway entertainment here for years, do not need any comment. One of the special features this year, is a segregated section of rides and other attractions for the kiddies.

A perennial money-loser, the stage and grandstand entertainment should out-shine any of its predecessors.

The outstanding feature, of course is the "Ride of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police". This is backgrounded by a star-studded something - different stage variety offering.

DIFFERENT SHOW

It should be distinctly understood, Bob Phillips points out, that the Mounties Ride of 1959 is an altogether different show to the former Musical Ride of the famous Canadian police force. That has been discontinued.

"Belleville," he said, "was always a proving ground for the former exhibition of the Mounties, and this city is a favorite show-place for them. It was the first of three Canadian cities to be selected for exhibitions by officials of the former ride."

The new Mountie show is a particularly strenuous one on the horses. But RCMP officials, appreciative of former Belleville hospitality and reception of the rides, decided to stage the four-day presentation here with afternoon and evening exhibitions on Wednesday and Thursday.

On the stage will be presented an exceptionally fine "aqua" show, Sam Howard's Water Frolics; Tonimara, The Five Singing Falcons and "The Fabulous Paul Kohler."

Lovers of harness racing are in for a rare treat. "The entry list is almost filled," Mr. Phillips said, "and if they keep coming in at the present rate we shall either have to close the entries or add extra classes. Some of the finest pacers and trotters in Ontario will be here." Races will be held Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons.

The public generally, Mr. Phillips said, labors under the idea the Fair Board is an extremely wealthy organization. It knows the prices of admission and those of entertainment, sees the large crowds, and inevitably comes up with the question "What do you do with all that money?"

It is no secret that the Fair Board has been operated successfully, he said, but like other business operations, the majority of profits has been turned back into operation and maintenance.

"If Belleville is to maintain its reputation of being the best 'B' Class fair in Ontario, it must needs keep up with the modern trend of up-to-date buildings, livestock and public accommodations."

MANY IMPROVEMENTS

"Here are some of the things we have done in the past few years", Mr. Phillips said.

In 1955 the new gates were erected and the old poultry building removed. The next year the board invested $1,800 in new paving, had the old poultry building remodelled as a light horse barn, and new pig pens built.

1957 was a big year for new things. New cattle, poultry and Junior Farmer building were erected and another $500 invested in paving. The next year new paving cost $3,400. Twenty new cement-block horse - stalls were erected.

There has been plenty of activity in the Fair Grounds this year. A new roof has been placed on the old horse stalls. A new open cattle shed has been built. Light horse barns have been re-sided with metal. The Catharine Street fence has been metal covered and earth removed. The roofs of the old cattle sheds have been painted, and paving costing $1,500 laid down.

In addition, Mr. Phillips said, twenty sets of new portable bleachers have been built. These can be used in any part of the grounds and will be stored during the winter. Next year the old Agricultural building will be entirely remodelled if finances permit.

"It takes money to make the fair mare go" was his comment. "And back into the business goes the profits, if any, of each year's exhibition."

"At least the greater majority of them" he added hurriedly. "Part goes into the pockets of the light-fingered fraternity. Not in actual cash but from proceeds reaped from stolen material".

"Each year we lose something" he said. "How the thieves operate, we do not know. On one occasion we bought lumber for new horse stalls. During the night, thieves must have entered the grounds with a truck. Next morning all of it had disappeared"

"Another time we had installed new wiring in one of the buildings. By fall thieves had ripped all of it out, stripped the insulation and made away with the wiring".

For all that, Belleville will have the best fair this year in its long and honorable history.

Mr. Phillips says so. He knows.

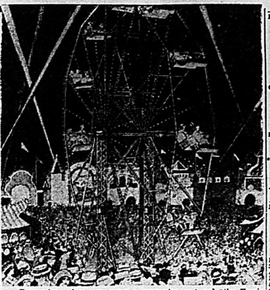
Warden's Body Found in Lake

ROUYN, Que. (CP)—The body of Rosaire Bergeron, 53, a warden for the lower Ottawa River fire protection service, was found Sunday in Long Lake, near Montbeillard, 30 miles south of here.

The man had been missing since Friday evening, when he set out in a 14-foot canoe with an outboard motor. The boat was found sunk in the lake by search crews Saturday.



Remember when you were a youngster and rode the Ferris Wheel? It was so enjoyable that children and adults of today are still doing it! Through the years . . the Ferris Wheel, along with the Merry-Go-Round, has become the standard ride on the Midway at the Belleville Fair.

Rev. Ralph Middleton, B.A. Dies After Short Illness

Ill for the past nine days, Rev. Ralph Wardlaw Thompson Middleton, B.A. of R.R. 3 Bayside, and pastor at Plainfield United Church, died in Belleville General Hospital on Sunday. He was in his 72nd year.

Born in Liverpool, England, he was the son of Rev. and Mrs. David Middleton, was educated in Liverpool and at Oxford University where he won scholarships at both places and graduated with his Master of Arts degree.

During his college years he excelled in rugby and football, rowed in boat races, put the shot and was an all-round sportsman.

Before coming to Canada his charges included town churches in the Old Country. In this country he was pastor at the United Church charge of Newboro for five years and subsequently accepted calls to the Bayside and Plainfield circuits where he had served for the past seven years. He was an active member of the Belleville Rotary Club and had served in an official capacity with the Belleville Ministerial Association. He was a big man in every way and spent his entire life helping others.

He is survived by his wife, the former Flora Blair Anderson, and two sons, Hugh E. Middleton of Toronto, and Donald B. Middleton of Brockville, and two daughters Miss Doreen B. Middleton of Kingston and Mrs. Edwin A. Sager, at home.

A sister, Mrs. Henry Ross of Saskatchewan and nine grandchildren, also survive.

S.A. Brigadier Named to New Position

TORONTO (CP)—Brig. Clinton Eacott, 59, Salvation Army chaplain at the Ontario Reformatory in Guelph, has been named director of correctional services in Canada for the Salvation Army.

He succeeds Lt.-Col. Fred Merrett who retires after 41 years' service as a Salvation Army officer.

Brig. Eacott says he feels a "genuine affection for that peculiar product of our times — the young man in trouble." He began his career in 1920 as a missionary and spent 27 years in China and Korea.

IN MEMORIAM

WHITE. — In loving memory of my dear dad, engineer Henry (Hank) White, killed in C.N.R. accident at Kingston, August 10th, 1947.

We have only your memory, dear Dad.
To remember our whole life through;
But the sweetness will linger forever,
As we treasure the image of you.

—Remembered by step-son Doug, daughter-in-law Marge, granddaughters Dale and Dawn Palmer, Birmingham, Michigan.

WHITE. — In loving memory of my dear dad engineer Charles Henry (Hank) White, killed in C.N.R. accident at Kingston, August 10th, 1947.

We think of him in silence.
His name we oft recall:
There is nothing left to answer,
But his picture on the wall.

—Remembered by son Jack, daughter-in-law Helen and granddaughter Debbie White.

WHITE. — In loving memory of my dear husband, engineer Charles Henry (Hank) White, killed in C.N.R. accident at Kingston, August 10th, 1947.

Surrounded by friends I am lonesome,
In the midst of my joys I am blue;
With a smile on my face I've a heartache,
Longing, dear husband, for you.

—Remembered by wife Edna White.

WHEELER. — In loving memory of a dear mother, who passed away August 10th, 1957.

Years of striving, little of play,
Loving, giving, the whole of the way;
A cherished smile, a heart of gold,
To the dearest mother the world could hold;
Happy memories, fond and true,
From us who thought the world of you.

—Always remembered by son Clifford, daughter-in-law Norma.

WHEELER. — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandma, Hephzibah Eleanor, who passed away August 10th, 1957.

She bade no one her last farewell,
She said goodbye to none;
The heavenly gates were opened,
A loving voice said, "come."
We often sit and think of you,
The things you used to say;
We wonder why you had to die,
Without a chance to say goodbye;
Though out of sight, you're ever
Still missed, loved, still ours,
You will live with us in memory,
Until the end of time.

—Lovingly remembered by daughter Lil, son-in-law Jim and grandsons Kenneth and Gary.

WHEELER. — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Hephzibah Eleanor, who left us so suddenly August 10th, 1957; also a dear son and brother, William (Bill) who passed away January 22nd, 1955.

Those whom we love go out of sight,
But never out of mind;
They are cherished in the hearts
Of those they leave behind.

—Lovingly remembered by husband Jim and daughters Pat and Phyllis and son John.

WHEELER. — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Hephzibah Wheeler, who passed away August 10th, 1957.

God took her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she liveth still.

—Always remembered by Hazel, Terry and grandchildren.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—An opening advance turned sour and the stock market dipped sharply amid moderate morning trading.

The 11 a.m. volume was 763,000 shares, down somewhat from Friday's 797,000 at the same hour.

Active speculatives generally moved in a narrow price range. Maritimes was an exception, up 10-cents at $1.43.

Refining oils, pipelines and papers led industrials lower. Ford Motor, the United States company, slipped 1½ at 76. Aluminium lost 1 at 34 and Algoma Steel was down ½.

Senior base metals were mixed, junior coppers stronger. Opemiska added 40 cents at $8.90. Consolidated Denison Uranium eased ½ at 14 and Steep Rock and Noranda were off ¼.

McIntyre was up ½ at 90½ and Kerr-Addison gained ⅜ at 21.

Trenton News

Driver Escapes, Horse Injured In Accident

TRENTON — Milo Woods, 341 Sidney Street, age 85, who is a familiar sight in Trenton as he still drives around the roads in his home-made wagon pulled by a white horse, escaped injury Friday evening when his wagon was run into from behind.

Mr. Woods was driving along Sidney Street when a car, owned and driven by William J. Singer, 262½ Sidney Street, which was going north in the same direction as Mr. Wood, drew out to pass the horse-drawn wagon. However, due to another approaching vehicle the Singer car was forced to draw in again behind the slower-going wagon, and being unable to stop quickly enough ran into it, breaking the rear board of the wagon and cutting the rear right leg of the horse. Damage and veterinary fees are estimated at $20.

Constables Jack Graham and Sid Vickers investigated.

Town Briefs

STORE EXPANDS

TRENTON — Building operations are underway which will result in a substantial addition in size to Stanley's ladies wear store on King Street. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley, who came here from Peterborough, have operated their present business for eight years, and also have a store in Bancroft. The addition to the King Street store will be used exclusively for wedding displays. Miron and Lassing are the firm contracting for the job.

DOG KILLED

TRENTON — A cocker spaniel dog, owned by Robert Greene, 187 Sidney Street, was killed on the weekend when it ran into the path of a car driven by Aileen Mary Smith, 8 George Street. The car was going north on Sidney Street at the time of the accident. Constable C. Schlager investigated.

PRESENT GIFTS

TRENTON — Dr. T. A. McNally and G. O'Halloran presented a farewell gift to Rev. Raymond Shannon at St. Peter in Chains Church last night at an impressive ceremony during the evening service. Rev. Shannon is leaving Trenton after 4½ years service, to become parish priest of another parish. His place here will be taken by Rev. Bernard O'Neill.

Car Crashes Motor Bike; Rider Injured

TRENTON — Gordon Anderson, 30, of Brookside Avenue, Toronto, is in Trenton Memorial Hospital with injuries received when the motorcycle he was riding crashed into a car driven by Douglas McMurter, 99 Stanley Street, on Saturday morning.

Anderson, who according to witnesses in the McMurter car, was riding on Front Street without lights, when his motorcycle struck the McMurter car on the front fender as it was making a left turn into Alberta Street, and then went out of control. About 3½ inches of skin was rolled back on Anderson's left knee cap and X-ray results may show possible head injuries. Damage to the motorcycle was extensive, including smashed front fork, fender, chain guard, headlight and windshield and is estimated at $200. The vehicle was not insured.

The McMurter car was damaged to the extent of $30. Passengers were Al Town, 102 Stanley Street, and Charlie Chard, 25 Guelph Street. The accident was investigated by Sgt. D. Bradshaw and Constable Roy Miller.

Bike Smashed Rider Unhurt

TRENTON — Byron Walsh, age 10, of Edward St., fortunately escaped injury on Sunday evening, when the bicycle which he had been riding on Sidney Street was completely demolished by a hit-and-run car, later identified as driven by Gerald Finkle, R. R. 6, Trenton.

Byron was riding north on Sidney Street when his bicycle struck a bump in the road. Fearing for the tires the lad dismounted to examine them, when the Finkle car, also going north on Sidney, swerved off the street and struck the cycle, and then continued up Sidney St.

The incident was investigated by Constables Jack Graham and Fred Nokes.

Princess Goes To Church, Plays in Pool

VICTORIA (CP) — Princess Alexandra of Kent, the Queen's cousin, attended services at Christ Church Cathedral Sunday and later posed for photographs with her hosts, Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. F. M. Ross.

The 22-year-old princess, who arrived here Saturday from London, spent part of the afternoon swimming in a pool at beautiful Woodwin's Farm near the city.

Princess Alexandra will leave Tuesday by plane to attend centenary celebrations in the state of Queensland, Australia.

FARM WOMEN

Women in Canada's farm labor force increased by 16,000 in 1958 to a monthly average of more than 50,000.

Will Recommend 50-50 Split River Benefits

OTTAWA (CP) — The International Joint Commission is preparing to recommend to the Canadian and United States government a 50-50 split of downstream benefits on the Columbia River, it was learned today.

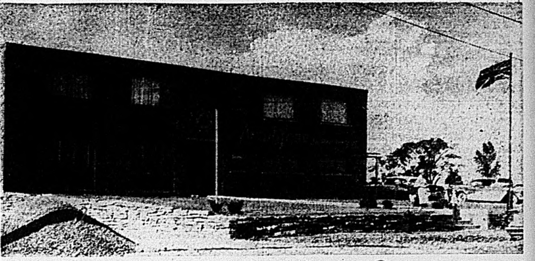
Such a division of benefits would give Canada half the power generated at U.S. plants on the American portion of the Columbia from water stored at dams on the Canadian side and fed downstream as needed.

The river rises in British Columbia, crosses the international boundary near Trail, and flows through the power-hungry northwestern U.S. to the Pacific Ocean.

A recommendation by the six-member commission — three Canadians and three Americans —does not mean, however, that an even split of downstream benefits, long sought by Canada, will result automatically. The recommendation would have to be accepted by the two governments.

SIX DIE IN SAFETY DRIVE

PIERRE, S.D. (AP)—Six persons died in auto accidents during the first weekend of South Dakota's "safe driving month." The toll was heavier than on any previous weekend this year.



Above is the new Amplifone of Canada plant, Belleville's newest industrial development. The plant is located on Dussek Street in the northeastern section of the city. It will offer increased production facilities for the plant's operation in the manufacturing of flyback transformers for television sets. The company's present personnel role consists of 35 people and it is expected that more will be added to the payroll within the next year.

Bowling Notes

Ten doubles rinks went to Kingston on Saturday to take part in the Molly Galt Memorial trophy tournament and six rinks came home with prizes including the trophy and the first awards. Gordon Watkin and his wife, Joan, won the high three-game score of the tournament. This is the third year for the tournament and Belleville rinks have all been prominent in the years gone by. The tourney is held in memory of Mrs. Molly Galt who was an ardent and excellent bowler in the club for many years.

Gordon and Joan scored big wins in each of their three games and by the end of the second game it would have been a miracle if they had been overtaken. Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Smith also had three wins, the closest being their third when they just nosed out Mr. and Mrs. Boyce of Trenton, both of them practically new bowlers. Mr. and Mrs. Percy Graham won a prize for a two-game high score, while Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wright and George McGee and Miss Margaret Fairbairn each won a prize for one-game high. Ken Bulford and Mrs. G. Muir did not win a game but had the no-game high score. It was an excellent tourqament and a splendid day was had by all the Belleville entries.

OBSERVATORY BURNED

CANBERRA, Australia (Reuters)—Fire has destroyed an Australian astronomical observatory in the Antarctic, it was reported here. Instruments, films and records were destroyed.

N.S. Youth Fails to Resurface After Dive Into Trent Canal

FRANCIS JESSOME, 19-year old youth from Florence, Nova Scotia, was drowned in the Trent Canal at Frankford early Sunday evening when he failed to resurface following a dive into the canal.

The drowning accident took place at what is locally known as the "merge" where the canal and the river join about a quarter of a mile north of No. 33 highway bridge in Frankford.

The body was recovered about an hour after the accident with provincial police and RCMP officers directing the search. Dennis Kent, Batawa, and Bill Whaley of Trenton, recovered the body by diving.

The Nova Scotia youth had been staying with two sisters in the Belleville area, Mrs. William Riggs of Belleville, and Mrs. Josef Pertschy of Herchimer Ave.

Fishermen on the Trent River dam in the north end of Frankford said the youth had gone swimming with another smaller lad. He had dived into the canal several times and then on the next dive failed to surface. The water is reported to have been about 15 feet deep at the scene of the mishap.

He was born in Florence, Nova Scotia, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Jessome. He resided in Belleville for the past two months, coming here from Nova Scotia.

The youth was a coal miner by occupation, and was a member of the Roman Catholic Church.

Besides his parents, he is survived by one brother Gerald Jessome of Belleville, and four sisters, Mrs. Josef Pertschy and Mrs. William Riggs, both of Belleville, and Misses Bernadette and Judith Ann of Florence, N.S.

Amplifone of Canada Plant Officially Opened Saturday

Saturday marked the official opening of the new Amplifone of Canada plant in Belleville. Behind this opening there is a story —a story which is not the usual sort of a story behind the opening of a new industry. Behind the Amplifone opening there is a story of progress, to be sure: there is also the story of a man and of the application of a philosophy of business not too common to the world of business and industry in these modern times. It is the man, T. K. "Ted" Handing, and his philosophy — that a person can make friends in business as well as a good product and a properous venture, that is the real story behind the Amplifone plant.

A naturally gregarious man of considerable drive with a warm and friendly personality, Mr. Handing engages in his work with much the same enthusiasm that other men might apply to a sport or hobby or social get-together. There is an attitude that things must be done — that there is a business to be maintained, products to be manufactured and customers to satisfy, but there is also the attitude that the dollar is not the end of everything — that a customer or a supplier can be a friend as well as a business acquaintance. The success of this attitude and the appreciation for this method of doing business was certainly well testified to as several dozen of Mr. Handing's friends gathered in this city Saturday to help him celebrate the opening of his new plant. There were important men of the electronics industry from Chicago to Montreal present.

At the banquet held in the evening, after the new plant had been inspected and those present had got a chance to know each other, there were men sitting side by side who under any other circumstances would be recognized as competitors in a highly competitive field. The atmosphere of the dinner could hardly have been called formal, however, for a feeling of goodwill and friendship was not to be denied Mr. Handing, or his friends.

Spontaneity was the order of conduct and from the remarks made by various people one could not help but appreciate the high regard the Amplifone company and its owner have earned from their business associates. A representative from one of the major television manufacturers in Canada described the firm as "an inspiration to all American concerns entering the Canadian market." The Amplifone people have four plants — in Germany, in Argentina, in the United States, and in Canada.

A representative of one of the major suppliers to component manufacturers in the United States stated that "Ted's (Mr. Handing) approach to business . . . in a field where there are too many cut-throat tactics in getting the almighty dollar . . . in placing friendship above the dollar . . was certainly the finest (method of doing business)." This theme was expressed most sincerely by many of those present, especially the visitors from Chicago. These people found this aspect of the Canadian concern to be particularly attractive and several were interested in establishing Canadian plants because of this. As one American expressed it, "In Chicago you would never see a dinner such as this . . . where competitors sat down together to honor a man . . . and in all sincerity . . . because of his business methods . . . becaue of his friendship."

This is, to a large degree, the reason for the success of the Amplifone firm. This is why an industry which came to Belleville but a few short years ago has grown and has such good prospects and high hopes for the future.

Belleville can certainly be very proud of having this industry. (In a future edition Mr. Handing will expres his reasons for having chosen this city for the location of his Canadian plant and why he promotes Belleville as an ideal site for other businessmen to locate their plants.

Child Found Dead in Crib

KENORA (CP) — The infant child of district jail governor Bill Goss was found dead Saturday in its crib. The child was born in May.

Mr. Goss went into the child's room shortly before 11 a.m. and found it dead with its face pressed to a plastic covering on a pillow.

Lack of Ore Won't Interrupt Steel Production

HAMILTON (CP) — Steelmaking operations at the Steel Company of Canada Limited will not be interrupted in the months ahead by a lack of iron ore, H.G. Hilton, chairman and chief executive officer said today.

"Because of Welland Ship Canal congestion and the closing of U.S. iron mines as a result of the steel strike, much misunderstanding and considerable misapprehension has arisen with respect to the iron ore situation at th Steel Company of Canada," Mr. Hilton said in a statement.

"Under no circumstances will the steel - making operations at Hamilton works of Stelco be interrupted now or next winter because of a lack of iron ore.

"So far this year our facilities have operated at, or above, their rated capacity. The outlook for the balance of 1959 is excellent, and we look forward to operating at about our current rate

No Pants Left - - It's a Panic

Two tourists from Orillia, passing through Belleville recently, happened to mention they were surprised that the Stephen Leacock Memorial Home has more than met expenses.

Upon enquiry, J. A. "Pete" McGarvey, chairman of the board, affirms that "we had about 6,000 visitors in seven weeks and managed to show $105 profit, and this year we hope for 15,000 before the summer is out."

Nice going, Orillia. Here's hoping you make it.

Restoration of the home is still continuing. It is an old-fashioned, 19-room house with four bathrooms and a fireplace in several rooms. The walls are panelled in oak. French doors open onto balconies which command a magnificent view of rolling lawns and Lake Couchiching.

Dr. Leacock, who achieved his Ph.D at the University of Chicago, said the meaning of this degree is that the recipient is examined for the last time in his life, and is pronounced completely full; after this, no new ideas can be imparted to him.

Once a student asked him to define "recession," "depression," and "panic." He said a recession is a period in which you tighten your belt; in a depression you have no belt to tighten; and when you have no pants left to hold up it's a panic.

Of his students, he said those who seemed laziest and least enamored to books rose to eminence in business and public life, while the promising boys who took all the prizes managed with difficulty to earn the wages of a clerk in a summer hotel or a deckhand on a canal boat.

In politics, Dr. Leacock belonged to the Conservative party. But he felt he had failed entirely in politics, never having received a contract to build a bridge, or make a wharf, or to construct even the smallest section of railway.

From his Boarding House Geometry: Any two meals are together equal to less than one square meal.

This wonderful mind brought laughter, economics and history to millions, and will continue for generations. Unquestionably the restoration of Dr. Leacock's summer home will help propagate this interest and the instigators deserve every credit.

Popular Poet Passes

Edgar Guest, the poet of the plain people is dead. He had been writing verses for more than fifty years. When he stopped counting in 1950 he estimated he had written more than 30,000 poems.

Mr. Guest's poems appeared in The Ontario Intelligencer for more than twenty years. Never worldly, they touched on the simple things. He had a large following in this city and district.

The Detroit poet had a fine facility for putting words together in lyrical fashion. But his greatness was deeper than that. He had a good mind, a real humanity and a home-spun philosophy. His rhymes made easy the reading of his words and thoughts.

Edgar Guest was proud to be the singer of the common man. He never tried to transmute the commonplace into greatness. Rather he was content to work with his material in an easy way and leave the familiar as he found it.

He believed in the large value of little things. He could take small events and give them meaning. His purposes were to contribute to the welfare and happiness of his fellow-beings. He did so in a large measure and in a delightful way.

GAUGING TRAFFIC

A spokesman for the industry in the U.S. says that more than 6,300,000 cars will be manufactured annually within the next five years. That must be approximately the number on Alberta highways during a holiday weekend. (Edmonton Journal.)

THE INDULGENT FATHER

By EDGAR A. GUEST

He's just a boy, not nine years old;
If I were you I wouldn't scold
Or punish him for what he's done;
He isn't bad, just full of fun;
He didn't know that that was wrong.
You say you warned him right along?
Well, never mind, just let him go;
He won't do that again, I know.

My boy was saucy? No, siree.
I'll bet he never meant to be.
My boy was disobedient, too?
I'm positive that that's not true.
You say he broke your window pane?
I'll pay for it, but he'll explain
It was an accident. I'll vow
He couldn't help it anyhow.

You can't tell me my boy is bad;
I don't believe it. I'm his dad.
I don't care what he's done today
Or what he's broken in his play
Or what he's said or failed to do
I'm for that youngster, through and through;
He's my boy, and I'm going to see How kind a father I can be!

Strictly Personal

Tragedy For Job Hunter Over Forty

By SIDNEY J. HARRIS

A man in his late 40s came to see me at the office this morning. He was looking for a job. And he was scared.

"You wake up at 3 in the morning," he said, "and you suddenly realize that you're unemployed. Three children—one in college. A house. Lots of financial and social commitments. And no job."

He has a lot to offer: two college degrees, more than 20 years of experience, a good character. When his firm was bought up by a larger one, there was suddenly no place for him.

"At first I didn't think it would be hard to find a job," he told me. "People have more personal income than ever, stocks are rising, business is booming. Finally I was forced to make the rounds of the employment agencies — and what I saw there shocked me.

"Men over 40 are having a terrible time finding jobs. Many companies won't take them — for one reason, it's more expensive fitting them into pension and retirement plans."

FRUITLESS CALLS

When he left, and after I had made a few fruitless calls on his behalf, I reflected on the fantastic cult of youth in our society. Everybody wants to look young, act young and feel young. Teen-agers are given to believe that the world revolves around them. Romance, in our popular fiction, centres almost exclusively on persons in their 20s.

But in a basic sense nobody is worth very much until he has entered his 40s and achieved some kind of ripeness. Until he has suffered, no man can be just; until he has experienced disappointment, no man can be kind — which explains why children are so often cruel and unfair to their weaker playmates.

At 21 I was not worth a fraction of what I am now at twice that age. Even granting that I had more energy then, most of that energy was dissipated on egotistic pursuits, and was divorced from any deep feelings of loyalty or responsibility.

I find it a dismaying symptom of our national immaturity that so many men past 40 find it difficult to obtain new jobs at the same level. The ordinary laborer is better off in this respect than the educated man with special talents and a higher standard of living. The word "prosperity' has a hollow ring when thousands of citizens are looking for work they can do with dignity and some promise for the future.

Use 'Copter To Tag Moose

Cornwall Standard - Freeholder

Ontario's wild moose will soon be sporting a new look in bushland fashion — bright, silvery ear tags.

Tagging of the big beasts, a vital part of the current study of moose population trends, has been a big problem for lands and forests men. It is no easy task to catch a moose and hold him long enough to clip a tag into his ear.

However, the solution turned out to be easy.

Two conservation officers went hunting moose in a helicopter. They searched rivers and lakes to find a moose swimming, a situation in which a moose is most easily approached.

Limiting themselves to calves and yearlings, the two men found it simple to land beside a swimming animal, climb down on the helicopter float and, in one operation, clip a tag into place. They did six on their first run.

They carefully avoided large animals, especially bulls. A swipe of a big bull's horns would smash the glass cabin of the aircraft.

Return of the tags by hunters, or observation of the tagged animals by forestry men, will give them an idea of how many of the young moose survive and how far they roam.

Ontario's moose population last winter was set at 125,000 by the department of lands and forests. That figure is the result of a moose inventory described as the most ambitious yet taken by the department's fish and wildlife division.

Officials say moose have been building up in most parts of Ontario over the past ten years. The moose population in 1953 was put at 42,000.

To make the inventory, four moose management regions were set up and an aerial inventory made. Twenty-five-mile-square plots were assigned to aircraft crews and a total of 276 plots were searched from the air. Animals seen, tracks and hunters' estimates were used to arrive at the estimated total moose population, both in the thicker populated regions and the more scattered areas of the north.

Moose hunting appears to be assured for some time to come.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

August 10, 1939

A forty pound lunge gave two fishermen at Big Island a battle for more than a half an hour before it was landed. It is the largest lunge to be caught this season in district waters. The men were trolling with a small skiff when the big fish struck, and the couple found it impossible to get the fish to the boat. They headed for shore playing the fish into shallow water where one of the men jumped into the water and landed it with a gaff.
